THE removal of the well-known firm of T. S. Beckwith & Co., of Petersburg, Va., to their handsome new store at 53 Sycamore Street, opposite the new Odd Fellows Hall, calls for more than a passing note. Its senior member has long been known throughout the country as one of the most intelligent and enterprising booksellers in the South. He was born in Petersburg, Va., in 1843, and educated in the public schools of his native city. At the age of sixteen he obtained employment in the bookstore of E. P. Nash & Co., with whom he remained until 1861. Hoping to complete his education he entered the University of Virginia, from which he was called to enter the Confederate service at the outbreak of the war. On account of weak sight he was assigned to the medical department, in which he served until the end of the war.

In July, 1865, he returned to his native city without a cent save an old Confederate bank-note representing nothing save the glory of the "Lost Cause." In August of the same year Mr. Beckwith entered the bookstore of J. E. Routh & Co., at 74 Sycamore Street, who had succeeded E. P. Nash & Co., and there learned the book and stationery business as thoroughly as the limited market made possible. A few years after Mr. Beckwith again found himself out of employment and as poor as when he left the army.

Without capital, but imbued with ambition to attain to the highest position possible in his profession, and furnished with a recommendation from a relative, at that time the incumbent of a high ecclesiastical office in Georgia, he came to New York and applied to Mr. W. H. Appleton, of D. Appleton & Co., for assistance in starting in the book business on his own account. He had brought with him a list of the supplies that he thought necessary for this end. Mr. Appleton at once took a kindly interest in the young man, and turned his list over to their manager. While the latter was examining the list Mr. Appleton interrogated Mr. Beckwith as to his means and his prospects. Mr. Beckwith frankly admitted that his means consisted in money enough to reach home; as to his prospects, he had hopes, with his knowledge of the business and the field, and his willingness to submit to hard and faithful work, backed by a moderate amount of credit, of overcoming all difficulties and of succeeding. After the manager reported that the young man evidently had an excellent idea of what was needed to fit up a first-class bookstore, Mr. Appleton informed M. Beckwith that he was ready to open an account with him and to credit him for the present with a thousand dollars' worth of goods. This was more than the young aspirant had hoped for. With this credit, and the kind assistance of Mr. H. F. Spaulding, of New York City, he returned to Petersburg and set to work with a determination to make good his obligations and fulfil his promises. One year after he bought out his former employers, and for twenty years has continued the business with increasing success.

For some time the old quarters of the firm had become too small for their increasing business, and last year the opportunity offered of becoming the possessors of a fine building further up the street. This, as already stated, is located at 53 Sycamore Street, and consists of three stories and a fine, light basement 140 (actual) feet deep and 27 feet wide. The first or ground floor, fitted up as a book and stationery store, is 16 feet high and has two large show-windows, in one of which are displayed three pianos, in the other a fine stock of books and stationery. The store is furnished in hardwood and fitted out with open shelves on both sides, counters and tables running through the length of the store, and show-cases for the display of books in fine bindings filling up suitable spaces. It may be considered one of the handsomest and best arranged bookstores in the country.

The second floor is set apart for the musical department, including instruments and sheet and bound music. Here also a space has been set apart as a library and reading-room, where patrons of the house and visitors may consider themselves at home. The basement for the present is used entirely for stock and store room, but may in time be used in part as a printing office. The whole building is lighted with gas and electricity.

Mr. Beckwith has surrounded himself with a staff of bright, well-posted and efficient assistants, and is bound to enjoy still greater success in his new quarters than has already been his. He is public spirited and enjoys the respect of his fellow-townsmen in the fullest measure. His confreres in organizing the Virginia Booksellers' Association, recognizing his merits and sterling qualities, conferred upon him the honor of electing him their President, which position he has held, to the entire satisfaction of the members of that association, for two terms. In such a man as Mr. Beckwith is the profession honored indeed.

A QUEER BIBLIOMANIAC.

AMONG the many odd characters known to the second-hand booksellers of New York and vicinity "Old John Cronin" is far and away the most curious specimen. In his slouchy dress, his features almost concealed by an unkempt beard and long gray hair, few who pass him would suspect a bibliophile whose rare treasures must be worth at a rough estimate about $50,000. And still fewer book-lovers would suspect, in passing it, that such a crazy old shanty as Cronin dignifies with the name "home" would be trusted with such treasures as he possesses. And yet that rickety house at 221 Hoyt Street, South Brooklyn, N. Y., on its rude shelves, constructed by its owner of rough boards and packing-boxes, contains over 2500 volumes, every one of which may be considered a prize in its way. The walls of the four rooms of the house—two on the ground floor and two on the floor above—are lined with books, and on the floor and on tables rest many more expensive volumes.

Among his treasures is a copy of the Basle Bible—the first one printed in Switzerland in 1514; a "Bug" Bible, a rare edition, printed in 1551, in which the word "terror" in Psalm xci., 5, is rendered "bugges"; a "Breeches" Bible, printed in 1560, wherein Adam and Eve are said to have made themselves breeches of fig leaves instead of aprons; a "Bishop's" Bible (1568), sometimes called the "Treacle" Bible, in which the passage, "Is there no balm in Gilead?" is rendered, "Is there no trayacle in Gilead?" and a copy of the Macklin edition of the Bible, a fine specimen of artistic typography, printed in London, by subscription, in 1820.

Of first editions he has a folio of the plays of Beaumont and Fletcher; Walton's "Compleat Angler," printed in 1760; "Peter Pindar;" Rawlinson's "Antiquities of Egypt," in folio; a complete set, in 127 volumes, of Buffon's "Natural History," containing the essay on the "Theory of Natural History," missing, so far as we know, in all other editions; a complete set of Audubon's "Natural History," with all the plates; a magnificent first edition of Scott's works, in 63 volumes; a first and a second edition of Hogarth (the second edition having the retouched plates in perfect preservation); two first editions of Burns, and many others of equal rarity and value.

The treasure of which Cronin is most proud is an exquisitely bound little volume of Latin prayers, engrossed on parchment by Paulinus de Sorcy, a Benedictine monk of Paris in the eleventh century. The initial letters are beautifully illuminated in silver and gold. The book was at one time the property of Thomas à Becket, and contains his autograph.

His collection of engravings and prints contains as many scarce treasures as his collection of books. In fact Cronin's rule in buying has been to get only that which was rare and much sought after, and he has never been known to hesitate over a high price if the volume or print seemed to be worth it.

John Cronin was born in Ireland about sixty-five years ago. He started to learn the business of bookselling in Dublin when he was a lad. Then he went to Edinburgh, at that time an excellent school for booksellers, and after that to London. In 1852 he came to America, and has been in the bookselling business ever since. Of late years Cronin has been growing blind, and gradually has gone out of the business altogether. He knows every book in his possession, and has become so used to them that he can pick out any desired volume solely by the sense of touch. He is trying to reconcile himself to the thought of selling his collection, and would do so probably at once if he could find a purchaser for it who would agree to keep it intact. GRUB.

FOR A SHELLEY LIBRARY AND MUSEUM.

READERS of Shelley are asked to contribute to a Shelley Library and Museum, to be established at Horsham, England, near the place of the poet's birth.

The library will include, in addition to general literature, all such works as may be specially connected with Shelley. In the museum a home will be found for personal relics of the poet.

Lord Tennyson heads the committee having the movement in charge; associated with him are George Meredith, Professors Max Müller, Dowden and Jebb, Messrs. Walter Besant, Leslie Stephen, Stopford A. Brooke, Edmund Gosse, T. Hardy, Henry Irving and others known in literature and art.

American members of the committee are Edward C. Stedman, of No. 64 Broadway, and Richard Watson Gilder, of No. 33 East Seventeenth Street, New York, to whom may be sent contributions that will be forwarded to James Stanley Little, of Horsham.

THE SALE OF THE SPENCER LIBRARY.

MITCHELL'S, in a communication to the Tribune under date of September 1, gives the following interesting facts relating to the sale of the Spencer Library: "The letter printed by you, from George M. Millard, of Chicago, giving the story of the purchase of the Spencer Library, is as far as it goes of interest. It does not, however, give the true state of affairs, but only as seen from Mr. Millard's standpoint. The real reason why the books did not come here was not so much Mr. Railton's smartness in forestalling Mr. Millard, but the remarkable methods of business employed by the auctioneers having the matter in hand. For forty-eight hours we had the offer of the books for £300,000. While raising the money, and when a great deal of it had been subscribed, we received a cable from the auctioneers, withdrawing the offer. We immediately cabled back, saying we would guarantee a purchase if the offer was renewed. No answer was sent to this, and the next we knew of the matter was the news printed in the Tribune that Mrs. Rylands had become the purchaser, and at a much lower price than we were offered the collection for, and, indeed, were willing to pay. This was hardly fair to Lord Spencer or to us. From paragraphs in the English trade papers it would seem that Mr. Railton valued the books for Lord Spencer, and afterward bought them at his own valuation. Chicago, as represented by Mr. Millard, was never really in the race at all, as the whole matter was settled before he could have landed in England—that is, if the books were already sold when the auctioneers cabled their withdrawal. The books should have gone to the highest bidder, and therefore to New York."

OBITUARY NOTES.

MARTIN H. DICKINSON, the well-known bookseller and stationer of Kansas City, Mo., died at Escanaba, Mich., on Friday, September 9. In the early part of last winter Mr. Dickinson suffered from a severe and prolonged attack of the "grip," which was followed by symptoms of asthma that became serious during the spring and summer. Change of air being recommended, Mr. Dickinson went for two months to Colorado, but failed to attain the promised relief. He returned home about August 15, and about ten days ago again decided to try a change and went to Escanaba. At first he seemed to improve, but upon taking a fresh cold he grew rapidly worse and died in a few hours. Mr. Dickinson was born in Oneida County, N. Y., in 1838. In 1857, at the age of nineteen, he went to Missouri and settled on the present site of Kansas City. He engaged in several business enterprises, but upon the breaking out of the war he entered the army as lieutenant in the First Kansas regiment and served until the close of the war. Shortly after the war Mr. Dickinson entered into the business of selling books and stationery together with Matt Foster, and so continued for many years. Finally the firm was dissolved and Mr. Dickinson continued alone at No. 620 Main street.

NOAH D. LAPHAM, a well-known bookseller and stationer, died at Eureka Springs, Ark. on the 1st inst., aged sixty-six years. He was born in Cayuga county, N. Y., near Auburn, and removed to Detroit early in the fifties. He was connected since that time as salesman or partner with Doughty, Straw & Co., Kerr, Doughty & Lapham, Raymond & Lapham, E. B. Smith & Co., and Lapham & Throop. After the death of E. B. Smith, the business of E. B. Smith & Co. was purchased by Thorndyke Nourse, with whom Mr. Lapham remained as a salesman until the business went into other hands. For several years past he acted in the capacity of a stationery commission agent or broker. Mr. Lapham had many friends in the book and stationery business throughout the country and was highly respected by all. He leaves a widow and a married son, Edward H. Lapham, who is in the employ of A. C. McClurg & Co.

DAVID BRUCE, the inventor of the type-making machine, died in Brooklyn, on the 14th inst., aged 91 years. Many years ago Mr. Bruce and Walt Whitman started a newspaper in Williamsburg, which, however, lived only one day.

TUNIS S. QUACKENBUSH, for several years a partner of the firm of Ivison, Phinney & Co., died in Newburg, N. Y., on the 15th, aged sixty-nine years. He introduced the system of uniform text books in the schools of New York State soon after graduating from the Normal School at Albany.

COMMUNICATIONS.

TWO LIVES FOR A BOOK: AN EXPLANATION.

CHICAGO, September, 8, 1892.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: Some time ago you printed in your paper an extract from Edward W. Bok's Literary Letter in which he stated that I was making it a business to revive old books and that I was about to bring out a new edition of Howells' "A Modern Instance." I paid no attention to the article at the time, thinking that perhaps it might be considered a harmless bit of free advertising and that those interested in the matter would know the real facts in the case without the necessity of my rushing into print with an explanation. I find I was mistaken in this, however, and that while Mr. Bok's intentions were no doubt of the very best and kindest, he has done me a serious injury. I verily believe that since that statement appeared I have received a letter from every author in the United States who thinks that his books have not been justly treated by his publishers or the general public, and the correspondence of this nature has become so voluminous that I am compelled to do something in self-defence. The facts in the case are that I do not as a rule revive old books. On the contrary, I make it a rule to print only new books by American authors. The only exception and the one which probably gave rise to the story is the case of Opie Read's "Len Gansett." The plates of this book I bought for a ridiculously small sum from Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and since then there have been sold three editions of five thousand copies each, and the book is selling steadily now. In a conversation with Mr. Bok at the rooms of the Chicago Press Club I mentioned this fact and stated that Howells' "A Modern Instance" could also be successfully revived if a cheap edition were issued; but I see no reason why I should make a proposition to Mr. Howells to do this when there is an abundance of new material equally meritorious and just as likely to prove popular.

Yours very truly,

F. J. SCHULTE.

ANOTHER CONTRIBUTION ON BOOK-WORMS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: I have read with some interest the articles on Benjamin's Book-worm and I certainly cannot agree with the propositions in this week's number of the WEEKLY. [September 10.]

In my experience in handling second-hand books I have come across more than one veritable bookworm. The last one I remember finding in a book at Geo. A. Leavitt's; it was about one-half an inch long, of a brown color and with a flat face.

Your version of their being so rare and imported does not agree with facts. In May I was cataloguing a number of books for sale, among which I found two copies of Montaigne's Essays (octavo, sheep), published by Worthington, new but shelf-worm. The worm had worked a hole an inch long in the sheep cover in the centre of the side, had then turned and eaten his way right through both copies, for when standing upright together we passed a needle through the two books. These books came from a bookstore in Philadelphia, whose proprietor, I suppose, had purchased them from the Worthington Co. This proves that the worm will attack new books as quickly as old ones (though I have generally found their ravages in old books) and that their appearance in this country is not so infrequent as has been supposed.

PENALTY FOR INFRINGEMENT OF COPYRIGHT IN REPRODUCTIONS FROM PAINTINGS, ETC.

NEW YORK, September 14, 1892.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: I notice among the "Literary and Trade Notes" of your issue of the 10th inst. an item from the Berlin Photographic Co. calling special attention to the effect of the International Copyright Law of July 1, 1891, with regard to their reproductions of paintings and setting forth the penalties to be incurred by an infringement of their copyright. As I have taken considerable interest in the new law and studied it carefully, I wish to point out an inaccuracy which your readers should be made aware of. The penalty, under Section 4965, of the law in question, in addition to the forfeiture of the plates, "for every sheet found in the possession of any person, either printing, printed, copies, published, imported or exposed for sale," is one dollar each and not ten dollars, this latter penalty being only applicable to copies of a painting, statue or statuette and not to reproductions thereof. Your correspondents have evidently misread Section 4965 and their statement is therefore misleading.

Yours truly,

ALBERT SMITH,
Manager, Pub'n Dep't, Goupil & Co.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Broadway is the title of a new "cartoon weekly" to be issued at once from 8 Union Square, N. Y. It will be edited by "Lew Rosen."

W. D. HOWELLS has resigned his editorial position in the office of the Cosmopolitan. He will, however, continue to write for the magazine.

HELEN KELLER, Alabama's gifted blind girl, who is fast becoming as celebrated as Laura Bridgeman, is writing a story for St. Nicholas, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the Children's Building at the Exposition.

JOHN G. WHITTIER immediately before his death sent to St. Nicholas Magazine a long poem commemorating a visit made to the poet by a party of young girls. The verses will appear in the November St. Nicholas.

Godey's for October is just ready and fulfils the promises made in its behalf by the publishers. First in the contents comes John Habberton's complete novel "Honey and Gall," a companion to "Helen's Babies," fully illustrated by Albert B. Wenzell. Godey's fashions will be a conspicuous feature of the publication, there being, in addition to carefully edited descriptions and fashion articles, four plates produced in colors, and representing four of the leaders of New York society, attired in the latest Paris costumes.

The Century announces the immediate publication of a series of important letters which passed between General W. T. Sherman and his brother, Senator John Sherman, giving an inside view of certain interesting periods and events in American history, and marked by a candor and vigor of expression characteristic of their distinguished authors. The letters are printed by arrangement with Senator Sherman and the heirs of General Sherman, and with notes by Mrs. Rachel Sherman Thorndike, the General's daughter.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Fire destroyed the printing establishment of James B. Lyon, public printer, on September 12. The annual reports of many of the New York State departments were in the hands of Mr. Lyon. Most of these reports had been printed and bound ready for delivery. Some departments have lost the original and only copy of their report in the fire. The loss on completed work destroyed will be large. A large portion of the copy of the work entitled "Corporation Law," which is being prepared by Frank White, Corporation Clerk in the Secretary of State's office, is destroyed, as was also Volume 134 New York Reports, which Mr. Lyon was getting out. Labor Commissioner Peck says he has the original copy of his tariff report safe in his office. It was reported that the copy had been destroyed in the fire.

BOSTON, MASS.—The co-partnership heretofore existing between Addison M. Thayer and Samuel Jaros, publishers, under the firm name of A. M. Thayer & Co., was dissolved August 15, by mutual consent, and Mr. Jaros retired from the firm. Mr. Thayer will continue the business under the old firm name.

NEW YORK CITY.—Crothers & Korth, the enterprising young booksellers, have removed their store from 96 Fifth Avenue to 246 Fourth Avenue, near Twentieth Street. Their new store is larger and in a more central neighborhood.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Electro Light Engraving Co. is complainant in a suit against Charles J. McCarthy and Clarence E. Reed, who, under the firm name of McCarthy & Co., recently made an assignment at 26 University Place. Plaintiff says that the defendants secured credit by pretending to hold in trust as security for any debts they might incur 7,500 volumes of "Wood's Natural History," which, as a matter of fact, it is alleged, they did not hold.

NEW YORK CITY.—The building occupied by the Funk & Wagnalls Co., corner of Astor Place and Lafayette Place, it is claimed has become so unsafe that their employees are afraid to work in it any longer. On the 15th they held a meeting in the store and signed an appeal to Funk & Wagnalls to get them other quarters. It is likely that some arrangements to change their quarters will be speedily made.

NEW YORK CITY.—An attachment for $7,440 has been issued against the Illustrated American Publishing Company, of 5 and 7 Sixteenth Street, in favor of J. J. Little & Co., on a claim for printing, etc., from Feb. 1 to Aug. 1, 1892. Maurice M. Minton, the general manager of the company, said that the matter is a disputed account in regard to the printing of the Illustrated American. The company is a West Virginian corporation, but has its place of business in this city. Mr. Minton says that the company will not settle, but will fight the claim in the courts.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY OF THE FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE descriptive summary which here follows presents as usual, in its alphabetical arrangement by publishers, a survey of the entire field so far as the necessary information is at hand. Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In our announcement lists proper the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

ALLYN & BACON, Boston, have in preparation "Historical Essays of Macaulay, Chatham, Clive and Hastings," edited by Samuel Thuerber, who compiled the "Selected Essays of Macaulay" and other writers issued last year. They also announce several new text-books, of which full titles are given in the classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

THE AMERICAN BOOK CO. will shortly publish a number of important educational books, full titles of which will be found under the heading Education, Language, etc., in the classified list preceding this department.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION have in preparation several new juveniles by favorite writers. They are: "Wendover House," by Adelaide L. Rouse, illustrating the gradual development of a Christian character; a story by Kate Neely Festetics of a young girl who was forced "In Mother's Place," and how she managed her little sisters and unruly brother; "The Doctor's Dozen," in which Evelyn Everett Green tells how twelve brothers and sisters kept their home after being suddenly bereaved of their parents; and "Katie Van Walden," a German story by Maria Nathusius, translated by Mary A. Robinson, setting forth the value of a truly consecrated life in contrast with one nominally Christian. The last book has run through several editions in Germany.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have in preparation "The Gospel of Gladness," a series of terse and earnest sermons by Rev. D. J. Burrell; their annual exposition of the "International Sunday School Lessons" for 1893, edited by Rev. D. J. Burrell and Rev. J. D. Burrell; "Beside the Waters of Comfort," by Agnes Giberne, and "Crumbs of Comfort," by Mrs. F. A. Noble. Among their books for younger readers are: "The Andersons, Brother and Sister," a story of English life by Agnes Giberne; "Adam's Daughters," a tale illustrating the old problem "What shall we do for a living?" by Julia McNair Wright; "What Girls Can Do," by Mrs. H. K. Potwin; and "A Baker's Dozen," by Faye Huntington. In juveniles, the Silver Shield Series will consist of four attractively bound volumes for boys and girls, while the Little Tot Series, and "Fan-Fan Stories," by Mrs. F. I. B. Smith, will delight the very little folks.

D. APPLETON & CO. are preparing a series of illustrated books which will be known as Delights of History, of which the initial volume will be "The Story of Columbus" and the second "The Story of Washington." "The Story of Columbus" will be by Elizabeth Eggleston Seelye, with nearly one hundred illustrations by Allegra Eggleston. The book is the result of extensive investigations which have been carefully verified by the eminent historian and novelist, Dr. Eggleston. To a considerable extent the plan of both text and illustrations is like that of Eggleston's "Household History of the United States." All the volumes planned for the series will present not only the stories of great lives, but also the coloring and interesting details of the times and environments of their subjects. George Ellwanger, the author of "The Garden's Story" and "The Story of My House," has prepared "In Gold and Silver," in which he will carry the reader from the Orient to the out-door life of our own country, of which he is so competent to speak. The book will be magnificently illustrated by W. Hamilton Gibson and A. B. Wenzell, who will furnish full-page drawings, vignettes and initials, while there will be several pen-and-ink drawings of Oriental articles by W. C. Greenough and a specially designed title-page and cover by H. B. Sherwin. There will also be a numbered edition de luxe, limited to 200 copies on Japanese vellum. Last year the Messrs. Appleton printed only half of the limited edition de luxe of Jules Breton's "The Life of an Artist"—this year the remainder of the edition will be made ready; also a second edition of Joel Chandler Harris' "On the Plantation," with E. W. Kemble's illustrations; and a new edition of Herndon and Weik's "Life of Lincoln," which has been thoroughly revised and will be issued with an introduction by Horace White, and many new illustrations. "Man and the Glacial Period," by Prof. G. Frederick Wright, will be the new volume in the International Scientific Series. "The Moral Instruction of Children" and a translation of Rousseau's "Emile" will be added to the International Education Series; and there will be new volumes in the Great Commander Series. Those who wish to possess in one convenient volume the choicest selections of English verse will be able to do so on the publication of the beautiful anthology, "Three Centuries of English Love Songs," edited by Ralph Caine. These poems will be presented in a dainty, specially bound volume. A fine illustrated edition of Souvestre's "An Attic Philosopher in Paris" will be brought out uniform with the "Collette" of last season, for which a large number of full-page and vignette illustrations have been made by Jean Claude, who did such beautiful work on the last year's holiday book. Three volumes of popular history are forthcoming in Prof. A. F. Baudelier's "El Dorado, or, the gilded man," pictures of the Spanish occupancy of America; W. Davenport Adams' "The Warriors of the Crescent," giving pictures of magnificent Oriental despotism; and Prof. A. I. Church's, "The Lives of the Sultans," all of which will be found excellent books for school libraries. Several good novels are in active preparation. Miss Katherine P. Woods, author of "Metzerott—Shoemaker," has written a new novel to be called "From Dusk to Dawn," in which the influence of human beings on one another is analyzed and man's duty in the community made very clear; Maarten Maartens in his new novel "God's Fool" is said to rise above the expectations formed of him after his "Joost Avelingh." New novels are also promised by James Payne, Rhoda Broughton, Mrs. Needell and

Ada Cambridge. In juveniles, in which this firm took a successful hand last season for the first time in some years, there will be "Along the Florida Reef," by C. F. Holder; "In the Boyhood of Lincoln," by Hezekiah Butterworth; "The Battle of New York," by W. O. Stoddard; "Englishman's Haven," by A. Gordon, illustrated by W. S. Stacy, the romantic story of a boy's adventures among the Indians and French of Cape Breton; and "Herminie's Triumphs," a story for girls and boys, by Madame Colomb.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will bring out several new books, chiefly of a theological or literary nature. The four new volumes of The Expositor's Bible will be "The Epistle to the Ephesians," by Rev. Prof. G. G. Findlay; Vol. 2 of "The Gospel of St. John," by Rev. Dr. Marcus Dods; Vol. 2 of "The Acts of the Apostles," by Rev. Prof. G. T. Stokes; and the first volume of "The Book of Psalms," by Rev. Dr. Alexander MacLaren; while the ninth volume of The Sermon Bible will cover from Acts vii. to 1 Corinthians xvi. The Spurgeon Memorial volume, entitled "From the Pulpit to the Palm Branch," which will be issued as a sequel to "From the Usher's Desk to the Tabernacle Pulpit," was at first intended to be a report of the memorial services held in the Metropolitan Tabernacle, but has, during its preparation, been enlarged to make a place for a brief history of the last chapter in Mr. Spurgeon's faithful and fruitful life. Besides these they announce the fifth volume of The Bookworm, which maintains its reputation as a storehouse of information on old-time literature and on subjects dear to the book-lover. "The Story of the Life of Mackay of Uganda," told in a pleasing style for boys by the sister of the well-known missionary, has already been noted in these columns, but is again announced for the fall and holiday trade. An important juvenile will be "Thirty Years Among South Sea Cannibals," the story of John G. Paton, told for young people by James Paton, illustrated with forty-five full-page pictures.

BAKER, VOORHIS & CO. announce several new publications, full titles of which will be found under the heading Law, Government, etc., in the classified list in this issue.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL CO.'s. announcement of new publications will be found under the heading Law, Government, etc., in the classified list preceding this department.

BRADLEY & WOODRUFF have just ready an "Authorized life of Charles H. Spurgeon," by George C. Needham, a fully illustrated and interesting biography of the great preacher. They also announce two new novels, "A Lucky Lover," by John Habberton, and "The Preacher's Daughter," by Mrs. Amelia E. Barr; and they will have three juveniles: "Michael and Theodora," a pretty Russian story by Mrs. Barr; "Jack the Hunchback," by James Otis, and "Miss Ashton's New Pupil," a school-girl's story by Mrs. S. S. Robbins.

BRENTANO'S, New York, specially call the attention of the trade to their line of gift-books suitable for any season. "Songs from the Operas" are illustrated profusely by Mr. Frank M. Gregory, and accompanied in each instance by their music arranged for the piano. The text is adapted from the original by J. Kendrick Bangs.

The gems from "Carmen," "Faust" and "Lohengrin" will always be popular. "The Magnificat" and "Onward, Christian Soldiers," are also published in the same style, with music and decorations by the same artist, who is a member of the Salmagundi Club. "The Baby's Biography" will always be the delight of young mothers. It has reached its second edition and is a very successful book. The "Petite" Library will contain biography and prose and poetical selections. Thus far are ready the lives of Chopin, Liszt, Beethoven and Mozart, and three volumes of selections from the writings of Goethe, Schiller and Heine. The Illustrated Library Edition of "Don Quixote," in Motteux' translation, will be brought out by arrangement with the English publishers. It is in four volumes and strictly limited to three hundred copies, which will be sold by subscription. The illustrations consist of sixty-seven etchings specially prepared for this edition by Adolph Lalauze. New editions of last year's "Surprise Model Picture-Books" are also sure of new popularity.

CHARLES E. BROWN & CO., Boston, will publish several books of travel and adventure under the general title of "The Roundabout Books." There will be ten volumes, gotten up in lithographic board covers and also in red cloth gilt. The books are already known to many readers, but their popularity and selling qualities are unimpaired, and in their new style they will undoubtedly take a new lease of life. "A Voyage in the Sunbeam," by Lady Brassey, is a delightful diary of a trip across the Atlantic and back; Harry W. French's books, "Our Boys in India" and "Our Boys in China," are interesting and instructive accounts of the wanderings of two American boys; Edward Greey's "Young Americans in Japan," "Young Americans in Tokio" and "Young Americans in Yezo" give full descriptions of the people, habits, manners, customs, traditions and amusements of the people of those lands; and G. A. Henty's "Fall of Sebastopol," "Fighting the Saracens," "The Young Colonists" and "The Young Buglers" are crowded with facts told with spirit and a knowledge of the tastes of wide-awake boy readers. Another charming set of books will be "The Favorite Folk Ballads," bound in Venetian red or leatherette with embossed titles. In this will appear "Old Folks at Home," "I Wish I Was in Dixie's Land," "Old Uncle Ned," "Darling Nellie Grey," "Sally in Our Alley," "Black-Eyed Susan," "Shandon Bells," "Blue Bells of Scotland" and "The Watch on the Rhine." The house also has new editions of the favorite cook-books, "Miss Parloa's Appledore Cook-Book" and "The Universal Common-Sense Cookery Book;" a new edition of "Picturesque Ireland," by Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall, and also of Ridpath's "History of the United States."

THE BUBIER PUBLISHING COMPANY, Lynn, Mass., have just issued two useful manuals for students of electrical engineering: "Questions and Answers about Electricity," edited by E. T. Bubier, and "Transformers," by Caryl D. Haskins, associate member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

A. L. BURT announces new editions of the following books in Burt's Library of the World's Best Books: "Around the World in the Yacht Sunbeam," by Mrs. Brassey; "Mosses from an Old Manse" and "The Scarlet Letter," by Nathaniel Hawthorne; "Count of Monte Cristo," by Alexandre Dumas; "Les Misérables," by Victor Hugo; "Picciola," by X. B. Saintine; "An Egyptian Princess," by Georg Ebers; "Henry Esmond," by William M. Thackeray; "Kenilworth," by Sir Walter Scott; "Heroes and Hero Worship," by Thomas Carlyle, and "The Light of Asia," by Sir Edwin Arnold.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING COMPANY are issuing their fall books in rapid succession. Among the works of interest already out the volumes of fiction outnumber those of other departments of literature. The recent issues in this line include a new edition of Mrs. Bazán's "A Christian Woman"; "War Under Water," translated from the French by Mary J. Serrano; "The Child of the Ball," by Alarcón; "Out of the Jaws of Death," by Frank Barrett; "Leona," by Mrs. Molesworth, and "A Ring of Rubies," by L. T. Meade. In other fields are "The Career of Columbus," by C. Elton, a Member of Parliament, who has made a careful study of all the known lives of Columbus and weighed his judgments of them fairly; "Cassell's Book of Sports and Pastimes," and "The Rovings of a Restless Boy," a capital juvenile by Katherine B. Foote. A book that has already made a sensation is Zola's "La Débâcle." This house always makes a specialty of the bound volumes of its periodicals. The most important this year will be the twelfth volume of The Magazine of Art, which covers the year 1892, and which will rank as usual among the finest art-books of the year; and the yearly volume of The Quiver will furnish the usual supply of excellent Sunday reading. "Cassell's Almanac" for 1893 will also soon be ready; and the American edition of Cassell's Family Magazine will also make a goodly volume. Among the forthcoming works of fiction are "List, Ye Landsmen," a romance of incident, by W. Clark Russell, and "Tween Snow and Fire," a Kaffir border tale, by Bertrand Milford. Two books of historic interest will be "The Gods of Olympus, or, mythology of the Greeks and Romans," by Katherine A. Raleigh, with a preface by Jane E. Harrison, and "Living Pages from Many Ages," by Mary Heild, which will contain at least fifty-five full page illustrations. "Those Were the Days" will be the title of a poem by Mrs. Tom Kelly. As the season advances there will doubtless be other volumes of which the date of issue is not yet fixed. In the department of juveniles this house always makes a show in quantity and quality. This year's promises include "Children's Pleasures," ten colored plates mounted on boards illustrating youthful sports and pastimes, which will also be published with German text; "Dollie's Dinner Party," an octagon book containing fourteen pretty pictures on cardboard; "Eaglehurst Towers," by Emma Marshall; "Fairy Tales in Other Lands," by Julia Goddard; "Field Friends and Forest Foes," by Phillis Browne; "From the Throttle to the President's Chair," by E. S. Ellis; "The Next-Door House," by Mrs. Molesworth; "Not Wanted, or, the wreck of the Providence," by Eliza F. Pollard; "Oh, How Pretty!" with German text and twenty illustrations; shaped cardboard figures neatly colored and made to stand erect by an adjustable support, including "Old-Fashioned Songs," "A Carol for Yuletide;" "Father Christmas," "Child with Basket," "A Church," "A Snow Man," etc.; and "Ten Little Niggers," also a shape-book with text in rhyme and ten humorous illustrations and specimens of little "darkies."

THE CENTURY COMPANY will gather from the rich contents of their great magazine and make beautiful and interesting books for the autumn season. "Old Italian Masters," engravings from masterpieces of Italian art, by Timothy Cole, with letter press by W. J. Stillman, will appear in a super royal 8vo volume. There will also be a limited edition of 125 copies on Japan paper, signed by Mr. Cole and by the plate printer, and put up in portfolio form. Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer's "English Cathedrals," with Joseph Pennell's illustrations will also make a handsome book, which will be published in one volume in cloth, and also in a two volume édition de luxe, limited to 250 copies. The bound volumes of the Century Magazine for the year will be ready immediately after the publication of the October issue, and the bound volumes of St. Nicholas, about the same time. Among other publications of importance will be "Play in Provence," by Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell, their bright diary of a sojourn in the South of France; "The Love of the World," a book of religious meditation, by Mary Emily Case; "Love in the Calendar," poems by Robert Underwood Johnson; "Strange Corners of Our Country," by Charles F. Lummis, a book describing the wonders of the West, with chapters on the Indian snake-dances, etc.; "Christian Science, Faith Healing and Kindred Phenomena," by Rev. J. M. Buckley, the editor of the Christian Advocate; also "Cheap Money Experiments in Past and Present Times," papers on various cheap money schemes reprinted from the Century Magazine. A delightful book for children will be "A Book of Cheerful Cats and Other Animated Animals," by J. G. Frances, a collection of funny cat pictures and verses selected from St. Nicholas and other publications. There will also be a new edition of the ever beautiful "St. Nicholas Songs."

THE CHRISTIAN LITERATURE CO. will issue early in September the long-expected third volume of their "Library of Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers of the Christian Church," edited by Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff and Dr. Henry Wace. This volume will contain the Church History, Dialogues and Letters of Theodoret; the Lives of Illustrious Men, by Jerome and Gennadius, and the Apologies, Commentaries and Prefaces of Rufinus, all fully annotated and translated by well-known patristic scholars of Europe and America. These first three volumes of the "Library" form a complete and valuable collection of the historical writings of the Fathers, several of which have never before appeared in English. The delay in the publication of the third volume was due to the addition of the writings of Rufinus, which were not promised in the prospectus.

ROBERT CLARKE & CO., Cincinnati, have in preparation a work of lasting importance, entitled "Economic Legislation of All the States," an exhaustive presentation of all the laws governing corporated companies operating under municipal franchises, with a consideration of the economic principles involved in the operation, control and service of such companies, by Allen R. Foote, with Charles E. Everett as editing attorney, and with a resident attorney in each State as co-editor; also, "Coals and Cokes in

THE CONGREGATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND PUBLISHING SOCIETY'S preparations for the fall trade are devoted chiefly to books for the young, although they announce three books for older readers, viz.: a biography of Deacon C. F. Gates, "A Christian Business Man," written by his son, Caleb Frank Gates, which will be read with interest not only by those who knew and respected Deacon Gates, but by the many who are interested in the story of a successful life; "The Model Sunday-School," a useful manual covering in brief but satisfactory form all the essentials of successful Sunday-school work, by Rev. Dr. Geo. M. Boynton; and their annual "Monday Club Sermons for 1893" on the International Sunday-school lessons. Interesting juveniles, especially suitable for Sunday-school libraries, and graded to suit young readers of all ages, are always a special feature in the announcements of this society, and are well represented this fall. They have now in preparation "Little Pharisees," by Margaret H. Eckerson, a series of six volumes, telling of the pleasures, trials and adventures of two small children; "Billow Prairie," a story of pioneer life, by Joy Allison; "Dr. Lincoln's Children," whose good times are related by Kate W. Hamilton; "Marjoribanks," a story of home life by Elverton Wright; "Richard Bruce," by Charles M. Sheldon, which deals with the application of gospel rules to business affairs; and two new volumes in the Somerset Series, "In the Vulture's Nest," a story of the times of Catherine de Medici, and "Neighbors in Barton Square," by Mrs. Alice Eddy Curtiss.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO. announce a handsome volume of selections from Wordsworth's poems, illustrated with photogravures after designs by E. H. Garrett, daintily bound and printed, the whole forming a most artistic gift-book; and a fine holiday edition of Walton's "Angler," to be issued in two volumes, containing the original eighty-six illustrations of Major's edition, with photogravure frontispieces. They will also bring out an entirely new line of standard books, entitled the Handy Volume Classics, carefully printed on good paper and neatly bound, consisting of carefully selected standard books in prose and poetry, illustrated by artists of established reputation and issued in convenient 18mo form. Among the volumes already planned for are two volumes of Robert Browning's Poems; volumes of the poems of Wordsworth, Edgar Allan Poe and Burns; selections from the "Essays of Emerson;" "Paul and Virginia;" "Pilgrim's Progress;" "Vicar of Wakefield;" Ruskin's "Crown of Wild Olive" and "Sesame and Lilies;" Mrs. Gaskell's "Cranford;" Tennyson's "In Memoriam," "The Princess," "Idylls of the King," and "Locksley Hall;" Carlyle's "Hero Worship" and "Sartor Resartus," and other favorite old books. These volumes will be put into several styles of binding—in parti-colored cloth, vellum-finish silk, half calf and half levant. There will also be a Mosaic Edition of red-line poets in forty-eight volumes, tastefully bound in leather, artistically embossed and ornamented with gold, with white panel inserted on the side. Other books now in preparation are: "The Every-Day of Life," by Rev. Dr. J. R. Miller; "A Plea for the Gospel," by Rev. George D. Herron; "Monica, the Mesa Maiden," a story of Southern California, by Mrs. Evelyn H. Radford; an attractive booklet, entitled "Girls: Faults and Ideals," by Rev. Dr. J. R. Miller, and "Daily Food," issued in a new illustrated edition with twelve photo-engravings. The better part of their list is devoted to children's books of a pleasing and helpful character, among which we note "Famous Types of Womanhood," by Sarah K. Bolton; "Short Stories in Botany for Children," by Mrs. Harriett C. Cooper; "Polly Button's New Year," by Mrs. C. F. Wilder; "Little Arthur's History of Rome," in which Hezekiah Butterworth aims to interest young readers in classic literature; "Mixed Pickles," by Mrs. Evelyn H. Raymond; "The Riverpark Rebellion," by Homer Greene; "Tom Clifton," a story of Western life, by Warren Lee Goss; "In Blue Creek Cañon," by Anna Chapin Ray, telling of a happy summer in a Rocky Mountain mining camp, and "The Cadets of Fleming Hall," by the same author.

J. G. CUPPLES CO., Boston, have in preparation for early fall publication a number of attractive books in the classes of literature, poetry, drama and fiction. They are: "The Real and Ideal in Literature," a volume of essays by Frank Preston Stearns, editor of Von Holst's "John Brown;" "Heinrich Heine, his Wit, Wisdom, Poetry," edited by Newell Dunbar, and prefaced by Matthew Arnold's charming, appreciative essay; a companion volume to the selections from Heine, entitled "Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, his Wit, Wisdom, Poetry," edited by Newell Dunbar, and preceded by Thomas De Quincey's critical essay; "Vagabond Rhymes," by "An Idler;" "The Cup of Life," a volume of poems by Hannah Parker Kimball; "Comfort in a Corner" and "The Rogue's Mirror," dramas by E. J. and A. W. Sanborn; and "Txlcamo," a story of ancient Mexico, by J. A. Knowlton. The ingenious legend of the White Mountains, entitled "Christus Judex," by Edward Roth, will be reissued by this house. It associates a picture in a village church in the Alps with the Great Stone Face near the Profile House, New Hampshire. It tells how the painter came to North America in 1860, and discovered this profile and reproduced it on canvas as the Judging Christ. An introduction by W. C. Prime describes the place where the profile is visible.

THE F. A. DAVIS CO., Philadelphia, will bring out in November a "Biography of D. Hayes Agnew," the celebrated oculist, by J. Howe Adams, M.D. The work will be illustrated and handsomely bound, and should prove of interest to the general reader as well as to the members of the profession in which Dr. Agnew's work was of such lasting value. Several other important publications are announced for the fall and winter season, titles of which are fully given in the classified list in this issue, under the heading of Medical Science.

THE DE WITT PUBLISHING HOUSE will issue eighteen or twenty dramas and comediettas during the fall. They also announce numerous additions to their series of school speakers, dialogues, etc., and several new juveniles, chief of which is a new book by John Kendrick Bangs, illustrated by Charles Howard Johnson, entitled "In Camp with a Tin Soldier," a successor to the popular "Tiddledy Wink Tales;" and this bright writer has also prepared a collection of verses for boys to be entitled "The Tiddley Winks Poetry Book;" and "In Savage Africa," a book for boys, in which E. J. Glave, one of Stanley's officers, tells of six years of adventure in Congoland. Titles are fully given under the headings, Sports, Games and Amusements; Education, Language, etc., and Juvenile Literature, in the classified list preceding this department.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. have in preparation a new and revised edition of "The Life and Times of Frederick Douglass, written by himself." The edition will be brought down to date, will contain over one hundred additional pages and a new steel portrait of Mr. Douglass, and will be prefaced with an introduction by Geo. L. Ruffin, of Boston.

C. T. DILLINGHAM & Co. will bring out a useful little book of American and European recipes for the concoction of dainty and economical "Desserts and Salads," prepared by Miss Semcke, Principal of the Brooklyn, N. Y., German-American Cooking-School; and a boy's story of adventure, entitled "Wrecked on the Bermudas," by Capt. W. E. Meyer.

DODD, MEAD & Co. are preparing a fine library edition of Anthony Trollope's "Chronicles of Barsetshire." Trollope's novels are photographic of every-day English life—lumps of the soil "put under a glass case, with all the inhabitants going about their daily business, and not suspecting that they are being made a show of"—and their issue in attractive and durable form should meet with general approval. The "Chronicles" comprise "The Warder," "Barchester Towers," "Framley Parsonage," "Dr. Thorne," "The Small House at Allington" and the "Last Chronicles of Barset," in thirteen volumes, illustrated with photogravures from designs by C. R. Grant. The edition is aptly called the Cathedral Edition, and it will also comprise a limited large-paper edition de luxe. Holiday editions will be brought out of "The School for Scandal," illustrated by Frank M. Gregory with five plates in color and over forty designs in black and white, the large-paper limited edition having full-page photo-aquarelles on Japan paper and the smaller illustrations printed in sepia; also of Jean de la Brète's charming little story "My Uncle and My Curé," recently crowned by the French Academy, which will be translated by Ernest Redwood and illustrated with over thirty drawings by Georges Janet. Other books of lasting literary interest which will be brought out with all the charms of dainty illustrations, fine paper and attractive binding are: "The Life and Adventures of Peg Woffington," by J. Fitzgerald Molloy, with over sixty illustrations from contemporary portraits and prints; "Memoirs of Madame de Staël de Launay," translated from the French by Cora Hamilton Bell, printed at the Imprimerie Jousst in Paris, illustrated with forty-one etchings by Adolphe Lalauze, and limited to forty-five copies on Japan paper and two hundred and fifty on Holland paper; "The Dramatic Essays of Charles Lamb," edited by Brander Matthews and illustrated with photogravure portraits of Mrs. Kemble, Mrs. Siddons, Liston, and the other famous actors mentioned in the essays; a volume of charming essays by Austin Dobson, who paints "Eighteenth Century Vignettes" of Sir Charles Grandison, Hogarth's Sigmunda, Prior's Kitty, An Old London Book-seller, and other worthies; and Charles Reade's

"The Cloister and the Hearth," in four volumes illustrated with sixteen photogravures. There will be large-paper editions limited to a few copies of all these books, except the "Peg Woffington." A new volume of Hamilton Mabie's articles on literature, to be called "Essays in Literary Interpretation," is promised. There will also be a bright book of travel telling of "A Scamper through Spain and Tangier," by Margaret Thomas, fully illustrated by the author; a volume of "The Poems of Giosuè Carducci," translated by Frank Sewall, who presents the "Poet Laureate of Italy" to American readers in two introductory essays; and "Samantha on the Race Problem," a new book by Marietta Holly, in which Samantha and her "Wayward pardner" have a new series of experiences, which leads them among the colored people of the South, where Samantha expresses her views on the race question with vigor and humor. The book will be profusely illustrated by E. W. Kemble, whose delineations of darky life have become famous. To the series Makers of America will be added "John Hughes," by Rev. Henry A. Brann; "Robert Morris," by William Graham Sumner; "Jean Baptiste Lemoine," by Grace King, and "William White," by Rev. Julius H. Ward; while in the Portia Series there will be two new volumes, "The Unmarried Woman," by Eliza Chester, and "Beauty of Form and Grace of Vesture," by Frances Mary Steele and Elizabeth L. S. Adams. A book of value to mothers is "Almost Fourteen," a medical treatise for young people by Mortimer E. Warren. Four new novels are announced: "Prince Serebryani," a story of the times of Ivan the Terrible, by Count Alexis Tolstol, translated by Jeremiah Curtin; "Sherburne House," a story by Amanda M. Douglas; "Muriel Howe," by Angelina Teal, and "Buffeting," by Jeanette Pemberton. A little volume of religious comfort will be the "Treasure-Book of Consolation," edited and compiled by Benjamin Orme. A most useful "Universal Atlas," giving in compact and ready-reference form maps of all the countries in the world, statistics of population, finance, etc., and other valuable information, is also in preparation. The new juveniles are fully up to the usual high standard of this house. They are: "Dr. Dodd's School," a story of American school life, by J. L. Ford; "A Fisher Girl of France," from the French of Fernand Calmettes; a continuation of "Witch Winnie's" biography entitled "Witch Winnie's Studio," and the nineteenth volume in the Elsie Series which will tell of "Elsie at Viamede." There will be a thirteen-volume set of R. M. Ballantyne's popular stories of adventure and new editions of Richard Markham's "Colonial Days," Nordhoff's "Sailor Life," "Heroes of Chivalry," and J. Fortune Nott's "Wild Animals," all of which are old favorites among young readers.

DONOHUE, HENNEBERRY & Co., Chicago, have a list of attractive books for little folk, which is given under the heading Juvenile Literature in the classified list in this issue.

DUPRAT & Co. will issue early in November "The Book-Lover's Almanac for the Year 1893," a superb publication, illustrated with twelve full-page drawings by Henriot, reproduced in color by Draeyer & Lesieur, of Paris, the text consisting of well-written articles on subjects dear to the heart of the book collector. The "Almanac" will be printed from type at the De Vinne Press and will be limited to six hundred copies printed on Japan and Holland paper. It promises to be in all respects a fine example of artistic book-making.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have for years made a specialty of a line of holiday publications that seem to improve in quality and increase in quantity from season to season. A full description of their new publications for the year was given in our issue of June 4. Titles of the books will be found in classified list in this issue, chiefly under the headings Art and Illustrated Gift-Books; Birthday-Books and Souvenirs; and Juveniles.

J. H. EARLE, Boston, has just ready "Wayside Poems," a book of religious verse by Rev. J. B. Smith; "What I Know about Books and How to Use Them," by George C. Lorimer, a pretty little volume bound in white parchment; "The Revelation," an exposition and paraphrase in verse, by Rev. Thos. P. Briggs, with an introduction by President Andrews; and two books for young people: "Grandma's Darlings," by Mrs. Eva M. C. Kellogg, and "Interweaving," by Lida A. Churchill, author of "My Girls."

ESTES & LAURIAT's specialties are fine-art books and juveniles, and this year their preparations in both lines are quite up to their well-known average of quantity and quality. "American Etchings" will be a collection of twenty superb original etchings by the very best American etchers, including work by Falconer, Chase, Swan Gifford, Colman and Smillie, and descriptive text by well-known critics. "Recent International Art," a series of sixteen photo etchings from paintings and designs by some of the best modern artists of Europe and America, such as Tito Conti, Rosenthal, Barth, St. John Harper, Darley, etc., with text by recognized critics, will be handsomely bound, and make a large folio holiday publication; and "The Original Paris Salon" for 1892, prepared by Ludovic Basché will contain French text and 100 photogravures printed by hand in colors, from paintings by noted living artists, as exhibited in Paris in May, 1892. The edition is limited to 500 copies, some bound in vellum and some in Holland cloth. A timely book for the Columbus year will be "Genoa, the Superb," by Virginia W. Johnson, author of "The Lily of the Arno," the book on Florence that made such a success last year. This year's volume will be uniform with that of last year and will be illustrated with photogravures. "Rome of To-Day and Yesterday," by John Dennie, will be illustrated with twenty half-tone reproductions of photographs of the most important points of interest in the Eternal City, and is said to be a romance, history and guide-book combined; and "The Heart of Europe," by Leo de Colange, will be a series of views from the Rhine to the Danube, including historic castles, cathedrals, palaces, etc., reproduced in wood-engravings by skilled artists. Special attention is called to the Parchment Edition of "Hudson's Illustrated Shakespeare," in twelve volumes, with thirty-six etchings printed on imperial Japan paper from designs by the French artist, Pillé, etched by L. Monfies, which are used for the first time in an American edition of Shakespeare. Superb illustrated editions are under way of "Ivanhoe," "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "Paul and Virginia." The text of "Ivanhoe" will be printed on fine laid paper on a small page with ample margins. The illustrations will be the original etchings drawn and engraved in Paris by Ad. Lalauze, printed on imperial Japan paper and bound in vellum cloth. There will also be a limited Parchment edition with duplicate impressions of the illustrations on Japan paper and in India proof. "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "Paul and Virginia" will belong to the Exquisite Series and will be modelled on the editions issued in French by the Paris publisher, Jouast. "The Vicar" will have illustrations by Lalauze; "Paul and Virginia" by the French etcher Laguillermie. Each of these works will be in two volumes. In other departments of literature the announcements of the house include "Life on the Circuit with Lincoln," by Major Henry C. Whitney; "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn," "Winter," four dainty little volumes comprising Thomson's "Seasons"; "Social Ethics and Social Duties," by Mrs. Bloomfield Moore; "Foil and Sabre," a grammar of fencing, by Prof. Louis Rondelle, with fifty-two half-tone engravings; and an edition, limited to 500 copies, of Robert Browning's "Life of Strafford," which will contain an introduction by C. H. Frith, a preface by F. J. Furnivall and appendices composed of matter from documents not yet made public. The titles of the promised juveniles will all be found in the classified list in this issue. The most important books will be "Zigzag Journeys on the Mississippi," in which Hezekiah Butterworth will take his readers from the site of the World's Fair to the tomb of Columbus, across the Gulf of Mexico to Havana; "The Knockabout Club in Search of Treasure," in which, under the guidance of Fred A. Ober, this popular club will explore the mountains of Mexico, visiting the site of old Aztec mines in search of the lost mines of the Montezumas; and "Three Vassar Girls in the Holy Land," Elizabeth W. Champney's account of a trip from Egypt and the mouth of the Nile through Palestine to Jerusalem. The Annuals published by the house will all be brought out for gifts at the Christmas season of 1892. They include The Little Ones' Annual, The Nursery, Oliver Optic's Annual and Chatterbox. Among the many, many more we briefly mention "The Boys of Mirthfield Academy," a book of adventures in English school-boy life, edited by Lawrence H. Francis; "Tales of Ancient Troy," edited by Walter Montgomery; "Hildegard's Home," and "Glimpses of the French Court," by Laura E. Richards; "Mary, Queen of Scots," a concise and interesting biography, by Rosalie Kaufmann, abridged from Agnes Strickland's "Queens of Scotland;" and "At the Sign of the White Swan," by Olivia L. Wilson.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT announce for early fall publication a volume of hitherto unpublished lectures by Henry Ward Beecher, entitled "Bible Studies," and edited by John R. Howard from the manuscript notes of T. J. Ellinwood, Mr. Beecher's stenographer. The "Studies" are readings in the Old Testament accompanied by characteristic comment, the whole forming a series of Sunday evening lectures. The volume is prefaced by several discourses on "Inspiration," and is said to be as rich and full of interest as any of the great preacher's pulpit work. They will also issue a story by Agnes M. Machar, to be called "Roland Graeme, Knight," dealing with the problem of labor in the relation of mill-owners and mill-hands, with an interweaving of romance.

THE FOWLER & WELLS CO. have in preparation for early publication "Short Talks on Character Building," by G. T. Howerton, a series of lectures on various phases of human character based on the principles of phrenology and prepared specially for young people; "The Well-Dressed Woman," a study of the practical application of dress to the laws of health, art and morals, by Mrs. Helen G. Ecob, who considers the new Dress Reform discussed at Chautauqua and other places; "Where is My Dog?" by Rev. Chas. J. Adams, a plea in favor of the theory that the lower animals have a future life; "Why Do Young People Die?" a contribution to health literature, by Frederic M. Heath; "How Six Girls Made Money," a practical work on occupations for women, by Marion Edmonds Roe; "The Royal Road to Beauty, Health and the Higher Development," by Carica Le Favre, President of the American Delsarte Association; and a new revised and enlarged edition of "Delsartean Physical Culture," by the same author.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS CO., N. Y., announce for publication during the fall and holiday season "Criminology," a psychological and scientific study of sustained interest, in which Dr. Arthur MacDonald, U. S. representative at the International Congress on Criminology, held at Brussels, considers criminals in their relation to sociology, etc.; "Henry Ward Beecher, the Pulpit Jupiter," by John Henry Barrows, and "John B. Gough, the Apostle of Cold Water," by Carlos Martyn, two new volumes in the American Reformers Series; also, "The Resultant Greek Testament," by Richard Francis Weymouth, containing the accepted text, supplemented by the readings of Stephens, Lachmar and other authorities, and prefaced with an introduction by the Bishop of Worcester. "The Preacher's Complete Homiletic Commentary on the Old Testament" will be in twenty volumes, in each of which a distinguished homilist will furnish a sermon outline on every paragraph or verse of the Old Testament that can be used in preparation of a discourse. The volume on Genesis has already been issued. An American edition of Dr. John Laidlaw's "The Miracles of Our Lord" is also in preparation. They will also bring out in regular succession the remaining ten volumes of their Columbian Historical Novels, by John R. Musick. In this series the author's purpose has been to present in popular form a graphic picture of the history and development of the United States from the days of Columbus to the present time. The adventures of a Spanish boy, Hernando Estevan, who accompanied Columbus on his famous voyage, form the first volume, entitled "Columbia," and in tracing the history of his descendants, the American Stevens and the Mexican Estevans, the principal events of American history are linked in a continuous chain. The first two volumes, "Columbia" and "Estevan," will be succeeded by "St. Augustine," a story of the Huguenot colonies in Florida; "Pocahontas," "The Pilgrims;" "A Century Too Soon," a story of Bacon's Rebellion in the early days of Virginia; "The Witch of Salem;" "Braddock;" "Independence;" "Sustained Honor," a story of the War of 1812; "Humbled Pride," which deals with the Mexican War; and "Union," a story of the Rebellion, bringing the series down to the present day.

GINN & Co.'s list of new and forthcoming publications will be found in the classified list in this issue, under the heading of Education, Language, etc.

FRANCIS P. HARPER, New York City, will have ready a limited edition of a new issue of Lewis and Clarke's "Expedition Over the Rocky Mountains," which has been carefully edited and prepared by Dr. Elliott Coues. It will comprise a faithful reprint of the Philadelphia edition of 1814, with a bibliographical preface, biographical sketches and numerous valuable and explanatory, ethnological, geographical and scientific notes to the text by the editor, who has also compiled an exhaustive index. Dr. Coues is well fitted for his task, having made a specialty of the literature of the Lewis and Clarke expedition and having personally travelled over the entire ground they explored.

HARPER & BROTHERS' forthcoming fall publications will cover almost every department of literature and are noteworthy for their timely interest, intrinsic value and handsome holiday attire. The two books which have been chosen for special honor are Henry James' "Daisy Miller" and George William Curtis' "Prue and I." The edition of "Daisy Miller," with which is included that clever story, "An International Episode," will be in one volume, profusely illustrated from drawings by Harry W. McVickar, printed on highly finished paper, and bound, with broad margins and uncut edges, in a style suggestive of the delightful character of its contents. There will also be an édition de luxe of two hundred and fifty copies, printed on handmade paper and illustrated in tints—a different color being used for each story. "Prue and I" will appear in equally attractive garb, illustrated with one hundred drawings by Albert E. Sterner, including a tinted photograph frontispiece. The introduction will be a fac-simile reproduction of the lamented author's manuscript. There will be an edition bound in illuminated silk and an édition de luxe of two hundred and fifty copies, bound in vellum, the illustrations of which will be in tint and the frontispiece a signed etching by Mr. Sterner. One of the most important publications of the year will be the Illustrated Edition of Green's "Short History of the English People," edited by Mrs. J. R. Green and Miss Kate Norgate, the first volume of which is nearly ready. It was long a favorite wish of Prof. Green to see his book so illustrated that its readers might have the men and events of English history brought still more vividly before them, and the present edition is an attempt to carry out this idea. The pictures, selected by Mrs. Green, are from authentic sources, and illustrate the arts, industries, costumes, coins, and domestic and ecclesiastical architecture of the various periods dealt with by the historian, also comprising portraits of eminent persons, colored maps and colored reproductions from manuscripts, illuminated missals, etc. Nor are the American people unrepresented historically, for in the "History of the United States from the Compromise of 1850 to the Election of Abraham Lincoln in 1860" James Ford Rhodes presents a careful study of one of the most turbulent periods of American politics; while Charles Carleton Coffin, after much painstaking investigation, has written a readable and trustworthy biography of the great President with whose election Mr. Rhodes' history concludes. Two other books of historical and political interest are: "The Armies of To-

Day," in which is given a comprehensive exposition of the armies of the United States and Europe—their organization, discipline, equipment, comparative efficiency, and the cost of their maintenance—each army being described by one of its own officers, while spirited illustrations by T. de Thulstrup add to the interest of the work; and "Moltke: his life and character," a volume of entertaining miscellany selected chiefly from Moltke's own writings, translated by Mary Herms, and including a short history of the Moltke family, the memoirs of the Field-marshal's father, the Field-marshal's autobiography, records of his early days, a translation of his story, "The Two Friends," his "Journal Written on the Way to Constantinople," a memoir of his wife, an account of his residence in Rome, and other interesting matter pertaining to his character and public services. Three delightful descriptive volumes, relating to England, France and America, are also promised, viz.: "London," in which Walter Besant again proves his right to the title of "Master of the Thames," as he portrays the life of his beloved city and its people from age to age in a series of descriptive chapters—instantaneous photographs in pen-and-ink—showing the nooks and corners of London town with their denizens, at different historical periods; "The Praise of Paris," in which Theodore Child describes from the standpoint of an observant resident some of the most interesting features of life and society in the French capitol—its amusements, its art, its literature, and the wonderful diversity of attractions and conveniences which have made it the most delightful city in the world; and "The West from a Car Window," a series of entertaining papers by Richard Harding Davis, who narrates in characteristic style his experiences and impressions during a brief tour of observation in Texas and in the mining regions of the "Great Divide." Other publications of interest will be Mrs. Ritchie's charming "Records of Tennyson, Ruskin, Browning," written from the standpoint of personal friendship, and presenting not only pleasant glimpses of the home life and private character of those famous men, but giving also interesting comments on their works and estimates of their influence in literature and art; a delightful essay on "Americanisms and Britishisms," with other essays on other isms, by Brander Matthews; "Along New England Roads," by William C. Prime; "A Short History of the Christian Church," by Rev. Dr. John F. Hurst; and "The Desire of Beauty," a discussion of æsthetic culture, by Theodore Child. In the field of fiction several capital new books are announced, most of which have appeared in serial form during the year in some of the Harper publications, where they have made many warm friends. Miss Wilkins' first novel, "Jane Field," which has been the leading serial of Harper's, will be brought out early in the fall, and the sustained interest of its plot, its vivid character-drawing and graphic pictures of New England life will undoubtedly win for its talented author a foremost place among American novelists. "The World of Chance," a brilliant story of little-known phases of New York life, by W. D. Howells; "An Earthly Paragon," a novel by Eva W. McGlasson, author of that clever book, "Diana's Livery;" and an amusing volume of sketches by John Flavel Mines, entitled "A Tour Around New York and My Summer Acre," are also announced; as is "Athelwold," an "early English" drama by Amélie Rives Chanler, the scene of which is laid in the court of the Saxon king, Athelstane. For young people Harper's Young People for 1892 will be as ever a storehouse of good things in prose and verse, while "The Boy Travellers" are this year conducted into "Central Europe" by Colonel Knox for the delectation and instruction of the rising generation.

D. C. HEATH & Co.'s forthcoming publications will be found in the classified list in this issue, under the heading Education, Languages, etc.

NORMAN W. HENLEY & Co., New York, have in press for immediate publication a "Standard Electrical Dictionary," by Prof. T. O'Connor Sloane, author of several valuable treatises on electricity. The work will be an exhaustive lexicon of electrical terms, defined clearly and without unnecessary elaboration. It will contain over three hundred illustrations, and should be of the utmost value to all interested in electrical science.

HENRY HOLT & Co. as usual devote the larger part of their list of forthcoming books to publications in their special field, full titles of which will be found in the classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc. They also announce several new books for light reading, chief among which are three volumes from the pen of a new poet, Charles Leonard Moore, who has been warmly praised by Dr. Weir Mitchell in The Forum. His verses will be entitled "Poems Antique and Modern" and "A Book of Day Dreams," and he will have a romantic South American comedy in prose, "The Banquet of Palacios." There will be a characteristic new book by Jerome K. Jerome, entitled "Novel Notes;" a collection of short stories called "A Midsummer Night's Dream;" and a volume of "Sketches of Yale Life" and other papers, by Prof. Beers, of Yale. "Jack O'Doon," the novel by Mrs. Maria Beales, which was announced last year, is still in preparation, and there will be a story of New York society life, entitled "John Paget," by Miss S. B. Elliott, author of "Jerry," whose novel of "The Felmers" will be brought out in a new edition.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish several holiday books this year. A very charming edition of Hawthorne's "Wonder Book," containing twenty full-page illustrations in colors and many other designs, all by Walter Crane, in the style which has justly given him a very remarkable popularity as an illustrator of books, will be brought out in every respect in a tasteful and artistic style. Dr. Holmes' "Dorothy Q.," "Ballad of the Boston Tea-Party" and "Grandmother's Story of Bunker Hill Battle" will be illustrated by Howard Pyle very much in the style of the "One Hoss Shay," which proved so popular last year. Mr. Warner's delightful book of travel, "In the Levant," will be brought out in two volumes from entirely new plates, illustrated with photogravures of buildings, monuments and scenes specially interesting in the places covered by the volume. Longfellow's "Evangeline" will appear in a new edition with photogravures of Darley's admirable illustrations, and Mr. Whittier's last collection, entitled "At Sundown," will now be sadly welcomed by those who mourn that it will have already become an "afterglow." "At Sundown" will contain the poems which he wrote since the publication of "St. Gregory's Guest," with a portrait and eight illustrations by Garrett. In history Charles Francis Adams has prepared "Three Episodes in Massachusetts History," the first relating to the settlement of Massachusetts Bay; the second, to the early religious dispute in Massachusetts; and the third, to the growth and development of a typical Massachusetts town. These various episodes are described with the vigor characteristic of Mr. Adams, and the work is one of unusual interest and value. Mr. James Breck Perkins will add to his previous studies in French history a book on "France under the Regency," with a review of the administration of Louis XIV., based to a considerable extent upon research in official documents and diplomatic correspondence. Mr. E. J. Lowell will contribute a volume on a very interesting period of French history, namely "The Eve of the French Revolution," describing the condition of France, the various classes, and the conflict of interest, giving a work full of information, and written in a style to engage attention. Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge has gathered from his recent writings a volume of "Essays, Historical and Political," dealing with Mr. Seward, James Madison, Gouverneur Morris and political subjects which have been recently discussed in this country. Col. W. Allan, who was an officer in the Confederate Army, has written a volume on the "Army of Northern Virginia in 1862." Of course he saw the various movements with the eyes of a Confederate officer, but allowing for this natural bias, the work is said to be written with great impartiality, and will be a valuable addition to the military history of the civil war. In biography Mr. W. G. Collingwood, for many years the private secretary of Mr. Ruskin, has written two volumes on "John Ruskin: his life and work." It has been prepared with Mr. Ruskin's sanction and aid in furnishing materials, and will contain much new matter and many portraits. Marlon Harland has written "The Story of Mary Washington," which both its subject and author cannot fail to make interesting to many readers. Col. T. A. Dodge will add to his two volumes already written on the history of the art of war, "Hannibal" and "Alexander," a book on "Julius Cæsar," written in the same careful style, and illustrated with many designs made on the various battlefields of Cæsar by Col. Dodge himself. Prof. Herbert B. Adams, of Johns Hopkins University, is preparing a work in two volumes on the "Life and Letters of Jared Sparks," who was distinguished as a Unitarian clergyman, Professor of History in Harvard College, President of Harvard, and editor of the North American Review. The correspondence will include many letters from notable men, and the work will abound in glimpses of very great interest of a period and of characters notable in the history of American literature. In the department of essays a volume will appear containing "Natural History of Intellect," by Mr. Emerson, together with other papers not heretofore collected, embracing essays on Memory, Boston, Michaelangelo, Milton and several papers which originally appeared in The Dial. Another volume by Mr. Lowell, which will contain six essays on the Old English Dramatists, who always had a peculiar charm for Mr. Lowell. The first of the lectures is introductory, and the others are devoted to Marlowe, Webster, Chapman, Beaumont and Fletcher, Middleton and Ford. Mr. Stedman will supplement his history of poetry as given in his "Victorian Poets," and "Poets of America" by a volume on "The Nature and Elements of Poetry." It is written in the very agreeable style which is characteristic of all of Mr. Stedman's work, and reviews the great poetry of the world, defines its nature, considers the various forms of poetry, and then discusses the constituent elements of it. Mr. Oliver T. Morton, son of the War-Governor of Indiana, will have a volume entitled "The Southern Empire," containing three essays, of which the first will be devoted to a study of the probable effect on the Western world of a successful result of the Southern Rebellion, a thoughtful and judicious paper on "Some Popular Objections to Civil Service Reform," and an historical article on the "Rise of Oxford University." Bradford Torrey will add to his two previous out-door books, which have won great favor with lovers of this class of literature, a book entitled "The Foot-Path Way," which will contain eleven papers, several of which have appeared in the Atlantic Monthly and other magazines. Mr. Torrey's style is so attractive that it lends a peculiar grace to the nice observation which characterizes his volume. Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin will publish a little book which she calls "Children's Rights," devoted to the rights of children, their plays, playthings, reading, and the kindergarten; and her sister, Miss Nora Smith, will add chapters on "Children Stories," "The Government of Children" and the "Magic of Together." Mr. John Albee contributes a volume of "Prose Idylls," which are so poetic in the view they take of the subjects they treat and in their form of expression that they are quite entitled to the name he has given them. They will consist of many short papers on a variety of subjects, treated in a fresh and attractive style. In fiction Mrs. Jane G. Austin will add to her colonial stories a book of short tales entitled "David Alden's Daughter, and Other Stories of Colonial Times." Mr. Edwin Lassetter Bynner will furnish a new historical story entitled "Zachary Phips," a story of the time of the War of 1812, in which a Boston boy figures, who also participated in the Aaron Burr expedition and the Seminole War. There is a good deal of adventure in the book, and all of it has a historical basis and coloring. Mrs. Deland, author of "John Ward, Preacher," has dropped for the present all theological discussions and written "The Story of a Child," which will not be a juvenile book, but will portray the life and character of a child, largely imaginative and of somewhat reserved nature, as she appears to older people. The book is written with much discrimination, and with Mrs. Deland's usual literary charm. Bret Harte will have a new story, "Susy," continuing the experiences and adventures of the heroine of "A Waif of the Plains;" Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote will add to her previous stories of frontier life "The Chosen Valley." Joel Chandler Harris will conclude his delightful and widely popular Uncle Remus stories with a volume entitled "Uncle Remus and His Friends." Miss Eliza Orne White, whose story of "Miss Brooks" has had so much vogue, has written a story of a New Hampshire village which she will call "Winterborough;" the characters and descriptions of this book ought to insure for it a wide reading. In the Riverside Paper Series will appear during successive months Hawthorne's "House of the Seven Gables;" Dr. Mitchell's "Roland Blake;" Mrs. Rose Terry Cooke's "Somebody's Neighbors;" Mr. Aldrich's "Story of a Bad Boy;" and Robert Grant's "Story of an Average Man. Several volumes of poetry are promised. Miss Edna Dean Proctor has written "The Song of the Ancient People," a poem about the Pueblo Indians, which is pronounced by Mr. Cushing, who has lived much among the Zuni, a poem of remarkable truthfulness and power. The volume will contain ten very excellent illustrations by Julian Scott, reproduced in aquatint. It will also have an introduction by John Fiske and notes by Frank H. Cushing. Clinton Scollard, who has made for himself an enviable reputation as a poet, will have a tasteful little volume entitled "Songs of Sunrise Lands," giving impressions of a journey made by him in Egypt, Syria and Greece; Miss Lucy Larcom will publish a little volume virtually uniform in size with the "Unseen Friend" and "As It Is in Heaven," entitled "At the Beautiful Gate," containing religious poems gathered partly from her previously published volumes and partly consisting of poems which she has not heretofore published in book form, which cannot fail to be very attractive to a large number of thoughtful readers. Frank Dempster Sherman will have an exquisite small volume, entitled "Little Folk Lyrics," some fifty or sixty poems of peculiar interest to young readers. Miss Agnes Repplier has collected for the Riverside Library for Young People a volume containing some of the best English and American poems, which she calls "A Book of Famous Verse," which Miss Repplier's well-known views with regard to children's reading will be sufficient to commend to a large circle. The most important of all in this department, however, will be a Centenary Edition of the "Complete Poetical Works of Shelley," edited by Mr. George E. Woodberry, who will contribute a memoir which cannot fail to be a valuable addition to Shelley literature. The work will be printed in the best style of the Riverside Press, and will make four volumes; there will also be a limited large-paper edition in eight volumes. In the department of science Mr. Edwards will bring out the thirteenth part of the third volume of his "Butterflies of North America." Dr. J. W. Fewkes will publish the third volume of his "Journal of American Ethnology and Archaeology." Prof. Shaler, of Harvard, will have a volume on "The Interpretation of Nature," in which he does not attempt to reconcile religion and science, but views both religion and science in a large and broad way which tends to remove the grounds of criticism and opposition which have heretofore existed between the special champions of religion and those of science. Mrs. Marbury's book on "Favorite Flies and Their Histories," will be a book of special interest to anglers. In the department of law there will be a new edition of Benjamin on "Sales of Personal Property," edited by Judge Bennett, of the Boston University Law School; a new edition of Cox on "Trade-Mark Cases," with colored illustrations in fac-simile of several important cases; and a new edition of Jones on "Forms in Conveyancing." New editions will appear of the volumes of "American Poems" and "American Prose," edited by Mr. Scudder, consisting of entire poems and essays chosen specially for use in schools; a new edition of Dr. John Brown's admirable volumes of "Spare Hours" in three volumes; a new Family Edition of Tennyson's "Princess," uniform with the Family Editions of Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes and Lowell; a new edition of Stanwood's "History of Presidential Elections in the United States," brought down to date; and a new edition of Norton's translation of the "New Life of Dante," uniform in style with the volumes recently published by Mr. Norton, containing the "Divine Comedy." The four volumes containing the "Divine Comedy" and the "New Life" will appear in a large-paper edition in a very attractive form. Among other books will be a volume by Prof. Lanciani, entitled "Pagan and Christian Rome," describing the various discoveries which have been made by recent archaeological investigations and excavations at Rome; which throw light on the transformation of Rome from a pagan to a Christian city. The work will be very fully illustrated, and will possess remarkable value and interest. The Rev. W. E. Griffis will add to the Riverside Library for Young People a book on "Japan in History, Folk-lore and Art." Rev. M. L. Gordon, who has for many years been connected with the missionary band in Japan, has prepared a work of great value in regard to the history and progress of missionary enterprise there. He will call the book "An American Missionary in Japan," and it cannot fail to find a large circle of interested readers. Rev. Myron Adams, author of "The Continuing Creation," published a few years ago, has written a new theological book, "The Creation of the Bible," in which he seeks to show the evolution of the Scriptures and the character of the various elements entering into them. Mr. Samuel Thurber, Master of the Girls' High School in Boston, will edit for the Riverside Literature Series an edition of "The Merchant of Venice," which he will prune but not abridge for school use. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will bring out an edition of "Two Satires of Juvenal," with notes by Francis Philip Nash, Professor in Hobart College; also a "Riverside Primer and Reader," which they believe will be an exceptionally good book to initiate children in reading with a view to their appreciation and understanding of the best literature. A book of "Latin Lessons" on a new plan, thought to be very judicious, is promised from Henry Preble and D. C. Hull; and also the second part of the new edition of Gesenius' "Hebrew and English Lexicon of the Old Testament," edited under the care of Professors Francis Brown and Charles A. Briggs, of Union Theological Seminary, and S. R. Driver, of Oxford.

THE HOVENDON COMPANY have just issued some very salable novels, among which the most successful are: "Actæon," by Miss Laura Daintrey, giving a startling picture of the morals of New York City; "The Man in Possession," by "Rita;" "For the Sake of the Family," by May Crommelin; "The O'Connors of Ballinahinch," by the inexhaustible and always pleasing "Duchess;" and "The Experience of a Lady Help," by John Strange Winter. Among their forthcoming fiction will be a new book by Laura Daintrey, to be entitled "Miss Varian of New York;" her former novels "Eros" and "Fedor," for which this house has now the exclusive right of publication; and "The Nobler Sex," by Florence Marryat, treating the question of the supremacy of sex in her brightest vein. A book that will receive marked attention, no doubt, will be "Esther Vanhomrigh," by Margaret L. Woods, the author of "A Village Tragedy." It is said to deal with the loves of "Stella" and "Vanessa" and Swift, and has been spoken of by the London Academy as a wonderfully strong story. A new story by "The Duchess" will be entitled "Nor Wife, Nor Maid;" and a story by "Ouida" will be called "The Tower of Taddeo." In the Metropolitan Series there will be popular editions of standard works bound in half calf and half levant. A new and uniform edition of the "Works of Thomas Hardy" is in preparation, of which the first issues will be "Desperate Remedies," and "Under the Greenwood Tree."

WILLIAM R. JENKINS will bring out several new books for the study of the French language, of which full titles will be found in the classified list in this issue under the heading Education, Language, etc.

C. H. KERR & Co., Chicago, announce "No Beginning, or, the fundamental fallacy," by William H. Maple, who argues against the theological conception of the creation of the universe; "First Steps in Philosophy, Physical and Ethical," by William Mackintire Salter, and a new story by Hudor Genone, author of "Inquiendo Island," entitled "The Last Tenet Imposed upon the Khan of Tomathoz," a fantastic burlesque, the scene of which is laid in Central Asia in the fifteenth century.

JOSEPH KNIGHT CO. have a long list of handsome holiday books, comprising many old friends in new attire. Thackeray's works and Bulwer's novels will be issued in their New Household Edition, the former complete in thirty handy volumes, illustrated with new engravings from the original drawings, bound in cloth, half calf and half morocco. The Bulwer, in thirty-two volumes, will be fully illustrated in half-tone from drawings by Dielman, Harper and other American artists. William Winter's "Old Shrines and Ivy" and "Shadows of the Stage" will be brought out in dainty holiday editions, illustrated with photogravures, bound in silk, morocco and white calf; and "John Hallfax, Gentleman," embellished with forty new half-tone illustrations and a color frontispiece from an original drawing by Miss Laura C. Hills, will be placed with Mrs. Gaskell's "Cranford" in the series My Lady's Classics. Among the smaller holiday gift-books mention must be made of the pocket edition of Mrs. Browning's poems, consisting of those selected by Robert Browning, which will be illustrated with delicate photogravures and bound in two styles—white and gold and full morocco. Thackeray's "Ballads," "Four Georges" and "English Humorists" will be brought out in The Pocket Series, with etched frontispieces and numerous illustrations, bound in cloth and half calf; "Dreamthorp," a book of essays by Alexander Smith, and "At The Fireside," a volume of verses by John D. Long are also announced, and there will be a new edition of Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales From Shakespeare," illustrated with twenty etchings by H. Pillé, while "Ouida's" charming child's story, "The Nürnberg Stove," will be issued in attractive form, illustrated with fifty original drawings and a color frontispiece. James Parton's "Words of Washington," appropriately illustrated in photogravure, is announced as the initial volume in the Table Talk Series. The 1893 calendars in color, delicacy of design, and general workmanship, maintain the high reputation of this firm in its special field of art and illustrated gift-books.

LAIRD & LEE are displaying extraordinary industry in publishing. Among their successful novels just issued are: "A Young Man of the Period," by André Theuriet; "Cortland Laster, Capitalist," by Harley Deene; "A Story without a Moral," by Hector Malot; "Aurette's Husband," by Henry Greville, and "Women Must Weep," by Edgar Fawcett. These publishers are the owners of the copyright of William H. Thomes' stories of adventure by land and sea, and they propose to bring them out in their Library of Choice Fiction in specially designed paper bindings. There will be ten under the titles "A Whaler's Adventures on Sea and Land," "The Gold-Hunters in Australia," "The Belle, of Australia," "Running the Blockade," "The Gold-Hunters in Europe," "Lewey and I," "Life in the East Indies," "The Bushrangers," "A Yankee in Australia," and "Slaver's Adventures on Land and Sea." There will also be a cloth silk-bound edition sold only in sets. "The Gem Songster" will be a collection of patriotic and comic songs by P. M. Wolsieffer, with music complete for guitar, mandolin or banjo; and there will be a fresh bit of humor brought out under the title "How Men Make Love and Get Married," said to be the work of a scholar who has given his trained mind to these solutions of many problems.

LEA BROTHERS & Co. have nearly ready a fourth edition of Henry C. Lea's excellent work, "Superstition and Force," which has been laboriously revised by the author. Mr. Lea's "Formula of the Papal Penitentiary," which has been unavoidably delayed, will appear soon afterward. In the background of preparation is a "History of Auricular Confession and Indulgences."

LEE & SHEPARD'S announcement of forthcoming publications covers a varied field and is especially attractive in the department of artistic gift-books. Of these special mention must be made of "Sun Prints and Sky Tints," a volume containing over thirty of Irene E. Jerome's exquisite drawings illustrating selections from the poets, handsomely printed and bound in a cover designed by Miss Jerome; and of "The Fallow Field," Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr's poem, which has been finely illustrated in charcoal by her daughter, Mrs. Zulma De Lacy Steele, whose sketches have been carefully reproduced by the half-tone process, the result promising to be a handsome and artistic gift-book which will contain nearly thirty full-page sketches and vignettes. Two other attractive volumes will be "The New England Country," containing over one hundred illustrations, by Clifton Johnson, of views and scenes of New England village and country life, with letter-press; and "My Little Friends," by E. Heinrich, a selection of children's portraits from life, with appropriate text, collected from various portions of our country, a portrait of Baby McKee to make the frontispiece; of this there will also be issued a large paper édition de luxe, limited to two hundred copies. A full line of illustrated hymns and poems with dainty cover-designs by Maud Humphrey, printed in delicate colors on imitation ivory, will be issued under the titles of "The Maud Humphrey Ivories," and a series of eight hymns, handsomely printed and bound in imitation leather, will be brought out as The Royal Favorite Series. In general literature books of importance will be the "Life of Christian Daniel Rauch of Berlin," the famous German sculptor, by Ednah D. Cheney; "Essays of Education and Culture," by W. H. Venable; "Socialism from Genesis to Revelation," by Rev. F. M. Sprague; and "Quabbin," sketches in a small town, dealing particularly with phases of "Puritan Life," by Francis H. Underwood. Other announcements are: "The Revival Quiver," an interesting record of four revival campaigns by Rev. Louis Albert Banks; "In Health," by Dr. J. A. Ingersoll; and "By the Atlantic," a volume of verse, by I. D. Van Duzee; "A Woman's Philosophy of Love," a novel, by Caroline F. Corbin; a new novel by Amanda Douglas; and two educational books: "A Pathfinder in American History," by Wilbur F. Gordy, and "The Land We Live In," in King's Picturesque Geographical Readers. The list of juveniles includes a number of books by writers dear to the rising generation. They are: "Baron Trump's Marvellous Underground Journey," by Ingersoll Lockwood, whose series of Wonder Books will be issued in a new cheaper edition; "Fighting for the Right," by Oliver Optic, in The Blue and the Gray Series; "A Young Knight-Errent," by Oliver Optic, in the All-Over-the-World Series; "The Adventures of Toby Trofford," by J. T. Trowbridge; and a new story for girls by Effie W. Merriman. The attractive calendar "All Around the Year" will be issued as usual, with new original designs for 1893, by J. Pauline Sunter. Other juveniles and their new calendars will be found under their proper headings in the classified list in this issue.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. have a long list of most interesting announcements. Among books intended specially to tempt buyers of holiday publications will be "Tales from Ten Poets," another careful and ingenious literary labor by Harrison S. Morris, whose "Yule Log Glow" of last season met with instant and flattering recognition. The most famous narrative poems of ten great Victorian poets done into prose will fill three dainty sixteenmo volumes, bringing together in a brief and pleasing form the most celebrated narrative works of some of the sweetest singers of the present generation. The exterior of these little books will be fitting for their contents as far as good taste and liberal means can make it so. Charles Morris, whose discriminating literary judgment has been shown in several volumes of gleanings from the world's literature, has now turned his attention to the stage, and his four new volumes will be entitled "Tales from the Dramatists." They will be filled with a series of entertaining stories taken from the leading plays of the best known English dramatic authors from Ben Jonson to the present day. The work will follow the general plan of Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare" and the plots of the plays so dear to old theatre-goers will be turned into fiction for home reading. An art-book for which J. E. Murdock will furnish the text and Stanley L. Wood the illustrations will be "Maid Marian and Robin Hood," a charming romance of old Sherwood Forest based on the adventures of bold Robin Hood. Other art-works promised are "The Dragon of Wantley," a romance dealing with the old days of chivalry in England, in which knights, monks, crusades and dragons furnish ample material for the text of Owen Wister and the pencil of John Stewardson; "Atalina, the Queen of the Floating Isle," by M. B. M. Toland, who has for several years furnished this house a leading Christmas book, and whose text this year will be illustrated by Bloomer, Weir, Church, Dielman, Jones and others; also "Gleams and Echoes," by A. R. G., author of "Night Etchings," illustrated from drawings by Turner, Jones, Schell, Dielman and others. The department of history will be enriched by a superb library edition of the "Works of William H. Prescott," limited to 250 copies, complete in twelve volumes, containing all the steel-plates on India paper and maps that have appeared in former editions, and about fifteen phototype illustrations to each volume, copied from photographs of cities, public edifices and reproductions of paintings representing remarkable events narrated. The new edition announced of Strickland's "Queens of England," printed from new plates will be specially welcomed. These once popular histories have lost nothing of their old charm and their intrinsic value is vouched for by so great an authority as Prescott, who said of them: "Miss Strickland's interesting volumes are particularly valuable to the historian for the copious extracts which they contain from curious unpublished documents, which have escaped the notice of writers too exclusively occupied to give much heed to details of a domestic and personal nature." A collection of the bric-à-brac of literature, literary forgeries, hoaxes, jests, enigmas, conundrums, paradoxes, anecdotes, proverbs, etc., to be entitled "Handbook of Literary Curiosities," will be prepared by William S. Walsh, author of "Literary Life," and will form a complete encyclopædia of all that is most amusing and entertaining, and an indispensable reference-book of curious, quaint and out-of-the-way information that has never before been brought together in book form. Other works of literary value are the last volume, completing their new edition, of "Chambers' Encyclopædia" and the Bijou Edition in twelve volumes of "Byron's Works." The ever-popular "Wide, Wide World" will be issued in a cheaper edition with all the new pen-and-ink sketches of Dielman. Charles C. Abbott will have a new out-door book entitled "In Touch with Nature," accurate enough for the scientist and full of charm for the general reader. This house also has in preparation a long list of juveniles, of which the titles will be found in the classified list in this issue, under the heading Juvenile Literature.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.'s list of new books to be issued for the fall and winter trade is a most attractive one, including many choice holiday editions of standard works. One of their handsomest publications will be a new edition of "The Oregon Trail," Francis Parkman's sketches of prairie and Rocky Mountain life, describing his journey among the Indian camps of the Great West in 1847. The book has always been a popular one, and in its new dress will be more attractive than ever, being enriched with seventy striking pictures of Indian life, by Frederic Remington, and supplied with a new introductory chapter by Mr. Parkman, in which he points out the wonderful changes which have taken place in the scenes of the narrative during the forty-five years since it was written. The new issues in the handsome illustrated edition of Lever's military novels will be "Arthur O'Leary," "Jack Hinton" and "Tom Burke of 'Ours';" there will also be a fine Library Edition of Bulwer's Works, issued in forty volumes, with etched frontispieces by E. H. Garrett; and a new two-volume edition of Charles Lamb's essays, reprinted from the rare original edition of 1833 and 1843, prefaced with an introduction by George Woodberry. A handsome gift-book will be "The World's Best Hymns," a well-selected collection of sacred poems and hymns, beautifully illustrated with forty full-page pictures by Lou's K. Harlow, with black-letter headings, rubricated initials, etc., and bound both in cloth and in hand-painted china silk. Other books of importance will be "The Influence of Sea Power Upon the French Revolution," a second part of Captain Mahan's valuable historical work, "The Influence of Sea Power Upon History; two volumes of "Essays and Criticisms," by St. George Mivart; "Mountaineering," by Douglas Freshfield and others, a new volume in the Badminton Library of Sports and Pastimes; "Road, Track and Stable," a volume on horses and their treatment, by H. C. Merwin, and new cheaper editions of Dumas' "Count of Monte Cristo," in four volumes, with frontispieces by Garrett, and of Hugo's "Misérables" in five volumes. The only new juvenile announced is "A Rosebud Garden of Girls," a collection of Nora Perry's pleasant stories for young girls.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have nearly ready the third volume of Watts' "Dictionary of Chemistry," revised and entirely rewritten by H. Forster Morley and M. M. Pattison Muir, assisted by eminent contributors. This well-known English "Dictionary of Chemistry" was published in parts just a quarter of a century ago. It has had five volumes of supplement in England, but the tide of discovery has flowed so rapidly in the science which it covers that a new edition and not merely a new supplement became necessary. The lamented death of Mr. Watts compelled the publishers to seek new editors, and they have been singularly fortunate in their choice, and the editors have been equally fortunate in the colleagues they have been able to enlist. In biography three new works are promised: "Nicholas Ferrar," with a preface by the Rev. J. J. Carter, Canon of Christ Church, Oxford; the second volume of "Twenty-five Years of St. Andrews," 1865-1890, in which "The Country Parson," A. K. H. Boyd, relates his own experiences; and "A selection from the Letters of Geraldine Jewsbury to Jane Welsh Carlyle," edited by Mrs. Alexander Ireland, who is the author of "The Life of Jane Welsh Carlyle," and who also has written as preface for this book a monograph on Miss Jewsbury. In fiction there will be a second series of "Voces Populi," by F. Anstey, reprinted from Punch, with illustrations by J. Bernard Partridge; "The New Adam and Eve," a story by C. J. Hyne, with frontispiece and vignette; a new illustrated edition of Edna Lyall's "The Autobiography of a Slander," which will have twenty illustrations by Lancelot Speed; also, "After Twenty Years," a collection of reprinted pieces by Julian Sturgis, and J. Stanley Weyman's "The House of the Wolf," additions to the Silver Library. An interesting work of historical and scientific interest will be "The Ruined Cities of Mashonaland," a record of the excavations and explorations, 1891-92, by J. Theodore Bent, which will have many illustrations; and "Fifty Years in the Making of Australian History," by Sir Henry Parkes, late Premier of New South Wales. There will be a new edition of "The Blue Poetry Book," edited by Andrew Lang, to which he has added some notes, mainly on points of antiquarianism, connected with the traditional songs and ballads; the design of the cover is taken from an Italian binding of the fifteenth century. "The Green Fairy Book" will be Andrew Lang's new contribution, to take its place beside the "Red" and the "Blue Fairy Book." A new volume of poems by Owen Meredith will be entitled "King Poppy." Richard Jefferies' "Wiltshire Laborers, and Other Papers" will be brought out with portrait taken from the bust in Salisbury Cathedral; and there is in preparation a new and revised edition of "Indian Polity," a view of the system of administration in India, by Lieut.-Gen. Sir George Chesney. There are forthcoming two valuable additions to the literature of sport—"Deer Stalking in the Highlands of Scotland," by the late Lieut.-Gen. H. H. Crealock, has been edited by his brother, Major-Gen. John North Crealock, and will furnish a record of twenty-two years' stalking among the red deer of the Scotch Highlands. The volume will have forty full-page plates reproduced in autotype and over two hundred illustrations in the text. Only 250 copies of this valuable work will be printed, and 25 will be reserved for the American market. A second series of "Letters to Young Shooters," by Sir Ralph Payne Gallwey, will be ready shortly. In religious literature the announcements are specially rich. To the Silver Library will be added Cardinal Newman's "Lectures on Doctrine," "Sermons on Various Occasions," and "Fifteen Sermons Preached Before the University of Oxford." Other religious works will be "Essays and Lectures," a volume by the late Canon Liddon; "Buddhism—Primitive and Present in Magadha and in Ceylon," by Reginald Stephen Copleston, Bishop of Colombo, who is President of the Ceylon Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society; and "St. Peter and the First Years of Christianity," by the Abbé Fouard, translated from the French by G. F. X. Griffith, who was also the translator of the former instalments of the series of works on the "Early Years of Christianity," which the Abbé is writing, entitled "The Christ the Son of God," and "A Life of Jesus." This house always has educational works in preparation, and the titles of those forthcoming will be found in the classified list in this issue under the heading Education, Language, etc.

D. LOTHROP Co. lead off their fall announcement of new books with an illustrated account of life at the front during the civil war, as seen from the private's standpoint. It will have the taking title, "Down in Dixie," and it is written by Stanton P. Allen, a cavalryman of the fast-receding war days. It will give the details of life at the front from Bull Run to Appomattox and will bubble over with fun, while at the same time breathing a due mingling of pathos and patriotism. Another important illustrated book will be "Masterpieces of Prose," a carefully made selection of brief extracts from the best English prose writers from Bunyan to Thackeray, and from Sir Thomas More to Ralph Waldo Emerson and William Dean Howells. Some of the brightest and daintiest gems of Shakespeare's poetry will find place in a unique and attractively illustrated compilation entitled "Shakespeare's Twilights." A fascinating book for every lover of animals will be "Famous Pets of Famous People," by Eleanor Lewis. In books for young people the new Lothrop list will be, as usual, full of interest and variety. It will include a charming story of New York in the war days, "Jack Brereton's Three Months' Service," by Maria McIntosh Cox, the story of a noble boy and how he did home-guard duty while his father was at the front; "The Lance of Kanana," a brilliant story of Oriental courage and adventure, by a modern traveller, who writes under the Arabian name of Abd el Ardavan; "Marjorie's Canadian Winter," a story of a winter with Canadian cousins and their cold-weather sports, by Agnes Maule Machar; and "A Gentle Benefactress," by Mrs. J. J. Colter, the story of a good and gifted girl who finds her duty in quiet helpfulness and does it well. Other juveniles just issued or about ready are: a new volume in the ever-popular Pine Cone Series entitled "Gulf and Glacier, or, the jolly times of the Percival young folks in Alaska," by Willis Boyd Allen; a new book by one of the most popular of story-tellers for young folks, Edward A. Rand—quaint, homely and enlivening—"The Down East Master's First School;" a taking story of a young girl with ancestors, "Miss Matilda Archambeau Van Dorn," by that charming writer, Elizabeth Cumings; a quaint and original account of a real Italian girl's home life in Italy, "Italian Child Life," by Marietta Ambrose; Caroline Hunt Rimmer's exquisite drawings and accompanying instructions, "Figure Drawing for Children;" three uniform and delightful volumes of adventure, stirringly told and profusely illustrated, viz.: "Through Arctics and Tropics," by Harry W. French, "Bo-Peep's World," and "All the World Over," by a number of the best descriptive writers among modern Americans; a book especially designed for the little folks by Lucy Hamilton Warner, and made on a new and novel plan under the title, "Five Little Finger Stories;" and the brilliant "Annals" in attractive form—the bound volumes of Wide Awake, Our Little Men and Women, Pansy and Babyland. The list would not be complete did it fail to mention the new and beautiful "popular edition" of two splendid books, "A Lost Winter," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, illustrated by Mary Cecilia Spaulding, and "The Holy Grail" of Alfred Tennyson, illustrated by W. L. Taylor, which are issued in new and elegant octavo editions. The Lothrop list also includes many new and attractive low-priced quartos for the holiday trade, with brilliant board covers and many illustrations, of which the titles appear in the classified list in this issue under the heading Juvenile Literature.

A. LOVELL & CO. announce a Parallel Edition of the classics, edited by a Latin professor, of which the first volume, "Select Orations of Cicero," will be brought out in October. They have also in preparation "Wisps of Wit and Wisdom," a convenient little dictionary of facts, dates and useful information, compiled by Albert P. Southwick; "Political Economy for American Youth," an introductory manual by Prof. J. Harris Patton; an account of a journey "From Australia to Japan," by an author whose identity is concealed under the initials A. M.; and "The Lust of Gold," a romance by Aaron Watson.

LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY will issue in rapid succession a long line of novels, among which the more important will be: "Woman Through a Man's Eyeglass," by Malcom C. Salaman; "The Other House," in which the plot rests on hypnotism, by Kate Gordon; "Army Tales," a collection of the stories of John Strange Winter, containing "Bootles' Baby," "A Siege Baby," "In Quarters with the 25th Dragoons," "Cavalry Life," and "Regimental Legends;" "The White Feather," by

"Tasma," whose stories of Australian life are always full of information and interest; "The Story of an Heiress," by Mabel Collins; "Sea Mew Abbey," by Florence Warden; and "The Romance of Two Worlds" and "Ardath," both by Marie Corelli. The books of J. M. Barrie will be published separately, and there will also be an edition in six volumes, to be sold in sets gotten up in bevelled cloth with gilt top and also in half calf and half levant. This set will include "Auld Licht Idylls," "Better Dead" and "My Lady Nicotine," in one volume; "An Edinburgh Eleven," "The Little Minister," "A Window in Thrums" and "When a Man's Single." Mr. Barrie is dowered with a photographic power of producing what he sees, a humor which plays gently around whatever topic it touches, and a style distinctive in the possession of certain qualities as irresistible as they are delightful. Marie Corelli's novels, which have been among the most successful issues of the firm, will also be gotten up in a set of six volumes in cloth covers with Italian arabesque design and also in half calf. The separate volumes will be "The Soul of Lillith," "Wormwood," "Vendetta" and "My Wonderful Wife" in one volume; "Thelma," "A Romance of Two Worlds" and "Ardath." This author exhibits rare skill in working into good plots speculations upon the higher life of the soul, mysticism, Buddhism, etc. A new edition of the works of Alexander Dumas is also under way. "Monte Christo" will be the first issue, in two volumes, printed from new plates in large type on fine paper, and handsomely bound, each volume containing a characteristic frontispiece. The additions to the Standard 12mo Series will be "The Golden Butterfly" and "Ready-Money Mortiboy," by Besant and Rice; "Emerson's Essays;" "Pendennis;" "Handy Andy," Taine's "History of English Literature," Irving's "Life of Christopher Columbus," Stevenson's "New Arabian Nights" and "The Dynamiter," and Longfellow's "Outremer," "Hyperion" and "Selected Poems" in one volume. The additions to the Universal Series are Farrar's "Life of Christ," Darwin's "Origin of Species," Proctor's "Other Worlds Than Ours," Trollope's "The Prime Minister," Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" and "Sense and Sensibility," Amelia B. Edwards' "Thousand Miles Up the Rhine," Auerbach's "Villa on the Rhine," and Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare." The Century Series, owing its name to its purpose of including one hundred 12mo volumes of classic works, will be printed in large type on good paper. These issues will embrace fiction, essays, poetry, history, science, art and philosophy, selected from the best literature of the world. Many volumes of the series will also be put into half calf bindings and made into desirable gift-books.

LOVELL, GESTEFELD & COMPANY make a specialty of books dealing with metaphysical, occult, religious and supernatural speculation, and have issued and have in preparation several volumes dealing with Buddhism, second sight, the future life, etc., which have true literary value as well as absorbing interest to believer, doubter and student. Among their most recent issues are "The New Rector," by Stanley Weyman; "Morial, the Mahatma," by Mabel Collins, dealing with theosophy in New York and Thibet; and "Margery of Quether," by S. Baring-Gould. Among the important announcements are "The Woman Who Dares," by Ursula N. Gestefeld; "Suggestions," by Mabel Collins, author of "Morial, the Mahatma;" "The Princes of Peele," by William Westall; "The Island of Fantasy," by Fergus Hume; "Woman in the Past, Present and Future," by August Bebel; "Amorée," by Elizabeth Boynton Herbert; "The Right Knock" and "It Is Possible," both by Helen Van Anderson; "How to Heal," by George Burnell; and "A Modern Catechism," by Ursula N. Gestefeld. "From the Garden of Hellas," by Lilla Cabot Perry, selections of Greek anagrams; "Papa's Own Girl," by Marie Howland; "Angels' Visits to My Farm in Florida;" and "Lux Mundi," edited by Charles Gore, which created such widespread interest on both sides of the water, will also soon be published by this firm. Presentation editions of standard works in crown 8vo size will also be ready for the holiday season.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will add to their excellent Laurel-Crowned Letters Series "The Best Letters of Percy Bysshe Shelley," edited with an introduction by Shirley C. Hughson, a volume of special interest in this centennial year of Shelley's birth; also, "The Best Letters of William Cowper," edited by Anna Benneson McMahan. New volumes in their attractive series of Laurel-Crowned Verse will be "Paradise Lost" and Pope's translation of Homer's "Iliad," to be issued in two volumes. Half a dozen volumes of verse are announced, among which the place of honor may be given to "Echoes from the Sabine Farm," a collection of Horatian lyrics, translated by Eugene and Roswell M. Field into English verse and illustrated by Garrett. The others are Joel Barlow's "Columbiad," edited with an introduction by Charles Burr Todd; a new edition of the "Rhymes of Ironquill," that faithful interpreter of Western life and sentiment; "Valeria and Other Poems," a collection of the dramatic verse of Miss Harriet Monroe, which includes her "Opening Ode for the World's Columbian Exposition;" "Songs and Sonnets, and Other Poems," by Maurice Francis Egan; "Eleusis, and Lesser Poems," by William Rufus Perkins; and "Poetry of the Gathered Years," a compilation of poems upon mature life and old age. Of descriptive interest will be "Our Cycling Tour in England," in which Reuben G. Thwaites tells of a summer's cycling through Southern England; "To England and Back," the record of a winter vacation, by Canon Knowles; and "The Admiral's Last Voyages," a graphic account of the later voyages of Columbus, by Charles Paul MacKie. Professor B. C. Burt has written an exhaustive "History of Modern Philosophy" from the Renaissance to the present time, which is now in press; "A Short History of English Literature for Young People" has been prepared by Elizabeth S. Kirkland as a companion to her "Short History of England;" "France in the Nineteenth Century," by Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer, will be a brilliant narrative of the events of French history from the fall of Napoleon Bonaparte to the fall of Boulanger; and "Sound and Music," a comprehensive treatise by Prof. John A. Zahn, will make a handsome illustrated volume. There will also be a new cheap edition of Walton's "Angler," with introduction and notes by Edward Gilpin Johnson, convenient to handle and attractively bound. A new and thoroughly revised edition of Abby Sage Richardson's "Familiar Talks on English Literature" will be welcomed by a large circle of readers, while Prof. Henry Matson's "References for Literary Workers," and W. T. C. Hyde's "How Do You Spell It?" will be found a compact vade-mecum for students of literature and literary workers in general. In the department of fiction "Marianela," by Perez Galdos, and Mrs. Gaskell's "Cousin Phillis" will be added to the Tales From Foreign Lands Series; "Counterparts" and "Rumour," Elizabeth Sheppard's "Musical Novels," will be issued in companion form with the handsome edition of "Charles Auchester," brought out last fall by this firm, and will complete the series of Miss Sheppard's novels; Jane Porter's "Thaddeus of Warsaw" will be issued as a companion volume to "Scottish Chiefs," which was one of the most successful books published by this house in 1891; "Christmas Stories from French and Spanish Writers," by Antoinette Ogden, promises interest and amusement; and a new novel entitled "Other Things Being Equal," by Emma Wolf, will consider the relations of Jews and Christians. Two new juveniles are announced: "The Children's Life of Abraham Lincoln," by M. Louise Putnam, and "Prince Tiptoff," a charming extravaganza by Marguerite Bouvet, author of "Sweet William" and "Little Marjorie's Love-Story."

MACMILLAN & Co. announce very limited editions of several books of rare literary and artistic value. "Man in Art," by Philip G. Hamerton, will be limited to fifty copies. It will be illustrated by etchings and photogravures from pictures by Watts, Luke Fildes, Gonzalo Coques, Philippe de Champagne, Maes Schalken, Morillo, Ghirlandajo, Ary Scheffer, Moreau, Botticelli, Pisano, Giovanni Bellini, Borgognone, Sir John Gilbert, Alma-Tadema, Sir F. Leighton, Walenn, Woolner, M. de Roton, Machlin, Bude, Luca della Robbia, Tassaert, Bellanger, Fra Angelico, Dicksee, G. Leslie, Albert Durer, Lucas of Leyden, and Rembrandt. The text will be printed on hand-made paper and the illustrations on Japanese vellum. Fifty copies will also be ready for America of "Days with Sir Roger de Coverley," with illustrations by Hugh Thomson, which will also be printed on hand-made paper and bound in buckram, uniform with the editions of "Cranford" and "The Vicar of Wakefield," issued by the house. Mrs. Oliphant's "Makers of Venice" will be gotten up uniform with the "Makers of Florence," which was brought out last year in an édition de luxe. The illustrations are by R. R. Molmes and others. The binding will be half buckram. There will also be a new edition of "The Library," by Andrew Lang, with a chapter on modern English illustrated books by Austin Dobson. The new works of fiction announced are: F. Marion Crawford's "Don Orsino," now running in The Atlantic, and "Children of the King"; "Under Pressure," by Marchesa Theodoli; "Helen Treveryan, or, the ruling race," by John Roy; and "The Girls and I," by Mrs. Molesworth, illustrated by L. Leslie Brooke. A new volume in the Golden Treasury Series will be "Lyric Love," an anthology edited by William Watson, with a steel vignette after Stothard. A complete edition of the "Works of Coleridge" is in preparation, edited with introduction by J. Dykes Campbell, which will be issued in uniform shape with their Tennyson, Wordsworth etc. Among other important books are: "A History of "Early English Literature," by Stopford A. Brooke, and "Life in Ancient Egypt," by Prof. Erman, translated from the German by Mrs. Tirard, which will be published with very numerous illustrations. This house makes announcement of an edition of the "Waverley Novels," to be known as the Drybright Edition, of which the first volume will be ready in November. The text has been most carefully collated with the interleaved copy on which Scott made his last corrections; and the illustrations are made a noticeable feature, each volume being entrusted to one artist. Among the well-known wielders of the pen engaged are: Charles Green, Gordon Browne, Hugh Thomson, Walter Paget, Frank Dadd, W. H. Overend and Stanley Berkeley, besides members of the Royal Scottish Academy. Each volume will contain all the author's introductions and notes, with the additional notes contributed by the late David Laing, LL. D., as well as a carefully prepared glossary and index. In addition to the ordinary issue there will be a large-paper edition specially printed on hand-made paper.

MARCH BROS., Lebanon, O., announce a line of text-books and teachers' aids, titles of which are given in the classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

THE MELBOURNE PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, are bringing out a twenty-five-cent illustrated paper-bound edition of Charles Reade's novels, in which they have now ready "The Cloister and the Hearth," "Foul Play," "Very Hard Cash," and "Put Yourself in His Place;" "For the Term of His Natural Life," Marcus Clarke's thrilling story of circumstantial evidence, is also issued in similar style. Their new fifty-cent paper-bound novels are: "The Lady's Maid," by Adolphe Belot, now translated for the first time; "Dead in the Eyes of the Law," "The Chronicles of a Camera," by Paul Ingelow and "A World's Fair Mystery," by Weldon C. Cobb.

MORRILL, HIGGINS & CO., Chicago, will issue a series of books for the holidays to be known as The Golden-Rod Series. They will be twelvemors printed on extra quality of linen paper and neatly bound. There will be a series of books suitable for tokens of remembrance, edited by Alice L. Williams, who has chosen with nice discrimination from the entire field of literature and gathered priceless little gems, seldom housed under one cover. The separate titles of her books will be: "Many Thoughts for Many Hours," "Comforting Thoughts," and "Love and Friendship," all illustrated by Irene Jerome. Mrs. Williams has also compiled "A Handful of Letters," a very interesting little volume, containing letters by James T. Fields, Henry Ward Beecher, Florence Nightingale, Sidney Lanier, Daniel Webster and other great people, addressed to Leigh Hunt, Paul H. Hayne, Miss Jane S. Martineau and others. In this line will also be issued: "From Heart's Content," by Clara Doty Bates; "What Makes a Friend," and the sixth edition of "In Friendship's Name," the latter two being compilations by Volney Streamer. The firm always prepare a long line of fiction. The new novels for the Idylwild Series will be "The Prima Donna of the Slums," a story of intrigue in the days of the 3d Napoleon; "Stronger than Death," by Emile Richebourg; "An Unwedded Wife," a romance of American life by Genevieve Kirke; and stories from the French by Zola, Maupassant, Jules Claretie and others, full titles of which are given under the heading Fiction in the classified list in this issue. Miss Mitford's "Our Village" will be brought out in an illustrated edition. A charming juvenile by Ella Wheeler Wilcox will be called "The Beautiful Land of Nod," stories, poems, allegories and fables, etc., illustrated with half-tone and line engravings by Louise M. Mears, which will be printed on extra paper and appropriately bound.

JOHN MURPHY & CO. have in preparation "Memoirs of the Professional and Social Life of John E. Owens," by the wife of the famous actor, written in a colloquial manner which impresses the reader with a sense of close contact with the people and places described; "A Guide to the City of Baltimore," by I. H. Hollander; and "A Marriage of Reason," a new novel by Maurice Francis Egan, will attempt to satisfy the demand for a story written from the Catholic point of view, dealing with people belonging to the charmed circle called "society." In works of religious value the house is preparing the new prayer-book ordered by the Plenary Council of Baltimore, under the title of "Manual of Prayers," a little volume intended chiefly for the laity; and "Enchiridion ad Sacramum Discipularum Cultores," containing the names of the Popes, a list of general councils, the principal editions of the Bible text, the names of the Fathers of the Church, a catalogue of heresies and schisms, a historical outline of canon law, and the United States hierarchy—a most useful work for young students and priests.

THE NATIONAL BOOK COMPANY have just issued "In the Roar of the Sea," by S. Baring-Gould, a tale of the Cornish coast; "Appledore Farm," by Katherine S. Macquoid; and "Ralph Ryder of Brent," by Florence Warden. They announce for early publication "Berris," by Katherine S. Macquoid, giving a quiet picture of pastoral life in beautiful England; "Wedded to Sport," by Mrs. Edward Kennard, "whose 'Girl in the Brown Habit' showed her to be thoroughly 'up' in all the details of the English hunting field; 'Catmur's Cove,' by Richard Dowling; and 'An Excellent Knave,' by J. Fitzgerald Molloy, author of 'A Modern Magician.' The house make a specialty of 12mo series of books that are known as the Crimson and White Series; Library Series of Twelvemors, consisting of ninety volumes of standard works; the Railway Series, containing successful novels by standard authors; and the Household Library, which already numbers 500 volumes of popular fiction. They also manufacture Library Editions in 8vo of almost all the standards of literature.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY AND PUBLICATION HOUSE announce "The Temperance Platform," selected orations on total abstinence and prohibition, compiled by Miss L. Pinney; "Temperance Shot and Shell," compiled by J. N. Stearns; the "National Temperance Almanac" for 1893, edited by J. N. Stearns; and "A Modern Prodigal," a story for young people, by Mrs. Julia McNair Wright.

F. T. NEELY, Chicago, will now be the publisher of the following copyrighted books; "The Adopted Daughter," a powerful novel by Edgar Fawcett; "Was It Suicide?" and "Sweet Danger," by Ella Wheeler Wilcox; "Remarks by Bill Nye" and "Sparks from the Pen of Bill Nye;" "Poems and Yarns by James Whitcomb Riley and Bill Nye;" "Martha Washington Cook-Book;" "People's Reference-Book, 999,999 Facts," and "Dr. Carlin's Last Receipt-Book and Family Physician." The translations from the French will be "L'Evangelliste," by Alphonse Daudet and "Bitter Fruits," by Madam Caro.

THOMAS NELSON'S SONS announce "The Oxford Miniature Shakespeare," an exquisite presentation edition printed on "Oxford India paper," about the daintiest specimen of book-making that can be imagined. The set will be in six volumes,  $4\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{2}$ , and only  $\frac{1}{8}$  inches in thickness, and will be bound in extra cloth, Venetian morocco, polished Palestine levant, German morocco or English russla, and put up in cases that in themselves are little works of art. By the use of the "Oxford" paper the dimensions have been reduced very much below those of any book containing the same amount of letter-press matter. The little books are printed from entirely new plates. There will also be "Shakespeare's Complete Works" in one volume  $7\frac{1}{2} \times 10\frac{1}{2}$  inches, edited with a glossary by W. J. Craig and printed on "Oxford India paper;" and on this paper will also be issued editions of the "Imitation of Christ," Taylor's "Holy Living," and Keble's "Christian Year," which will certainly prove the very choicest editions as yet produced. This house has during the year put some very fine work and an immense amount of money into a series of charts and atlases that are acknowledged by experts to hold their own among the very best work of this kind throughout the world. They have been planned and edited by J. G. Bartholomew, Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. "The Graphic Atlas and Gazetteer of the World" has over 220 maps, charts, plans of cities, etc., all revised to the present date, also a gazetteer with nearly 55,000 places and the results of the new census. The countries of the world are treated with fulness in proportion to their commercial importance and interest. A separate map is given of each of the States and Territories of the United States. These maps have been compiled from the latest and best government survey maps. "The Globe Hand Atlas," a series of fifty-four maps illustrating physical, political, commercial and classical geography, contains sixty sectional maps of important cities and districts and a general index giving the situation, latitude and longitude of over 5000 places throughout the world. The atlas has been carefully prepared and contains all recent discoveries and changes. "The Popular Hand Atlas of the World" has a descriptive index covering 35,000 places; it contains sixty beautifully colored maps with all recent discoveries and political changes in the continent of Africa and other parts of the world. "The English Imperial Atlas of the World" contains 108 pages of maps, 85 especially devoted to the British Empire and the others to physical and statistical geography and political changes. "The World at Home Atlas," containing 73 full-page maps and descriptive index of 35,000 places, of which thirteen maps are devoted to the United States; and "Miniature Atlas and Gazetteer of the World," 128 maps, charts and plans of cities revised to present date, also 10,000 places and population statistics of the principal towns of the United States, according to census of 1890. The house makes a specialty of very pretty juveniles at most moderate price. For the youngest children they announce "Favorite Rhymes and Riddles" and "Favorite Tales and Stories," each two volumes in one with many illustrations. A "Standard Sunday-School Library" of 40 volumes, a capital selection of books by new and old writers will be gotten up in a wooden case and sold in sets. Three interesting stories by Evelyn Everett-Green will be "In the Wars of the Roses," "The Lord of Dynevor" and "The Church and the King." "A. L. O. E.," who is very ill in India, has finished a story to be entitled "The Iron Chain and the Golden;" "The Merchant's Children" will be by Eleanor Stredder; "The Victoria Cross," by Morice Gerard; "The Children's Voyage to the Cape," by Sarah L. Findlater, and "Little Lives and Threads of Gold to Guide Them," will be by Lady Alicia Blackwood. The intrinsic value of the "Oxford" Bibles and "Prayer-Books and Hymnals" has been recommended by the most scholarly and prominent divines in the English and American Church. The styles in which these books are issued are legion. This year the house calls special attention to another wholly new "Oxford Miniature Bible," the smallest Bible ever printed, which in its Persian morocco bindings measures  $3\frac{1}{2} \times 2\frac{1}{2}$  inches and is only  $\frac{1}{8}$  of an inch in thickness. It is in diamond type, but perfectly clear and legible, owing to the exquisite texture of the paper and the great skill used in printing. There are also ruby and minion editions of the "Oxford" Revised Bibles and some very beautiful designs for prayer and hymnal covers.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO., have in preparation, "Darwinism Illustrated," a book of wood-engravings explanatory of the theory of evolution, selected by and drawn under the direction of Prof. George J. Romanes; and "The Only Good Thing in All the Worlds," by J. B. Turner, including a pamphlet entitled "Universal Law and Its Opposites," a work intended as a protest against the needless confounding of man-made theologies and the divine truths of a practical religion.

PORTER & COATES have just ready handsome holiday editions of Longfellow's "Hyperion," illustrated with thirty photogravures, printed on specially made paper, and handsomely bound; and of Charles and Mary Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," edited with an introduction by Alfred Ainger, M.A., printed from new plates and illustrated with twenty full-page photogravures made directly from the steel-engravings in the Boydell and other editions of Shakespeare. They announce three new juveniles for boys: "Marcy the Refugee," by Harry Castlemon; "Digging for Gold," by Horatio Alger, Jr.; and "On the Trail of the Moose," by Edward S. Ellis.

JAMES POTT & Co.'s list of fall announcements covers a variety of new theological and juvenile publications. In the former department they will have: "The Church in Ireland," by Thomas Olden, and "The Church in Spain," by F. Meyrick, two interesting works on church development abroad; "Blessed Are They That Mourn," helpful and comforting thoughts on the future life, by Rev. Howard Crosby, edited by Edith R. Crosby; "Some Purposes of Paradise," an essay on the life of Christ between the Crucifixion and the Resurrection, by Rev. Walker Gwynne; "Elements of Moral Theology," by Rev. John J. El-mendorf, a scholarly work based on the "Summa Theologiae" of St. Thomas Aquinas; and a second edition of "The Genesis of Geology," a brief exposition of the harmony of Biblical and geological records, by Rev. N. Collins Hughes. On October 1 they will have ready "The School Boy's Little Book," by Rev. Edmund Towle, a companion to the author's "Choir-Boy's Little Book." "The Children's Pulpit," a year's sermons and parables for young people, by Rev. J. R. Howatt, is just ready, and a useful manual for the clergy, entitled "The Cure of Souls," by William Walter Webb, is in press for immediate publication. Three hymnals are announced: "Twenty Selections and Proper Psalms," set to Gregorian tones, by Rev. J. Ireland Tucker; a "New Children's Hymnal for Sunday-School and House Use," revised, enlarged and edited by Rev. Ireland Tucker and W. W. Rousseau, and a "Choral Service Book," by J. W. Elliott. Their pretty wedding souvenir, "The Marriage Service with Wedding Certificate," has just been revised and bound in white vellum, with specially designed title-page and ornamental text. It contains the wedding service and certificate, with blank pages for signatures, and there are two editions, one for the Protestant Episcopal Church and one suitable for "any Christian denomination." One of the specialties of this house is the Bagster Bible, which they offer this year in a variety of new and attractive bindings. The new juveniles will be: "The Cruise of the Crystal Boat," by Gordon Stables; Faith, Hope and Charity Library for girls, including "Winnie Traversers," "Self" and "Self-Sacrifice," all by Anna Lisle; "Dorothy Darling," by the author of "Prince Dimple," "Tarbucket and Pipeclay," by Major J. P. Groves; "The Young Government," "The Little Colonists," by Theo. Gift; and "Rollica Reed," by Eliza Kerr, the three latter forming a library sold in sets; "The Captain of the Cadets," by Henry Frith; "The Guest, Jack Hazlewood;" "In Nelson's Days," and "Bible History for Children," illustrated by Lady Kennett-Barrington.

THE PRICE-MCGILL CO. will shortly bring out a collection of the best poems of Captain Jack Crawford, "The Poet Scout," which will be called by the author's sobriquet. The holiday juveniles of this firm will be: "A Close Shave," by Col. Thos. W. Knox, telling of a flying trip about the world in seventy days; a collection of short "Holiday Stories," by Stephen Fiske; a boys' story of adventure by Lieut. R. H. Jayne, to be called "Lost in the Wilderness;" and "The Lost Army," a tale of the late war, by Col. Knox; "Sylvester Romaine," a novel of modern life, by Rev. Charles Pelletreau, is also announced; and new paper-bound novels will be: "The 'F' Cipher," a war story, by J. G. Bethune; "The Gilded Fly," a satire on "ring" rule by a well-known writer; "Let It Burn," by E. Anson More, Jr., a story of early frontier life; a story of the occult by Franklyn W. Lee, entitled "Two Men and a Girl;" and "Monsieur Nasson and Others," a volume of short stories by Grace H. Pierce.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce books in almost every department of literature. Their chief holiday publication will be the Agapida edition of Washington Irving's "Conquest of Granada" in two volumes, intended to form a companion set to the Darbo edition of the "Alhambra," their successful holiday book of last season. The work will be printed from entirely new electrotype plates, illustrated with thirty photogravures from photographs, many of them taken specially for this edition by R. H. Lawrence and others. The pages will be surrounded by Moorish borders with designs carefully copied from Moorish decorations. While uniform in size and general style with those of "The Alhambra," the decorations, borders, illustrations and cover designs for the "Granada" will be all entirely new and in new colors. One hundred and fifty numbered copies will be printed with proofs of plates on India paper. Another most seasonable holiday book will be "Scenes from the Life of Christ, Pictured in Holy Word and Sacred Art," edited by Jessica Cone, with sixty-four illustrations from celebrated paintings. They have also in preparation an edition of Shakespeare to be known as the Ariel Shakespeare, in which every play will occupy a separate little volume, 5 x 3½ inches and half an inch in thickness. The page will be clearly printed from an entirely new font of brevier type. The text will in every case be complete and unabridged, and will be made to conform to that of the latest, most scholarly editions. The charming illustrations by Frank Howard, five hundred in number, first published in 1833, have been effectively reproduced and will make a series of delicate outline plates. The binding will be flexible leather, with gilt tops and untrimmed edges. The first group of volumes will comprise "The Tempest," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Twelfth Night" and "The Winter's Tale." These will be followed by seven little volumes of historical plays. Six new volumes will be added to The Literary Gems: Sheridan's "Rivals;" Milton's "L'Allegro;" "Il Penseroso" and "Odes;" Irving's "Rip Van Winkle;" Thackeray's "Charity and Humor" and "Nil Nisi Bonum;" Gray's "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" and "Odes;" Bryant's "Thanatopsis," "Flood of Years," "Lines to a Water Fowl" and "Little People of the Snow." The former volumes will all be reissued and several of them will appear in a Special Holiday Edition, daintily bound in white and gold, put up in pairs in flat boxes. The new Knickerbocker Nuggets will be "Deutsche Volkslieder," printed in the original text, edited by Horatio S. White, Professor of German at Cornell; "The Wit and Wisdom of Charles Lamb," compiled by Ernest D. North, with portrait from a drawing by Hancock in 1718, in possession of Mr. Cottle, of which 150 will be printed on large paper with proof of the portrait; and "Whist Nuggets," papers about whist and whist players, compiled by W. G. McGuckin. A number of these little "Nuggets" are also put up in special holiday bindings. Mr. Joseph Jacobs, whose "Celtic Fairy Tale" of last Christmas was so well received, has prepared a new volume on "Indian Fairy Tales," which will be illustrated by J. D. Batten; and E. S. Brooks will have ready the fourth contribution to the Tales of Heroism, to be entitled "Heroic Happenings, Told in Verse and Story," and to be fully illustrated. "The Initials," that ever-taking novel, will be brought out in a two-volume edition, uniform with the Exmoor Edition of "Lorna Doone;" "Studies of Travel in Greece and Italy," by the late E. A. Freeman, will be put into two 32mo volumes; and Kirk Monroe's "Cab and Caboons" will be published in an illustrated edition. In biography and history they announce the first volume of a ten-volume edition of "The Writings and Correspondence of Thomas Jefferson," edited by Paul Leicester Ford; the fourth volume of "The Writings and Correspondence of John Jay," edited by Henry P. Johnston, which will complete the work; and the fourteenth volume, also the concluding one, of "The Writings of George Washington," edited by Worthington C. Ford. The new volumes in the Heroes of the Nations series will be "John Wyclif," by Lewis Sergeant, and "Napoleon," by W. O'Connor Morris; and to the Story of the Nations will be added "The Story of Ancient Sicily," by E. A. Freeman, and "The Story of the Tuscan Republic," by Isabella Duffy. Other historical works in preparation are "The New Exodus," a study of Israel in Russia, by Harold Frederic, and "The Church in the Roman Empire A.D. 64-170," by Prof. W. H. Ramsay. Of scientific interest will be "Japan in Art and Industry," translated from the French of Félix Régamey, by Mrs. E. L. Sheldon; "Notes by a Naturalist," by H. N. Moseley, an account of observations made in a trip round the world in H. M. S. Challenger; and a "Manual of Physics," by William Peddle.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. will shortly publish "Vae Victis," a translation of Paul Berkow's historical novel of that name, which deals with the last years of Moorish rule in Spain; "Mr. and Mrs. Bewer," from the German of Paul Lindau; and a new novel by the Marah Ellis Ryan, author of "A Pagan of the Alleghanies," entitled "Squaw Elouise," a pathetic story of Indian life in British Columbia. Two specially timely publications will be "Columbus and Columbia," a concordance of tributes to the great Genoese, compiled by J. M. Dickey, profusely adorned with scenes and portraits from the Old World and the New; and "Rand, McNally & Co.'s Art Folio of the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago," an elaborate work in an artistic portfolio, suitable for library or reception-room tables, containing thirteen India prints of the principal edifices of the Exposition on Japanese paper, and a bird's-eye view of the entire grounds and buildings.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will bring out a handsome holiday edition of Dean Stanley's "Historical Memorials of Canterbury," beautifully illustrated with etchings and photogravures, and uniform in style and workmanship with the "Historical Memorials of Westminster Abbey," which was the holiday gift-book of this house last year. They have in press for early publication "Memorials of Sarah Childress Polk," in which Anson and Fanny Nelson have written the first full and connected biography of the wife of the eleventh President of the United States; "Missionary Landscapes in the Dark Continent," a book dealing with little-known phases of mission work, by James Johnson; and a new volume by the Rev. Andrew Murray, entitled "Believe in Christ, Why Do You not Believe?" In lighter vein will be "Aunt Leify," a new story by Annie Trumbull Slosson, author of "The Heresy of Mehetabel Clark;" "The Las' Day," by Imogene Clark; and two new stories by Sarah Doudney, "The Child of the Precinct" and "Godiva Durleigh." Of interest to women will be Miss Anna Warner's pleasant talks "Up and Down the House" on the ideals and duties of womanhood and wifehood. A companion volume to "Women's Thoughts for Women" will be issued under the title of "Men's Thoughts for Men," being a selection in prose and verse for every day in the year, from twelve well-known authors. Two devotional books are announced: "The Wonderful Counsellor," a compilation of all the recorded sayings of Christ arranged on a plan for easy memorizing in simple passages, one for each day of the year, with brief notes connecting words and phrases, by Rev. Henry B. Mead, prefaced with an introduction by Rev. F. E. Clark, President of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor; and "Our Elder Brother," thoughts for every Sunday in the year, compiled by Sarah S. Baker. There will be new editions of the three popular little volumes of Frances Ridley Havergal, "Ministry of Song," "Under His Shadow" and "Under the Surface;" also of "Daily Steps Upward," a little devotional book which was popular several years ago, and which, in its new attire, should meet with further favor. Only one new juvenile is announced so far, but it is one which will be welcomed by the many little folks interested in "Prince Dimple's" history and adventures as told by Mrs. George A. Paull. The new volume in the series will treat of "Prince Dimple on His Travels," and will be a continuation of the little prince's "Further Doings."

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have made preparations for a very active publishing season. Their books will cover almost every department of literature. In biography there will appear "James Gilmour of Mongolia," by Richard Lovett, with three photogravure portraits and other illustrations; "Henry Martyn, Saint and Scholar," the life of the first modern missionary to the Mohammedans, told by George Smith; and "Madagascar, Its Missionaries and Martyrs," a new volume in the Missionary Biography Series, of which Dr. A. T. Pierson has said, "These are not pans of milk, but little pitchers of cream; we have not met with anything better as a means of general stimulation to the missionary spirit." In descriptive works may be expected "Ten Years' Digging in Egypt," by W. M. Flinders Petrie; "The Ainu of Japan," by Rev. John Batchelor, giving the religion, superstitions and general history of the hairy aborigines of Japan; and "A Winter in North China," by Rev. T. M. Morris, with an introduction by Rev. Richard Glover, both gentlemen having visited China together in the winter of 1890-1891 as a special deputation from the Baptist Missionary Society. In fiction there will be "Kin-da-shon's Wife," an Alaskan story, by Mrs. Eugene S. Willard; in domestic books "Making a Beginning," a book for young men, by William J. Lacey; and their art-book will be a new volume in the Pen and Pencil Series, "Welsh Pictures Drawn with Pen and Pencil," edited by Richard Lovett. The greater part of the publications of this house are of religious tendency. Among the more important new books in this line will be "Moses, the Man of God," by F. B. Meyer, a new volume in the series of Old Testament Heroes; "The Holy Spirit in Missions," by Rev. A. J. Gordon; "Divine Balustrades," sermons by Rev. Robert S. MacArthur; a second edition of the remarkable volume on "The Caliphate," by Sir William Muir; "An Introduction to the Study of the New Testament," by Rev. John H. Kerr, with introduction by Prof. Warfield; "The Bible Remembrancer," a handbook of the Old and New Testaments, containing a complete modern atlas of Bible lands, an analysis and summary of the entire Scriptures, a list of over 400 improved readings of Scripture words and phrases, and a chart showing the order of encampment and the order of march of the Israelites through the wilderness; "The Fifth Gospel, or, the land where Jesus lived," by Rev. J. M. P. Otto; "The Epistles of Polycarp and Clement and the Teaching of the Twelve," by Rev. H. E. Hall, a new volume in the Christian Classic Series; "The Ancient Irish Church," by Rev. John Healy, a volume of the Church History Series; "I Believe in God, the Father Almighty," by Rev. John Henry Barrows; and "The Atonement, or, the fundamental truths of Christianity," by Newman Hall. There are many more of which the titles will be found in the classified list under the heading of Religion and Philosophy. A volume of literary and political interest will be "The London Daily Press," by H. W. Massingham, profusely illustrated. Juvenile literature will be represented by "The Child of the Ganges," by Prof. R. N. Barrett; "Turn Over a New Leaf," by B. B. Comegys, and a long list of "Library and Prize Books," of which the separate titles may be found in the classified list in this issue under the heading Juvenile Literature. There is also a long line of little booklets which are classified under Birthday Books, Bible Text-Books, etc. The publishers call special attention to the cheaper edition of the Popular Vellum Series.

ROBERTS BROS., Boston, have in preparation a beautiful new and complete edition of Helen Hunt Jackson's poems. It will contain twenty-five illustrations by Emile Bayard, vignette by E. H. Garrett, and a new portrait of Mrs. Jackson, now for the first time engraved. There will be an édition de luxe as well, in octavo, printed on hand-made linen paper, the illustrations being proof impressions on India paper, which will be limited to two hundred and fifty copies. They announce a handsome two volume edition of Jean Ingelow's poems, issued with the sanction of the author, and illustrated with a portrait and an engraving of Miss Ingelow's former home in Boston, Lincolnshire, England; also, a complete edition of the poems of the late Philip Bourke Marston, which, in addition to the poems already printed, will contain a collection of verses entitled "Aftermath," which have not been published in volume-form, as well as an appendix giving criticism of Marston's work by Robert Browning, Swinburne, the late Lord Lytton, Theodore Watts, Dante Rossetti, and his brother, William Rossetti, Edmund Gosse and others. Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton, who is Marston's literary executor, has edited the volume, and supplies a lengthy biographical introduction. There will also be a little volume of "Selections from Isaac Pennington," compiled by Miss Tilestone. Other works of interest which will be forthcoming during the fall are a "Guide to the Knowledge of God," Prof. Grady's study of the chief theodicies, which was crowned by the French Academy, translated by Abby Langdon Alger, with an introduction by William Rounseville Alger; a new edition of Eugene Plon's, "Thorwaldsen, His Life and Work," illustrated by Gaillard; and "Lost Illusions," the twenty-second volume of Miss Wormeley's translation of Balzac's novels, which also includes "Memoirs of Two Young Married Women" and "The Village Curate." The remaining volumes of the charming edition of Miss Austen's works issued by this house will be brought out at once. Several charming new juveniles are announced: "Verses and Ballads for Girls and Boys," by Susan Coolidge; "The Captain of the Kittiewink," a Cape Ann story for boys, by Herbert D. Ward; "Under the Water-Oaks," a Southern story by Marian Brewster; "The Story of Juliette," by Beatrice Washington; "The Little Sister of Willfred," by Miss A. G. Plympton, whose "Betty, a Butterfly" was one of the brightest of last year's juveniles and who illustrates her stories as happily as she writes them; "Dear," by the author of "Miss Toosey's Mission," and "Baby John," a little story by the same pleasing writer.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS confine their announcements this fall chiefly to new editions of their well-known and best-selling books, many of which will be reduced in price. There will be a new and cheaper issue of the large-paper edition of Victor Hugo's novels, of Dumas' "Count of Monte Cristo," of "Sheridan's Plays," and many other standard works. "Chaucer's Canterbury Tales" will be issued in the series of Sir John Lubbock's Hundred Books; and "Frankenstein" will be the new-comer in Routledge's Handy Volume Classics. There will be new issues of all their successful juveniles, a new book by G. A. Henty entitled "The Young Colonists," and a set of colored classics for young people, each volume with ten full-page colored plates and numerous wood-cuts by famous artists. "The Kate Greenaway Almanac for 1893" will also shortly be issued.

W. B. SAUNDERS, Phila., will bring out several useful medical manuals and text-books, titles of which are given under the heading Medical Science in the classified list preceding this department.

F. J. SCHULTZ & Co., Chicago, have in preparation for early publication "Armals," by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, with illustrations by Will Chapin; "The Luminous Face," a story of the Canaan Wilderness, by William Armstrong; "The Monk and the Hangman's Daughter," by Ambrose Bierce and G. A. Danziger, illustrated by Theodore Hampe; "A Lodi Girl," by Forrest Crissey; "American Push," by Edgar Fawcett; "Prairie People," a collection of short stories by Hamlin Garland, and "In Sunflower Lands, stories of God's own country," by Roswell Martin, all of which will be added to their Ariel Library. They will also issue "Vic: the autobiography of a fox-terrier," by Mrs. Marie More Marsh, whose short sketches in The Youths' Companion and elsewhere have made her a favorite with younger readers; "Truth's Pilgrimage," from the Danish of Erik Bøgh, by Albert Alberg; and "Winged Victory," by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates. In works of a more serious character they will publish "The Crisis of a Party" and "The Next Step Forward," both by Augustus Jacobsen; "Labor and Finance Revolution," by B. S. Heath; "A Biography of Ignatius Donnelly," by Everett W. Fish; "Books and Reading," by John N. Crawford; a volume of poems by Charles Eugene Banks; a popular edition of George Horton's "Songs of the Lowly," and a new novel by Ople P. Read, which is as yet unnamed. German and Norwegian translations of Ignatius Donnelly's "Cæsar's Column" will be brought out in November.

THE SCIENTIFIC PUB. CO., N. Y. City, have just issued a manual of "The Mining Laws of the Republic of Columbia," translated and edited by Charles Bullman. This is the first time that the mining code of Columbia has been translated into English, and the volume should therefore be of value to all interested in the mines or mining interests of this important South American state. It also includes a concise history of the laws of the Republic, and a list of the necessary forms and proceedings to be observed by miners in making the various applications to the legal authorities.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' fall announcements include as leading book "Life and Letters of Washington Allston," by Jared B. Flagg, with eighteen reproductions of Allston's paintings. Dr. Flagg has given in this volume a delightful picture of artistic and literary life in Rome, London and New England during the first half of this century, and a full and authentic biography of Allston based upon material in the possession of the family. The book, besides being a valuable contribution to the art history of the country, presents a charming study of the man whose principal paintings are reproduced in the illustrations. A field hitherto untouched is fully covered in a unique book, quarto in size, called "American Illustrators," by F. Hopkinson Smith. The edition is limited to one thousand numbered copies, with fifteen plates, each 13 by 17 inches, printed in colors on Japan paper and with nearly one hundred sketches, portraits and drawings in the text. No story published in the last decade is more worthy of holiday embellishment than Thomas Nelson Page's "Marse Chan." The new edition will have a series of refined and sympathetic illustrations by W. T. Smedley, and in this fresh and handsome dress will delight new and old friends alike. "The Great Streets of the World" will be somewhat similar in its scope to "The American Railways" and "Ocean Steamships," already published by this house. It will consist of a series of seven articles, as follows: Broadway, by Richard Harding Davis; Piccadilly, by Andrew Lang; The Boulevards, by Francisque Sarcey; Unter den Linden, by Paul Lindau; The Corso of Rome, by W. W. Story; The Grand Canal, by Henry James; and the Névsy Prospekt, by Isabel F. Hapgood. Upon its artistic side the illustrations, of which there are not far from one hundred, will represent the distinctive work of artists familiar with the scenes which they depict. Among biographies of the season "The Life of Michel Angelo Buonarroti," in two large octavo volumes, by John Addington Symonds, will be of prominent importance. Mr. Symonds is recognized as the leading authority on the Renaissance, and his book will take high rank both as a portrait of the man and as a picture of his times. It is beautifully illustrated with reproductions of Michel Angelo's works. Jacob A. Riis' new book, "The Children of the Poor," will be a companion and supplement to his "How the Other Half Lives." There are about forty illustrations, largely from photographs taken by the author. "Afloat and Ashore on the Mediterranean" will be the title of an unconventional journey which Lee Meriwether took on and along the shores of the Mediterranean by bicycle, sail-boat and steamboat. The illustrations are from the author's kodak. Dr. Charles A. Stoddard, the author of "Across Russia," will have a new volume of travel to be entitled "Spanish Cities: with glimpses of Gibraltar and Tangiers." He describes the Spanish cathedrals and palaces and their art treasures, the charmingly varied scenery of town and country, characteristic street life, national sports and fêtes, etc., enriching this narrative with a pleasant flavor of personal incident and adventure. The book has eighteen full-page illustrations. A popular edition in 4 quarto volumes, with 2000 illustrations, is announced of the "Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings," edited by John D. Champlin, Jr., with Charles C. Perkins as critical editor. This celebrated work is now issued in a handsome and substantial form befitting a standard book of reference and at a price which will bring it within the reach of every owner of a library. George Bird Grinnell, who has spent many summers among the Indians of the Northwest studying their customs and their folk-lore, is the author of two books, one of which will be called "Blackfoot Lodge Tales: the story of a prairie people." These stories are pictures of Indian life, written down as they were told to the author by the Indians themselves; and they throw a great deal of light on the Indian mind and character. A new edition will also be issued of Mr. Grinnell's "Pawnee Hero Stories and Folk Tales: with notes on the original customs and characters of the Pawnee people." Both volumes will be illustrated. Two new volumes will be added this fall to the dainty Cameo Edition, "Bitter Sweet" and "Katharina," the most noted poems that the late Dr. J. G. Holland wrote. Each of these tasteful volumes will have an etched frontispiece, and will be a very handsome piece of book-making. A revised edition from new plates will appear of Prof. Charles W. Stoddard's "South Sea Idyls," which has long been out of print. A new volume of essays by Richard Henry Stoddard will be called "Under the Evening Lamp." The papers are biographical as well as critical and treat of unbackneyed subjects, including Lord Houghton, Hartley Coleridge, Thomas Love Peacock, Edward Fitzgerald and others. Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis' first collection of short stories, "Silhouettes of American Life," portrays with artistic unity of design different phases of American life and character, the types being national rather than local, and being drawn with feeling, insight and humor. There will be three books relating to household matters: "Letters to a Young Housekeeper," by Mrs. Bayard Taylor, intended for young married women, will be eminently practical and helpful; a revised edition of Marion Harland's standard guide, "Common-Sense in the Household," having been before the public for twenty-one years will be called the Majority Edition, and will have such changes made in it by the author as are necessary to keep the book thoroughly abreast of the times; and the third volume will be a "A Little Dinner," by Christine Terhune Herrick, in which, after treating the general phases of the subject, the author will devote a chapter or more to each course with recipes, suggestions, etc. W. C. Brownell, whose "French Traits" revealed a thorough knowledge of the Gallic character and temperament and a rare power of comparative criticism, is the author of a new book to be entitled "French Art: an essay on classic and contemporary painting and sculpture." In this volume the allied subjects of painting and sculpture in France from the earliest practice to the present time will be considered under the heads of classic, romantic and realistic painting, and of classic, academic and naturalistic sculpture, the point of view being critical rather than descriptive. "The Battles of Frederick the Great" will be the title of the book which Cyril Ransome has made by abstracting from Carlyle's bulky biography of Frederick the Great the more spirited and picturesque battle pieces there to be found. Both as military studies and as examples of literary workmanship they possess a special value. The book will have maps and illustrations. The Duchess of Berry, who was the Princess Marie Caroline of Naples, and who became at her marriage with the Duke of Berry the central figure of the French Court during the reigns of both Louis XVIII. and Charles X., is the fascinating subject of three new volumes in The Famous Women of the French Court. The titles will be: "The Duchess of Berry and the Court of Louis XVIII.," "The Duchess of Berry and the Court of Charles X.," and "The Duchess of Berry and the Revolution of July, 1830." Each volume will have a portrait. In "The Beach of Falesá, and The Bottle Imp," Robert Louis Stevenson will narrate two more thrilling tales of adventure in the South Seas. Three volumes of poems are announced: "Songs About Life, Love and Death," by the late Miss Anne Reeve Aldrich, whose lyrics reveal a remarkable and original talent in its full maturity; "Poems of Rod and Gun," by Ernest McGaffey, with illustrations by Herbert Butler; and a complete edition, with a portrait, of Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr's "Poems." Prof. William M. Sloane, of Princeton, is the author of "The French War and the Revolution," with maps, to be the second volume in The American History Series, so successfully begun by Prof. Fisher's "Colonial Era." A book by Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, of Brooklyn, will be noteworthy. It will be called "Bernard of Clairvaux: the times, the man, and his work." A new volume in the Great Educators Series is announced, to be entitled "Alcuin and the Rise of the Christian Schools," by Prof. Andrew F. West, of Princeton; volumes on "Abelard" and "Froebel" are also in preparation for early publication. John C. Ropes, of the Massachusetts Military Historical Society, is the author of a military history of "The Campaign of Waterloo." The book is intended for special students of history and military science as well as for general readers, and some of its conclusions will excite warm discussion. The book will include an atlas. A revised edition from new plates will be published of "The Story of the Atlantic Telegraph," by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field, in which the story of the late Cyrus W. Field's long series of battles against the elements and against the unbelief of men before he brought this great international enterprise to a successful conclusion will read like a tale of adventure. G. P. Morlarty is the author of "Dean Swift: some account of his life, with extracts from his writings," which will be uniform in binding with, and is similar in its scope and purpose to those gossip biographical pictures of eighteenth-century life and manners, "Fanny Burney," etc. Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, of New Haven, is the author of a new volume in the International Theological Library entitled "Christian Ethics," which will fill a gap in English ethical literature, as it aims to give a scientific and complete account of the ethics of Christian consciousness and life. Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff will add a new volume to his great work on "The History of the Christian Church" entitled "The Swiss Reformation." Its heroes will be Zwingli and Calvin. Dr. Schaff's book is illustrated. The second volume is ready of Dr.

Hans Hinrich Wendt's "Teachings of Jesus," translated from the German by the Rev. John Wilson. A new volume in the Events of Our Time Series will be "The Refounding of the German Empire," by Col. G. B. Malleson, whose "Indian Mutiny of 1857" was one of the most interesting and valuable volumes of the series. It will have four portraits on copper. The book which will meet a special need that no primer of the history of ancient Egypt has as yet met will be "Outlines of Ancient Egyptian History." It will be based on the work of Auguste Mariette, and is translated and edited with notes by Mary Brodrick. It will have a prefatory note by William Copley Winslow, of Boston, Honorary Secretary of the Egyptian Exploration Fund for the United States, who speaks of it in the highest terms. Finally, there is a new book by Dr. August Weismann, Professor in the University in Freiburg-in-Breisgau, to be called "The Germ-Plasm: a theory of heredity." The author is the highest authority on the study of heredity in Germany, and this translation, which will be illustrated, will be sure to attract wide attention. The Scribners have an unusually attractive and important list of new juveniles this fall, at the head of which stands a new volume by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, to be entitled "Giovanni and the Other: children who have made stories." It will consist of eleven stories for young readers, having a certain unity in that they relate to Mrs. Burnett's sons and to other little children whom she has known. A biographical interest, therefore, will attach to these charming stories of child-life. The stories will have nine full-page illustrations by R. B. Birch, and will reveal many of the qualities which made the author's "Little Lord Fauntleroy" so popular. The new book of tales, illustrated by Blashfield, Rogers, Beard and others, by Frank R. Stockton, will charm the young people. There will be seven stories in the book, in each of which some quaint idea will be elaborated with the whimsical humor for which the author is famous. Rebecca Harding Davis has written a story of a boy named "Kent Hampden," the scene being laid in West Virginia sixty or seventy years ago; it will be illustrated by R. F. Zogbaum. Nine stories will make up a new book to be entitled "Boyhood in Norway," by Prof. H. H. Boyesen. Another new juvenile, also illustrated, will be "The End of a Rainbow," by Rossiter Johnson. G. A. Henty, than whom there is no greater favorite among writers of stories of adventure for boys, will add three books to his list this fall, the titles of which will be "Beric the Briton: a story of the Roman invasion," "In Greek Waters: the story of the Grecian war of independence" [1821-1827], and "Condemned as a Nihilist: a story of escape from Siberia." Robert Leighton, whose "Pilots of Pomona" was one of the successes of last season, will have a new book to be called "The Thirsty Sword: a story of the Norse invasion of Scotland" [1262-65]; and new and cheaper editions, both illustrated, will appear of Professor Boyesen's "The Modern Vikings: stories of life and sport in the Norseland," and of "Among the Law-Makers," by Edmund Alton.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' IMPORTATIONS.—The following selection from the announcements of the new English books which the Scribners will handle in the American market shows that the firm devotes much attention to this part of its business. For the full list we refer to our advertising pages and the classified list in this issue. Among the leading books promised are the following: a new and complete edition of the "Letters of Lord Chesterfield," edited by Dr. John Bradshaw, who has retained the matter contained in Lord Mahon's edition of 1845, the supplementary volume of 1853 with "omitted passages," and several new letters now first printed. This edition will be in three volumes, with six portraits and five hitherto unpublished letters. "London City Suburbs as They Are To-Day," by Percy Fitzgerald, illustrated by upwards of three hundred beautifully engraved illustrations by William Luker, Jr., will form a companion to the recently issued and sumptuous "London City." There is promised an International Humor Series, each volume to be well and copiously illustrated, and to contain an introduction critically marking the qualities and phases of the national humor dealt with, and also biographical and explanatory notes. Among the early volumes will be "The Humor of Italy," translated with an introduction and notes by A. Werner, with fifty illustrations and a frontispiece by Arturo Faldi; "The Humor of Germany," with introduction and notes by Hans Müller-Casenov, and illustrations by C. E. Brock; "The Humor of France," of Russia, of Holland, of Spain, of Portugal and "The Humor of America," edited with introduction and notes by J. Barr, of the Detroit Free Press, with illustrations by C. E. Brock. These volumes will be followed by those on the humor of England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, China, Japan, etc. About fifteen volumes will complete the series. There will be a limited edition of "Anacreon," giving the Greek text with Thomas Stanley's translations, to which will be added an appendix of metrical renderings by various hands, edited by A. H. Bullen and illustrated by J. R. Weguelin, whose illustrations to "The Odes of Horace" in Scribner's Magazine will be favorably remembered. There are nearly ready "Etruscan Roman Remains in Popular Tradition," by Charles Godfrey Leland, who himself furnishes many illustrations and appropriate head and tail pieces, a work full of strange facts and striking conclusions of the greatest value; three plays by Henley and Stevenson to be entitled "Deacon Brodle," "Beau Austin," and "Admiral Guinea;" and new volumes of "Essays by Saltsbury." The new volumes in the Social Science Series will be "Socialism, Utopian and Scientific," by Frederick Engels; "The Social Horizon," by the author of "Life in Our Villages;" and "Land Nationalization, Its Necessity and Its Aims," by A. R. Wallace; and the new volumes in the Contemporary Science Series will be "The Germ-Plasm," a theory of heredity, by Dr. A. Weismann; "Volcanoes, Past and Present," by Edward Hull; and "Property, Its Origin and Development," by Charles Letourneau. In the Muses' Library a new and dainty collection of a series of English poets, well edited and finely printed, there will be "The Poems and Satires of Andrew Marvell," edited by G. A. Aitken, and the "Works of Robert Herrick," edited by A. W. Pollard. In active preparation are the works of Waller, Carew, Donne, and others.

CHAS. H. SERGEL & Co. will shortly bring out two new volumes in their excellent Latin-American Republics Series of histories. These will be a "History of Chili," by Anson Uriel Hancock, heretofore known as the author of several novels, and a "History of Brazil," by John C. Redman and William Eleroy Curtis, who has written a book on Spanish America and is director of the Bureau of American Republics. Other volumes are in preparation, and the series when completed will comprise histories of all the South American republics from the earliest records down to the present day. In view of the existing conditions of trade with South America and the general ignorance in regard to the histories of its different States, save as gathered from the volumes of scientists, explorers and travellers, this systematic series of comprehensive histories is of the most timely interest and importance. A new series, The Medallion, is also announced. It will comprise only books of the highest literary merit, well printed and attractively bound. The volumes so far announced are Alfred de Musset's "Confession of a Child of the Century," a collection of his delightful comedies, and a volume of his short tales, the initial story being "The Beauty Spot;" "An Attic Philosopher," by Emile Souvestre, and Olive Schreiner's fanciful "Dreams." A new novel by Laura Coates Reed, entitled "East and West," will be brought out during the fall; and there will be a second edition of Anton Rubinstein's "Music and Its Masters;" also a new edition from new plates of Dumas' "Count of Monte Cristo," issued in one twelvemo volume of over a thousand pages.

WILLARD SMALL, Boston, has in preparation "The Chemical Analysis of Drinking-Water," by Chas. H. Clarke, Principal of the Sanborn Seminary, Kingston, N. H.

SPON & CHAMBERLAIN, N. Y., announce several new editions of important scientific works, full titles of which are given under the heading Arts and Sciences, in the classified list preceding this department.

THE FREDERICK A. STOKES Co. have made their usual bountiful preparation for the coming holiday season. One of their new books will be "Poems by Dobson, Locker and Praed," a collection of the most charming verses of these skilful artists in rhyme, illustrated by fac-similes of water-color designs by Maud Humphrey, and numerous vignette illustrations by various artists. In five of Miss Humphrey's designs the characters are in the picturesque costumes of the last century, and the effect is charming. "The Masterpieces of Fra Angelico" will be six exact reproductions in smaller size of the world-renowned works of this great artist. The pictures selected are the Madonna della Stella, Gloria in Excelsis, Jubilate Deo, Cantate Domino, Te Deum Laudamus and Laudate Dominum. These pictures will be highly finished with backgrounds in burnished gold bronze, and they will be brought out in a large quarto with back and half sides of white vellum cloth, entirely covered with tracery in silver and lettering in gold, with outer half sides in an illuminated design. The ninth series of "The Good Things of Life" will be made even more attractive outwardly than heretofore by a new style of binding in "cadet gray" cloth, with wide, white band at top, richly stamped in gold with design by Atwood, and the lettering stamped in dark blue. A new solution of the problem what to give a bride will be offered in "The Wedding Gown," a volume intended to gather and hold together the many souvenirs of the wedding time—things of precious association and remembrance to a woman, but apt to slip out of keeping as years pass. There will be separate pages for the cards of invitation, scraps of the different gowns, the list of flowers, jewels and gifts, and also telegrams and letters of congratulation. There will also be a few extra pages for memoranda or remembrance notes. The remarkably successful collection "Some American Painters in Water-Colors" will be offered in a smaller size at less than one-half its former price. The Choice Photogravure Series will have two additions, "Scenes from Nature" and "Selected Photogravures." Among biographical publications the house announces "Bismarck Intime," by a fellow-student, translated from the German by Henry Hayward, a book not intended to present the great statesman in his public aspect, but the man himself; and it will also offer its contribution to the multiplying Columbus books of the time in "The Life and Adventures of Christopher Columbus," by Alexander Innes, a short account of the most interesting details of the great discoverer, which will be bound in rich brown leather tied with tape. On the title-page will be a portrait of Columbus, and the frontispiece will be a full-page reproduction of the painting by Brugada, now in the Naval Museum at Madrid, representing the arrival of the discoverer at San Salvador on October 12, 1492. On the cover will be stamped an outline of Columbus' ship, and also one of the globe. Among the new poetical works will be new volumes in their Family Poets, covering Robert Browning, Mrs. Browning, "Lady of the Lake" and "Treasury of Favorite Poems;" in the Favorite Illustrated Series there will be Tennyson's "Princess" and other poems; in the Vignette Series, "Poems of Robert Browning," illustrated by Thomas McIlvaine; "Poems of Mrs. Browning," and "Aurora Leigh," illustrated by Frederick C. Gordon, and "Lady of the Lake," illustrated by Joseph M. Gleason; and in the Cameo Series, "Concerning Cats," poems on this subject selected by Graham R. Tomson, and illustrated by Arthur Tomson. Among the poets who have taken the cat for their inspiration are Thomas Gray, Cowper, John Gay, Matthew Prior, Heine, Edmund Gosse, etc. Mrs. Gaskell's "Cranford" will be added to the Handy Volume Series. Other volumes of poetry will be "Irish Wild Flowers," by Miss Sarah M. B. Piatt; "Rings and Love-Knots," by Samuel Minturn Peck, a new volume in the series of American Verse; and "Two Perfect Poems," being "From Snow to Sunshine," by Alice Wellington Rollins, illustrated by Susie Barstow Skelding, and "Heaven and Earth," by Edith M. Thomas, illustrated by W. St. John Harper, and "Wordsworth's Grave and Other Poems," by William Watson. In the Cameo Series will also appear a contribution to their literary publications, "A Chapter from the Greek Anthology," by Richard Garnett, representing Plato, Sophocles, Lucian, Lucilius and many other famous Greeks. Of this there will also be an édition de luxe on Japan paper. A book of great literary interest will be "Little Garden of Roses," a translation of a book hitherto almost unknown, by Thomas à Kempis, which will form the initial volume of a Dainty Series, in which will also appear "The Valley of Lilies," also by Thomas à Kempis; "The Story of the Crucifixion," a poem by William Mitchell; "Counsels; Civil and Moral," by Lord Bacon; and "Persian Tales from Various Sources," with introduction, notes and appendix by W. A. Clouston. The Forget-Me-Not Series is a new-comer this year. It will be bound in blue silk and white cloth and boxed as sets containing "Lucile" and "Heine's Books of Songs;" "Wordsworth's Grave" and "Poems of Thomas Gray;" "Rab and His Friends" and "Essays of Elia;" and "Heroes and Hero Worship" and "Sartor Resartus." A new volume in the Good Form Series will be "Hospitality in Town and Country." In the popular Manuals of Sports there will be "Camping Out," by A. A. Macdonell, and "Riding for Ladies," by a well-known lady rider; and in the Manuals of Games Series there will be "Card Tricks." J. A. Mitchell, the editor of Life, will issue another of his amusing satires under the title of "Life's Fairy Tales," which is said to be as funny as "The Last American." This house also announces several important juveniles. "The Bunny Stories," by John H. Jewett, will be a collection of the famous stories which were such a success when they appeared in St. Nicholas. They will be illustrated by Culmer Barnes, who, it is said, has fully realized his opportunities for clever humorous drawings. The cover will be cloth, with a frame enclosing a white panel on which will appear "Father Bunny" wearing a coat of bright color. Numerous small bunnys stamped in silver will disport themselves all over this cover. "Maud Humphrey's Book of Fairy Tales" and "Favorite Fairy Tales" by Maud Humphrey will be illustrated by fac-similes of water-colors by this clever artist. Joanna H. Mathews will continue her chronicles of the Bradford children under the title of "Maggie Bradford's Fair," and there will be several other good books for the young, for full titles of which we refer to the classified list under the heading Juvenile. Birthday-books, calendars and little booklets of all kinds are among the specialties of this firm, and this year they are in the field with many dainty novelties, all of which will be found in the classified list. The quaintest of these are the three new additions to the Thumb Series: "Thumb Birthday-Book," "Thumb Autograph-Book" and "The Tom Thumb Calendar, Diary and Proverb-Book."

JOHN A. TAYLOR & CO., New York, will publish at once "From Pain to Peace," by Sarah Doudney; "Constance," by F. C. Phillips; "The Old Mill Mystery," by A. W. Marchmont; "The Last Signal," by Dora Russell; "A Secret Quest," by Geo. M. Fenn; "Asenath of the Ford," by "Rita;" "The Sorcerers," by Mrs. Oliphant; "Bay Ronald," by May Crommelin, and "Lady Verner's Flight," by "The Duchess."

THE RAPHAEL TUCK'S SONS CO. announce a bewildering quantity of artistic gift-books, booklets, calendars, cards for every season of the year, juveniles, shape-books, and novelties of every description. The fine work done by this house is well known, and all their many new attractions show all the old care and skill in manufacture. The "School for Scandal" and "Romeo and Juliet" were finished so late last season that they may be classed among the new publications this year. The former is illustrated by Lucius Rossi in eighteen colored plates of the finest lithography; and the latter has work by the same artists and also by Ludovic Marchetti and Oreste Cortazzo. Among the books just ready may be mentioned "Book of Good Wishes" poetry and pictures by Emily Barnard; and "The Story of Columbus and the Discovery of America." a large folio book containing an original poem by E. Nesbit, illustrated by twelve full-page plates of water-color designs by Will and Frances Brundage and many pen drawings by J. Pauline Sunter. There are no less than one hundred entirely new "Artistic Booklets" under way and seventeen entirely new Calendars, of which the most important will be "The Columbus Calendar," with twelve leaves of illustrations printed in twenty colors. For young eyes there will be twenty-four new additions to their popular "Expanding Toy and Painting Book Lines;" and innumerable new toy, juvenile and shape books. Special attention is called to a line of German booklets identical in style and finish with the books printed in English which are much appreciated by a German public. There will be eighteen additions to this line. It would seem as though every device for beautifying a birthday or Christmas card and every thought of friendly greeting had been exhausted, and yet some of the little souvenirs and novelties prepared this year have marked originality and daintiness.

THE UNITED BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE (W. J. Shuey) make a specialty this fall of Christmas services and recitations and dialogues for Christmas exercises, including new and attractive compilations as well as reissues of standard popular works. They announce for the holiday season a thoughtful devotional book by Rev. Dr. J. W. Etter, entitled "The Thorn in the Flesh," and call special attention to their new "Centennial History of Washington," a handsome and complete history of the growth and industries of the Capital, its founding, politics and prominent men.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY have recently issued some very successful books and have in preparation many more which give every promise of being even more so. Among the pronounced successes may be mentioned "The Average Woman," by the late Wolcott Balestier; "The Talking Horse," by F. Anstey, which has already reached its second edition, a collection of stories full of worldly wisdom and kindly humor; "Daughters of Men," by Hannah Lynch, in which the Grecian life is gracefully worked in; and Rudyard Kipling's "Barrack-Room Ballads," of which the London Times says, "unmistakable genius rings in every line." There will be a re-issue by arrangement with the family of the late Herman Melville of his famous romances of the Southern Seas, edited with biographical and critical introduction by Arthur Stedman. The series will be in four volumes, comprising "Typee," "Omoo," a sequel to "Typee;" "Moby Dick," and "White Jacket." Of these novels W. Clark Russell said in the North American Review: "Americans honor your Dana and your Melville. Greater geniuses your literature has produced, but none who have done work so memorable in the history of their native letters." The latest announcements in fiction are "Mr. Witt's Widow," a light, attractive story, by Anthony Hope, and "The Cuckoo in the Nest," by Mrs. Oliphant, who has in all her many novels always found something new to say.

THE VAN CLEVE-ANDREWS PUBLISHING CO., New York, announce American editions from new American type-set plates of "Oxford Teacher's Bibles," in three sizes, one a fac-simile of the popular English minion 8vo, word for word and page for page; one a 12mo minion, word for word with the English edition, except abbreviated chapter headings, and one, a minion pocket edition. They also still make the photographic edition of the minion 8vo "Teacher's Bible" at greatly reduced price. All these Bibles are gotten up in varied styles of binding.

D. VAN NOSTRAND & Co. announce several important works in their special field, full titles of which are given in the classified list in this issue under the heading Arts and Sciences.

WARD & DRUMMOND, N. Y., have now in preparation "Sybil Trevyllian," a story by Mrs. Reginald Hughes, author of "Margaret Oxley," who writes under the pseudonym of "Lyndon," and a new edition of Annie Warner's "Shores of Peace."

WARD, LOCK, BOWDEN & Co. have in preparation the three remaining volumes in The World's Religions Series, the object of which is to present an impartial and simply written account of the principal religions or religious systems of mankind, past and present, following historic fact and eliminating all personal or doctrinal prejudice. The series was written by the late G. T. Bettany. The first volume, recently issued, treats of "Primitive Religions;" those to follow are: "Mohammedanism and Other Religions of the Mediterranean Countries," including descriptions of the Egyptian, Assyrian, Phœnician, Greek, Roman, Teutonic and Celtic faiths; "The Great Indian Religions," dealing with Brahmanism, Hinduism, Buddhism and Zoroastrianism; and "Judaism and Christianity," which concludes the series. In their Minerva Library of Famous Books they will issue Kingsley's "Alton Locke," uniform with the other volumes of the series. Other books announced are "Women Writers, Their Works and Ways," by Catherine J. Hamilton; "English Literature," a concisely written introductory manual for students, by H. W. Dulcken; "Animal Life," an introduction to the study of Zoölogy, by G. T. Bettany; a new cheap edition of Daizell's illustrated Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress;" and "Zillah," by the Rev. Joseph Hocking, a dramatic story of spiritualism and clairvoyance. Of technical interest will be "The Carpenter and Joiner," "The Ornamental Draughtsman and Designer," a manual of free-hand drawing, with papers on form and color, and "The Iron and Steel Maker." Two new and useful household books by George Black, "The Family Health-Book" and "Every-Day Ailments and Accidents and Their Treatment at Home," are also announced. Two attractive juveniles, both for boys, are promised, viz., "Stories of Valor and Adventure," by Clement Scott, Austin Dobson and other popular writers; and "Fact, Fiction, History and Adventure," a volume of interesting miscellaneous tales and anecdotes.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. will bring out for the fall trade a handsome three-volume edition of "Abbeys, Castles and Ancient Halls of England and Wales, their legendary lore and popular history," by John Timbs and Alexander Gunn, illustrated with twelve full-page photogravures and tastefully bound. To the Chandos Classics they have just added "The Diary and Letters of Madame D'Arblay" (Fanny Burney), prefaced by Macaulay's appreciative essay and annotated by W. C. Ward. Other books announced are: "The Land of the Almighty Dollar," by H. Passmore Gordon, whose terse and epigrammatic comments on the "home of the brave" are made more graphic by sixty original illustrations from the pencil of Irving Montague; a new line of poets, representing thirteen standard authors, illustrated and handsomely bound in "Nubian" morocco leather; the Cabinet Series of Twelvemo Poets, comprising twenty-one volumes, neatly bound and inexpensive; and Warne's National Novels, a paper-covered series of standard works of fiction. This house as usual carries a full line of new and original juvenile publications, comprising artistic gift-books, tales, short stories, picture-books, nursery-books, and a varied assortment of toy-books, plain and shaped. Worthy of special mention among the gift-books will be "The Coming of Father Christmas," told in verse by E. F. Manning, beautifully illustrated by its author, printed and illuminated in gold and colors and bound in a specially designed binding. The Marryat Library for Boys, containing "Masterman Ready," "Settlers in Canada" and "Poor Jack," and a story of Cornwall, entitled "Where Duty Lies," will be of interest to young readers; while among the nursery juveniles mention may be made of "Aunt Louisa's Book of Nursery Rhymes," "Merry Moments for Merry Little Folks," both illustrated in colors; "The Life of Our Lord, for Little Children;" "From Toyland," and a series of new shaped toy-books printed in colors.

CHARLES L. WEBSTER & Co. will issue for the fall trade several volumes of varied interest. To their Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series they will add: "Autobiographia," by Walt Whitman, in which the life of the "good gray poet" is told in selections from his prose works, chosen with his approbation and edited by Arthur Stedman; "Writings of Christopher Columbus," a most interesting collection of the letters, manifestoes, etc., in which Columbus described his experience in the discovery and occupation of the New World, edited with an introduction by Paul Leicester Ford; "Essays in Miniature," a new volume of the delightful writings of Miss Agnes Repplier, the brilliant essayist of the Atlantic Monthly; "Politics and Paddles Down the Danube," by Poulteney Bigelow, a companion volume to "The German Emperor," and "Georgia Stories," a collection of Richard Malcolm Johnson's characteristic sketches of Southern life. Other works announced are: "The American Claimant," a story of the famous Col. Mulberry Sellers redivivus, by Mark Twain; "The Speech of Monkeys," in which R. L. Garner embodies his researches into the Simian language, recording his experiments with monkeys and other animals, and presenting a careful treatise on the theory of speech; "Tariff Reform," a collection of speeches and writings on the paramount issue of the present campaign, by William M. Springer, chairman of the Congressional Committee on Ways and Means; and a new edition of Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper," uniform with the cheap edition of "Huckleberry Finn." "The Democratic Campaign-Book for 1892" and "The Republican Campaign-Book for 1892" are new subscription-books, carefully compiled and of value to the workers in both political camps.

THOMAS WHITTAKER's announcements for the fall season are as follows: "Early Bibles of America," a chapter in bibliography, by Dr. John Wright; "The Indwelling Christ" and other sermons, by Dr. Henry Allon; "Christianity Between Sundays," by Rev. Geo. Hodges; "Aids to the Devout Study of Criticism," by Rev. T. K.

Cheyne; "Gloria Patri," talks on the Trinity by James Morris Whilton; "A Manual of Information Concerning the Episcopal Church," by Rev. Geo. W. Shinn; "The Class and the Desk," a manual for Sunday-school teachers, by J. Cowper Gray and Charles S. Carey; and "The Life of Lord Wolseley" and the "Life of the Earl of Shaftesbury," both in the Men with a Mission Series. New books for young readers will be: "Aboveboard," a tale of adventure on the sea, by Wm. Charles Metcalfe, author of "Frank Wetherall;" "Tollers in Art," a series of brief biographies of famous artists, edited by Henry Ewart; "Work, Wait, Win," by Ruth Lamb; "Leaders into Unknown Lands," being chapters of recent travels, by Arthur Montefiore, profusely illustrated; "By Seashore, Wood and Moorland," peeps at nature, with illustrations by Harrison Weir, Giacomelli and others; "The Little Marine and the Japanese Lily, or, the land of the rising sun," a book for boys, by Florence Marryat; "Strangers Yet," a story by Sarah Doudney; "Where Two Ways Meet," by the same author; "Miss Pringle's Pearls," by Mrs. G. Linneus Banks; "A Candle in the Sea," by Rev. Edward A. Rand; "The Rajah of Dah," by Geo. Manville Fenn; "At the End of the Rainbow," by Julia A. Sabine; "Imogen" and "Robin Redbreast," both by Mrs. Molesworth; "Little Miss Joy," by Emma Marshall; "Among the Butterflies," a book for young collectors, by Bennett G. Johns; "The Vacation Club," by Adah J. Todd; "Virginia Dare," a romance of the sixteenth century, by E. A. B. S., author of "Cecil's Story of the Dove;" "Florence Stanley," by Jane M. Kippen; "Joan and Jerry," by Mrs. O'Reilly; "Hurly-Burly," by Emma Marshall; "The Bewitched Lamp," by Mrs. Molesworth; "St. Dunstan's Fair," by H. and C. Lee; "Lottie Levison," by Miss Bramston; "Adventures of Denis," by the same author; "The Cross Roads," by Miss C. M. Yonge; "Not One of Us," by the author of "Mlle. Mori;" "Max, Fritz and Hob," by Miss Cole-ridge; "Morr and Moss," by Miss Debenham; "A Nest of Royalists," by Esme Stuart; "A Small Legacy," by the same author; "The Golden Buckle," by the author of "Starwood Hall," and others, titles of which are given in the classified list under the heading Juvenile Literature. They have also an attractive list of devotional companions, birthday-books, etc., titles of which will be found in the classified list under the heading of Birthday-Books, Bible Text-Books, etc.

JOHN WILEY & SONS will issue for the fall trade several important books in their special line of mechanical science, full titles of which are given in the classified list preceding this department, under the heading Arts and Sciences.

THE WORTHINGTON Co. will issue for the fall trade "Chesterfield's Wit and Wisdom" and "Napoleon's Conversations and Opinions," two volumes of extracts and anecdotes compiled by E. O. Chapman; "Intellectual Pursuits," a series of essays on self-culture, by Robert Waters; and the Columbus Library, three novels by Elise L. Lathrop, entitled "With Columbus in America," "With Cortez in Mexico," "With Pizarro in Peru." Their list of juvenile publications includes a number of artistic books in colored designs, among which are "Little Ways and Great Plays," with twenty-four colored illustrations, by Elizabeth S. Tucker; "For Baby and Me;" "Bubbles," illustrated in water-colors; and "A Cup of Tea," charming pictures from doll life, by Elizabeth S. Tucker. "Worthington's Annual for 1892-93" maintains its usual excellence, and in "Magical Experiments, or, science in play," Arthur Good gives directions for over two hundred pleasing experiments in "natural magic." There will also be "Bits of Prominent People," a most amusing book of laughable transformation character portraits; a "Handy Book for Boys and Girls," showing how to build and construct many useful articles, and a large number of illustrated books for little folks. New issues of very many of the well-known books of the house will be made ready, and in many instances will have new and attractive covers.

E. & J. B. YOUNG chiefly follow their two special lines of religious works and juveniles in their announcements for the coming season. Having as yet had no opportunity to see these forthcoming books and determine their relative importance, we shall be obliged to mention them in the alphabetical order of their authors. Bishop Andrewes, Bishop of Winchester in 1618, is said to have given a Greek manuscript to Archbishop Laud in the first half of the seventeenth century, which has recently been discovered and will be issued in Greek under the title "Devotions"; Rev. J. Cullin will have a manual for clergy and people entitled "Parochial Missions, their Results and Afterwork"; Rev. E. L. Cutts has in preparation "Handy Book of the Church of England"; Mrs. C. O. Francis will explain that "Church Teaching is Bible Teaching"; Rev. T. P. Garnier will offer "A First Book of the Church"; Rev. Joseph Hammond has prepared a guide to confirmation and holy communion which will be called "Seal and Sacrament"; Bishop A. C. Hervey, of Bath and Wells, will have two volumes entitled "The Authenticity of the Gospel of St. Luke," giving its bearing upon the evidences of the truth of Christianity, and "The Book of Chronicles in Relation to the Pentateuch" and to the "Higher Criticism"; Rev. A. F. W. Ingram will deal with "Old Testament Difficulties"; Rev. C. A. Lane will have "Descriptive Lantern Lectures on English Church History"; Rev. J. Langtry will give the "History of the Church in Eastern Canada and Newfoundland"; Rev. Canon Mason has in preparation "Round the Round World on a Church Mission"; Rev. F. Reton will tell "How to Study the Bible"; and Rev. A. H. Sayce will describe "The Bible and the Monuments." There are many more of these works of which full titles will be found in the classified list in this issue under the heading "Religion and Philosophy." There are also a vast number of booklets of devotion, many of them printed in colors, of which the titles are all given under the heading Birthday-Books, Bible Text-Books, Booklets, Calendars, Almanacs, etc. This house represents the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge in this country, and every year imports a long line of very superior books for the young issued by that world-renowned concern. Full titles of all the forthcoming books in this line are also given in this issue under the heading of Juvenile Literature. In other departments of literature there will be "How to Make Common Things," by J. A. Bower; "Vegetable Wasps," by M. C. Cooke, author of "Freaks and Marvels of Plant Life"; "Time," by Professor Boys, and "Old Poisons," by Prof. P. F. Frankland. The three pretty juveniles, "Jackanapes," "Daisy Darwin's Dovecot" and "Lob Lie-by-the-Fire," will be issued in one volume for the Christmas season.

The following announcements reached us too late for insertion in their proper places in the alphabet in the preceding department:

HENRY ALTEMUS, Philadelphia, will have ready a line of standards in neat holiday bindings. Among the more important will be "Paul and Virginia," with 119 engravings by Maurice Leloir; "Shakespeare's Complete Works," in four volumes, with Boydell and other engravings; and Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," with engravings by Frederick Barnard and others. He will also issue the following art works illustrated by Doré: "Doré Picture Gallery," Milton's "Paradise Lost," Dante's "Inferno" and "Purgatory and Paradise," Coleridge's "Rime of the Ancient Mariner," and Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." "The Family and Pulpit Bibles" of this house are too well known to the trade to need comment.

BOUSSOD, VALADON & Co., New York City (successors to Goupil & Co.), will issue the English-text edition of "Goupil's Paris Salon," 1892, a review of the most remarkable paintings and sculptures exhibited at the Champs Elysées and Champ de Mars, by Gustave Larroumet, ex-Director-General of the Beaux Arts, translated by Henry Beacon. An entirely new feature in this (the fourth) year's issue will be a fac-simile in water colors of the decorative panel by Albert Lynch, which will be included with all orders received before the first of November. The work will contain 100 illustrations.

HESSLING & SPIELMEYER, New York City, publishers of architectural and art industrial works, will have a large number of works in their special lines, for full titles of which we refer to classified list in this issue under the heading Arts and Sciences.

A. J. HOLMAN & Co., Philadelphia, have this year issued a Jubilee Memorial Edition of their "Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible," which they publish in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America. The letter-press of this bible, together with all the "help" and "aides," concordance, etc., are of recognized merit. A full line of these Bibles will be ready for the holiday season in bindings ranging from the simplest and cheapest to Levant morocco.

THE F. M. LUPTON PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, have long lines of standards known as the "Stratford" 12mos, of which there are 116 titles; the "Avon," 12mos, 174 titles; and the "Lenox" 12mos, 50 titles. They also issue paper-covered novels in the Bijou Series, 79 titles; the Souvenir Series, 77 titles; and the Elite Series, 44 titles; and have besides standard sets of Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot, Cooper, Alexander Dumas and others.

THE NILE PUBLISHING Co., Chicago, have just issued some novels which are already proving successful. Among these are four by George W. M. Reynolds: "Lady Saxondale," "Lady Bess," "Lady Castlemaine," and "Lady Florina." "A Survival of the Fittest," by Louis Bond Mason and Norman Elliot; and "The Shadow of Shame," by Austyn Granville are also pretty sure to attract readers desiring strong situations in fiction.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE final fasciculus of Lane's "Arabic Lexicon," containing the letter Y and the supplement, is more than half printed, and it is hoped that it may be published before Christmas.

AMONG the unfortunate passengers on the Nor-mannia the book trade was represented by Mr. Charles E. Lauriat, of Estes & Lauriat. W. C. Horn, of Koch Sons & Co., was also on board.

GEORGE M. ALLEN & Co., New York, have just issued "Joe Kerr's jests, jingles and jottings," by the editor of The Club, the clever society journal which has just rounded a successful year.

SOME recently discovered manuscripts in the cellars of the Wesleyan Conference Bookroom, in London, contain some hymns and poems of Charles Wesley in his own handwriting. A volume of poems by Samuel Wesley was also found.

GEORGE WATERS, of No. 272 Bowery, was accused of stealing a handsome copy of Byron's poems from the Astor Library, and was remanded for trial in the Jefferson Market Police Court on the 16th inst. Waters had sold the book to a dealer for $15.

ISAAC DOLDS, Indianapolis, Ind., has just issued two of his musical compositions, the "Odd Fellows' Grand March" and the "Air-Ship Waltz." They comprise five pages each, sheet-music size, not difficult of execution. They retail at 40 cents each.

THE next volume of the Book-Lovers' Library will be "Books in Chains, and Other Bibliographical Miscellanies," by the late William Blades. The volume will contain an introductory sketch by H. B. Wheatley on "Mr. Blades' Work as a Bibliographer."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS, who have for twenty years been the authorized American publishers for the Italian author, Edmondo de Amicis, have now in preparation a translation, being made by Alice H. Cady, of his latest volume, "School and Home." They will also publish the romance on which De Amicis is now working, entitled "The First of May."

J. S. OGILVIE, New York, will publish shortly "Philip Meyer's Scheme," by Luke A. Hedd, who discusses the labor question from the standpoint of a workman. He has also nearly ready a book entitled "Messages from Mars," by Robert D. Braine. As the title indicates, it will be a work concerning the planet Mars and the inhabitants thereof.

THOMAS HARDY has recently given William Strang a series of sittings for an etched portrait, the result being the most successful likeness yet done of the distinguished novelist. Elkin Matthews and John Lane have acquired the right of reproducing it in their promised work, "The Art of Thomas Hardy," which Lionel Johnson has written for publication in the fall. The American edition of the work will be issued by the Cassell Publishing Company.

MORRILL, HIGGINS & Co. desire to call to the attention of the trade that owing to an inadvertent disarrangement of the copy of their advertisement they were made to announce that "The Revenge of Circe," by Montepin, and the "Evil Eye" and "Schwarinbach Inn" were part of the volume entitled "Stories from the French" in the Idylwild Series. These are two separate volumes in that series—"The Evil Eye" and "Schwarinbach Inn" forming one volume and "The Revenge of Circe" another.

TILLOTSON'S NEWSPAPER LITERATURE AGENCY has made arrangements for the following new stories: "Bay Ronald," by May Crommellin; "The Rose of Allandale," by Gordon Stables; "Lady Verner's Plight," by "The Duchess"; "A Hidden Chain," by Dora Russell; "Under the Great Seal," by Joseph Hatton; "A Secret Quest," by Geo. M. Fenn; "The Sorceress," by Mrs. Oliphant; "An Arizona Tragedy," by A. Conan Doyle; "A Young Fool," by Geo. R. Sims; "Spectral Footprints," by the Marquis of Lorne; "A Lemon Tree," by "Ouida"; "The Strange Adventures of a South Sea Man," by W. Clark Russell; "The Governor's Story," by Grant Allen; "Captain Phil," by Iza Duffus Hardy; "Butterfly," by Florence Marryat. Others are under way.

THE SHAKESPEARE SOCIETY of New York City is preparing "A Four-Text Edition of Hamlet," which will be limited to 750 copies, and for which subscriptions are now being solicited. It will present a parallelization of the texts of 1603, 1604 and 1623 (exactly reproducing the archaic typography and characteristics of the same: verb. lit. et punct.); with a modern eclectic text, accompanied by a translation of the German version performed in Dresden in 1626, and supposed to have been brought into Germany from London by English actors in 1603, which throws a curious historical light upon the actual stage-reading of the tragedy as presented by the London actors (in all presenting five versions of the old play). It will have an introduction touching the stage-setting of the play in Shakespeare's time, and present a copy of the earliest known engraving of a scene from the play upon the boards of a theatre. The book will be in one volume, printed in the best style of the Riverside Press, and will be bound uniform with the Bankside Shakespeare. American subscribers should order through L. L. Lawrence, 21 Park Row, New York City; European orders may be addressed to Mr. Edward Arnold, 37 Bedford Street, Strand, London.

L. PRANG & Co. year by year make their holiday publications more attractive in color, design and workmanship. Among the variety of charming productions which they will bring out for this year's trade there are several whose novelty and timeliness call for special attention. They will commemorate the present "Columbian year" in "Columbia's Courtship," a beautiful picture history of the United States in twelve emblematic color designs, fac-similes of original paintings by Walter Crane, with accompanying verse relating the allegorical history of America from the Norsemen's time to the Chicago Fair; in "Columbia's Calendar," which will also reproduce Crane's designs; and in a charming "Columbus Calendar," consisting of fourteen drawings in color by Victor A. Searles, illustrating the life of Columbus from birth to burial. The same illustrations, attractively bound and accompanied by an historical poem, will be issued as "The Life of Columbus in Pictures." Four new pictures which will delight the children are also announced. They are from drawings by Miss S. A. Winn, who designed the popular "Prize Piggies," and will show how "Tidd'ed-y-winks" is played by cats, "Whist" by owls, "High-Low-Jack" by donkeys and "Euchre" by dogs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF CHARLES H. SERGEL & COMPANY.

LATIN-AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

History of Peru. By CLEMENTS R. MARKHAM, C.B., F.R.S., F.S.A., President Hakluyt Society, (late) Secretary Royal Geographical Society, author "Cuzco and Lima," "War Between Chile and Peru," etc. 8vo, cloth, with 25 full-page illustrations and 5 maps, $2.50.

"Until the immediate present no systematic attempt has ever been made to write the histories of the various South American republics. Travellers, scientific explorers and some others have written more or less desultory volumes about them. Recently a series of histories of the Latin-American republics, to be written by different authors, has been planned by Charles H. Sergel & Co., Chicago, and the first volume recently published by them, being 'A History of Peru,' by Clements R. Markham, an octavo of 556 pages, well printed on fine paper and uncommonly well illustrated." — The Chicago Times.

"Mr. Markham has done his work well and with an ardent love for his subject. In a necessarily limited space he has given the leading facts, and taken a comprehensive view from the earliest time down almost to the current year. Not the least interesting portions are the brief but strongly individualized sketches of some of the remarkable men who have figured in the annals of Peru. In a few virile paragraphs he presents the more famous generals, viceroys, presidents and patriots. The book is well equipped with maps, abounds with pictures, and has an appendix rich in statistics and important documents." — The Literary World.

History of Chile. By ANSON URIAL HANCOCK, author of "Coitlan: A Tale of the Inca World," etc. 8vo, cloth, with maps and illustrations, $2.50. [In press.]

History of Brazil. By JOHN C. REDMAN and WILLIAM ELEROY CURTIS, author of "Capitals of Spanish America" and Director of the Bureau of American Republics. 8vo, cloth, with maps and illustrations, $2.50. [In press.]

OTHER VOLUMES IN PREPARATION.

THE MEDALLION SERIES.

A collection of literary gems, published in a form befitting their excellence. Each book is ornamented with a medallion in gold containing a portrait or a typical scene in cameo effect.

I. The Confession of a Child of the Century. By ALFRED DE MUSSET. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The whole book abounds in passages of the greatest eloquence and beauty, in pithy and pregnant sentences which condense great observation and knowledge of human nature, in chapters which are perfect poems of fancy and tenderness, and interrupt the chant of the narrative like strains of soft music." — Westminster Review.

II. Barbarine and other Comedies. By ALFRED DE MUSSET. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The grace and delicacy of his remarkable dramas, the intensity with which the story is adapted to the moral, the abundant wit which illustrates and pervades them, make them unique in literature." — George Saintsbury.

III. The Beauty Spot, and Other Stories. By ALFRED DE MUSSET. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

"In the quality of his fancy Musset always reminds us of Shakespeare. Several of his tales are masterpieces." — Henry James.

IV. Dreams. By OLIVE SCHREINER. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

V. An Attic Philosopher in Paris. By EMILE SOUVESTRE. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

Music and Its Masters. By ANTON RUBINSTEIN. Second edition. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

The Count of Monte Cristo. By ALEXANDRE DUMAS. A new edition from new plates, long primer type. 1 vol., large 12mo, 1046 pages, $1.00.

East and West. A Novel. By LAURA COATES REED. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.25.

CHARLES H. SERGEL & CO., Chicago.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS'

FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF # NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Life and Letters of Washington Allston. By Jared B. Flagg, N.A., S.T.D. With 18 reproductions of Allston's paintings. Large 8vo, $5.00.

Artistic and literary life in Rome, London, and New England during the first half of this century is delightfully pictured in Dr. Flagg's full and authentic biography of Allston, who numbered among his friends many of the most eminent men of his time. Besides being thus a valuable contribution to the art history of the country, the work presents a charming study of the man. The material, correspondence, reminiscence, etc., on which the book is based, is largely new.

Marse Chan. By Thomas Nelson Page. Illustrated by W. T. Smedley. Sq. 12mo, $1.50.

No story published in the last decade is more worthy of holiday embellishment than this masterpiece of Mr. Page's. Mr. Smedley's illustrations embody the author's ideals with a sympathetic insight into Southern character, and with a delicacy of touch and refinement of feeling in the highest degree artistic.

The Great Streets of the World. Fully illustrated. Large 8vo, $4.00.

Broadway. By Richard Harding Davis.

Piccadilly. By Andrew Lang.

The Boulevards. By Francisque Sarcey.

Unter den Linden. By Paul Lindau.

The Corso of Rome. By W. W. Story.

The Grand Canal. By Henry James.

The Névsky Prospékt. By Isabel F.

Hapgood.

This volume is a thoroughly international one. The streets are chosen because each is full of the peculiar life, color, and action of the cities themselves. It is seldom that there has been brought together in a single book a group of writers so eminent for the acuteness of their observation, and the literary skill with which they record it. The illustrations for each subject represent the distinctive work of an artist familiar by nativity and long association with the scenes which he depicts.

The Life of Michel Angelo Buonarroti. By John Addington Symonds, author of "Renaissance in Italy," "Italian By-Ways," etc., with appendices from numerous unpublished documents, and with 50 illustrations. Large 8vo, 2 vols., $12.50.

Mr. Symonds is recognized as the highest authority on the Renaissance, and his new book, which is the ripest fruit of prolonged study, will take high rank in biographical literature as a portrait of the man and as a picture of his times. It is beautifully illustrated with reproductions of Michel Angelo's works.

CHARLESSCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS

American Illustrators. By F. Hopkinson Smith. Edition de Luxe, limited to 1000 numbered copies, with 15 plates (13 x 17 inches). Printed in color on Japan paper, and nearly 100 sketches, portraits, and drawings in the text. 4to, $10.00 net.

The publishers take pleasure in announcing this superbly illustrated work upon a subject of the greatest interest to all readers. In the discussion of the fifteen leading American illustrators and their work, the author, equally well known as an artist, has presented both the personal and critical sides of the subject in a way perhaps impossible for a writer less favorably situated.

The Children of the Poor. By Jacob A. Riis. Fully illustrated Sq. 12mo. In press.

Mr. Riis's new book is a companion and supplement to his "How the Other Half Lives." It is a series of sketches giving the facts which the author has discovered in regard to the industrial as well as the social condition of the children of the poor. The book is the result of close, personal study.

Afloat and Ashore on the Mediterranean. By Lee Meriwether. With 24 full-page illustrations. 12mo. $1.50.

Mr. Meriwether's trip takes him through Portugal and Spain, and by bicycle along the Mediterranean to Italy. At Naples he chartered a sail-boat and coasted down the Italian shore about Sicily and through the Aegean Archipelago. A brief tour in Greece was followed by a deck passage on a steamer to Syria and Egypt. The journey was full of interesting, novel, amusing, and out-of-the-way episodes.

Spanish Cities: With Glimpses of Gibraltar and Tangiers. By Charles A. Stoddard, D.D. With 18 full-page illustrations. 12mo, $1.50.

Dr. Stoddard's "Across Russia" was one of the most popular volumes of travel published last fall. This year he describes the Spanish cathedrals and palaces, and their art treasures, the varied scenery of town and country, the characteristic life, customs, etc., enriching this narrative with a pleasant flavor of personal incident and adventure.

Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings. Edited by John D. Champlin, Jr. Critical Editor, Charles C. Perkins. Popular Edition. With 2000 illustrations. 4to, 4 vols., $20.00.

This great work is now issued in a handsome and substantial form befitting a standard book of reference and at a price which brings it within the reach of all.

"No art book of the exhaustiveness of this monumental work has been attempted in this country, and this ambitious undertaking should be appreciated by those who stand in need of a comprehensive, well-arranged, and well-edited book of reference."—N. Y. Tribune.

Blackfoot Lodge Tales: The Story of a Prairie People. By George Bird Grinnell. Illustrated. 12mo. In press.

These stories are pictures of Indian life written down as they were told to the author by the Indians themselves. They throw a great deal of light on the Indian mind and character, and are a valuable contribution to Indian folklore.

CHARLESSCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS

Two New Volumes in the Cameo Edition.

Bitter Sweet.*Kathrina.

Poems. By Dr. J. G. Holland. Each with an etching by Otto Bacher. 16mo. gilt top, $1.25 ; half calf, $2.75 ; half levant, $3.50.

In this edition have appeared Mr. Mitchell's "Reveries of a Bachelor," and "Dream Life," Mr. Cable's "Old Creole Days," and Mr. Page's "In Ole Virginia." The publishers have now ready Dr. Holland's two most noted poems, and they believe that these popular works will, in their new and attractive dress, appeal to a still larger circle of readers.

South Sea Idyls. By Prof. Charles W. Stoddard. Revised edition from new plates. 12mo, $1.50.

In an Introductory Note, Mr. Howells characterizes these sketches as "the lightest, sweetest, wildest, freshest things that ever were written about the life of that summer ocean."

Under the Evening Lamp. By Richard Henry Stoddard. 12mo. In press.

Mr. Stoddard's volume of essays treats of unhackneyed subjects with discrimination, candor, and unfailing literary taste. Lord Houghton, Hartley Coleridge, Thomas Love Peacock, William Blake, Edward Fitzgerald, George Darley, Thomas Lovell Beddoes, Robert Bloomfield, John Clare, etc., etc. The papers are biographical and anecdotal as well as critical.

Silhouettes of American Life. By Rebecca Harding Davis. 12mo, paper, 50 cents ; cloth, $1.00.

This is the first collection that Mrs. Davis has made of her charming short stories. They portray, with artistic unity of design, different phases of American life and character, the types being national rather than local, and being drawn with feeling, insight, and humor.

Three Household Books.

Letters to a Young Housekeeper. By Mrs. Bayard Taylor. 12mo. In press.

Mrs. Taylor's book pays particular attention to food values, to the promotion of health, and to the avoidance of waste in cooking, dwelling also on cooking as an art.

Common Sense in the Household. A Manual of Practical Housewifery. By Marion Harland. Majority Edition, new and revised. 12mo. In press.

For twenty-one years Marion Harland's book, of which 150,000 copies have been sold, has been a standard guide in household matters. In this new Majority Edition such changes have been made as are necessary to keep the book thoroughly abreast of the time.

The Little Dinner. By Christine Terhune Herrick. 12mo. In press.

After devoting a few chapters to the table, decorations, the service, the wines, etc., Mrs. Herrick takes up each course, giving suggestions and recipes, and discussing the different kinds of soups, fish, entrées, roasts, vegetables, salads, and sweets that are most suitable.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS

French Art. An Essay on Classic and Contemporary Painting and Sculpture. By W. C. Brownell. 12mo. In press.

The allied subjects of painting and sculpture in France from the earliest practice to the present are here considered under the heads of classic, romantic, and realistic painting, and of classic, academic, and naturalistic sculpture, the point of view being critical rather than descriptive. The book will undoubtedly attain to equal popularity with the author's "French Traits."

The Battles of Frederick the Great. Abstracted from Thomas Carlyle's Biography of Frederick the Great. Edited by Cyril Ransome, M.A. With maps and illustrations. 12mo. In press.

The editor has in this form made more accessible the spirited and picturesque battle pieces now embedded in Carlyle's bulky biography. Both as military studies, and as examples of literary workmanship, they possess a special value.

Three New Volumes in the Famous Women of the French Court.

The Duchess of Berry and the Court of Louis XVIII.	} From the French of De Saint-Amand. Each volume with portrait. 12mo, $1.50 ; hf. calf, $2.50
The Duchess of Berry and the Court of Charles X.
The Duchess of Berry and the Revolution of July, 1830.

The Princess Marie Caroline, of Naples, became upon her marriage with the Duke of Berry the central figure of the French Court during the reigns of both Louis XVIII. and Charles X. The three volumes in which the career of this fascinating beauty is portrayed are among the most entertaining of this popular series.

Life and Adventure in the South Seas. Three new books by R. L. Stevenson. In The Beach of Falesa and the Bottle Imp (12mo. In press), Mr. Stevenson narrates two more thrilling tales of adventure in the South Seas. Of The Wrecker (Illustrated, 12mo, $1.25), the Saturday Review (London) said: "The excitement is so intense as to be almost terrible. It is a succession of vivid pictures and impressions where the element of surprise is ever present." Mr. Stevenson's Eight Years of Trouble in Samoa (12mo, $1.50) is a graphic study of real life among the natives and foreigners.

Three Volumes of Poems.

Songs About Life, Love, and Death. By Anne Reeve Aldrich. 12mo, $1.25. A remarkable and original talent in its full maturity is shown in these poems by Miss Aldrich. They are full of a rare intensity of feeling that finds voice in a minor key very exquisitely adapted to the themes treated.

Poems of Rod and Gun. By Ernest McGaffey. With illustrations by Herbert Butler. Sq. 8vo. In press,

Such phases of the pure delight to be obtained in shooting or fishing as appeal to the poetic sensibility, are celebrated by Mr. McGaffey with equal zest and skill.

Poems. By Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr. With portrait. Complete Edition. 12mo. In press.

"Mrs. Dorr's poems are distinguished by simplicity, sincerity of expression, and gracefulness."—Hartford Courant.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS

The French War and the Revolution. By Wm. M. Sloane, Ph.D., Professor of History in Princeton University. With maps. 12mo, $1.25.

Professor Sloane's book is in continuation of the American History Series so successfully begun by Prof. George P. Fisher in "The Colonial Era," the purpose of which is to give in five volumes a compact, connected popular history of the people of the United States from the discovery of America to the present day. Prof. Sloane's book will be followed by three volumes by General Francis A. Walker and Prof. J. W. Burgess, of Columbia, completing the series.

Bernard of Clairvaux. The Times, the Man, and His Work. A Historical Study. By Richard S. Storrs, D.D., LL.D., L.H.D. Crown 8vo. In press.

Dr. Storrs's book treats eloquently of the genius, character, and labors of the great abbot, his personal traits, his monastic life, his power as a preacher, and his general influence on the Europe of his time. The work is the fruit of a careful and extensive independent study of a great epoch in ecclesiastical and doctrinal history and it will be accepted as shedding important light on a period in European development not hitherto so carefully studied.

Alcuin, and the Rise of the Christian Schools. By Andrew F. West, Ph.D., Professor of Latin and Pedagogics in Princeton University. 12mo, $1.00 net.

Volumes on Aristotle and Loyola having been published, there is now added to the Great Educators series this review of the life, teachings, and influence of the Yorkshire scholar who became the master of the Palace School of Charles the Great. Volumes on Abelard and Froebel are also in preparation for early publication.

The Campaign of Waterloo: A Military History. By John C. Ropes, of the Mass. Military Historical Society. With atlas. 8vo. In press.

For many years it has been the ambition of the distinguished author to write this book. He has made not only an exhaustive digest of all the conflicting evidence bearing on the subject, but a masterly analysis of the military problems and questions of policy involved. It is a most important contribution to Napoleonic history.

The Story of the Atlantic Telegraph. By Henry M. Field, D.D. Illustrated. 12mo. Revised edition from new plates.

The recent death of Cyrus W. Field, a brother of the author of this book, recalls attention to the great international enterprise with which his name will be forever associated. The story of his long series of battles, lasting through twelve years, against the elements and against the unbelief of men, reads like an interesting tale of adventure.

Dean Swift: Some Account of His Life, with Extracts from His Writings.

By G. P. Moriarty. With nine portraits on copper. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

Mr. Moriarty's book is uniform in binding with, and is similar in its scope and purpose to, those gossip biographical pictures of eighteenth century life and manners, "Fanny Burney and Her Friends," "Horace Walpole and His World," "Mrs. Thrale," and "Lady Mary Wortley Montague."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS

Christian Ethics. By Newman Smyth, D.D., New Haven. International Theological Library. Crown 8vo, $2.50 net.

Dr. Smyth's volume aims to give a scientific and complete account of the ethics of Christian consciousness and life. The application of ethics to individual duties and social problems and the authority of the Bible are among the specially interesting aspects of the discussion. It is a worthy successor of Prof. Driver's "Literature of the Old Testament," the successful initial volume in this new Library.

The Swiss Reformation. Vol. VII in the History of the Christian Church. By Philip Schaff, D.D., LL.D., Professor in Union Theological Seminary. Illustrated. Large 8vo. In press.

Dr. Schaff having devoted Vol. VI to the Reformation in Germany now sends out a still more elaborate study of the Reformation in Switzerland. Its heroes are Zwingli and Calvin. Hence the greater part of the space is devoted to them, and the English reader has for the first time a really worthy biography of these two men, though other workers and contemporaries are not forgotten.

The Teaching of Jesus. By Hans Hinrich Wendt, D.D., Professor of Theology, Heidelberg. Translated by Rev. John Wilson. 2 vols., 8vo. Vol. II now ready, $2.50 net.

"It is remarkably suggestive. Indeed, Dr. Wendt's work deserves to be ranked among the most important contributions to biblical theology."—Pres. W. R. Harper.

The Refounding of the German Empire. By Col. G. B. Malleeson, C.S.I. With 4 portraits on copper. 8vo, $1.75.

A new volume in the Events of Our Time series, on an important subject by Col. Malleeson, whose "Indian Mutiny of 1857" was one of the most entertaining and valuable volumes of the series.

Outlines on Ancient Egyptian History. Based on the Work of Auguste Mariette. Translated and edited, with notes, by Mary Brodrick, New and revised Edition. Crown 8vo. In press.

Of this book William Copley Winslow, Honorary Secretary of the Egypt Exploration Fund for the United States, writes: "It meets a special need that no primer or résumé of the history of Ancient Egypt has as yet met. For it affords not only a summary of the great epochs and a clear account of the successive dynasties, but a definite conception of the turning points of Egypt's advancement or decline, and a vivid idea of the value of her most important records by the chisel and pen."

The Germ-Plasm: A Theory of Heredity. By Dr. August Weismann, Professor in the University of Freiburg-in-Breisgau. Translated by W. W. Parker, Ph.D., and Harriet Römsfeldt, B.Sc. Illustrated, 12mo. In press.

Special importance attaches to this new volume in the Contemporary Science Series on account of the eminence of the writer, who is the highest authority on this subject in Germany and whose other writings on heredity have attracted wide attention.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' IMPORTANT RECENT BOOKS.

Travels Amongst the Great Andes of the Equator. By Edward Whymper. With charts, maps, and 150 illustrations. Large 8vo, $6.00.

"It is rare to find a traveller so many-sided as Mr. Whymper. He is an artist, a keen and cautious scientific observer, an admirable collector, a daring mountaineer, a merciless critic of his predecessors as well as of himself, a humorist of the driest brand—a raconteur hardly surpassed."—London Times.

China Collecting in America. By Alice Morse Earle. With 75 illustrations. Sq. 8vo, $3.00.

"Mrs. Earle evidently has made the acquisition of knowledge on her subject a labor of love and years also. She is learned in the mysteries of pewter plates and trenchers, mugs and tureens, and has drawn from many an old diary, letter, or advertisement, all sorts of odd and out-of-the-way bits of information."—Springfield Republican.

The Colonial Era. (American History Series.) By Prof. George P. Fisher, of Yale. 12mo, $1.25.

"The story is so compact as to admit very little expansion of style, but the work is characterized by that peculiar quality of interest which is found in all Prof. Fisher's historical writing, and which arises from his thorough competency for the work."—Christian Union.

A Tramp Across the Continent. By Charles F. Lummis. 12mo, $1.25.

"There is probably not one young fellow in a thousand who would have shown the nerve and persistence of Lummis in this tramp. The book is full of quotable passages, and the best service we can do any reader is to refer him to the volume itself. He will not find a dull page in it."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Reflections of a Married Man. By Robert Grant. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Mr. Grant's reflections are both humorous and witty. The story is thoroughly entertaining, and the good humored philosophy which pervades it is very attractive. The book is one of the brightest and most amusing that has appeared for some time."—Charleston News and Courier.

Res Judicatae: Papers and Essays. By Augustine Birrell. 16mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Birrell is witty, but he is as wise as well. These essays are capital examples of good talk, the talk of a man with a full mind, quick with interest which he finds it pleasant to inspire in others."—The Academy, London.

The Bull Calf, and Other Sketches. By A. B. Frost. Oblong 12mo, $1.00.

"Ten stories told wholly in pictures. They are brimful of fun. Mr. Frost has a keen and genuine humor and he expresses it frankly and fluently with his facile pencil."—Boston Saturday Gazette.

Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS NEW JUVENILES FOR 1892

Giovanni and the Other. Children who have made Stories. By Mrs. F. H. Burnett. Fully illustrated by Birch. Sq. 8vo, $1.50.
The twelve stories in this new volume are about Mrs. Burnett's sons and other little people whom she has known, which gives a personal interest to these charming portraits of child life. They are written with tenderness and humor.

The Clocks of Rondaine, and Other Stories. By Frank R. Stockton. Illustrated by Blashfield, Rogers, Beard, and others. Sq. 8vo, $1.50.
The whimsical humor of Mr. Stockton's odd fancies will make his new book alike enjoyable to old and young readers. There are seven stories in the volume, in each of which some quaint conceit is elaborated with art and delicious humor.

Condemned as a Nihilist: A Story of Escape from Siberia.
In Greek Waters: A Story of the Grecian War of Independence.
Beric the Briton: A Story of the Roman Invasion.
"Among writers of stories of adventure he stands in the very first rank."—Academy.

HENTY'S
New Stories.
Illustrated.
Each, $1.50.

The Thirsty Sword: A Story of the Norse Invasion of Scotland (1262-65). By Robert Leighton. With Illustrations. Cr. 8vo, $1.50.
Here is found much of the simple directness and tragic strength of the old Scandinavian Sagas. The period of the story is the heroic one which appeals so strongly to the youthful imagination, and the historical picture of the times is vivid and truthful.

The End of a Rainbow. By Rossiter Johnson. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.
The hero of this new book by the author of "Pheaton Rogers" fails to find the crock of gold at the end of the rainbow, but does find the solid gold of priceless experience. His search leads him and his companions into many curious adventures and into a wider knowledge of the world and its workers.

Boyhood in Norway. By H. H. Boyesen. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.
These stories of the brave doings of the sons of the Vikings have in them the qualities of everyday heroism which will appeal with peculiar force to every boy.
The Modern Vikings. Stories of Life and Sport in the Norseland. By H. H. Boyesen. Illustrated. Cheaper Edition. 12mo, $1.50.

Kent Hampden: By Rebecca Harding Davis. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.00.
An entertaining story of life in Virginia seventy years ago. Its types are racy of the soil, its spirit is American throughout, and its scenes are very real.
Among the Lawmakers. By Edmund Allen. Illustrated. Cheaper Edition. Sq. 8vo, $1.50.

NEW IMPORTATIONS.

As the publishing season in London opens so much later than in New York, it is impossible to give, so far ahead, complete descriptions, or even titles, of all the fall importations arranged for. Only an advance selection can be made below. New books will be imported weekly and full details will appear in later announcements.

The International Humor Series.

Cloth elegant, crown 8vo, per vol., $1.25.

Each volume will be well and copiously illustrated; in many cases artists of the nationalities of the literatures represented will illustrate the volumes. To each volume will be prefixed an introduction critically disengaging and marking the qualities and phases of the national humor dealt with; and to each will be appended notes, biographical and explanatory.

AMONG THE EARLY VOLUMES WILL BE THE FOLLOWING:

THE HUMOR OF ITALY. Translated, with an introduction and notes, by A. Werner. With 50 illustrations, and a frontispiece by Arturo Faldi.

THE HUMOR OF GERMANY. Translated, with an introduction and notes, by Hans Müller-Casenov. With numerous illustrations by C. E. Brock.

THE HUMOR OF FRANCE. Translated, with an introduction and notes, by Elizabeth Lee. With numerous illustrations by Paul Frenzeny.

THE HUMOR OF RUSSIA. Translated, with notes, by E. L. Boole, and an introduction by Stepniak. With 50 illustrations by Paul Frenzeny.

THE HUMOR OF AMERICA. Edited, with an introduction and notes, by J. Barr (of the Detroit Free Press). With numerous illustrations by C. E. Brock.

To be followed by volumes representative of England, Scotland, Ireland, China, Japan, Spain, Portugal, Holland, etc.

Anacreon.

The Greek text, with Thomas Stanley's translation. To which is added an appendix of metrical renderings by various hands. Edited by A. H. Bullen. Illustrated by J. R. Weguelin. Fcap. 4to. Limited edition, net, $7.50.

A beautiful volume with fine renderings of the famous odes of this old poet, illustrated by J. R. Weguelin, whose illustrations of odes of Horace, recently issued in "SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE," were so successful.

Etruscan Roman Remains in Popular Tradition.

By Charles Godfrey Leland, Hon. F.R.L.S., President of the Gypsy-Lore Society, etc. With many illustrations, and copiously decorated with head-and-tail-pieces by the author, illustrative of Etruscan art. Small 4to, $5.50.

No one has studied this subject more carefully than the author of this volume, who was led into it by his researches in Gypsy-lore. Many strange facts and striking conclusions are detailed here for the first time, and the work is of the highest value. It is uniform with Mr. Leland's previous volume, "Gypsy Sorcery."

Lord Chesterfield's Letters.

New revised and enlarged edition. With the addition of the Characters and other Miscellanies. Six portraits. 3 vols., 8vo, $7.50.

"Dr. Bradshaw has wisely adopted the same arrangement as Lord Mahon, but this edition contains five hitherto unpublished letters of Lord Chesterfield, and in others omitted passages have been restored. Dr. Bradshaw has also been enabled to reprint from the 'Manuscripts and Correspondence of Lord Charlemont,' published last year, a contemporary letter from Lord Charlemont giving his opinion on Lord Chesterfield's 'Letters to his Son.' Nearly all Lord Mahon's notes are contained in this volume, and Dr. Bradshaw has added a few of his own, which, like those of the former editor, are clear, concise and adequate."—London Athenaeum.

London City Suburbs.

As They Are To-Day. By Percy Fitzgerald. Illustrated by William Luker, Jr. With upwards of three hundred beautifully engraved illustrations, many being full-page, from original drawings. 4to, net, $15.00.

"London City Suburbs" will form a companion to the recently issued and sumptuous "London City." Mr. Percy Fitzgerald, who has devoted himself to the exploring of London City Suburbs, tells the tale of places which the pencil of Mr. Luker illustrates. Fine as were the illustrations in "London City," those in this companion volume will be more picturesque, more sharply defined and still more delicately printed.

From the Arctic Ocean to the Yellow Sea.

By Julius M. Price, F.R.G.S. With 130 illustrations, of which 64 will be full-page; 2 photographs, being fac-similes of the two sides of a pen-and-ink forgery of a Russian bank-note, a wonderful example of penmanship; a photogravure portrait of the author, and a route map. Demy 8vo, $6.00.

Mr. Price is the first traveller, so far as is known, who has made the journey right across Asia from the Arctic Ocean to the Pacific. The most interesting part of his work is, perhaps, that which relates to Siberia. It would seem that Mr. Price's observations point to a different conclusion from that arrived at by Mr. Kennan.

Four Japanese Books.

Printed in Tokyo on untearable Japanese crêpe paper, and profusely illustrated in color by Japanese artists.

THE CHILDREN'S JAPAN. By Mrs. W. H. Smith. Square 8vo, $1.50.

A delightful description for children of Japanese houses, how the Japanese live, Japanese music, a Japanese holiday, etc., etc.

JAPANESE JINGLES. By Mae Stjohn Bramhall. 12mo, $1.50.

A volume of charming English poems on Japanese scenes and subjects.

THE RAT'S PLAINT. An Old Legend. Translated from the original Chinese by Archibald Little, F.R.G.S. Oblong 12mo, $1.50.

KOHANA SAN. Written by Lieut. F. M. Bostwick, U. S. N., and sung to the air of "Bal-lyhooly." 12mo, $1.50.

Henley and Stevenson.

Three plays by W. E. Henley and R. L. Stevenson. 12mo, printed on special laid paper, rough edges. Preparing.

These plays are: Deacon Brodie, Beau Austin, and Admiral Guinea.

The Art of Teaching and Studying Languages.

By François Gouin, Professor of German at L'Ecole Supérieure Arago, Paris. Translated from the French by Howard Swan and Victor Betis. Crown 8vo, $2.25.

"Profoundly interesting to any one who is able to appreciate the real difficulties of the matter. The system combines the practical and the philosophical elements of linguistic study in a remarkable way."—The Scotsman.

New Volumes of the Muses' Library.

A new and dainty edition of a series of English Poets, well edited and beautifully printed.

THE POEMS AND SATIRES OF ANDREW MARVELL. Edited by G. A. Aitken. 2 vols., 18mo, $3.50.

WORKS OF ROBERT HERRICK. Edited by A. W. Pollard. With a Preface by A. C. Swinburne. 2 vols., 18mo, $3.50.

The Works of Waller, Carew, Donne and others, in active preparation.

The Scottish Clans and Their Tartans.

With notes and illustrations by 96 double-page colored plates. Thick crown 16mo, $1.00.

This little book contains a list of native dyes, badges of the clans, war-cries, a map of Scotland divided into clans, and historical sketches of the ninety-six clans, with double-page reproductions in colors of the tartans worn by them.

Old Touraine.

The Life and History of the Famous Châteaux of France. By Theodore Andrea Cook, B.A. With numerous illustrations, including pen and pencil drawings by Jane E. Cook. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $5.00.

The object of this book is to reproduce, as far as possible, an accurate picture of the old life in the châteaux along the Valley of the Loire, the most famous in the history of France.

Life and Letters of Joseph Severn.

By William Sharp. With portrait and other illustrations. Demy 8vo, $5.00.

Severn is chiefly remembered now because of his close friendship with John Keats. It was in his arms that the young poet expired at Rome in 1821.

Book Collecting.

A Guide for Amateurs. By J. H. Slater. Large paper, crown 8vo, $1.75.

Full of valuable hints to the book collector on the various presses, Aldine and others, fashions in collecting, places to buy, how to buy, etc., etc.

Fall Announcements.

❧ J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S List of NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS to be published during the Fall of 1892. ❧

Tales from Ten Poets.

By Harrison S. Morris, author of "In the Yule Log Glow," etc., etc. Three volumes. 16mo. Illustrated. Cloth, extra, $3.00; half calf and half morocco, $6.00; three-quarters calf, gilt top, $7.50.

These three volumes contain the most famous narrative poems of ten great Victorian poets done into prose, which has preserved the charm of the poetry in so far as it was possible while giving the story pure and simple. The collection affords an admirable means of learning in a brief and agreeable manner what has been done in narrative poetry during the generation just passing away; yet the intrinsic delight of the tales themselves and the direct and simple manner of their telling render them fit for the reader of any mood. The Poets represented in this charming collection are Tennyson, Swinburne, Robert Browning, Wm. Morris, Rossetti, Mrs. Browning, Matthew Arnold, Robert Buchanan, Lord Lytton, and George Eliot.

Tales from the Dramatists.

By Charles Morris, author of "Half Hours with the Best American Authors," etc. Four volumes. 16mo. With illustrations. Cloth, extra, $4.00; half polished calf or morocco, $8.00; three-quarters calf, gilt top, $10.00.

A series of entertaining stories taken from the leading plays of the most noted Dramatic Authors, from Ben Jonson to the present day. This work is based on the general plan of Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," and deals with the most popular plays of the best known English playwrights. The attractive examples of dramatic fiction supplied by the plots of these plays, most of them familiar to the theatre-going public, are here given in a form suitable for the enjoyment of those who may desire to make acquaintance with them in the home circle.

Atlina, the Queen of the Floating Isle.

By M. B. M. Toland, author of "Eudora," "Legend Laymone," "Tisáyac of the Yosemite," etc. Illustrated by full page photogravure reproductions of drawings by Bloomer, Weir, Church, Dielman, Jones, Jacacci, Denman, Du Mond, and Twachtman, and numerous decorative designs throughout the text by A. F. Jacacci. Cloth, gilt, $2.50; full silk, $3.50; morocco, $4.00.

In Plato's Atlantis, with its tropical splendor, its peace and prosperity, Mrs. Toland finds a theme well adapted to her own flowing and melodious verse. The beauties of the ~~Isle~~ and the semi-mythological character of the subject afford abundant opportunity for the play of the author's sprightly fancy. The artists, too, have caught the spirit of the poem, and each in his own way interprets the life and scenery of that wondrous land of old.

The Dragon of Wantley.

His Rise, His Voracity, and His Downfall. A Romance. By Owen Wister. With numerous illustrations by John Stewardson. 8vo. Extra cloth, gilt top, $2.00.

Every one knows of the old ballad from which Mr. Wister has borrowed his title; the characters and the plot, however, are entirely his own. The story deals with the old days of chivalry in England, and knights, monks, dragons, and crusades afford abundant material for a romantic tale. While specially adapted to please younger readers, there is an undercurrent of inimitable burlesque and satire which will be appreciated by old as well as young. The illustrations are unique and full of humor and in complete harmony with the text, carrying out its ideas with vivid appropriateness.

Recent Rambles, or In Touch with Nature.

By Charles C. Abbott, M.D., author of "A Naturalist's Rambles about Home," "Outings at Odd Times," etc. 12mo. Cloth. With nineteen half-tone illustrations. $2.00.

In the literature of nature Dr. Abbott's books hold a peculiar place. With all their close observation they are not too technical, and their charm for the general reader is the more potent in that this is so. We all love nature, but we do not all care to embark in a study of ornithology, botany, and zoology in order to appreciate it; and in this new volume we find how keen our enjoyment can be, even if we do not possess such scientific knowledge. Those, on the other hand, who are already students of nature, will be fascinated by the wide and accurate information gained for them by the doctor's numerous tramps and multiplied hours of observant idleness. The book is full of touches of humor, unexpected turns, and pungent sayings.

Handy-Book of Literary Curiosities.

By William S. Walsh, author of "Literary Life." Small 8vo. Uniform with Reader's Hand-Book. Half morocco, $3.50; three-quarters calf, $5.00.

A collection of the bric-a-brac of literature, literary forgeries, hoaxes, jests, enigmas, conundrums, paradoxes, etc., exploited; proverbs, sayings, slang phrases, and familiar lines correlated and traced to their source; plagiarisms, analogies, and coincidences detected; the whole forming a complete encyclopædia of all that is most amusing and entertaining in the annals of the past and present, and an indispensable reference-book of curious, quaint, and out-of-the-way information that has never before been collected in book form.

Gleams and Echoes.

By A. R. G., author of "Night Etchings," etc. Illustrated from drawings by Turner, Jones, Schell, Clinedinst, Dielman, and Lippincott, engraved by Anderson, Reed, and Williams.

Every fern and flower has its story to tell to the true poet, a story full of interest and beauty. Our author takes us into field and wood that we may listen to these voices of nature, which are skilfully interpreted to us. Each poem is accompanied by an illustration, and the volume is a very handsome one, adapted to gift purposes.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.

De Luxe Library Edition of the Works of William H. Prescott. Complete in twelve volumes, containing all the steel plates on India paper and maps that have appeared in former editions, and about fifteen phototype illustrations to each volume, copied from photographs of cities, public edifices, and reproductions of paintings representing remarkable events narrated. Large 8vo. Large type, printed on fine paper, and neatly bound in half morocco, gilt top, $5.00 per volume, net.

HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF FERDINAND AND ISABELLA. Two volumes. Now ready.

HISTORY OF THE CONQUEST OF MEXICO. Two volumes. Now ready.

HISTORY OF THE CONQUEST OF PERU. Two volumes. Now ready.

HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF PHILIP II. Three volumes. Now ready.

HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF CHARLES V. Two volumes. In preparation.

BIOGRAPHICAL AND CRITICAL MISCELLANIES. One volume. In preparation.

The edition is limited to 250 copies.

"Wherever the English language is spoken over the whole earth, Prescott's name is perfectly familiar. We all of us know what his place was in America. But I can also say that in eight years (1851-59) passed abroad, I never met a single educated person, of whatever nation, that was not acquainted with his fame, and hardly one that had not read his works. No living American name is so widely spread over the whole world."—J. Lothrop Motley.

Strickland's Queens of England.

New edition. Printed from new plates. With portraits of the Queens and other illustrations. Lives of the Queens of England from the Norman Conquest. Compiled from Official Records and other Authentic Documents, private as well as public, by Agnes Strickland. In eight volumes. 8vo. Cloth, $16.00; half calf, $28.00; three-quarters calf, $32.00.

Many years have elapsed since this work appeared, and the publishers have supplied the long felt want of a good edition for the public and private library. This is a reprint of the author's latest revised edition, and contains illustrations that have never appeared in any other issue.

Lord Chesterfield's Letters.

A New Edition of the Celebrated Letters of the Earl of Chesterfield to His Son. An exact reprint of Lord Mahon's edition, now very rare, issued in five octavo volumes, printed from pica type on superior paper. Limited edition. Special cloth binding, gilt top, $12.50 per set; half calf, $20.00; three-quarters calf, $22.50.

Frequent cheap editions of portions of these letters have appeared, but no complete and satisfactory work, suitable for the library, can be procured except at a very high price. The present issue will accordingly place within reach of those who have long desired "Chesterfield's Letters" an edition in every way the best that has ever appeared.

Sir Walter Scott's Poetical Works.

Complete in 3 vols. 16mo. Cloth, $2.25; half polished calf or morocco, $6.00.

This edition is in handy volumes and is well adapted for every-day use.

BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

Uncle Bill's Children.

By Helen Milman, author of "Little Ladies." With illustrations by the author. Small 4to. Cloth, extra, $1.00.

On more than one occasion Uncle Bill wished himself well rid of the precocious young ones he promised to take care of on their forced sojourn to the sea. They were not bad children by any means, but the embarrassing positions in which they occasionally placed their foster-father and the worryment they needlessly caused him were certainly enough to try his patience. However, he came through the ordeal bravely and learned to love his little niece and nephew very dearly. The tale is prettily told, is true in its pathos, genial in its humor, and is certainly admirable reading for young children.

Boys' Own Book of Out-Door Games and RECREATIONS. Edited by G. A. Hutchison. Over three hundred illustrations. Small 4to. Cloth, $1.75.

This is the most comprehensive, thorough-going, and attractively-written book of the kind published. When we say that Dr. W. G. Grace contributes the chapter on "Cricket, and How to excel in It;" that swimming is dealt with by the late Captain Webb; and that boating and canoeing, cycling, hare and hounds, skating and scuttling, bowls, racquets, la crosse, golf, and a score of other out-door pastimes, are dealt with by masters of their various subjects, we have said enough to justify this statement. There are over three hundred illustrations, and it would be difficult to imagine anything that would be more thoroughly appreciated by a boy than the presentation of this handsome volume.

An Affair of Honour.

A Book for the Young. With numerous Illustrations. Small 4to. Cloth, gilt, $1.50.

"In old days there were angels who came and took men by the hand and led them away from the city of destruction. We see no white-winged angels now, but yet men are led away from threatening destruction; a hand is put in theirs, which leads them forth gently towards a calm and bright land, so they look no more backward; and the hand may be a little child's."—George Eliot.

Maid Marian and Robin Hood.

By J. E. Muddock. With twelve illustrations by Stanley L. Wood. 12mo. Cloth extra, $1.25.

A romance of Old Sherwood Forest that is full of interest to both old and young. The adventures of the bold Robin Hood will never lose their charm, and Mr. Muddock has made of them a fascinating book.

Bimbi.

Stories for Children. By Louisa de la Ramé ("Ouida"). With illustrations by Edmund H. Garrett. 4to. Cloth, $1.50.

"The nine stories for children, which 'Ouida' has written for the little Prince of Naples, and published under the title of 'Bimbi,' are the most fascinating tales imaginable,—pure in thought and purpose, charming in style, with surprising touches of wit, humor, and pathos."—Boston Traveller.

*J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.Axel Ebersen:

THE GRADUATE OF UPSULA. By A. Laurie, author of "Maurice Kerdic," "A Marvellous Conquest," etc. Profusely illustrated. 12mo. Cloth, $1.50.

The author of this instructive and entertaining work has long been favorably known as an excellent writer of stories for boys, and in the history of "Axel Ebersen" has well sustained this reputation. The trials that encompass the hero in his early youth are often found in real life, and as in his case are due to the indulgence of over-anxious parents. But young Ebersen, unlike many lads who ignore with supreme indifference the golden opportunities of their lives, was ever eager to learn, and in later years discovered the value of his early application. The lesson taught by the story is an excellent one.

Treasury of Pleasure-Books.

Containing the popular stories of "Puss in Boots," "The House that Jack Built," "Cock Robin," "Old Mother Hubbard," "The Old Woman and Her Pigs," "Goody Two Shoes," "Peter Piper," and "An Apple Pie." 4to. Very fully illustrated. Cloth, $1.50.

Treasury of Old-Fashioned Fairy-Tales.

Containing "Cinderella," "Dame Trot," "Whittington and His Cat," "Jack the Giant Killer," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Alla Baba," "Bluebeard," "Aladdin," "Fairy-Tale Alphabet." 4to. Very fully illustrated. Cloth, $1.50.

The Triumphs of Steam.

A New Edition, revised and partly rewritten. By Henry Frith, author of "Triumphs of Modern Engineering." With many illustrations by John Gilbert and other artists. One volume. 16mo. Cloth, $1.25.

This volume contains the early history and progress of steam, its application to manufactures and navigation; also sketches of the lives of Watt, Stephenson, and others, the story of whose inventions is so full of interest.

Told After Tea.

A collection of stories illustrated with colored and monotint pictures uniform with Over the Sea. Boards, 4to. $1.50.

The Wide, Wide World.

New Edition. By Elizabeth Wetherell. Complete in one volume, printed from new type. Illustrated with eight full-page drawings and thirty new pen-and-ink sketches by Frederick Dielman. Printed on fine paper. Cloth, $1.00. The same, cheaper edition, printed on thinner paper, with the new thirty pen-and-ink sketches by Dielman. Paper covers, 50 cents.

"In spite of the changes that have taken place in the style of novel writing during the last four decades, this story has maintained to a remarkable degree its popularity, and for good and sufficient reasons. It appeals to the best and tenderest sentiments of the heart, is human in the best sense of the word, is very bright in style, is replete with pleasant humor, and there is a religious vein running through it the uplifting influence of which cannot be ignored."—Boston Home Journal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Chambers's Encyclopædia. Vol. X.

READY IN DECEMBER. COMPLETING THE WORK.

A Dictionary of Art, Science, History, Literature, Fable, Mythology, Biography, Geography, etc. Published under the auspices of W. & R. Chambers, Edinburgh, and J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. An entirely new edition. Price, per vol.: Cloth, $3.00; cloth, uncut, $3.00; sheep, $4.00; half morocco, $4.50. Complete in sets: Ten volumes, cloth, $30.00; cloth, uncut, $30.00; sheep, $40.00; half morocco, $45.00.

Itinerary of General Washington

FROM JUNE 15, 1775, TO DECEMBER 23, 1783. With Portrait. By William S. Baker, author of "The Engraved Portraits of Washington," etc. Special cloth, gilt top, rough edges, $2.50.

Mr. Baker's contributions to Washingtoniana are well known. In the compilation of the present work he exhibits every evidence of extensive research, judgment in selection and entire reliability. His sources of information are the letters of Washington, published and unpublished, "Orderly" books, and contemporaneous diaries and newspapers. The material brought together, covering the period from Washington's appointment as Commander-in-Chief of the Continental forces, June 15th, 1775, to the surrender of his commission, December 23, 1783, is of the most interesting character; and as a concise record of the prominent events in our War for Independence, the volume must become of value both for reference and study.

A Short Course on Zoology.

Designed for High Schools and Academies. By C. De Montmahon and H. Beauregard. Profusely illustrated. Translated and adapted for American schools by Wm. H. Greene, M.D.

This book forms the basis of instruction upon the natural history of animals in the secondary schools of France. In no other country is so high a place assigned to the natural and physical sciences as a means of education. It therefore follows naturally that the French have the best text-books upon these subjects. Translations of their advanced works have been the authorized class-books in American colleges for the last quarter of a century, and Paul Bert's "First Steps in Scientific Knowledge" and "Primer of Scientific Knowledge" have made the successful teaching of elementary science possible in the earlier years of the educational course.

The illustrations form an important feature. Many of the cuts of animals are from photographs, and of special scientific value.

Souvenirs of Occasions.

By Sara Louisa Oberholtzer, author of "Come for Arbutus," "Hope's Heart Bells," etc.

Several years ago appeared a little book of verse by Mrs. Oberholtzer, entitled "Come for Arbutus," of which John G. Whittier said, "It contains many nice bits of poetry, which I have read with much pleasure." The same commendation might also apply to this new volume of poems. So sweet is their tone and so clear the writer's thought and expression, they can not fail to appeal to a large circle of thoughtful readers.

*J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.The Victoria Library for Gentlewomen.

Vol. I. The Gentlewoman in Society. By Lady Greville.

Vol. II. The Gentlewoman's Book of Hygiene. By Dr. Kate Mitchell.

Vol. III. The Gentlewoman's Book of Sports (I.). Edited by Lady Greville. With contributions on Fishing, Boating, Swimming, Skating, Cricket, Golf, Lawn Tennis, Archery, etc.

Vol. IV. Two Aunts and a Nephew. A Story. By Miss M. Betham-Edwards.

Memoirs of Joseph Fouché,

DUKE OF OTRANTO, MINISTER OF THE GENERAL POLICÉ OF FRANCE.
With Portraits. 12mo. Cloth, $3.00. Large paper 8vo edition, $6.00.

The Human, and Its Relations to the Divine.

By Theodore F. Wright, Ph.D. 12mo. Cloth, extra. $1.00.

The author has here endeavored to solve, by means within the reach of all, the problems which present themselves to him who seeks to know man and his relation to God, hoping thus to be of some use in resisting the tendency of studious minds to cast off faith, and in leading them to build on firm foundations houses which shall be both sanctuaries and fortresses. The word of God is frequently referred to, but undogmatically, and many writers are cited.—Preface.

The History and Theory of Money.

By Sidney Sherwood, Ph.D., Wharton School of Finance and Economy, University of Pennsylvania. 8vo. Cloth, $2.00.

Being a special course of twelve lectures on finance, with syllabus and attendant discussions, delivered under the auspices of the Association Local Centre of the American Society for the Extension of University Teaching, and the patronage of the bankers of Philadelphia.

The International Magazine Pocket Visiting

LIST. Thirty and Sixty Patients each week. 1893. Arranged for the use of Practitioners. By J. C. Wilson, M.D. Pocket-Book form. Thirty Patients, $1.25; Sixty Patients, $1.50.

Mother and Child.

Part I., Mother. By Edward P. Davis, A.M., M.D. Part II., Child. By John M. Keating, M.D., LL.D. Crown 8vo. Cloth.

"The aim of this instructive and readable manual has been not to supplant the physician, but to supplement his advice and render intelligible those matters that mothers and nurses find difficult to understand. As the result of large experience, the views of the authors are necessarily definite and positive; but the experience of others causes them to differ in many points of detail and management, and in order to make the book cover as large a field as possible they have added much material from the writings of other physicians whose opinions have great weight and whose advice is of incalculable value."—Preface.

Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder.

A Text-Book for Students of Medicine. By W. F. McNutt, M.D., M.R.C.S. Ed., L.R.C.P. Ed., Professor of the Principles and Practice of Medicine, University of California, etc. Crown 8vo. Cloth.

"The medical student alone will value at its full worth this exhaustive text-book on a topic scarcely ever before treated with such thoroughness. There have been innumerable writers on special diseases of the kidneys, and the subject necessarily forms a part of all comprehensive works on pathology. But a single volume devoted to this subject in all its varying phases and prepared by an eminent specialist is a convenience which every owner of a medical library will consider essential to his collection, no matter how full his shelves may be of the less complete material."—Preface.

Human Origins:

EVIDENCE FROM HISTORY AND SCIENCE. By Samuel Laing, author of "Modern Science and Modern Thought." With Illustrations. 8vo. Cloth, $1.25.

Night Etchings.

By A. R. G. 12mo. Printed on hand-made paper. Cloth, extra, gilt top, $1.25.

Tuned to sweet, plaintive minor chords and giving expression to the genuine sentiments of a thoughtful mind, "Night Etchings" is a handful of poems that will win the interested attention of those who care for poetry which thinks and thought which is poetical. Among the more pensive verses "The Old Place" is pathetic and tender, "Selection" is a very graceful allegory full of quiet emotion, and "To Catharine Van Nest" is a lyric which carries with its warm friendship the willing heart of the reader. It is simple, direct, musical.

A Shadow's Shadow.

By Lulah Ragsdale. 12mo. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

A brilliant novel in which the contest for the mastery of a girl's heart between love and ambition (called by Hamlet "A Shadow's Shadow") is a long and passionate one. The making of the book is in attractive style, with large type and specially-designed cover.

Barbara Dering.

A Sequel to "THE QUICK OR THE DEAD?" By Amélie Rives. 12mo. Cloth.

Sir Godfrey's Grand-daughters.

By Rosa Nouchette Carey, author of "Mary St. John," "Nellie's Memories," "Not Like Other Girls," etc. Copyrighted in Lippincott's Series of Select Novels. 12mo. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, 75 cents.

AUTUMN ANNOUNCEMENT.

New Books and New Editions

In Preparation and to be Published during the Autumn of 1892.

Arranged Alphabetically by Names of Authors and Titles of Series.

Charles Francis Adams.

Three Episodes in Massachusetts History. By CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, author of "Richard Henry Dana," etc. With two Maps. 2 vols. crown 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

The first Episode deals exhaustively with the settlement of Massachusetts Bay, showing the struggle which took place between the royal party represented by Sir Ferdinando Gorges, and the Puritans led by John Winthrop. This story has never been fully written before, and Mr. Adams here shows the close connection between Gorges and Archbishop Laud. In this Episode the stories of the Maypole of Merrymount and of Miles Standish's struggle with the Indians at Wessagusset are also told.

The second Episode deals with the early religious dispute in Massachusetts known as the Antinomian controversy, the account of which is now for the first time written from a modern or agnostic point of view. The story is a most interesting one, and many of the conclusions reached by previous writers are controverted. A vivid picture is given of the theological, social, and intellectual condition of New England in 1630-40.

The third Episode describes the slow growth and gradual development of a Massachusetts town from 1640 to 1890, and is practically a close study, from original sources, of New England town government, its origin, methods, and results. Braintree and Quincy are taken merely as typical; matters of detail, or of purely local interest, are avoided, and the modes of thought and action, political, religious, and moral, which contributed to the making of New England, are described, so far as possible, in the language of the time. The whole is thus studied in one of the component parts.

Herbert B. Adams.

The Life and Writings of Jared Sparks. Comprising Selections from his Journals and Correspondence. By HERBERT B. ADAMS, Ph. D., LL. D., Professor in the Johns Hopkins University. With four heliotype portraits. Limited Edition from type. 2 vols. 8vo.

Jared Sparks as an eminent clergyman, as the first professor of history in Harvard College and later as president of that institution, as editor of

The North American Review, and as biographer of Washington and Franklin, has peculiar claims to the honor of his countrymen and to the worthy memorial which Dr. Adams has produced. A great wealth of well-arranged literary, biographical, and historical material was put at his service. Part of this comprised letters by Mr. Sparks, and letters to him from illustrious men and literary contemporaries, — Jefferson, Madison, Marshall, Story, John Quincy Adams, Webster, Clay, Cass, Everett, George Ticknor, Prescott, Bancroft, Lord Holland, De Tocqueville, and many others.

While due attention has been given to biographical details, Dr. Adams has devoted much more to Sparks's editorial, biographical, and historical labors, and the result is a work of singular value and varied interest.

John Albee.

Prose Idyls. By JOHN ALBEE. 1 vol.

A tasteful little volume, full of engaging fancies which might have been clothed in verse, but are presented in delicate prose. The variety and range of the subjects treated are indicated by the titles, some of which are as follows: White Thoughts, The Grammarian in Love, The Cracked Bell, The Bird Sang, Reminiscence of Virgil, The Madonna, The Statue of my Friend, The Faith Curer, The Queen's Handkerchief, Love Letters, The Soul of Things, The House Door, The Voice, The Superfluous Man, Brethren of the Common Lot, The Family Mirror, The Pool, Pigmies, The Devil's Bargain. These are treated in a fresh, attractive style, and are sensible, thoughtful, humorous, pathetic, and quaint prose idyls, making a delightful book.

William Allan.

The Army of Northern Virginia in 1862. By WILLIAM ALLAN, Colonel in the Confederate Army. 1 vol. 8vo.

The late Colonel Allan had in other works given ample proof of his high qualities as a military critic. He was an officer in the Confederate service, but this fact did not unduly bias his judgment. He did not reserve his praise for Confederate officers and exploits, nor his censure for those of the Union army; but wrote in an excellent spirit, as well as with full knowledge of facts and a military experience which enabled him to speak with authority on many important points. His work is a valuable contribution to the military history of the Secession war, and will find interested readers among those who wore the blue, hardly less than among those who wore the gray.

American Poems.

American Poems. Selected from the Works of LONGFELLOW, WHITTIER, BRYANT, HOLMES, LOWELL, and EMERSON. Edited for School use, with Biographical Sketches, and Notes explaining the Historical and Personal Allusions, by HORACE E. SCUDDER. New Revised Edition, from entirely new plates. 12mo, $1.00, net.

The selections are as follows: —

LONGFELLOW: Evangeline; The Courtship of Miles Standish; The Building of the Ship.

WHITTIER: Snow-Bound; Among the Hills; Mabel Martin; Cobbler Keesar's Vision; Barclay of Ury; The Two Rabbis; The Gift of Tritemius; The Brother of Mercy; The Prophecy of Samuel Sewall; Maud Muller.

BRYANT: Sella; The Little People of the Snow.

HOLMES: Grandmother's Story of Bunker Hill Battle; The School-Boy.

LOWELL: The Vision of Sir Launfal; Under the Willows; Under the Old Elm; Agassiz.

EMERSON: The Adirondacks; The Titmouse; Monadnoc.

APPENDIX: In the Laboratory with Agassiz.

This selection of entire masterpieces from the poetical works of the eminent authors named has for several years been in such demand for school use that it is now brought out from entirely new plates with large type, uniform with the popular "Masterpieces of American Literature."

American Prose.

American Prose. Selections of entire Essays, Sketches, and Stories, from the Works of HAWTHORNE, IRVING, LONGFELLOW, WHITTIER, HOLMES, LOWELL, THOREAU, and EMERSON. Edited, for School use, with Introduction and Notes, by HORACE E. SCUDDER. New Revised Edition, from entirely new plates. 12mo, $1.00, net.

The selections comprised in this book are as follows:—

HAWTHORNE: The Snow-Image; The Great Stone Face; Drowne's Wooden Image; Howe's Masquerade.

IRVING: Rip Van Winkle; Little Britain.

LONGFELLOW: The Valley of the Loire; Journey into Spain.

WHITTIER: Yankee Gypsies; The Boy Captives.

HOLMES: The Gambrel-Roofed House.

LOWELL: My Garden Acquaintance; Abraham Lincoln; Books and Libraries.

THOREAU: Sounds; Brute Neighbors; The Highland Light.

EMERSON: Behavior; Books.

This book has proved so acceptable for school use that it is now printed from wholly new plates with large type, uniform with "American Poems" and "Masterpieces of American Literature."

Jane G. Austin.

David Alden's Daughter, and Other Stories of Colonial Times.

By JANE G. AUSTIN, author of "A Nameless Nobleman," "Standish of Standish," "Betty Alden," "Doctor LeBaron and his Daughters," etc.

16mo, $1.25.

Mrs. Austin has won for herself the rank of romance-laureate of the Old Plymouth Colony. Her historical novels treating of its early years reproduce so faithfully and vividly the famous characters of that colony, the spirit and temper of the time, that we are eager for additional volumes from so skillful a hand on a subject of such perennial interest. The book she now offers is not a novel, but a series of stories, each representing some noteworthy character or incident or aspect of colonial times. A large circle of readers will give it most hearty welcome.

Judah P. Benjamin.

Benjamin's Treatise on the Law of Sale of Personal Property.

With references to the American Decisions and to the French Code and Civil Law. Sixth American Edition, reprinted from the latest English Edition, edited by Messrs. ARTHUR BEILBY PEARSON-GEE and HUGH FENWICK BOYD, of the Inner Temple, London, and newly edited and revised, with American Notes, by the Hon. EDMUND H. BENNETT, Dean of the Law School of the Boston University, and SAMUEL C. BENNETT. 1 vol. 8vo, sheep, $6.00, net.

Important additions have been made to this edition, which render it indispensable to every attorney who wishes the latest knowledge in this branch of the law. Judge Bennett's edition of Benjamin on Sales has been unanimously recognized as the standard.

John Brown.

Spare Hours. By JOHN BROWN, M. D. New Edition. With a fine portrait. 3 vols. 16mo, tastefully bound, $3 00.

This is an attractive edition of three books, which contain some of the wisest and some of the most delightful essays in English literature. Among these are Rab and his Friends, Marjorie Fleming ("Pet Marjorie"), Jeems the Door-Keeper, Thackeray's Literary Career, Our Dogs, John Leech, etc. The London Times rightly called Dr. John Brown "a man of genius;" and the Boston Christian Register said: "There have been no more polished, thoughtful, and elevated essays published in this age, abounding equally in pensive sentiment and genial refined humor."

Edwin Lassetter Bynner.

Zachary Phips. A Novel. By EDWIN LASSETTER BYNNER, author of "Agnes Surriage," "Penelope's Suitors," and "The Begum's Daughter." 1 vol. 16mo.

Mr. Bynner continues to cultivate the field from which he has already brought so rich harvests. The many readers of "Agnes Surriage" and "The Begum's Daughter" will gladly welcome a new historical novel of equal or greater excellence. Zachary Phips, a Boston boy, runs away from home, goes through the Aaron Burr Expedition, the war of 1812, and the Seminole war, and becomes connected with the American legation at London. Admirable use is made of historical events and situations; there is even more adventure than story of the ordinary type; and a humorous element adds very greatly to the interest of the book.

Rowland Cox.

A Manual of Trade-Mark Cases, comprising Sebastian's Digest of Trade-Mark Cases, covering all the Cases reported prior to 1879, together with those of a leading character decided since that time. With Notes and References by ROWLAND COX. Second Edition, enlarged. With colored Facsimiles. 8vo, sheep, $6.00, net.

This work is generally recognized as the authority on the subject of Trade-marks. Mr. Cox has preserved the meritorious characteristics of Mr. Sebastian's work, and supplemented them with annotations, additions, and references intended to meet the wants of manufacturers and merchants as well as lawyers. The cases are not digested in a technical sense, but are rather reported in brief, so that they are in the nature of sharply defined precedents, which are as intelligible to the layman as to the lawyer. The annotations consist of notes of decisions, extracts from opinions, and other explanatory matter.

In this edition the new cases are more fully reported, with annotations and cross-references. It is thought that the true evolution of the law of trade-marks is to be found in the recent decisions of the House of Lords, the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, and other Courts of Last Resort, and that by connecting these important adjudications with those of earlier date by cross-references and annotations, the subject is more satisfactorily treated than it could be in any other way.

A distinctive feature of this edition is a series of admirable facsimiles in colors, which illustrate the doctrine of infringement, and are actual reproductions of the trade-marks involved in the cases to which they relate.

Margaret Deland.

The Story of a Child. By MARGARET DELAND, author of "John Ward, Preacher," "Sidney," "The Old Garden," etc. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

Admirers of Mrs. Deland, who may have feared that her remarkable success in writing novels involving theological questions would tempt her to continue in that direction, will be interested to learn that her new story is not at all of that kind. It is a story of child life and character, but is not written for children. It appeals to mature readers, and presents the silent, unexpressed side of an imaginative child's character in a way at once effective, sympathetic, and delightful. It can hardly fail to find a large circle of readers, not a few of whom will pronounce it even better than "John Ward" and "Sidney."

Theodore Ayrault Dodge.

Cæsar. A History of the Art of War among the Romans from the Era of Marius to the Fall of the Roman Empire, with a detailed account of the Campaigns of Caius Julius Cæsar. By THEODORE A. DODGE, Colonel U. S. Army. With Portrait Bust of Cæsar, 250 Maps, Charts, and other Illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo, gilt top, $5.00.

This is the third volume in Colonel Dodge's Series of Great Captains, the two previous volumes being devoted to Alexander and Hannibal. The basis of this third book is, of course, Cæsar's Commentaries, the special flavor of which Colonel Dodge has retained by adhering closely to its narrative, and by frequent extracts. Maps of the theatre of Cæsar's campaigns and charts of his battlefields enable the reader to understand his movements and battles as readily as those of our Civil War.

Colonel Dodge has visited all of Cæsar's battlefields, and made topographical sketches; he has followed the course of the Roman legions through Spain, France, Italy, Egypt, Northern Africa, Syria, and Greece. His criticisms are based on intimate acquaintance with the scenes, and on study of the ancient authorities and modern historians. This volume is of the same high character as the others, which have been emphatically commended by leading American and foreign critics.

W. H. Edwards.

The Butterflies of North America. By W. H. EDWARDS. Third Series. Part XIII. With three colored plates and descriptive text. Price $2.25, net.

CONTENTS: CHIONOBAS II. (Chionobas Chryxus); CHIONOBAS V. (Chionobas Jutta); CHIONOBAS VI. (Chionobas Crambis); CHIONOBAS VI. (Chionobas Brucei).

"They [the Plates] are uniformly exquisite, and lepidopterists the world over are indebted to Mr. Edwards for the faithfulness and luxury of the illustrations. By text and plates he has enriched the natural history of our native butterflies to such an extent . . . that the butterfly fauna of the United States is now quite as well known and illustrated as that of any equal region elsewhere, not excluding the long-gleaned fields of Europe." — Science, No. 140.

A few copies of Volumes I. and II., bound in half morocco, can still be supplied, at $35.00 and $40.00, net, respectively.

Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Natural History of Intellect, and Other Papers. By RALPH WALDO EMERSON. With a General Index to Emerson's Collected Works.

Riverside Edition. 1 vol. 12mo, gilt top, $1.75; Little Classic Edition, 18mo, $1.25. Large-Paper Edition, uniform with the Large-Paper Edition of Emerson's previous works, $4.00, net.

CONTENTS: Natural History of Intellect; Memory; Boston; Michael Angelo; Milton; Papers from the Dial: Thoughts on Modern Literature, Walter Savage Landor, Prayers, Agriculture of Massachusetts, Europe and European Books, Past and Present, A Letter, The Tragic.

In this volume are gathered papers not included in any of Mr. Emerson's books previously published, and part of it has never before been printed. The "Natural History of Intellect" comprises the available portion of a series of lectures at Harvard University. The book will be a welcome surprise to many of Mr. Emerson's admirers, who had hardly dared to hope for an additional volume of his wonderful essays.

J. Walter Fewkes (Editor).

A Journal of American Ethnology and Archæology. Editor, J.

WALTER FEWKES. Vol. III. 8vo, paper, $2.00; boards, $2.50.

Like the two previous volumes of this Journal, this contains important contributions to our knowledge of Indian life and customs. Three chapters are devoted to An Outline of the Documentary History of the Zuni Tribe, followed by Somatological Observations on Indians of the Southwest.

Mary Hallock Foote.

The Chosen Valley. A Novel. By MARY HALLOCK FOOTE, author of "John Bodewin's Testimony," "Led-Horse Claim," etc. 1 vol 16mo.

Mrs. Foote's previous stories of Western frontier life have not exhausted her experiences and observations. She now offers another novel which ought to enlist the attention of a host of readers, by virtue of the unlikeness of its scenes, incidents, and characters to those which make the ordinary novel; and yet more by the tone which it derives from the fact that the author is a lady and an artist. It is emphatically American, yet has the true literary quality which lifts it into the cosmopolitanism of universal human nature and experience.

The Gentleman's Magazine Library.

Being a Classified Collection of the chief contents of the "Gentleman's Magazine," from 1731 to 1868. Edited by G. LAURENCE GOMME, F. S. A. Each volume, 8vo, $2.50; *Roxburgh, printed on hand-made paper, $3.50, net; *Large-Paper Edition, Roxburgh (50 copies), printed on hand-made paper, $6.00, net. Single volumes sold in cloth only; the Roxburgh style and Large-Paper Edition are sold only by subscription for the entire set. Twelve volumes have already appeared.

Vol. 13. English Topography. Part II.

The volumes already issued of the Gentleman's Magazine Library form a valuable and exceedingly interesting collection of facts in the departments of Manners and Customs; Dialect, Proverbs, and Word-Lore; Popular Superstitions; English Traditions and Foreign Customs; Archæology; Romano-British Remains; Literary Curiosities; Bibliographical Notes; and Architectural Antiquities.

Nicholas Paine Gilman.

Socialism and the American Spirit. By NICHOLAS PAINE GILMAN. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

This work, by the author of "Profit Sharing between Employer and Employee," is a discussion of the present position and the probable future of socialism and social reform in the United States. After two introductory chapters on Individualism and Socialism and the Present Tendency to Socialism, the author outlines the principal characteristics of the American Spirit, defining its general attitude toward the extremes of individualism and socialism. "Nationalism" and "Christian Socialism" are criticised from this standpoint. Constructive chapters follow on The Industrial Future, Political and Social Reform, and Industrial Partnership. The argument for profit sharing is stated in a new form, and information concerning the progress of the movement is brought down to date. The last three chapters consider The Way to Utopia, The Higher Individualism, and The Social Spirit; and a select bibliography closes the volume.

The subjects handled have varied historical, economic, literary, ethical, and religious bearings, and they are treated in literary form without detriment to their scientific interest.

Rev. M. L. Gordon.

An American Missionary in Japan. By M. L. GORDON, M. D., D. D.
With an Introductory Note by Rev. Dr. WILLIAM E. GRIFFIS. 1 vol.

Dr. Gordon makes a distinct, valuable, and very interesting contribution to our knowledge of Japan. He has lived in that country twenty years, and is in every way exceptionally competent to speak of the features, obstacles, and results of missionary effort there. He gives a clear description of missionary life, the difficulties and humors which attend mastering the language and studying the people; then tells how American missionaries began work, the organization and growth of churches, the success of native preachers, and the development of self-support and self-government among the churches. He writes of the Doshisha University, Medical Missions, Christian Womanhood, Christian Literature, Varieties of Buddhism, Comparative Religion as a matter of Experience, New Japan, and the Present Outlook. An Appendix contains much information on various topics.

Dr. Gordon is one of the ablest and most highly esteemed missionaries of the American Board, and his book will be accepted as an authentic and authoritative account of American missionary work in Japan.

William Elliot Griffis, D. D.

Japan: In History, Folk-Lore, and Art. By WILLIAM ELLIOT GRIFFIS, D. D., author of "The Mikado's Empire," "Matthew Calbraith Perry," "The Lily among Thorns," etc. Vol. 10 of the Riverside Library for Young People. With a Map. 16mo, 75 cents.

Dr. Griffis, who by years of residence in Japan is exceptionally qualified to write of that country and its people, has here given in compact form the history of Japan, so far as this can be readily understood by Westerners, and an account of the change from Old Japan to New. He has told a number of interesting stories from the Japanese folk-lore, and has described many of the Japanese customs, — making an excellent book to introduce Japan to American young people.

Joel Chandler Harris.

Uncle Remus and his Friends. By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, author of "Nights with Uncle Remus," etc. 1 vol. 12mo.

In this volume Mr. Harris concludes the series of Uncle Remus stories which have won such wide popularity. Uncle Remus is one of the few classic characters in American fiction. Indeed, he hardly seems to belong to the realm of fiction, he is so real, so true to life, so accurately and delightfully representative of his race in the Southern States. His philosophy, his humor, and his views of life contribute to "the gayety of nations," at least to their kindly entertainment; and his pathos is closely allied to his humor, and is both touching and wholesome.

Nathaniel Hawthorne.

A Wonder-Book for Girls and Boys. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

Splendidly illustrated in colors by WALTER CRANE. Containing twenty exquisite full-page pictures in colors, and with about forty head-pieces, tail-pieces, and initials, also in color. Printed on the best of paper, from old style type, in a form approved by Mr. Crane, and bound from his own designs. 8vo, $3.00.

Edition de Luxe. Limited to 250 copies. With the full-page Illustrations carefully mounted. Printed on imported English paper, and with every detail of binding, etc., in accord with the beauty of the contents. In one volume, 8vo.

This is one of the most important illustrated volumes ever produced by the Riverside Press. The typography is peculiarly satisfactory, the type having been carefully selected, and the paper and binding are in harmony with the artistic character of the illustrations, which are in color,—the supreme attraction of the volume. These are in Mr. Crane's most felicitous style. They represent the striking figures in Hawthorne's delightful stories of classical myths and legends, and are little masterpieces of colored reproduction. The title-page, lining-paper, and cover are also designed by Mr. Crane, so that the book throughout expresses his ideas from cover to cover.

This De Luxe Edition is of course "the edition" to possess; for the publishers have taken advantage of the occasion to make it in this form, especially for the increasing number of persons who wish their editions to be not only fine, but rare. Every accessory of this edition has been thought out with care; and the result is a volume which the collector will recognize that he must possess.

The House of the Seven Gables. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Riverside Paper Series. Printed from large type. 16mo, 50 cents.

This story is here offered in a very inexpensive style. The popular editions of "The Scarlet Letter" have enjoyed great popular favor, and "The House of the Seven Gables," in similar convenient and tasteful form, will have a like popularity.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Dorothy Q., A Ballad of the Boston Tea-Party, and Grandmother's Story of Bunker Hill Battle. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. With a portrait of Dorothy Q., and with profuse illustrations and decorative borders for the text, with head and tail pieces, by HOWARD PYLE. Bound from designs by MRS. HENRY WHITMAN. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

Edition de Luxe, limited to 250 copies. With three frontispieces in photogravure and the decorative borders exquisitely printed in color. Printed on paper specially imported for this book, and of larger size than the ordinary edition. 1 vol. 8vo.

This is a companion volume to "The One-Hoss Shay," published last year,—just as unique, yet wholly different. The three poems included in the new book are among the most popular even of Dr. Holmes's popular poems. They are spirited in a rare degree; they are picturesque and graphic; and they have a grace and a refinement which give them their crowning charm. They are arranged in chronological order, and all belong to a period which

Mr. Howard Pyle is particularly happy in portraying. He has made one hundred designs, and the book will be full of delightful pictures of colonial and revolutionary life, and exquisite decorative borders will appear on almost every page. Its delicacy will remind one of the best products of the French press.

The Limited Edition is thoroughly de luxe. It has been the aim of the publishers to give it a kind of elegance seldom met with in a book, and they have succeeded in increasing the lightness and daintiness of its pages by introducing colored borders, somewhat in the French taste. The book opens well; the printing is faultless; and the binding is new and in keeping with the design of the volume. Thus this Edition de Luxe is the perfection of book-making in its way.

Leonard A. Jones.

Forms in Conveyancing, and General Legal Forms, Comprising Precedents for Ordinary Use, and Clauses adapted to Special and Unusual Cases. With Practical Notes. By LEONARD A. JONES. Third Revised Edition. 8vo, law sheep, $6.00, net.

These forms are intended for general use in all parts of the country. They are arranged under the following titles: Acknowledgments, Agreements, Appointments, Apprenticeship, Arbitration, Assignments, Powers of Attorney, Auction Sale, Bills of Sale, Bonds, Building Contracts, Charter Party, Composition with Creditors, Declaration of Trusts, Deeds, Guaranty, Leases, Mortgages, Notices, Partnership, Party Wall Agreements, Patents, Pledges and Collateral Securities, Protests, Railroad Car Trusts, Railroad Consolidation, Releases, Separation Deeds, Settlements, Trade-Marks, Wills.

The West Coast Reporter, of San Francisco, speaking of an earlier edition of this work, said: "The forms given are numerous, well selected, and adapted to the every-day needs of the practitioner. The whole ground of conveyancing, from the simplest deed of agreement to the most involved form of railroad mortgage, is covered by this book."

Rodolfo Lanciani.

Pagan and Christian Rome. By RODOLFO LANCIANI, author of "Ancient Rome in the Light of Modern Discoveries." With numerous illustrations. In Roman binding, with a slip cover. 1 vol. square 8vo.

This is a companion volume to "Ancient Rome in the Light of Modern Discoveries," which has enjoyed a very remarkable popularity. It is even more full of historic and human interest than that. Its seven chapters describe The Transformation of Rome from a Pagan into a Christian City; Temples; Churches; Pagan Cemeteries; Catacombs; Tombs of Emperors; and Tombs of Popes. It covers the first five centuries of the Christian era, and depicts the gradual yet marvelous metamorphosis which passed upon the Rome of the Cæsars, making it the capital city of the Christian world. Like Professor Lanciani's previous work, it is historical and based on the rich results of archæological research and discovery. It is profusely illustrated with views, of great variety and not generally accessible. In all the details of manufacture the work will be brought out in the most careful manner.

Lucy Larcom.

At the Beautiful Gate. With Songs and Aspirations. By LUCY LARCOM. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

Many readers of Miss Larcom's poetry have wished for just such a book from her as is here offered, one containing her hymns and lyrics on sacred subjects. She has gathered from the Household Edition of her poems those specially suited for this purpose, which make about two thirds of the new volume, the remainder never having appeared in book form. Not a few of Miss Larcom's hymns have been printed in American and English hymn-books, for which they are admirably adapted by virtue of their inspiring thought, lyrical quality, and devotional spirit. Indeed, the very essence of faith, hope, and love pervades these poems, and will render them peculiarly welcome and helpful to thousands of thoughtful and aspiring souls.

The little book is an excellent companion volume to Miss Larcom's two latest books, "As it is in Heaven" and "The Unseen Friend."

Henry Cabot Lodge.

Historical and Political Essays. By HENRY CABOT LODGE, author of "Studies in History," and of "George Washington," "Alexander Hamilton," and "Daniel Webster," in the American Statesmen Series. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

In this volume Mr. Lodge gathers eight papers, three devoted to illustrious American statesmen, and most of the others to questions of importance which have arisen in American politics within a few years past. Those who appreciate the ability and vigor which Mr. Lodge brings to whatever subject he discusses will read with peculiar interest this book, which has essays on William H. Seward, James Madison, Gouverneur Morris, Why Patronage is un-American, Distribution of Ability in the United States, Parliamentary Obstruction in the United States, Parliamentary Minorities, Party Allegiance.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Evangeline. By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. With photogravure reproductions of sixteen designs by F. O. C. DARLEY. Handsomely bound. 8vo, $2.00.

Edition de Luxe. Limited to 150 copies, beautifully printed on imported hand-made paper; the photogravures on India paper. 8vo, full vellum, $5.00, net.

No other artist has equaled Darley in reproducing pictorially the most characteristic features of Longfellow's world-famous poem. He has entered sympathetically into its spirit and into the experiences described; and his cunning pencil has portrayed the scenes and incidents and figures of that simple, sweet, tragic story of Acadia, so that the whole gains from his pictures a new significance and charm. The reproduction of these designs by photogravure retains all the strength and character of the originals.

The book is to be of the same size as "The Scarlet Letter," with Darley's illustrations, recently published, and is a convenient volume for the library, and a beautiful book for a gift.

Edward J. Lowell.

The Eve of the French Revolution. By EDWARD J. LOWELL. 1 vol. 8vo, $2.00.

Mr. Lowell here gives an admirably clear and comprehensive view of one of the most important and engrossing periods of modern history. He depicts the distinctive features and personal elements of France in the years just before Old France disappeared in the cyclone of the French Revolution. He describes the King, the Court, the Army, the Nobility, Paris, the Provincial towns, the County Taxation, the Cahiers of the States General, etc. He devotes a chapter to Montesquieu and his works, and recognizes the influence of the French philosophers. Full information, accuracy of statement, an impartial spirit, and a clear style give his work much positive value.

James Russell Lowell.

The Old English Dramatists. By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL. 1 vol. crown 8vo. Uniform with the Riverside Edition of Lowell's works, also in fancy binding.

Large-Paper Edition, uniform with the Large-Paper Editions of Lowell's previous works.

CONTENTS: Introductory; Marlowe; Webster; Chapman; Beaumont and Fletcher; Middleton and Ford.

In the spring of 1887, Mr. Lowell gave six lectures at the Lowell Institute. They were rapidly written and were never revised by the author. Mr. Charles Eliot Norton, who has carefully edited them, says: "They contain such admirable and interesting criticism, and are in themselves such genuine pieces of good literature, that it has seemed to me that they should be given to the public." They may lack something of the elaboration and completeness of the masterly essays on great writers in Lowell's works, but they show the same wealth of learning which suggests that instead of exhausting his resources he has merely begun to impart of his knowledge and reflection; the same fertility of allusion, which in his prose writings is always so conspicuous and delightful a feature; the same large and keen appreciation of all noble and subtle thought and fine felicity of utterance. The book will be a most welcome addition to the remarkable critical literature for which we are so greatly indebted to Mr. Lowell.

Mary E. Orvis Marbury.

Favorite Flies and Their Histories. With Replies from Experienced Anglers to Inquiries concerning how, when, and where to use them. By MARY E. ORVIS MARBURY. Very fully and beautifully illustrated. 1 vol. 12mo, $5.00.

Mr. J. A. Henshall, connected with the United States Fish Commission, whose judgment is of peculiar weight, after seeing this book in manuscript, pronounced it "the best work on the subject ever written," adding: "I know of no one who is so well fitted and so competent to write such a book as Mrs. Marbury, who has given years of thought, study, and research to the subject of artificial flies. . . . The book contains just such information as all fly-fishers are in search of."

Oliver T. Morton.

The Southern Empire. By OLIVER T. MORTON. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.25.

Americans, though theoretically democratic, are glad and proud to recognize hereditary power; and this book will be welcomed all the more heartily as coming from the son of the distinguished "war governor" and United States Senator of Indiana. The volume contains three thoughtful and vigorous essays: The Southern Empire, a study of the probable effect on the Western world of a successful result of the Southern rebellion; Some Popular Objections to Civil Service Reform, a paper of excellent breadth and spirit; and The Rise of Oxford University, a historical article of much interest.

Francis Philip Nash (Editor).

Two Satires by Juvenal. With Notes by FRANCIS PHILIP NASH, M. A., Professor of the Latin Language and Literature in Hobart College. 1 vol. 12mo.

This edition of two of Juvenal's Satires is available for post-graduate courses, though it specially addresses itself to advanced classical scholars who are interested in a careful study of the satirist. Omitting such matter as scholars of but moderate attainments understand, Professor Nash in the notes supplies briefly such biographical, historical, and geographical facts as even excellent scholars may not have in mind, so that the volume may be taken on a journey without books of reference. In addition to the old material which must be included, this edition contains helpful summaries of critical opinion on the "cruces" of the author, and many novel and interesting suggestions. Brief introductions, a copious index, and a bibliographical list add to the usefulness and completeness of the book.

Norton's Dante.

The New Life of Dante. Translated by CHARLES ELIOT NORTON, Professor of Art in Harvard University. With Notes and Essays. Uniform with Mr. Norton's Translation of the Divine Comedy. New Edition, revised. 1 vol. crown 8vo, gilt top, $1.25.

Mr. Norton has carefully revised his translation of Dante's Vita Nuova (which is devoted to Dante's love for Beatrice), that it may be in all respects uniform with his translation of the Divina Commedia recently completed and welcomed with great favor by the most competent judges.

Dante's Divine Comedy and New Life. Translated by CHARLES ELIOT NORTON. Limited Large-Paper Edition.

This edition will be of a size particularly adapted to the library, and convenient for students' use; it will also appeal to the book-lover for its careful printing and fine quality of paper.

James Breck Perkins.

France under the Regency, with a Review of the Administration of Louis XIV. By JAMES BRECK PERKINS, author of "France under Richelieu and Mazarin." 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

Mr. Perkins, who has already treated certain portions of French history with a knowledge and a skill which have won him no little reputation, in this volume discusses the interesting period of the regency of the Duke of Orleans and the long reign of Louis XIV. The titles of its chapters indicate the important subjects treated, — France in the Eighteenth Century; The Early Years of the Administration of Louis XIV.; Wars with Spain and Holland; Colbert; Louis the Great; The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes; Coalitions against France; The Spanish Succession; The Close of the Reign of Louis XIV.; The Regency; Dubois and the English Alliance; The Quadruple Alliance and War with Spain; Low and his System; The Mississippi Company and its Failure; The Ministry of Dubois; The Close of the Regency; The Morals of the Regency.

Mr. Perkins has consulted official documents and diplomatic correspondence, printed and in manuscript; his characterization of the leading figures and principal scenes is clear and vigorous; and his style will attract readers to the valuable work he here offers them.

Edna Dean Proctor.

The Song of the Ancient People. By EDNA DEAN PROCTOR, author of "Poems," "A Russian Journey," etc. With an Introduction by JOHN FISKE and Notes by FRANK HAMILTON CUSHING. With ten colored illustrations by JULIAN SCOTT, reproduced in Aquatint. One volume, octavo.

This poem is unique in American literature. It is virtually an utterance of the Pueblo people themselves, out of their own life and experience. From its opening lines, —

"We are the Ancient People;
Our Father is the Sun;"

to its close, it is a passionate, pathetic, proud outpouring of racial and tribal feeling with reference to the past, when the Pueblos were supreme, and to the present, when they are encompassed by the conquering white men. It is not a fanciful characterization. Every allusion is based upon some fact in the history or habits or beliefs of the people, as the notes attest; and as these people are the remnant of perhaps the oldest and most remarkable of the primitive Americans, the poem is invested with peculiar and permanent interest, and is a significant and rare memorial of this Anniversary year. The illustrations by Mr. Julian Scott, who has lived among these Indians, are excellent, both artistically and as portraying with effective grace the life and customs of the Ancient People, and are admirably reproduced in colors. The book will be brought out in a binding befitting its peculiar character, and cannot fail to be one of the most beautiful and unique volumes of the year.

Riverside Literature Series.

No. 54. The Merchant of Venice. From the Riverside Shakespeare. Pruned, not abridged, for School use. Edited and annotated by SAMUEL THURBER, Master of the Girls' High School, Boston. 12mo, paper, 15 cents net.

Mr. Thurber, who is a teacher of large experience, has availed himself of the excellent text and notes of the Riverside Edition of Shakespeare, edited by Richard Grant White; and by judicious pruning, which is by no means an abridgment, and by notes at once brief, clear, and not needlessly numerous, he has produced an edition of this favorite play which is admirably suited for use in schools and for membership in the Riverside Literature Series, which has grown to large proportions and to a very remarkable popularity among both teachers and pupils.

Riverside Paper Series.

The additions to this series for the autumn and early winter months are as follows:—

No. 50. The House of Seven Gables. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

No. 51. Roland Blake. By S. WEIR MITCHELL, M. D.

No. 52. Somebody's Neighbors. By ROSE TERRY COOKE.

No. 52. Extra. The Story of a Bad Boy. By THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

No. 53. An Average Man. By ROBERT GRANT.

Each 16mo, 50 cents.

The Riverside Paper Series offers, in an attractive form and at a very low price, a large variety of excellent reading, including many of the best novels and short stories ever written in America.

The Riverside Primer and Reader.

The Riverside Primer and Reader. With Illustrations. 16mo.

This book claims, like others of its class, to apply correctly the principles of pedagogy to the work of a child in learning to read and to write; special attention has been given to the grading and to the introduction of interesting, instructive, and thought-provoking exercises. An important and novel feature is the Silent Reading, which requires the pupil to show, by acting out a sentence before reading it aloud, that his reading is the expression of thought, rather than the mere uttering of words.

The book claims also, and here it is wholly unlike others of its class, to be an effective stepping-stone to literature. It recognizes the fact that the vocabulary of even the simplest literature is not identical with that of the nursery. It leads a pupil up unconsciously to the literature of childhood by the gradual introduction of such new simple words as he will find in books. It contains many pieces of literature which are particularly adapted to the tastes of children, but which most children have hitherto had neither the power nor the opportunity to read. It is the only Reader which a child will need; after this he should be supplied with pure, simple literature. It is believed that this book will prove invaluable to those who are trying to "shorten and enrich" the curriculum of the school-room.

Clinton Scollard.

Songs of Sunrise Lands. By CLINTON SCOLLARD. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

Mr. Scollard has, by his previous book of verse and by poems in the best periodicals, won the attention and appreciation of lovers of poetry. He has not challenged public favor by efforts of a too ambitious character, but by offering the songs of a genuine singer. His new book contains, as indicated by its title, poems suggested by a journey in Egypt, Syria, and Greece, and these are so marked by the grace and suffused with the color of the Orient, that they possess a special attraction in addition to that conferred by the individual thought, fancy, and lyric art of the poet.

Nathaniel Southgate Shaler.

The Interpretation of Nature. By N. S. SHALER, Professor of Geology in Harvard University, author of "Illustrations of the Earth's Surface," "Kentucky" in the series of "American Commonwealths," etc. 1 vol. 16mo.

CONTENTS: The Interpretation of Nature; Critical Points in the Continuity of Natural Phenomena; The Place of Organic Life in Nature; The March of the Generations; The Bond of the Generations; The Natural History of Sympathy; The Immortality of the Soul from the Point of View of Natural Science.

In these seven very interesting chapters Professor Shaler does not offer a connected argument to prove the harmony of science and theology, but discusses several important questions related to both theology and natural history. He writes as a scientific student, and confines himself strictly to the evidence which science furnishes. But he writes in no narrow spirit and for no petty purpose. Writing from unusually full scientific knowledge, with a noble candor and earnest dignity, he not only shows very important harmonies existing between science and theology, but affords an admirable example of the temper and method in which both theology and science may most profitably be studied.

Percy Bysshe Shelley.

The Complete Poetical Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley. Edited, with an Introductory Memoir, by GEORGE E. WOODBERRY. With a new portrait of Shelley. Centenary Edition. In four volumes, crown 8vo.

Limited Large-Paper Edition. Beautifully printed on special imported hand-made paper, in eight thin volumes on somewhat larger paper than the regular edition. In eight volumes, 8vo, bound in boards.

For some years past the world has been steadily gaining in admiration of Shelley's genius. And now, on the centenary of his birth, his works are receiving a more general, more thoughtful, more admiring attention than ever before. The Riverside Press will produce an entirely new edition of Shelley's complete poetical works. The text will be as accurate as intelligent care can make it, and the edition will be edited by Mr. George E. Woodberry, who is a hearty admirer of Shelley, and unsurpassed in America as a literary scholar and critic. He will take scrupulous care that every poem shall be correctly reproduced, and supply such variorum and other notes as are desirable, and he will furnish a memoir of Shelley which cannot fail to be one of the most valuable contributions to Shelley literature. The edition will be in four volumes, substantially uniform with the Riverside Edition of Lowell, Whittier, etc.

The Limited Large-Paper Edition is not for the many, but the few. The Publishers have tried to make it an ideal edition of Shelley. To further their purpose, they have increased the number of volumes of the Centenary Edition from four to eight, and by increasing the size of the paper somewhat they have succeeded in producing volumes with all the convenience of a library edition and the beauties of the large-paper style. To the connoisseur it will be an example, in its department, of the best work of the time.

Frank Dempster Sherman.

Little - Folk Lyrica. By FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN, author of "Lyrics for a Lute," etc. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

Mr. Sherman here very successfully devotes his admirable lyrical faculty to producing a book of real interest and rare excellence for young people. In an introductory poem he refers to the enchantment certain rhymes possessed for his childhood. He gives a charming lyric to each month of the year; and these and the forty other poems in the book are full of out-door life. They are fragrant with flowers; they describe youthful sports; they tell of Nature's changeful moods, of birds and animals and plants; and they cannot fail to delight and healthfully stimulate their readers, young in years and in feeling.

Edward Stanwood.

A History of Presidential Elections. By EDWARD STANWOOD. Third Edition, Revised. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Stanwood's book is a recognized authority in regard to the circumstances, issues, political bearings, and leading figures in all the Presidential Elections held in the United States. It has been revised and completed to date for 1892 by adding the result of the Election of 1888, and by including the nominations and platforms of the parties for the campaign of this year. It is full of facts of great value to all political speakers and editors, and of great interest to all intelligent citizens.

Edmund Clarence Stedman.

The Nature and Elements of Poetry. By EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN, author of "Victorian Poets," "Poets of America," etc. With a Photogravure of Dürer's Melancholia for a frontispiece, a Topical Analysis in the margin, and a full Analytical Index. One volume, crown 8vo, $1.50.

This book comprises, in a revised and extended form, the lectures by Mr. Stedman, the first given on the Turnbull Foundation of Poetry, at Johns Hopkins University. They form a thorough exposition of the elements of poetry in harmony with the ideas on which Mr. Stedman's critical writings have been based. This book is the complement of his "Victorian Poets" and "Poets of America" (now in their twentieth and tenth editions respectively), and completes his treatment of poetic literature.

The work reviews compactly the great poetry of the world, ancient and modern; defines the nature of poetry; considers its various forms; and discusses Beauty, Imagination, Truth, Passion, Genius, and other constituents of rhythmic literature. Mr. Stedman has brought to this work his maturest thought and has given to it his utmost grace of style, so that in treatment and manner it is eminently worthy of its great theme. It is adapted not only to the general reader, but for use in literary clubs and by students in the higher collegiate grades.

Alfred Lord Tennyson.

The Princess: A Medley. By ALFRED LORD TENNYSON. Family Edition, uniform with the Family Edition of the Poetical Works of Longfellow, Whittier, Lowell, Holmes, etc. With Illustrations. 8vo, cloth, full gilt, $2.00.

Henry D. Thoreau.

Autumn. A new volume selected from the journals of THOREAU, and edited by H. G. O. BLAKE. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. George William Curtis once wrote: "Thoreau's true life was in the observation and suggestion of nature, and of these his books are the record. . . . There is no such comprehensive observation as his recorded in literature, united with a style so racy, so incisive, and so pictorial." This admirable description applies not only to the books containing essays carefully elaborated for publication by Thoreau, but equally to the books made up of passages from his journal. Three of these have already appeared, — Early Spring in Massachusetts, Summer and Winter. A fourth on Autumn, to complete the cycle of the seasons, has been prepared from Thoreau's fruitful journal by Mr. Blake, and cannot fail of a hearty welcome from a circle of readers now happily large.

Bradford Torrey.

The Foot-Path Way. By BRADFORD TORREY, author of "Birds in the Bush" and "A Rambler's Lease." 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

Dr. J. Max Hark, Chancellor of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua, in speaking of "A Rambler's Lease" called it "an ideal book to read in the country, in the woods or mountains." Mr. Torrey's new book is equally good for those places and wherever books of nice observation and attractive literary style are welcome. Its eleven chapters describe: June in Franconia; December Out-of-Doors; Dyer's Hollow; Five Days on Mount Mansfield; A Widow and Twins; The Male Ruby-Throat; Robin Roosts; The Passing of the Birds; A Great Blue Heron; Flowers and Folks; In Praise of the Weymouth Pine.

Charles Dudley Warner.

In the Levant. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, author of "A Summer in a Garden," "Backlog Studies," "My Winter on the Nile," etc. New Holiday Edition. With a new portrait of Mr. Warner, and about twenty-five full-page photogravures, decorative headpieces and initials. Bound from designs by Mrs. HENRY WHITMAN. 2 vols. crown 8vo, $5.00.

Large-Paper Edition. Limited to 150 sets. With text beautifully printed and the illustrations mounted on India paper. With binding specially designed for this edition. 2 vols. 8vo.

Speaking of Mr. Warner's previous book, "My Winter on the Nile," and of this volume, which describes Palestine, Turkey, and other countries bordering on the eastern Mediterranean, a critic said: "Whether one has been in the East, or is going to the East, or does not expect ever to go, these books are of all travel books the best, because most truthful and companionable guides, having in them the very atmosphere and sunlight of the Orient."

For this Holiday Edition entirely new plates have been made of large, handsome type: and it is embellished with about twenty-five beautifully executed full-page photogravures of the most striking scenes and objects in the Levant. The two volumes will be brought out in most tasteful style.

The Large-Paper Edition of this book has, as will be noted above, various points of superiority to the Holiday Edition, and is in the same general style and size as the Holiday Editions of "The Marble Faun" and "The Scarlet Letter," which were also illustrated with photogravures.

Eliza Orne White.

Winterborough. A Novel. By ELIZA ORNE WHITE, author of "Miss Brooks," "A Browning Courtship," etc. 16mo, $1.25.

Winterborough is a New Hampshire town, in which the people take a hearty interest in the affairs of the parish and in one another's affairs. The hero is a schoolmaster, the heroine a school-girl, both of strong character and resolute will, and quite likely to take opposite views. Other persons, typical of New England towns and adding to the quota of interesting opinions and traits, figure in the story. The conversations are bright, sometimes almost to the verge of sauciness, yet never crossing the line of good taste; and the story may be pronounced one of the freshest and most entertaining novels of the year.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

At Sundown. A new volume of poems by JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER.

With portrait and eight photogravures from designs by E. H. GARRETT.

Very tastefully bound in white and gold, from designs by Mrs. HENRY WHITMAN. 1 vol. 16mo, gilt top, $1.50.

A very large circle of admirers and friends of Mr. Whittier will heartily welcome this exquisite volume. It contains the poems which he has collected since the publication of "Saint Gregory's Guest" in 1886, and some of these rank among the wisest and noblest of the many wise and noble poems Mr. Whittier has written. The book will be illustrated with a portrait and eight photogravures from designs by the popular artist, Mr. E. H. Garrett. In general style it will somewhat resemble Lowell's "Sir Launfal" and Whittier's "Snow-Bound," recently published, also illustrated by Mr. Garrett, and received with special favor by the public.

Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Children's Rights. A Book of Nursery Logic. By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," "The Story of Patsy," "A Summer in a Cañon," and "Timothy's Quest." One volume, 16mo, $1.25.

This little book appeals very strongly to the thousands of teachers in kindergartens, and to the millions of mothers (and fathers too) who wish to treat their children wisely. Mrs. Wiggin here brings her brightness, good sense, and experience in kindergarten work to discussing The Rights of the Child, Children's Plays, Children's Playthings, What shall Children Read, The Relation of the Kindergarten to Social Reform, The Relation of the Kindergarten to Public Schools, and Other People's Children; and her sister, Miss Nora A. Smith, from a like experience, contributes three chapters on Children's Stories, How shall we Govern our Children, and The Magic of "Togetherness."

ADDITIONAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Myron Adams.

The Creation of the Bible. By MYRON ADAMS, author of "The Continuous Creation." One volume, crown 8vo.

Some three years ago the Rev. Myron Adams contributed to current theological literature a valuable book on "The Continuous Creation." He has now written another volume, on "The Creation of the Bible," in which he seeks to coördinate the results of the higher criticism into a systematic account of the evolution of the Christian Scriptures. Considering the Bible a book to be studied as any book would be studied, and as containing in itself to a large extent the means of its investigation, he examines the compiling work of Ezra the scribe, the traditional and legendary elements of the Bible, its fiction and poetry, the nature and limitations of prophecy, the Greek and other outside influences that modified the development of Jewish and Christian sacred literature, and the philosophical and sociological doctrines emphasized by Paul and other New Testament writers.

W. G. Collingwood.

John Ruskin: His Life and Work. By W. G. COLLINGWOOD, M. A., late Scholar of University College, Oxford, Author of "The Art Teaching of John Ruskin," Editor of Mr. Ruskin's Poems. With numerous portraits and other illustrations. Two volumes, 8vo.

Also a limited De Luxe Edition, with the Illustrations on India paper.

This important work is written by Mr. Collingwood, who has been for some years Mr. Ruskin's private secretary, and who has had unique advantages in obtaining materials for this book from Mr. Ruskin himself and from his friends. It will contain a large amount of new matter, and of letters which have never been published, and will be in fact, as near as is possible at present, a full and authoritative biography of Mr. Ruskin. The book will contain numerous portraits of Mr. Ruskin, and also some sketches by Mr. Ruskin and Mr. Arthur Severn.

Gesenius' Hebrew Lexicon.

A Hebrew and English Lexicon of the Old Testament. Together with an Appendix containing the Biblical Aramaic based on the Lexicon of WILLIAM GESENIUS, as translated by EDWARD ROBINSON, late Professor in the Union Theological Seminary, New York. With constant reference to the larger Thesaurus of Gesenius. By Rev. FRANCIS BROWN, Ph. D., D. D., Professor in the Union Theological Seminary; with the coöperation of Rev. S. R. DRIVER, D. D., of Oxford, and Rev. CHARLES A. BRIGGS, D. D., Professor in the Union Theological Seminary. Part II., square octavo, paper, 50 cents, net.

Marion Harland.

The Story of Mary Washington. By MARY VIRGINIA TERHUNE ("Marion Harland"). With illustrations. One volume, 16mo.

The average American knows so little about the mother of Washington that there ought to be a warm welcome for this book, which Mrs. Terhune ("Marion Harland") has written at the request of the National Mary Washington Memorial Association. She has collected much interesting information by extended research and careful sifting of material, and she writes con amore, "as a reverent tribute to the memory of a woman of marked characteristics, who should be better known and esteemed by her countrywomen and the nation," and of whom Lafayette said, "I have seen the only Roman matron living at this day."

The book contains a photogravure of an old painting which Mrs. Terhune believes to be a portrait of Mary Ball, afterward the mother of George Washington. It has also eight illustrations, including the Washington homestead, and the unfinished tomb of Mary Washington.

Bret Harte.

Susy. By BRET HARTE. One volume, 16mo.

Mr. Harte's readers and admirers will be glad to pursue, in this latest book by him, the adventures and experiences of a young lady who is already known to them as the heroine of his story, "A Waif of the Plains."

Henry Preble and L. C. Hull.

Latin Lessons. By HENRY PREBLE and L. C. HULL. 12mo.

The characteristic feature of this book is a natural and virile treatment of all the matters essential to the foundation of a solid knowledge of Latin. The beginner is shown how to attack a Latin sentence in the order in which it is written, and how to frame one for himself. The pupil is led by the study of examples and illustrations to make out his own facts as far as practicable and profitable. It is intended to prepare him for an intelligent understanding of Latin etymology, inflection, and word-building; and to equip him with such a knowledge of the principles of syntax that he will be able to read intelligently and with zest the first author to whom he may be introduced. It is intended to occupy not more than one school year.

Agnes Repplier.

A Book of Famous Verse. Selected and arranged by AGNES REPLIER, author of "Books and Men" and "Points of View." Vol. 9 in the Riverside Library for Young People. 16mo, 75 cents.

A delightful new volume in the Riverside Library for Young People. It contains a great variety of the very best British and American poems. Miss Repplier's high literary rank is sufficient guaranty of the excellence of the poems chosen, and her own writings show that she understands thoroughly what young people ought to read and like to read. This book will certainly find favor with the best judges of such work, as well as with those readers for whom it has been specially prepared.

NEW! SUPERB! COMPLETE ATLASES.

The Graphic Atlas and Gazetteer of the World.

With over 220 maps, charts, plans of cities, etc., all revised to the present date. Also gazetteer with nearly 55,000 places and results of new census. By J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S., F.R.S.E. Quarto (size, 10½ x 8½ inches), half morocco, gilt top, $7.50.

Throughout the atlas the countries of the world have been treated with fulness in proportion to their commercial importance and interest.

In the United States section a separate map is given of each of the States and Territories.

The Canadian Provinces are treated in similar detail.

These maps have been specially compiled from the latest and best Government Survey Maps, and have undergone local revision for the verification of New Counties, Townships and Railways.

The Gazetteer of the World is a valuable feature for such a book of reference. It contains entries for about 55,000 places, is compiled from the latest authorities, and is especially complete in American names.

The results of the new census have been incorporated.

For compactness and portability this volume is, in proportion to its ample contents, quite unique among atlases.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

"An admirable example of map-making, a thorough work of art in its way, clear, compact, precise, with hardly a broken letter even to be found. . . . The States of this country, and generally the important political divisions of the world, are delineated separately, so that 128 maps afford ample details for close study of all regions likely to be of interest. By printing both sides of the sheet the Atlas and Gazetteer together are brought into the compass of a volume no thicker than one that would contain the maps alone if they were printed in the usual fashion."

PUBLIC LEDGER, PHILADELPHIA.

"Of the making of new atlases there is no end, but there is always room and a warm welcome for a good and concise one. The present Atlas is both, and is a perfect example of multum in parvo." The requirements of a geography should be clear maps, a full index and convenient size for handling and reference. Professor Bartholomew's book fills these conditions with perfect satisfaction. The charts are unusually numerous and complete. . . . In all there are 128 full-page plates. The same degree of care and good editing characterizes the Graphic Gazetteer, the index portion of the book. It is truly named a concise dictionary of geography, for one line is sufficient to give all the required information as to the situation of every province, city, town or village, mountain, river or stream in the four quarters of the globe."

NEW YORK TIMES.

"Another valuable Atlas from the Messrs. Nelson is called 'The Graphic Atlas.' It contains also a Gazetteer, and is edited by Mr. Bartholomew. In size it is a convenient large octavo or small folio. The comfort of having maps and a gazetteer combined and presented in not too large a volume is obvious. We should say that the volume, from its convenient form and completeness, would meet the general demand."

The Globe Hand Atlas.

A series of fifty-four maps, illustrating political, physical, commercial, astronomical and classical geography, along with sixty sectional maps of important cities and districts and a general index giving the situation, latitude and longitude of over five thousand places throughout the world. By J. G. BARTHOLOMEW, F.R.G.S. 8vo, cloth, inked sides, $1.00.

This Atlas has been carefully prepared, and contains all recent discoveries and changes, and its physical and classical maps and other educational features make it valuable for schools and colleges.

"Comprehensive and accurately adjusted to represent the latest discoveries. We have not met with a more complete book of the kind in such a cheap form and we cordially recommend it."—The Churchman.

"An excellent book of reference for the general student, representing as it does the latest discoveries in the different departments of geography. It is in a most convenient form for the study table."—Public Opinion.

"A most valuable work in a small compass."—Journal of Commerce.

"These maps are of sufficient size and detail for all ordinary purposes. One map showing the North Atlantic steamship routes will attract special attention."—School Journal.

Fairy Calendar.

Twelve fac-similes of water-color sketches by MAUD HUMPHREY, representing scenes from well-known fairy tales. On heavy water-color paper, with roughened edges, and tied with a bow of wide satin ribbon. With dates. Size, 11 x 9 inches. In a box, . . . . . $1.50

Fan Calendar.

A copy of a water-color drawing by MAUD HUMPHREY, cut out in the shape of a fan. Miss Humphrey's sketch represents a fan of blue ostrich feathers, with the head of a beautiful child in the centre. Tied with a bow of blue satin ribbon and with the calendar dates printed on the back, . . . . . 35 cents

Watermelon Calendar.

A perfect imitation of a drawing of a Watermelon. On heavy card-board, cut out in the shape of a melon. On one of the inside leaves are the calendar dates and on the other is a humorous design of a negro child eating a piece of watermelon, . . . . . 35 cents

Lily Cross Calendar.

1. After a water-color drawing by MAUD HUMPHREY, representing an angel child in front of a cross of lilies, with a pale yellow star as the background. On heavy card-board, 8 x 10 inches. On the back of the card are the calendar dates for the year, in the shape of a cross, . . . . . 25 cents

2. The same, but with the fac-simile of the cross and angel child cut out from the card and with an easel back, . . . . . 30 cents

Lily Wreath Calendar.

1. After a water-color drawing by MAUD HUMPHREY, representing a wreath of lilies with the head of an angel child in the centre. On heavy card-board, 6 3/4 x 6 3/4 inches. On the back of the card the calendar dates for 1893 are printed in a tasteful group, . . . . . 30 cents

2. The same, but with the fac-simile of the wreath and child cut out from the card, and with an easel back, . . . . . 35 cents

OTHERS ARE:

NEW BOOKS.

The Mother of the King's Children.

By the Rev. J. F. COWAN, author of the "Jo-Boat Boys." With an introduction by the Rev. F. E. Clark, D.D. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

A book of much merit, quite above the average, and will do good wherever read. Especially will it deepen an interest in practical religious work.

The Rev. Francis E. Clark, D.D., President of the Christian Endeavor Society, says in an introductory note to this volume, "There is no more telling way of teaching a wholesome truth than by embodying it in a good story."

The Every Day of Life.

By the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., author of "Silent Times," "Making the Most of Life," etc. 16mo, gilt top, parti-cloth, $1.00; white and gold, gilt edges, $1.25; levant morocco, flexible, gilt edges, $2.50.

Hearty words of love and sympathy, designed to help and cheer those who are weary with the treadmill of daily cares and perplexities.

Wordsworth's Poems. (Selections.)

Illustrated in photogravure by E. H. GARRETT. Printed on fine deckle-edge, laid paper. 12mo, cloth, ornamental design, gilt top, cloth box, $2.50; full leather, gilt top, $3.50.

This is the selection made by the late Matthew Arnold and includes the cream of Wordsworth's verse. A book indispensable to the lover of poetry and of nature. Mr. Garrett, the artist, has here found a peculiarly congenial field, and his admirable drawings in the interpretation of the text will be fully appreciated.

Walton's Angler.

New edition. Complete in two volumes with all the original 86 illustrations of Major's edition and photogravure frontispieces. 2 vols., 16mo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50.

Even those who do not fish love the quaint style of the "divine Izaak," and there is no better edition than Major's, or this reproduction of that time-honored classic.

Short Studies in Botany for Children.

By Mrs. HARRIET C. COOPER. Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.00.

Many teachers have found that Botany may be made attractive to very young children. Mrs. Cooper's little volume contains a practical demonstration of this. Simple and unaffected in style, these talks about common flowers and their construction will prove a veritable boon to parents and to children.

Polly Button's New Year.

By Mrs. C. F. WILDER. 12mo, unique parti-cloth binding, 75 cents.

A series of object lessons in spiritual teaching. A study in character-painting. Miss Polly Button, reduced in fortune, makes herself a power in her church by applying her Christianity to every-day life. A pretty little romance gives a flavor to the story.

Little Arthur's History of Rome.

By HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH, author of the "Zigzag Books," etc. A companion volume to "Little Arthur's England and France." Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Mr. Butterworth, in writing a new History of Rome, aims to interest the young in the beautiful classic literature of that country. He therefore gives special attention to the poetic side of Roman history, but without neglecting the bearing of recently discovered facts. No one better understands the requirements of the young than Mr. Butterworth, and his book will foster an appetite for classical studies.

Girls; Faults and Ideals.

By the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., author of "Silent Times," etc. Booklet. Unique binding, 30 cents.

Plain, practical, common-sense advice from one who admires and reverences young womanhood and wants to see a higher ideal established for the girls of his native land.

Equitable Taxation.

A series of Prize Essays by WALTER E. WEYL, ROBERT LUCE, BOLTON HALL and others. Introduction by the Hon. Jonathan A. Lane. Biographical sketches and portraits. 12mo, 75 cents.

Nothing is more evident than that there is a crying need for change in our unjust tax laws. The problem has been faced by a number of clever economists, whose essays were submitted to the editors of Public Opinion and printed with encomiums and the award of prizes. A most stimulating and valuable book.

Daily Food.

New illustrated edition, with 12 photo-engravings. 18mo, parti cloth, gilt edge, 75 cents; lavender and gold, gilt edge, 75 cents; French silk, gilt edge, $1.25.

Thousands of this little classic have been sold. The present edition is most attractive in appearance, neatly printed from new plates, exquisitely illustrated, and handsomely bound.

A Plea for the Gospel.

By the Rev. GEORGE D. HERRON, D.D., author of "The Message of Jesus," "The Larger Christ." 16mo, parti-cloth, gilt top, 75 cents.

The author's previous volumes have been hailed by men of all denominations as the work of a writer intellectually and spiritually cast in the mould of Maurice, Mulford and Brooks. Fragments of these sermons have been widely published and discussed, and many calls have been made for their publication in this permanent form.

Monica, the Mesa Maiden.

By Mrs. EVELYN H. RAYMOND. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Monica is a Spanish girl of Southern California, who lives in a quaint old house of adobe, surrounded with vines and flowers, and is the main support of a family descended from the proud Hídalgos of Spain. Into their quiet life comes a current from the outer world. Monica goes in search of her missing brother, and meets with strange adventures, which result in the unravelling of a complicated chain of destiny. It is a remarkable story, with a charming flavor of idyllic Spanish-American life.

Famous Types of Womanhood.

By Mrs. SARAH K. BOLTON, author of "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," etc. Lives of Marie Louise, Queen of Prussia, Madame Récamier, Jenny Lind, Miss Dix, etc. With portraits, 12mo, $1.50.

Mrs. Bolton here gives in an entertaining style vivid pictures from the lives of some notable women who have won undying fame in art, philanthropy and other fields of usefulness. No books for young people are more popular than these by Mrs. Bolton, and this volume is one of the best of the series.

Mixed Pickles.

By Mrs. EVELYN H. RAYMOND, author of "Monica, the Mesa Maiden." Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Under this mysterious and alluring title Mrs. Raymond describes the queer and amusing adventures of a number of bright German boys and girls and their cousins in a quiet Quaker farm-house. The whole story has a piquant flavor of its own, and will delight younger as well as older readers.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.—Continued.

The Riverpark Rebellion, and A Tale of the Tow-Path. by HUMER GREENE, author of "The Blind Brother," "Burnham Breaker," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.

The first is the story of an episode in a military school on the Hudson, and it simply glows with life and energy. In its way it is a triumph of narrations—clean, exciting, good-tempered, bright and delightful. In the "Tale of the Tow-Path" Mr. Greene takes the reader out of the usual environment and shows him new scenes described in his own inimitable way.

Tom Clifton; or, Western Boys in Grant and Sherman's Army. By WARREN LEE GOSS, author of "Jed," "Recollections of a Private," etc. Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Goss has the genius of a story-teller. No one can follow the fortunes of Tom Clifton and his friends, either in their experiments in farming in Minnesota or in the Western army, without the deepest interest. It is the best boys' book of the year, and has, besides, permanent value from a historical standpoint.

In Blue Creek Canon. By ANNA CHAPIN RAY, author of "Half a Dozen Girls," "Half a Dozen Boys," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Miss Ray transports to the Rocky Mountains a party of her happy, wholesome boys and girls and depicts photographically their pleasures during a summer in a mining camp. The story is full of atmosphere and life.

The Cadets of Flemming Hall. By ANNA CHAPIN RAY, author of "Half a Dozen Girls," "Half a Dozen Boys," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

School-boy life has not been often depicted in colors that will more surely delight the reader than in this volume. It is a story full of enthusiasm, with exciting adventures, genial fun, and of high purpose.

Expectation Corner. By E. S. ELLIOTT. From the 81st 1000 of the English edition. Booklet. Unique binding. 30 cents.

A remarkable story of daily practical "traffic with Heaven," couched in the form of an allegory and founded on the promises of literal fulfilment of definite petitions.

Conflicting Duties. By E. S. ELLIOTT. From the 20th 1000 of the English edition. Booklet. Unique binding. 30 cents.

This brief story shows that oftentimes people who are thirsting to be employed in the King's service might find what they seek for right by their own firesides. It is an illustration of the old proverb, "Charity begins at home."

Do We Believe It? By E. S. ELLIOTT. From the 16th 1000 of the English edition. Booklet. Unique binding. 30 cents.

Many repeat mechanically the words of the Creed: "We believe in the life of the world to come." This little book shows the advantage of taking the words in their full acceptance.

HANDY-VOLUME CLASSICS.

An entirely new line of standard books in prose and poetry. Handy in size, carefully printed on good paper and bound in faultless styles. Each volume is illustrated with a frontispiece and title-page, in photogravure, and most of the volumes have numerous additional illustrations by the best artists.

AN AMERICAN NOBLEMAN.

A Story of the Canaan Wilderness. By William Armstrong. With illustrations by HOLME. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. No. 22 of the Ariel Library.

A charming story of life among the lowly in West Virginia. Strongly and simply told, with a charming trace of humor and a touching pathos. An American novel of decided originality.

VIC: THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A FOX-TERRIER.

By Marie Moore Marsh. Illustrated by FOERSTER. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00.

This is the story of a dog, as "Black Beauty" is the story of a horse, but it is by no means an imitation. It has elements of humor and humanity which will endear the book to all readers, and particularly to the young. We shall issue only one book for children this year, and this one is "Vic." We confidently believe that it will prove the favorite with little ones generally, judging from the delight and the eagerness with which the story was received by the children to whom the manuscript was read before it was given to the printers.

SUNFLOWER LAND: STORIES OF GOD'S OWN COUNTRY.

By Roswell Martin Field. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

A LODI GIRL.

A Story of the Canadian Rebellion. By Forrest Crissey. Paper, 50 cents. No. 24 of the Ariel Library.

AMERICAN PUSH.

By Edgar Fawcett. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. No. 25 of the Ariel Library.

Forthcoming Publications.

STANDARD AND MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS.

In Gold and Silver.

By GEORGE H. ELLWANGER, author of "The Story of My House," "The Garden's Story," etc. With many illustrations. 16mo, cloth.

Also, limited édition de luxe, on Japanese vellum.

In this volume the author carries the reader from the Orient to the out-door life of our own country, of which he is so competent to speak. "In Gold and Silver" has been magnificently illustrated by two of the foremost American artists, W. Hamilton Gibson and A. B. Wenzel, who have furnished full-page drawings, vignettes and initials; while there are several pen-and-ink drawings of Oriental articles by W. C. Greenough, and a special designed title-page and cover by H. B. Sherwin. Altogether, this book may safely be called one of the best examples of fine book-making produced in recent years.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

An Attic Philosopher in Paris.

OR, A PEEP AT THE WORLD FROM A GARRET.

Being the Journal of a Happy Man. By EMILE SOUVESTRE. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

The great popularity of "An Attic Philosopher in Paris," by Emile Souvestre, has led the publishers to prepare this fine illustrated edition, uniform with the illustrated edition of "Colette." For this volume a large number of full-page and vignette illustrations have been made by the French artist Jean Claude, the illustrator of "Colette." A rich binding has been specially designed, and this volume, considering the fine literary quality of the text and the distinctness of the book's appearance, will, it is believed, prove one of the most popular of the autumn books.

Love-Songs of English Poets.

Edited by RALPH CAINE. 16mo, cloth.

The editor has carefully culled the rarest flowers from the rich fields of English poetry, and has produced a volume which is a singularly delicate and perfect expression of the universal passion in verse. To find all that is contained in this volume, it would be necessary to search the pages of many books; and it is believed, therefore, that this presentation of the motif which has inspired so much of the loveliest verse will be appreciated by the public and by littérateurs alike.

The Story of Columbus.

By ELIZABETH EGGLESTON SEELYE; edited by Dr. EDWARD EGGLESTON. With 100 illustrations by Allegra Eggleston. 12mo, cloth.

This book is the result of most extensive investigations, which have been carefully verified by the eminent historian and novelist, Dr. Eggleston. It is not too much to say that the whole world has been drawn upon for material by the author and the artist. The fruits of these investigations are presented in a popular, readable, always entertaining form. To a considerable extent the plan of both text and illustrations is like that of Eggleston's Household History of the United States. It is hardly necessary to say more regarding the fitness of this volume for a place in every American private, public and school library.

Warriors of the Crescent.

By the late W. H. DAVENPORT ADAMS, author of "Battle Stories from English History," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This story of Oriental magnificence, of glittering campaigns, fatalistic heroism and the pillage of the marvellous riches of India by the Sultans of Ghazni and their followers, comes to the reader like new tales of the Arabian Nights. Here we may read the exploits of Mahmud, Timur the Tartar and the Great Mogul. It is a splendid but little known chapter of history, and Mr. Adams' graphic, vivid style clothes history with the garb of romance. Many who reach the dazzling records of Shah Jahan, The True Star of the Faith, or Aurangzeb, the conqueror of the Universe, will find a new world open to them in these pictures of magnificent Oriental despotism.

El Dorado; or, The Gilded Man,

And Other Pictures of the Spanish Occupancy of America. By Prof. A. F. BANDELLER, author of "The Social Organization and Government of the Ancient Mexicans," "Studies Among the Sedentary Indians of New Mexico," etc. 12mo, cloth.

In this book Prof. Bandler tells the romantic stories of Cibola and Jean l'Archevêque, and pictures other phases of the strange scenes when the mailed Spaniards bore cross and sword northward and eastward from the land of Montezuma in their thirst for exploration, gold and conquest. These romances of Spanish discovery in America are fitly presented in this anniversary year.

Abraham Lincoln: The True Story of a Great Life.

By WILLIAM H. HERNDON and JESSE W. WEIK.

With numerous illustrations. New and revised edition, with an introduction by Horace White. In two volumes, 12mo, cloth.

This is probably the most intimate life of Lincoln ever written. The book, by Lincoln's law-partner, William H. Herndon, and his friend Jesse W. Weik, shows us Lincoln the man. It is a true picture of his surroundings and influences and acts. It is not an attempt to construct a political history, with Lincoln often in the background, nor is it an effort to apotheosize the American who stands first in our history next to Washington. The writers knew Lincoln intimately. Their book is the result of unreserved association. There is no attempt to portray the man as other than he really was, and on this account their frank testimony must be accepted, and their biography must take permanent rank as the best and most illuminating study of Lincoln's character and personality. Their story, simply told, relieved by characteristic anecdotes, and vivid with local color, will be found a fascinating work.

By Captain A. T. MAHAN, U. S. N., author of "The Gulf and Inland Waters," etc. With portrait and maps. 12mo, cloth.

This is the first book in "The Great Commander Series," edited by Gen. James Grant Wilson, representing an effort to satisfy a popular demand for a series of convenient, readable, popular but authoritative biographies of illustrious American leaders on land and sea. The second volume will be "General Taylor," by Major-General O. O. Howard, U. S. A. Other volumes will follow shortly. Each will present a steel plate portrait of the subject as a frontispiece, and will contain several maps.

Man and the Glacial Period.

By G. FREDERICK WRIGHT, D.D., LL.D., Professor in Oberlin College; author of "The Ice Age in North America," "Logic of Christian Evidences," etc. No. 69, International Scientific Series. With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

Every one is interested in ancestry, yet the roots of family trees have not struck down to the Glacial period, and we are left to wonder regarding the manners and customs of our ancestors in the remote age of ice. Who and what these ancestors were, is told us in simple, entertaining, popular style by Prof. Wright, and his fascinating narrative is re-enforced by a multitude of illustrations.

FICTION.

From Dusk to Dawn.

By KATHARINE P. WOODS, author of "Metzgerott, Shoemaker." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This book is an original one, like its predecessor, in that it follows none of the beaten paths of fiction, and it raises questions of vital interest, and addresses itself to the reader's thought instead of merely tickling his fancy. The influence of one human being over another is a subject of curious analysis, as well as the relation of the individual to the community, a subject, with its varied amplifications, which is of the first moment today. There is a story, a romance, which will interest novel-readers, but the book will hold the attention of those for whom the average novel has little charm.

God's Fool.

By MAARTEN MAARTENS, author of "The Sin of Joost Avelingh." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

In the opinion of competent critics, "God's Fool," the new novel by Maarten Maartens, represents the finest development thus far of the author's powers, and its appearance in book form promises to cause what is termed in popular parlance the "literary sensation" of the season. At least, there can be no question regarding the high appreciation of Maarten Maartens' work by American and English readers.

JUVENILE BOOKS.

In the Boyhood of Lincoln.

A Story of the Black Hawk War and the Tunker Schoolmaster. By HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH, author of "The Zigzag Books," "The Log School-House on the Columbia," etc. With many illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Butterworth describes the boyhood of Abraham Lincoln, and the strange life of the early days in the middle West. No boy or girl who wishes to understand the earlier life of one of the greatest of Americans can ignore this book—a romance founded upon fact.

The Battle of New York.

By WILLIAM O. STODDARD, author of "Little Smoke," "Crowded out o' Crofield," etc. With 11 illustrations and colored frontispiece. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This popular author presents an extraordinary page of our history, which is unfamiliar to readers of the younger generation. He tells what two boys saw and experienced during the great draft riots in New York. Side by side with these scenes there are some vivid descriptions of a boy's adventures at the battle of Gettysburg.

Englishman's Haven.

By W. J. GORDON, author of "The Captain-General," etc. With 8 full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The romantic story of a boy's adventures among the Indians and French of Cape Breton, and his exploits when the Americans, and afterward the English, captured the stronghold of Louisbourg. A thrilling tale of our colonial times.

Along the Florida Reef.

By CHARLES F. HOLDER, joint author of "Elements of Zoölogy." With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A story of camping and fishing adventures in company with a naturalist in Florida. The author combines entertainment and instruction, and his book is filled with illustrations which will be prized by every young reader who has ever visited the sea-shore, or cares for information regarding fishes, shells and the various forms of marine life.

Hermine's Triumphs.

A Story for Girls and Boys. By MADAME COLOMB. With 100 illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

The popularity of this charming story of French home life, which has passed through many editions in Paris, has been earned by the sustained interest of the narrative, the sympathetic presentation of character, and the wholesomeness of the lessons which are suggested. One of the most delightful books for girls published in recent years. It is bound uniformly with the illustrated edition of "Colette."

A large-paper edition, limited to 250 copies, $32.50 net.

My Uncle and My Curé. Translated from the French of JEAN DE LA BRÈTE by Ernest Redwood. With upwards of thirty illustrations by Georges Janet. 8vo, illuminated paper cover, $1.75; cloth, $2.50; half levant, $5.00; full levant, $7.50.

This charming story has been "crowned by the French Academy."

Treasure-Book of Consolation. For all in Sorrow or Suffering. Compiled and edited by BENJAMIN ORME, M.A. 12mo, purple cloth, $1.50.

The Life and Adventures of Peg Woffington. With pictures of the period in which she lived. By J. FITZGERALD MOLLOY. With over sixty illustrations from contemporary portraits and prints. Two volumes, 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

An edition on large paper, limited to 100 copies, with the illustrations on Japan paper, $6.00 net.

Memoirs of Madame de Staal-de Launay. Translated from the French by CORA HAMILTON BELL. With forty-one etchings by Ad. Lalauze. Two volumes, small 12mo, Holland paper, $10.00 net; copies on Japan paper, $20.00 net.

This book has been printed for us at the celebrated Imprimerie-Jouaust, in Paris, and contains all the beautiful etchings of the French edition. The issue is limited to 70 copies on Japan and 250 on Holland paper. One-third of this number has been taken by an English publisher, leaving 45 Japan and 175 Holland copies only for the American market.

"Little Madame de Staal (by no means Necker's daughter, but a much cleverer), known as one of the sharpest female heads. Little de Staal was once a maid of the Duchesse du Maine, but has far outgrown all that, a favorite guest of the Duchesse instead, and is known for one of the shrewdest little souls in the world."—Carlyle, in his "French Revolution."

Prince Serebryani. A Novel. By Count ALEXIS TOLSTOI. Translated from the Russian by Jeremiah Curtin. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Count Alexis Tolstol, the author of this work, was a relative of Count Leo Tolstol, the famous novelist and philanthropist. As a novel, "Prince Serebryani" is of absorbing and even terrible interest. It would be difficult to find anything in fiction equal in power to the two chapters "The Frost of Ivan" and the "Tsar's Jester."

Sherburne House. A Novel. By AMANDA M. DOUGLAS. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The novels of Amanda M. Douglas are sufficiently known to a large reading public, who await with interest anything from her pen.

The School for Scandal. By RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN. Illustrated by Frank M. Gregory with five plates in color and upwards of forty designs in black and white. One volume, 8vo, beautifully bound in full gold side, $3.50.

A large-paper edition, limited to 250 copies, with the five full-page photo-aquarelles on Japan paper and upwards of forty illustrations in sepia, richly bound, $6.00 net.

A Scamper Through Spain and Tangier. By MARGARET THOMAS. With many illustrations by the author. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Dramatic Essays of Charles Lamb. Edited, etc., by Prander Matthews. With sixteen photogravure illustrations of the principal characters referred to. 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

A large-paper edition, limited to 250 copies, $5.00 net.

Among the portraits will be found those of Munden, Dodd, Liston, Elliston, and Meedames Catalani, Kemble, Kelly, Siddons, etc.

Essays in Literary Interpretation. By HAMILTON W. MABIE, ESQ., author of "My Study Fire," "Under the Trees and Elsewhere," "Studies in Literature," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This new volume will be welcomed by Mr. Mabie's many admirers. It contains Essays on Keats, Some Aspects of Modern Literature, The Personal Element in Literary Work, Rossetti, Browning, The Significance of Criticism, Some Modern Readings from Dante, A Word About Humor.

Eighteenth Century Vignettes. A Volume of Essays. By AUSTIN DOBSON, author of "Four Frenchwomen," "Horace Walpole, a Memoir," "Poems," etc. With many illustrations. One volume, 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

An edition on large paper, limited to 250 copies, with the plates on Japan paper, $5.00 net.

Almost Fourteen. A Book for Parents and for Young People of Both Sexes approaching Maturity. By MORTIMER A. WARREN. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

This book is intended for parents to put into the hands of their children, and to read with them. The subjects of which it treats are handled with absolute delicacy, and with a discretion which we do not think has been approached by any writer on this subject. The author is a teacher, and his long experience with young people fits him pre-eminently for the work.

IN THE PORTIA SERIES.

The Unmarried Woman. By ELIZA CHESTER, author of "Chats with Girls," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Cloister and the Hearth. By CHARLES READE. With sixteen photogravure illustrations. Four volumes, $7.00.

An edition on large paper, limited to 150 copies, $15 00 net.

"The Cloister and the Hearth" is his greatest work, and I believe the greatest historical novel in the language. I do not say that the whole of life as it was at the end of the fourteenth century is in "The Cloister and the Hearth" but I do say that there is portrayed so vigorous, lifelike, and truthful a picture of a time long gone by, and differing in every particular from our own, that the world has never seen its like. As one reads it, one feels in the very atmosphere of the century."—WALTER BESANT.

"A story better conceived or better composed, better constructed or better related than 'The Cloister and the Hearth' it would be difficult to find anywhere."—ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE.

IN THE SERIES MAKERS OF AMERICA.

Each 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

Most Rev. John Hughes, First Archbishop of New York. By HENRY A. BRANN, D.D.

Robert Morris, Superintendent of Finance under the Continental Congress. By Prof. WILLIAM GRAHAM SUMNER, of Yale University.

Jean Baptiste Lemoine, Sieur de Bienville, Founder of New Orleans. By GRACE KING, author of "Monsieur Motte."

William White, First Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America. By Rev. JULIUS H. WARD.

Beauty of Form and Grace of Vesture. By FRANCES MARY STEELE and ELIZABETH LIVINGSTON STEELE ADAMS. With eighty illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

This is the work of two ladies who have a thorough knowledge of the subjects on which they write from the technical side, who are admirable writers, and whose work as artists has received recognition both at home and abroad. It is a book conceived in an artistic spirit, and presents from this point of view practical suggestions with regard to the development of the form both for strength and beauty, while on the side of dress it supplies what most other books of this kind have failed to supply, the element of grace as well as the element of freedom and utility. The volume is richly illustrated, and by reason of its quality, style and spirit marks a new departure from previous books in the same field.

The Poems of Giosuè Carducci. Translated with two introductory essays by FRANK SEWALL. Printed at the De Vinne Press. 12mo, $1.50.

Without a formal coronation Carducci occupies the position of poet-laureate of Italy. A little over fifty years of age, an active student and a hard-working professor at the University of Bologna, where his popularity with his students in the lecture-room is equal to that which his public writings have won throughout the land, called from time to time to sojourn in the country with the court, or to lecture before the Queen and her ladies at Rome, withal a man of great simplicity, even to roughness of manners, and of a cordial, genial nature—such is the writer whom the Italians with one voice call their greatest poet, and whom not a few consider the foremost living poet of Europe.

The Universal Atlas, including County and Railroad Maps of the United States, together with carefully prepared Maps of all other countries from latest surveys, to which are added statistical tables, showing census of the United States from 1790 to 1890, of the Dominion of Canada, and largest cities of the whole world, as well as area and population of the nations of the earth, and financial statistics of the main cities of the United States, debts of the different nations, and other interesting and valuable information. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

Buffeting. A Novel. By JEANNETTE PEMBERTON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Muriel Howe. A Novel. By ANGELINA TEAL. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Dr. Dodd's School. A Book for Boys. By J. L. FORD. With illustrations by Luks. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A capital story of American school life. The school is or was in actual existence not many years ago in the Berkshire Hills. The boys of the story are real boys, and the book is a kind of American Tom Brown's School-days.

A Fisher Girl of France. From the French of FERNAND CALMETTES. With twenty full-page illustrations by the author. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Witch Winnie's Studio; or, The King's Daughters' Art Life. A Sequel to "Witch Winnie" and "Witch Winnie's Mystery." By ELIZABETH W. CHAMPEY. With illustrations by J. Wells Champney. 12mo, cloth, uniform with the earlier volumes, $1.50.

Elsie at Viamede. A new volume, the nineteenth, in the ever increasingly popular Elsie Series. By MARTHA FINLEY. 12mo, cloth, uniform with the other volumes, $1.25.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

For the Season of 1892.

A NEW LIBRARY EDITION OF BULWER'S WORKS, to be Complete in Forty Volumes.

The Novels and Romances of Edward Bulwer Lytton (Lord Lytton). With etched frontispieces by E. H. Garrett. Forty volumes, 12mo, cloth extra, gilt top, $1.50 per volume; half calf extra, gilt top, $3.00; half morocco, flat back, gilt top, $3.00.

In planning a new Library Edition of the works of this famous novelist, the publishers have, after careful consideration, adopted a type and a page which will enable them to present the complete works of fiction of Lord Lytton in forty volumes, of the size and shape most agreeable and satisfactory to the many readers who prefer for a library edition of a standard novelist a volume of medium size, not cumbersome to hold in the hand, yet possessing clear and legible type and ample margins. They have, therefore, made the size and general style of the volumes uniform with their attractive edition of "The Romances of Alexandre Dumas," which has been since its inception and is still such a favorite with the lovers of good books. With this size of type and page, the new edition of Bulwer will closely approach in beauty and handiness to the favorite Blackwood Edition, in forty-seven volumes, now so difficult to collect, and worth from one hundred and fifty to two hundred dollars when complete.

That edition has always been favored, because of its clear type and handy size and beautiful margins; but it contained no illustrations. For the New Library Edition the distinguished artist, Mr. Edmund H. Garrett, will contribute forty pictures, which will be reproduced by etching and by photogravure.

The volumes will be printed from new type, especially made for this edition; and the type will be set and the volumes printed at the University Press, with the utmost faithfulness and care.

The paper will be of the very best quality, from the mills of Messrs. Tilston & Hollingsworth.

The volumes will be beautifully bound in choicely decorated cloth, gilt top, somewhat similar in style to the Library Dumas.

Also, a limited large-paper edition, consisting of 100 numbered sets, printed upon the celebrated Van Gelder hand-made paper, with the illustrations on Imperial Japan paper. Forty volumes, crown 8vo, cloth, uncut, $3.00 net per volume.

A NEW WORK by Francis Parkman, the eminent historian, completing his historical series, "France and England in North America."

A Half Century of Conflict. By FRANCIS PARKMAN. With three maps. Two volumes, 8vo, cloth, $5.00. (Ready.)

This work takes up the narrative at the close of the author's "Count Frontenac and New France under Louis XIV.," filling the gap between that work and "Montcalm and Wolfe." It completes the series of historical narratives, "France and England in North America," the publication of which was begun in 1861, and makes it form a continuous history of the efforts of France to occupy and control the American Continent.

PARKMAN'S OREGON TRAIL. A new edition, with pictures of Indian Life by the celebrated artist, Frederic Remington.

The Oregon Trail. Sketches of Prairie and Rocky Mountain Life. By FRANCIS PARKMAN. With 77 illustrations by Frederick Remington, including numerous full-page plates; also a new introductory chapter by the author. 8vo, decorated covers, $4.00.

This ever-popular book for young and old, describing a journey among the Indian Camps and the Rockies by the eminent historian in 1847, and giving a vivid description of a condition of country and of Indian life now passed away, will be found more attractive than ever before, being enriched in its present form by a number of striking pictures of Indian settlements, camps, implements, Buffalo hunts, trappers, etc., by the distinguished artist, Mr. Frederic Remington, well known for his faithfulness and power in depicting the red man and Western scenery and life. Mr. Parkman's new introductory chapter, written specially for this holiday production of the work, points out the remarkable change which has taken place in the scenes of the narrative during the past forty-five years.

Large-Paper Issues, Completing PARKMAN'S AND PALFREY'S HISTORIES.

A Half Century of Conflict. By FRANCIS PARKMAN. Limited large-paper issue of 75 copies. Two volumes, 8vo, cloth, uncut, $12.00 net.

Palfrey's History of New England. Vols. IV. and V. Two volumes, royal 8vo, cloth, uncut, $20.00 net. Only 100 copies printed.

New and Cheaper Editions of POPULAR STANDARD SETS.

The Count of Monte Cristo. By ALEXANDRE DUMAS. With photogravure frontispieces from drawings by E. H. Garrett. Four volumes, 12mo, cloth extra, $4.00.

The most celebrated work of its celebrated author. In this translation the author's inimitable style is reproduced in English with as much spirit and faithfulness as possible, all omissions have been supplied, and the author's text carefully followed. This favorite romance, therefore, now appears at the extremely moderate price of $1.00 per volume, in clear and beautiful type, and in a translation more complete and accurate than that issued by any other house, English or American.

Les Misérables. By VICTOR HUGO. With frontispieces. Five volumes, 12mo, cloth extra, $5.00. Wrayall's excellent English translation, the standard, with all omissions supplied, including new translations of several important chapters.

New Issues in THE MILITARY NOVELS OF CHARLES LEVER.

Arthur O'Leary, His Wanderings and Ponderings in Many Lands. Edited by his friend, "HARRY LORREQUER." With 10 full-page etchings by George Cruikshank. One vol., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50; half calf extra, gilt top, $1.50; half crushed levant morocco, gilt top, $0.50. (Ready.)

Jack Hinton, the Guardsman. ("Our Mess," First Series.) Edited by "HARRY LORREQUER." With 15 full-page etchings and 20 illustrations in the text by "Phiz." Two vols., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $5.00; half calf extra, gilt top, $3.00; half crushed levant morocco, gilt top, $13.00.

Tom Burke of "Ours." ("Our Mess," Second Series.) Edited by "HARRY LORREQUER." With 14 full-page etchings and 30 illustrations in the text by "Phiz." Two vols., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $5.00; half calf extra, gilt top, $4.00; half crushed levant morocco, gilt top, $13.00.

In the same style (issued last season).

The Confessions of Harry Lorrequer.

With 14 full-page etchings and 8 illustrations in the text by "Phiz." Two vols., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $5.00; half calf extra, gilt top, $3.00; half crushed levant morocco, gilt top, $13.00.

Charles O'Malley, the Irish Dragoon.

Edited by "HARRY LORREQUER." With 18 full-page etchings and 76 smaller illustrations by "Phiz." Two vols., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $5.00; half calf extra, gilt top, $3.00; half crushed levant morocco, gilt top, $13.00.

These five works, the most famous of the rollicking Irish stories of this gifted novelist, are now first issued in adequate library form—the size being convenient, the type clear and legible, the paper of the best quality, and the printing that of the University Press. Even the original editions of these works were poorly printed, and their present attractive form, coupled with the spirited plates of "Phiz" and Cruikshank, should insure them a place in every library.

Also, a limited issue, of 250 numbered copies, text on hand-made paper, and plates on Imperial Japan paper. 8vo, cloth. Subscriptions received only for the whole nine volumes of the limited edition. $6.00 per volume, net.

A NEW GIRLS' BOOK by the Popular Writer, Nora Perry.

A Rosebud Garden of Girls. By NORA PERRY, author of "A Flock of Girls and Their Friends," "Another Flock of Girls," "After the Ball, and Other Poems," "Lyrics and Legends," etc. With 14 illustrations by F. C. Gordon. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.50.

Mountaineering, Etc. By DOUGLAS FRESHFIELD and other writers. With many illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $3.50; half blue morocco, gilt top, $5.00.

Road, Track and Stable. Being chapters about horses and the treatment of horses. By H. C. MERWIN, illustrated with full-page portraits of Arion, Mambrino King, a typical Morgan horse and a model polo pony; also numerous head and tail pieces. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

The World's Best Hymns. Beautifully illustrated with pictures by Louis K. Harlow. 12mo, decorated cloth, $1.50; China silk, hand-painted, with designs of flowers, $2.00.

A collection of favorite sacred Poems and Hymns in the English language, including some translations. This attractive volume will contain 200 pages of hymns, together with 40 full-page illustrations by the favorite artist, Louis K. Harlow, the illustrations being chiefly landscapes with borders of flowers. The book will be choicely printed at the University Press, Cambridge, in the best style, with black-letter headings, rubricated initials, etc.

A Second Part of Capt. Mahan's Important Historical Work, "THE INFLUENCE OF SEA POWER UPON HISTORY."

The Influence of Sea Power upon the French Revolution. By Capt. A. T. MAHAN, U. S. Navy. Two volumes, 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $6.00.

The Influence of Sea Power upon History. By Capt. A. T. MAHAN. With 25 charts illustrative of great naval battles. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $4.00.

"Captain Mahan, by this remarkable and novel work, steps into the ranks of American historians. His book is at once a lesson in government and a fascinating literary study."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

CHARLES LAMB'S ESSAYS. A New Edition.

The Essays of Elia and The Last Essays of Elia. By CHARLES LAMB. Reprinted from the rare original editions of 1833 and 1843. With an introduction by George E. Woodberry. *.* This sumptuous edition of Irving's picturesque and romantic work will form a companion set to the Darrrs Edition of the "Alhambra," which was the leading holiday book of last year, and of which a fresh impression has just been issued. While uniform in size and general style, the decorations, borders, illustrations and cover designs for the "Granada" are all entirely new and in new colors.

150 copies will be printed with PROOFS of the plates on JAPAN PAPER. These copies will be numbered, and bound in half leather, gilt tops, Roxburgh style.....$15.00

SCENES FROM THE LIFE OF CHRIST. Pictured in Holy Word and Sacred Art. Edited by JESSICA CONE. With 64 illustrations from celebrated paintings. Square 8vo, bound in white and gold, red edges.....$3.50

WORKS OF WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. Ariel Edition. The distinctive features of The Ariel Shakespeare are as follows: (1), Each play is in a separate volume. (2), The size of the volume is 3½ x 5 inches, and a half inch in thickness—of comfortable bulk for the pocket. (3), The page is clearly printed from an entirely new font of brevier type. (4), The text is in every case complete and unabridged, and by careful comparison has been made to conform to that of the latest scholarly editions. (5), As illustrations, the charming designs by Frank Howard (first published in 1833), five hundred in number, have been effectively reproduced, making a series of delicate outline plates. (6), The binding is flexible leather, with gilt tops and untrimmed edges. (7), Each volume is sold separately. (In a box).....75 cents.

The first group will comprise these plays: THE TEMPEST, A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM, THE MERCHANT OF VENICE, AS YOU LIKE IT, MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING, TWELFTH NIGHT, THE WINTER'S TALE.

A SPLENDID EDITION OF
The History of the Ingenious Gentleman
DON QUIXOTE OF LA MANCHE.

The Publishers have much pleasure in announcing the publication of the ILLUSTRATED LIBRARY EDITION of Cervantes' "Don Quixote."

The leading features of this edition are that—the translation is the best, the illustrations are of the highest artistic merit, and the typography, paper, binding, etc., of the first quality.

The translation adopted is that by Motteux, of which Prescott in his "Miscellanies," Edition 1845, pp. 149, 150, says:

"The most popular versions in English are those of Motteux, Jarvis and Smollett. Perhaps the first is the best of all. It was by a Frenchman who came over to England in the time of James the Second. It betrays nothing of its foreign parentage, however, while its rich and racy diction, and its quaint turns of expression, are admirably suited to convey a lively and very faithful image of the original. The slight tinge of antiquity which belongs to the time is not displeasing, and comports well with the tone of knightly dignity which distinguishes the hero."

The illustrations consist of thirty-seven original etchings, specially prepared for this edition by the eminent artist M. Adolph Lalauze, of Paris, who visited Spain for the express purpose of familiarizing himself with the scenery, architecture, costume, manners, etc., of the country and people. The Publishers feel assured that these beautiful etchings, printed by M. A. Salmon, of Paris, will rank among the most spirited and truthful illustrations of the work that have yet appeared.

The printing is in large and legible type. The paper is of the finest tone and quality. The binding is chaste and appropriate.

The present edition of "Don Quixote," strictly limited to 300 copies, signed and numbered, forms four volumes, medium 8vo, and is published in handsome cloth binding at the moderate price of $15.00. Bound specially in half crushed polished morocco, gilt tops extra, by Rivière, $30.00.

THE SECOND EDITION OF
BABY'S BIOGRAPHY.

One of the most successful books ever published.

This book is an album in which may be recorded the mother's story of the chief events of her child's life. Designed by A. O. Kaplan and illustrated by Mrs. Frances Brundage. In this volume—beautifully printed in colors in Paris, by the most approved methods of photographic reproduction—may be given the little stranger's date of birth, its weight from month to month, the date of the appearing of its first tooth, its first word, its first pair of shoes; when it changed from long to short clothes, its first day at school—in fact, the history of baby from birth to majority. Large quarto, 11 x 9 in size, 72 pages, in a variety of bindings, from white and gold to a handsome combination of gold and different colored cloths, . . . $3.75

A New Book for Boys.

In the Queen's Navee.

By Commander Robinson, R.N. A rattling book for boys, wholesome in tone, yet full of exciting interest, describing a boy's adventures aboard of one of Her Majesty's cruisers, his apprenticeship and subsequent promotion. Large crown 8vo, cloth gilt, . . . $1.50

A Book for Girls.

Alma: The Story of a Little Music-Mistress.

By Emma Marshall. A story designed to stir the tenderest emotions and to quicken the best sympathies as one follows the pathetic incidents of a homely life, ever brightened by a brave and indomitable spirit. 1 vol., 12mo, appropriately bound, . . . $1.00

NEW EDITIONS OF THE

"SURPRISE MODEL" PICTURE-BOOKS.

Upon opening any page in these books the pictures, by an ingenious arrangement, open as it were by magic into model relief, and upon the book being closed, or the page turned, become perfectly flat again. Stiff boards, cloth back, enamelled covers, size, 11 $\frac{3}{4}$  x 9, per volume, . \$0.75

1. Surprise Model Picture-Book. By Arthur Penueel and E. Hall.
2. The Tale of an Old Sugar Tub. By Arthur Penueel and E. Hall.
3. Seaside Fun. By Arthur Penueel and E. Gourley.
4. A Visit to the Country. By Arthur Penueel and E. Gourley.

* * This series of books embodies the freshest ideas in the way of amusement for children, and forms a most attractive Christmas-box for little ones. The third edition in less than a year.

POPULAR NEW BOOKS.

FICTION.

THE AMERICAN CLAIMANT. By MARK TWAIN. The most widely known character in American fiction, Col. Mulberry Sellers, is again introduced to readers in an original and delightful romance, replete with Mark Twain's whimsical humor. Fully illustrated by Dan Beard. Cloth, 8vo, $1.50.

DON FINIMONDONE: CALABRIAN SKETCHES. By ELIZABETH CAVAZZA. Though a native and resident of Portland, Me., and belonging to an old New England family, Mrs. Cavazza early became interested in Italian matters. Few American authors have so completely captured the Italian spirit as she has done in these pictures of Italian life among the lowly. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Frontispiece by Dan Beard. Cloth 12mo, 75 cents. "This little book is something new and rare."—Atlanta Constitution. "The whole book has a pungent originality very grateful to the jaded reader of commonplace romance."—Christian Union.

IN BEAVER COVE AND ELSEWHERE. By MATT CRIM, author of "Adventures of a Fair Rebel." This volume contains all of Miss Crim's most famous short stories. These stories have received the highest praise from eminent critics, and have given Miss Crim a position among the leading lady writers of America. Illustrated by E. W. Kemble. Cloth, 8vo, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"A writer who has quickly won recognition by short stories of exceptional power."—The Independent. "Miss Crim is a writer of rare dramatic power, and her relations of events in the old and new South are full of fire, picturesque description and dramatic situations."—Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

ADVENTURES OF A FAIR REBEL. By MATT CRIM. This novel is the record of a deeply passionate nature, the interest in whose story is enhanced by her devotion to a lover, also a Southerner, compelled by his convictions to take service in the Northern army. Striking descriptions of the campaign in Georgia and the siege of Atlanta are given. With a frontispiece by Dan Beard. Cloth, 8vo, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"It is a love-story of unusual sweetness, pathos and candor."—Christian Union. "The incidents are varied, and the interest is never allowed to flag from opening to close of this enjoyable novel."—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE MASTER OF SILENCE. A Romance. By IRVING BACHELLER. Readers of Mr. Bachelier's stories and poems in the magazines will look with interest for his first extended effort in fiction. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

"A well-named story is already on the road to success. . . . Altogether the story is a strange character-study, full of suggestion, earnest in moral purpose, and worthy of attention."—Cincinnati Enquirer. "There is no let up in the intrigue of 'The Master of Silence,' and there is plot and action enough in it to construct a bookcase full of novels by Howells and James."—Cambridge Tribune.

MR. BILLY DOWNS AND HIS LIKES. (Ready early in October.) By RICHARD MALCOLM JOHNSTON, author of "Dukesborough Tales," etc. Col. Johnston has selected a number of his most characteristic and entertaining stories, now first published in book form, for a volume of the new "Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series." Col. Johnston is easily the dean of Southern men of letters, and the announcement of a new volume from his pen calls for no further comment. Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

MOONBLIGHT, AND SIX FEET OF ROMANCE. By DAN BEARD. In "Moonlight" the artist-author has brought into play all those resources of humor, imagination and sarcasm for which he is so well known, to teach under the guise of a romance the lesson of the wrongs inflicted by capital on labor. In the light of recent events at the Homestead mills, this book seems to have been prophetic. Illustrated by the author. Cloth, 8vo, $1.00.

"A strange but powerful book."—Philadelphia Bulletin. "He does not construct a Utopia like Bellamy; the reforms he proposes are sensible and would be profitable, if greedy capital could be induced to consider and try them."—Springfield Republican.

"It is a witty, gay, poetical book, full of bright things and true things, the seer donning a jester's garb to preach in; and one may be sure, under the shrug and the smile, of the keen dart aimed at pride, prejudice, self-seeking, injustice, and the praise for whatsoever is beautiful and good."—Hartford Courant.

THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER. A Tale for Young People of All Ages. By MARK TWAIN. New popular edition of this "classic" of American fiction. It is a charming romance of the life and times of Edward VI., the boy king of England, and is considered by many to be Mark Twain's best work. Pronounced by high authorities one of the best child's stories ever written. Uniform with the cheap edition of "Huckleberry Finn." Illustrated. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00.

ADVENTURES OF HUCKLEBERRY FINN. (Tom Sawyer's Comrade.) By MARK TWAIN. New cheap edition of the laughable adventures of Huck Finn and a runaway slave in a raft journey along the Mississippi. Contains the famous description of a Southern feud. Illustrated by E. W. Kemble. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00.

IVAN THE FOOL, AND OTHER STORIES. By LEO TOLSTOY. Translated direct from the Russian by Count Norraikow, with illustrations by the celebrated Russian artist, Gribayédoff. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00.

"The stories in this volume are wonderfully simple and pure."—Detroit Free Press.

"As creations of fancy they take high rank."—Boston Transcript.

MERRY TALES. By MARK TWAIN. The opening volume of the new "Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series." Contains some of the author's favorite sketches, including his personal reminiscences of the war as given in "The Private History of a Campaign that Failed." Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

"Very readable and amusing tales they are."—New York Sun.

"Thousands will welcome in permanent form these delicious bits of humor."—Boston Traveller.

POETRY.

SELECTED POEMS BY WALT WHITMAN. Chosen and edited by ARTHUR STEDMAN. Shortly before Mr. Whitman's death, the old poet for the first time consented to the publication of a selection from "Leaves of Grass," embracing his most popular short poems and representative passages from his longer lyrical efforts. Arranged for home and school use. With a portrait of the author. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

"Mr. Stedman's choice is skillfully made."—The Nation.

"The volume represents all that is best in Walt Whitman."—San Francisco Chronicle.

FLOWER O' THE VINE: ROMANTIC BALLADS AND SOSPIRI DI ROMA. By WILLIAM SHARP, author of "A Fellowe and His Wife" (with Miss Howard), "Life and Letters of Joseph Severn," etc. With an introduction by Thomas A. Janvier, and a portrait of the author. As one of the most popular of the younger English poets, equal success is anticipated for the first American edition of Mr. Sharp's poems. Its welcome in the American press has been most hearty. Tastefully bound, with appropriate decorative design. Cloth, 8vo, $1.50.

"This volume of verse, by Mr. William Sharp, has a music like that of the meeting of two winds, one blown down from the Northern seas, keen and salty, the other carrying on its wings the warm fragrance of Southern fields."—The Literary World.

TRAVEL, BIOGRAPHY, AND ESSAYS.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR AND HIS EASTERN NEIGHBORS. By POULTNEY BIGELOW. Cable despatches state that Mr. Bigelow has been expelled from Russia for writing this volume. Interesting personal notes of his old playmate's boyhood and education are given, together with a description of the Emperor's army, his course and policy since accession, and the condition of affairs on the Russian and Roumanian frontiers. With fine portrait of William II. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

"A book to attract immediate and close attention."—Chicago Times.

"An interesting contribution to evidence concerning Russia."—Springfield Republican.

"The book should have a place in the library of every student of politics."—Boston Pilot.

PADDLES AND POLITICS DOWN THE DANUBE. By POULTNEY BIGELOW. Companion volume to "The German Emperor." A highly interesting journal of a canoe-voyage down "the Mississippi of Europe" from its source to the Black Sea, with descriptions of the resident nations, and casual discussions of the political situation. Illustrated with numerous offhand sketches made on the spot by Mr. Bigelow. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

WRITINGS OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS. Edited, with an introduction, by PAUL LEICESTER FORD. Mr. Ford has for the first time collected in one handy volume translations of those letters, etc., of Columbus which describe his experiences in the discovery and occupation of the New World. With frontispiece portrait. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

UNDER SUMMER SKIES. (Ready early in October.) By CLINTON SCOLLARD. A poet's itinerary. Professor Scollard relates, in his charming literary style, the episodes of a rambling tour through Egypt, Palestine, Italy and the Alps. The text is interspersed with poetical interludes, suggested by passing events and scenes. Coming nearer home, visits to Arizona and the Bermudas are described in separate chapters. The volume is attractively illustrated by Margaret Landers Randolph, and is most suitable as a travelling companion or as a picture of lands beyond the reach of the reader. Cloth, 8vo, $1.00.

AUTOBIOGRAPHIA. (Ready early in October.) By WALT WHITMAN. Edited by Arthur Stedman. The story of Whitman's life, told in his own words. These selected passages from Whitman's prose works, chosen with his approbation, are so arranged as to give a consecutive account of the old poet's career in his own picturesque language. Uniform with the new edition of Walt Whitman's "Selected Poems." ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

ESSAYS IN MINIATURE. (Ready early in October.) By AGNES REPPLIER, author of "Points of View," etc. A new volume of this brilliant essayist's writings, in which she discourses wittily and wisely on a number of pertinent topics. No new essayist of recent years has been received with such hearty commendation in this country or England. ("Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series.") Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

We invite correspondence, and shall be pleased to furnish full particulars with regard to any of the books mentioned in this announcement.

LIST FOR THE FALL OF 1892.

The Caliphate: Its Rise, Decline and Fall.

From original sources. By SIR WILLIAM MUIR, K.C.S.I., Ph.D. Second edition, revised, with three maps. 8vo, cloth, $4.20.

"Sir William Muir is one of the most learned English authorities on all questions relating to Mohammedan history, and has few superiors in this branch of learning."—The Independent.

Henry Martyn, Saint and Scholar.

First Modern Missionary to the Mohammedans. 1781-1812. By GEORGE SMITH, C.I.E., LL.D. With portrait, map and illustrations. Large 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

Dr. Smith has, with the skill already displayed in his life of Carey and Duff, produced in this volume what will, in all probability, become the standard Life of Henry Martyn.

Welsh Pictures Drawn with Pen and Pencil. Edited by RICHARD LOVETT, M.A.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tysil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. With many illustrations. Pen and Pencil Series, no. 22. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed, $3.20.

"The Pen and Pencil Series justly ranks among the most sumptuous publications of the day."—The Christian at Work.

John G. Paton,

Missionary to the New Hebrides. An Autobiography. Edited by his brother. A cheaper edition, more fully illustrated. Specially suited for Sunday-school libraries. 2 volumes, boxed, 12mo, cloth, net, $3.00.

"Perhaps the most important addition for many years to the library of missionary literature."—The Christian Advocate, N. Y.

James Gilmour of Mongolia.

His Diaries, Letters and Reports. By Rev. RICHARD LOVETT, M.A. With three half-tone portraits and other illustrations. 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $1.75.

"We gladly welcome another notable addition to the number of impressive and fascinating missionary books—a volume fit to stand on the same shelf with the biographies of Paton and Mackay."—British Weekly.

The Earthly Footprints of Our Risen Lord, Illumined.

A Continuous Narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D.D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half-tone reproductions. Small 4to, cloth, net, $1.50; gilt edge with silk book-mark, boxed, net, $2.00; full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed, net, $3.75.

Without doubt one of the most chaste and beautiful gift-books ever published. The letter-press has been compiled with the greatest care, and the illustrations are in every way worthy of the text. Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

Ten Years' Digging in Egypt, 1881-1891.

By W. M. FLINDERS PETRIE. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"A popular summary of the results attained by one of the most capable and successful of the modern explorers of Egypt. He tells his story so well and so instructively, and it is so well worth telling that his little book will doubtless command the wide popularity that it certainly deserves."—The Times, London.

The Ainu of Japan.

The Religion, Superstitious and General History of the Hairy Aborigines of Japan. By Rev. JOSE BACHELOR. With 80 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The Ainu are a race of whom very little is accurately known. Mr. Batchelor has resided among them for several years, and is thus able to speak with certainty and authority not attaching to the statements of previous travellers.

A Winter in North China.

SOMETHING NEW.

Illustrated Gift-Books of Melody and Song. Silk-Finish Binding.

There are many songs which are never forgotten. Songs old and familiar, which sing their way deeper and deeper into our hearts every time we hear them.

We have just brought out several such well-known songs, and made of them something entirely new. Taking a single song, we republish it in handsome book form, with words and music in full and, which is the main feature, numerous full-page half-tone engravings illustrative of selections from the Stanzas. The result is something attractive enough for any centre-table. Something equally appropriate to lay upon a piano or organ. Something to please the lover of music, of poetry, or of art.

While the music of each song is given, these books are not simply music-books. They are, rather, never-to-be-forgotten poems, most artistically illustrated and illuminated by G. W. Brenneman, F. M. Gregory and Joseph Lauber. Their main object is that of presentation-books, appropriate for birthdays, holidays and weddings.

There are nine of these books, comprising the following:

The Old Folks at Home.

Sally in Our Alley.

I Wish I Was in Dixie's Land.

Black Eyed Susan.

Old Uncle Ned.

Shandon Bells.

Darling Nelly Gray.

Blue Bells of Scotland.

The Watch on the Rhine.

Padded covers, 7 x 9 inches in size, bound in white, enamelled silk-finish paper. They are made equally attractive without and within.

Miss Parloa's Appledore Cook-Book.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Wide Awake H.H. Fully illustrated. 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

This bound volume of the favorite magazine for young people is filled with the best work of our best writers. There are entertaining short stories by Eliot McCormick, John Mead Howells, Jane G. Austin and others. Poems by Celia Thaxter, Elbridge S. Brooks, Mary E. Wilkins, Louise Imogen Guiney, etc., and valuable sketches by Jessie Benton Fremont, Joseph Hatton, Eliza R. Scidmore, Harriet Maxwell-Converse, etc. The illustrations are by such well-known artists as Sandham, Garrett, Hassam, Meynelle and others.

Babyland for 1892. Cloth, $1.00; boards, 75 cents. With colored frontispiece.

Even the babies have their little serials, and learn to beg for "more, more" of the delightful little stories that help amuse and entertain them. "Tales from a Toy Closet" and "At Dot's House" are given in this volume, and any number of pictures and poems and short stories.

Through Arctic and Tropics. Around the World by a New Path for a New Purpose. By HARRY W. FRENCH. Illustrated. 4to, $1.00.

Mr. French is one of the most delightful of story-tellers and his wide experience in many lands has given him a capital foundation for his present lively, rollicking story of the journey of two wide-awake youths around the world. There is plenty of incident and adventure, and a touch of romance to add to the interest.

Masterpieces of Prose. 4to, $3.00.

A volume containing selections from the best and deepest thinkers of the ages; embracing family life, orations, events of the times, history, biography, essays, fiction and everything desirable for general reading. The authors chosen represent a wide range, and embrace Emerson, George Eliot, Ruskin, Thackeray, Franklin, Macaulay, Webster, Gladstone, Howells, Holmes, Louisa Alcott, Matthew Arnold, George W. Curtis and hundreds of others.

The Down East Master's First School.

By EDWARD A. RAND. 12mo, $1.25.

A quaint, homely and enlivening story of a young "Down Easter's" experience with his first school in a typical section of Yankee land a generation ago. Full of fun and action, and yet with a purpose, pathos and sentiment.

Jack Brereton's Three Months' Service. By MRS. MARIA MCINTOSH COX. 12mo, illustrated, $1.25.

To see the great events of those times through a boy's eyes, a boy who suffered and was a hero, although too young to fight in the ranks, will strengthen patriotism in every boyish heart.

Our Little Men and Women for 1892.

Fully illustrated. Cloth, $1.75; boards, $1.25. With colored frontispiece.

Stories of child-life, bright bits of travel, history and biography, just what young minds are eager to learn about. Three charming serials, "A Boy and a Girl," "Joker and His Relations" and "The Doings of the Studio Dolls," run through the volume.

The Lance of Kanana. By ABD EL AR-DAVAN. 12mo, illustrated by Garrett. $1.00.

This brilliant story of Oriental adventure, though written by a modern traveller (who chooses to veil his identity behind the familiar name the Arabs bestowed upon him), and though historically true, exerts upon the reader the entrancing power of the old-fashioned romances; it is a tale to bring young patriots to their feet.

Our catalogue of new books and new editions for the holidays, also new educational catalogue now ready, and will be sent free on application.

The Pansy for 1892. Edited by "PANSY."

Cloth, $1.75; boards, $1.25. With colored frontispiece.

Serial stories by "Pansy" and Margaret Sidney, and numerous illustrations. Short stories by favorite writers. An ideal volume for both Sunday and week-day reading.

Looking Out on Life. A book for girls.

By REV. F. E. CLARK, D.D., of the Christian Endeavor movement. 12mo, 75 cents.

Dr. Clark has written several spirited books of and for boys. This one consists of talks to girls, and abounds in crisp, bright, wholesome suggestions about their health, habits, tastes, work, play-time and many other important matters. Mothers will gladly put it into their daughters' hands, sure that the girls will both read and profit by it.

Five Little Finger Stories. A book for Children. By LUCY HAMILTON WARNER. Illustrated. 4to, $1.25.

A unique volume full of novel and quaint devices for amusing children. The author has a special gift in this direction.

Down in Dixie. By STANTON P. ALLEN.

Fully illustrated. 4to, cloth, $2.25.

One of the brightest, realistic and entertaining accounts of the daily life of the soldier-boys of sixty-one that has yet been written. It gives the details of life in a cavalry regiment from Bull Run to Appomattox, and is bubbling over with fun, while at the same time the pathos and patriotism of the old war days find practical expression.

Famous Pets. By ELEANOR LEWIS. Fully illustrated. 4to, cloth, $2.25.

A perfectly fascinating book for every lover of animals. Its stories of pets embrace horses, dogs, cats, birds, etc., and describe the pets of royalty, of genius, military pets, trained animals, etc., in a bright and captivating manner.

Five Little Peppers Grown Up. By

MARGARET SIDNEY. 12mo, fully illustrated, $1.50.

This third volume in the famous "Peppers" series carries on the young people from "Five Little Peppers Midway," and tells the story of their young manhood and maidenhood in the same delightful, breezy, natural manner which made the other two volumes so irresistible. The book is filled to the brim with bright and winsome and inspiring thoughts.

A Cluster of Pearls. For Christian Endeavor Workers. Compiled by W. A. NEWMAN DORLAND. 12mo, 75 cents.

A volume rich in valuable and appropriate selections, such as will meet the needs of Christian workers in all lines, and prove helpful and inspiring.

Marjorie's Canadian Winter. A Story of the Northern Lights. By AGNES MAULE MACHAR, author of "Stories of New France." 12mo, illustrated, $1.50.

There is no place on the globe where winter sports are so jolly as in Canada. The Yankee lassie found this out, and found out, too, many interesting bits of valuable historical information. The story has, with all its realism, a fine spiritual thought running through it like a golden thread.

Gulf and Glacier. The Percivals in Alaska.

By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN, author of "The Pine Cone Series," etc. 12mo, $1.00.

The jolly party of young people who have camped out in the woods of Maine, and along the sea-shore at the Isles of Shoals, or among the mountains of New Hampshire, now extend their excursions to Alaska, where they see even more novel sights, and undertake more perilous trips.

"A remarkable contribution to American literature."—Current Literature, New York.

"Mr. Musick stands in the front rank of prominent American authors."—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

"Of exceeding great interest to all readers."—St. Louis Republic.

"Imagination enters into the narrative, and reports conversations at courts, at convents, and on shipboard, but it plays no pranks with biography and history, and it takes no liberties with accepted facts. It makes on the mind no erroneous or extravagant impressions. Whatever characters or scenes are the creation of the author, they in no wise discredit the genuineness of the historical annals, which are presented with conscientious fidelity."—Home Journal, New York.

"Full of thrilling incidents many of which are real, and all of them descriptive of the period and of actual historical events."—Journal of Commerce, New York.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE AVERAGE WOMAN.

By WOLCOTT BALESTIER, joint author with Rudyard Kipling of "The Naulahka." With memoir by Henry James. Unique cover design, 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"The three stories contained in this volume show that in Mr. Balestier the country has lost a writer whose insight and mastery of detail are rare."—Boston Herald.

"Those of the reading public who find their greatest pleasure in books lofty, inspiring or pure must regret that Mr. Balestier's promising career was brought to such an early close. Perhaps no one has written, before attaining his thirties, stories so noble in sentiment, so pure in expression, as the three which form this volume."—Public Opinion.

THE TALKING HORSE.

By F. ANSTEY, author of "Vice Versa," "The Tinted Venus," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. (Second edition.)

"The peculiar and original vein of Mr. Anstey makes him a writer who is always read with pleasure. This bright and wholly attractive volume gives an admirable insight into the author's varied powers at their best, and is without one dull or weak page."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

A MAD TOUR.

By Mrs. J. H. RIDDELL, author of "Princess Sunshine," "Above Suspicion," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

Mrs. J. H. Riddell is one of the most prolific writers of the century. In this, her latest work she has written an amusing record of a tour on the continent of Europe which will be appreciated both by lovers of travel and by the votaries of fiction.

DAUGHTERS OF MEN.

By HANNAH LYNCH, author of "Troubled Waters," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A novel surpassing in art and strength anything this gifted author has produced. The writer of this pleasant story is strangely and gracefully at home in Greece, and her familiarity with its patrician society is evidently no affection."—New York World.

BARRACK-ROOM BALLADS,

AND OTHER VERSES. By RUDYARD KIPLING, author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," "Soldiers Three," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"The finest things of the kind since Macaulay's 'Lays.' It is in their rhythm that his Ballads are especially striking, their hearty exhilarating march irresistible as the 'Marseillaise.'"—London Daily Chronicle.

"Mr. Kipling's verse is strong, vivid, full of character. . . . Unmistakable genius rings in every line."—London Times.

JOSHUA WRAY.

A NOVEL. By HANS STEVENSON BEATTIE. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

This new novel from the pen of New York's ex-Street Commissioner is written with ease and grace. A powerful element of romance enters into the work; whatever there may be of metaphysical discussion in its pages is delightfully interwoven with the story itself.

MR. WITT'S WIDOW.

A FRIVOLOUS TALE. By ANTHONY HOPE. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

THE CUCKOO IN THE NEST.

By Mrs. OLIPHANT. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

HERMAN MELVILLE'S WORKS.

A reissue, by arrangement with the family of the late Herman Melville, of his famous romances of the Southern Seas. Edited, with biographical and critical introduction, by Arthur Stedman. The series will comprise four volumes, 12mo, cloth, $1.50 each; or in half calf, $3.00 each.

Fair to Look Upon.

By MARY BELLE FREELEY.

Printed on heavy enamelled paper, in eight colors, and superbly bound in extra cloth, $1.50.

"The book cannot be too highly commended from the standpoint of high-class humor, poetry and unusualness, and the author's beautiful method of treating so exceedingly delicate a subject takes away much of the shock of reading holy truths by less than an altar lamp. The precedent is most reprehensible, but the same result unattainable by repetition, so no epidemic of fair-to-look-upon literature can be encouraged by this one breezy burst of literary speed."—Chicago Daily News.

"... Her verses addressed to the comprehension of children are unexceptional in point of morality, instructive and interesting."—New York Sun.

READY OCTOBER 1.

A Charming Juvenile by ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

The Beautiful Land of Nod.

Stories, Poems, Allegories, Fables, etc., etc. Beautifully illustrated with half-tone and line engravings by Louise M. Mears, Quarto, cloth. Printed on extra heavy super-calendered paper, $1.50.

The author says: "I think the book beautiful—the sweetest thing I ever mothered in the way of books."

In Friendship's Name.

Compiled by VOLNEY STREAMER.

12mo, printed on heavy linen paper, on one side of page only, ragged edges, bound with boards, sewed extra strong on tape. Japanese and linen paper wrappers, in box, $1.25.

"The compiler of these dainty volumes seems to have laid all literature under contribution to secure such really fine collections of testimony to the sacredness of friendship."

"These tributes to friendship evidence the wide reading and fine appreciation of its compiler, as well as his ability to cull and offer only the best."—The Chicago Tribune.

New Story by Rev. JOSEPH HOCKING.

ZILLAH. By Rev. JOSEPH HOCKING, author of "Jabez Easterbrook," "Elrad, the Hic," etc. With frontispiece and vignette title. Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, $1.00.

"Zillah" deals with the fascinating subjects of spiritualism, clairvoyance, etc. The writer has been for years studying these questions, and in order to make his story realistic he has attended many sances, and interviewed numerous mediums. This book has a great and serious purpose. It has a special place in the present time, inasmuch as it applies the craze about spiritualism, theosophy, etc., to the deepest needs of human life. The story appeared as a serial in a largely circulated weekly journal, during which time the author received a large number of congratulatory messages, both from the editors and readers.

THE "PRACTICAL" MECHANIC SERIES OF INDUSTRIAL HANDBOOKS.

Edited by ROBERT SCOTT BURN, author of "Sanitary Science," "Landed Estate Management," etc.

THE WORLD'S RELIGIONS SERIES.

By the late G. T. BETTANY, M.A., B.Sc.

The four volumes embraced in this series are intended to give in a popular manner an account of the principal religions or religious systems of mankind, past and present. Historic fact is followed as far as it can be ascertained, and theorizing has little place. The author's endeavor was to state simply and impartially what is the faith possessed by various peoples or associations, what are the objects of their worship, what are their practices, their ceremonies, their institutions. The author's personal opinions have been obtruded as little as possible, impartiality and fairness being aimed at. No doctrine is sought to be enforced, no creed to be dictated.

1. PRIMITIVE RELIGIONS: An Introduction to the Study of Religions, with an Account of the Religious Beliefs of Uncivilized Peoples, Confucianism, Taoism and Shintoism. With 56 illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

2. MOHAMMEDANISM and other Religions of the Mediterranean Countries. A popular account of Mahomet, the Koran, modern Islam, with descriptions of the Egyptian, Assyrian, Phœnician, and also the Greek, Roman, Teutonic and Celtic religions. With 100 illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

3. THE GREAT INDIAN RELIGIONS. A popular account of Brahmanism, Hinduism, Buddhism and Zoroastrianism. With 58 illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

4. JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY (A Sketch of the History of) in the Light of Modern Research and Criticism. With 102 illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.25.

Bradley & Woodruff's New Books.

Michael and Theodora.

By Amelia E. Barr,

Author of "The Bow of Orange Ribbon." A Russian Christmas Story. Illustrated. 16mo, 190 pages.....$0.75
This is a singularly strong and impressive story of child life among the aristocracy of Russia. Although cruel treachery and exile and sacrifice of property occur, as well as deep religious loyalty and love for the great Czar, the story develops the noble and beautiful characters of the young prince and princess (Michael and Theodora), making it so instructive and interesting to young people that they should not pass it by.

The Preacher's Daughter.

By Amelia E. Barr,

Author of "The Border Shepherds." 12mo, 395 pages.....$1.25
"This is no doubt the best, most interesting, and most powerful book ever written by this popular author."
—Exchange.

A Lucky Lover.

By John Habberton,

Author of "Helen's Babies," etc. 12mo, 306 pages.....$1.25
All young women with warm hearts and high self-respect will be delighted with this story. The scenes are laid in New York and North Carolina, the heroine being Southern born.

Sara: a Princess.

By Fannie E. Newberry.

Illustrated. 12mo, 303 pages.....$1.25
A story of life on the Atlantic coast, giving many of the peculiarities of an interesting people. The heroine is a fisherman's daughter. The situations are natural and the characters alive, while the varying fortunes of the family keep the reader's interest alert throughout.

Dorethy's Island.

By Jennie M. Drinkwater,

Author of "My Lady," "Second Best," "Marigold," etc. 12mo, 433 pages.....$1.25
"Like her other works, this author has woven a touching story full of the pure love of home, free from sensationalism, and yet so interesting that one regrets while reading it any interruption that requires it to be laid aside. There is a charm about the story in its homeliness, its freedom from artificiality and its naturalness."—Sentinel.

Miss Ashton's New Pupil.

By Mrs. S. S. Robbins.

12mo, 263 pages.....$1.25
A story of college life for young ladies. This author is one of the most gifted writers in this class of book for young ladies. She has a lively fancy, her plots are interesting and enjoyable and are full of wit and wisdom. She understands the life of her characters perfectly. Their gay larks, secret clubs and spreads are most amusing, yet through all is carried a high moral purpose.

Jack the Hunchback.

By James Otis,

Author of "Toby Tyler." Illustrated. 12mo, 390 pages.....$1.00
There is nothing more racy and faithful to boy life than the books by this author. Whoever has read "Toby Tyler" will want this new book by Mr. Otis.

Social and Present Day Questions.

Frederic W. Farrar, D.D., F.R.S.

8vo, 380 pages.....$2.00
"No man who is at all interested in the social and sociological problems of these restless and unsettled times should fail to read and ponder the thoughtful and trustworthy statements with which this book is literally crowded from beginning to end."—Ansonia Sentinel.
"A thoughtful discussion of many of the most profound problems of the day."—Spectator.

The Harvest of Yesterday.

By Emily S. Holt,

Author of "Countess Maud." A Tale of the Sixteenth Century. 12mo, 300 pages.....$1.25
Among the numerous and gorgeous figures which crowd upon the canvas of the early Reformation period, one of the most brilliant and imposing is Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk. He and his have been several times chosen for the principal figures of a historical tale. But there is one episode in his life which few know— one sad and alas! true story that has scarcely come to light. That story is told in these pages.

All's Well.

By Emily Sarah Holt,

Author of "White Lady of Hazelwood," etc., etc. 12mo, 325 pages.....$1.25
The writer has succeeded in giving vivid and life-like characters to the personages in this story of five centuries ago. This insight into life so far removed from to-day is given with rare fidelity. It is rich with pictures of the ancient life of the period woven into a story of unusual interest.

Dare Lorimer's Heritage.

By Evelyn E. Green.

Illustrated. 12mo, 338 pages.....$1.25
A quick-tempered, but noble-hearted fellow who is looked upon as the black sheep of a wealthy English family. His exile from home; his hard knocks and worldly discipline; his return home and the unearthing of the family skeleton make a strong and absorbing story.

NEW BOOKS.—FALL, 1892.

WENDOVER HOUSE.

BY

ADELAIDE L. ROUSE.

12mo, Cloth. 269 pages. $1.

Cowper's beautiful thought, "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," is wrought out in this interesting story. The reader will eagerly note the splendid traits of character developed by the several prominent young persons in the story. It is a book that will touch the hearts of the readers, and may bring some to an acknowledgment of Christ as their Saviour.

By her mother's death, Jocelyn is forced into the management of a large family of sisters and a wayward brother. Her daily struggles with the trials of a position—so great for one so young—are happily overcome by God's guidance and care. The pleasures of boating, picnics and other enjoyments are vividly described. An excellent book for boys and girls.

IN MOTHER'S PLACE.

BY

KATE NEELY FESTETITS,
Author of "The Flower Mission," etc.

12mo, Cloth. 385 pages. $1.25.

THE DOCTOR'S DOZEN.

BY

EVELYN EVERETT GREEN,
Author of "Barbara's Brothers," etc.

12mo, Cloth. 239 pages. 90 cents.

An entertaining story of how twelve brothers and sisters managed to keep their home, after they were suddenly bereaved of their parents. The devotion of the elder brothers and sisters in caring and providing for the education of the younger children is told in a most captivating style. Their trust in God is the secret by which everything they desire is accomplished and their pathway made smooth.

This helpful little book is again issued in the popular size for the vest pocket. It has been made a trifle longer and wider than heretofore, and is bound in a neat cardboard cover. Both of these features add to its attractiveness. It contains a list of the International Sunday-school lessons, with Golden Texts and Topics, besides interesting and valuable statistics that will be appreciated by the busy Sunday-school teacher.

KATIE VON WALDEN;

OR,

LANGENSTEIN AND BOBLINGEN.

BY MARIA NATHUSIUS.

TRANSLATED BY

MARY A. ROBINSON.

12mo, Cloth. 331 pages. $1.25.

A German story of rare force and interest, setting forth the value of a truly consecrated life in contrast with one nominally Christian. It is by a popular writer, and this book has run through several editions in Germany.

Just the book that is needed to correct the growing evil of gambling. A bright, interesting story, conveying a warning against every phase of the evil, showing the difficulty in overcoming the habit, and the strong hold it has upon its victims. Should be in every home and Sunday-school library.

THE FALL OF THE STAINCLIFFES.

PRIZE STORY ON GAMBLING.

BY A. COLBECK.

Five illustrations. 238 pages. 75 cts.

"I SHALL BE SATISFIED."

By R. A. RHEES.

20 cents.

This little poem contains a message of comfort and consolation to all who are grieving after those that are dead, and has encouraging and cheering words for all who are striving for a home in heaven. It is published now in its complete form for the first time, and in accordance with the wishes of the authoress. Handsomely printed and bound in cardboard covers, having the title in embossed letters printed in silver or violet ink.

LATEST PUBLICATIONS.

THE FREE-TRADE STRUGGLE IN ENGLAND.

By M. M. Trumbull. Second edition, revised and enlarged. 290 pages, paper, 25 cents; cloth, 75 cents.

"Mr. Trumbull treats his subject with a masterly hand, and it will be a great aid in securing such a knowledge of the tariff question as the masses are now eagerly seeking."—Detroit Free Press.

DARWIN AND AFTER DARWIN.

An Exposition of the Darwinian Theory and a Discussion of Post-Darwinian Questions. By George John Romanes, M.A., LL.D., F.R.S.

1. The Darwinian Theory. 125 illustrations. 460 pages, cloth, $2.00.

"Dr. Romanes is always anxious to do full justice to 'the other side,' and his spirit and manner are truly Darwinian—that is to say, truly scientific. . . . We repeat that Dr. Romanes' book is one of the most remarkable and valuable of the year—it is a book not only for believers in Darwinism, but also for students and opponents."—Weekly Bulletin.

2. Post-Darwinian Questions. (In preparation.)

DARWINISM ILLUSTRATED.

Wood-engravings explanatory of the Theory of Evolution, selected by and drawn under the direction of Prof. George J. Romanes. Enamelled paper, linen cover, 94 pages, $1.00.

HUMANITY IN ITS ORIGIN AND EARLY GROWTH.

By E. Colbert, M.A. 409 pages, cloth, $1.50.

"Mr. Colbert is a pronounced evolutionist; he tells the story of the origin of man and of the precise manner in which he was evolved from lower organism, with all the particularity and minuteness of an eye-witness. . . . There is no other book extant which, in this compass, covers so completely, from the evolutionist's standpoint, these successive steps in the early development of the human race."—Review of Reviews.

THE ONLY GOOD THING IN ALL THE WORLDS.

By J. B. Turner. With pamphlet entitled "Universal Law and Its Opposites." 176 pages, cloth, $1.00.

"No better or more genuine protest against the needless confounding of man-made theologies and the divine truths of a practical religion has ever been made than is embodied in this little volume."—Review of Reviews.

THE LOST MANUSCRIPT.

A Novel. By Gustav Freytag. Authorized translation from the Sixteenth German Edition. Two volumes, 953 pages, extra cloth, gilt top, $4.00; the same in one volume, cloth, $1.00; paper, 75 cents.

"It is a book of uncommon merit, and we are glad to see it published in one volume and at a price that brings it within the reach of all readers. It ought to be widely circulated."—Public Opinion.

HOMILIES OF SCIENCE.

By Paul Carus, Ph.D. Short ethical exhortations and sermon-like discussions of religious, moral, social and political topics made from a standpoint which might briefly be characterized The Religion of Science. 180 pages, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

"It is always a pleasure to read the utterances of the author of this book when religion and morality are under consideration. He is so frank in stating his own views and so utterly free from harshness or uncharitableness in stating his opposition to the views of others, as to be able to carry any reader along without personal irritation. We are attracted by the strong moral and spiritual tone in the book, and find a reverence and devotion here for things of the spirit which do not exist in some of our so-called religious writers. It will stir many a soul to a higher life."—Public Opinion.

Standard Electrical Dictionary.

By Prof. T. O'CONOR SLOANE,

Author of "Arithmetic of Electricity," "Electricity Simplified," "Electric Toy Making," etc.

640 PAGES. 350 ILLUSTRATIONS.

---

Handsomely Bound in Cloth, 8vo, Extra Super Calendered Paper. Price, $3.00.

---

The large sales of the author's previous works, and the flattering reviews they have received from all sources, together with the great demand for a Dictionary of this kind, have led Prof. Sloane to complete, after a vast amount of labor, a work of a very high standard.

In preparing the "Standard Electrical Dictionary" we have adhered to what the work purports to be, exhausting the subject of electrical terms, and giving each title the clearness of explanation necessary to make the understanding of it complete, without any unnecessary elaboration. Thus we are enabled to publish the "Standard Electrical Dictionary" in a condensed form, and at a price within the reach of all.

The work is absolutely indispensable to all in any way interested in "Electrical Science," from the higher electrical expert to the every-day electrical workman. In fact, it should be in the possession of all who desire to keep abreast with the progress of the greatest science of the times.

TO THE TRADE:

Dr. Elliott Coues has been actively engaged preparing a new and important edition of Lewis & Clarke's "Expedition Over the Rocky Mountains," which will be published shortly by us. It will comprise a faithful reprint of the Philadelphia edition of 1814, the best and only complete one, with a bibliographical preface, biographical sketches, and numerous valuable explanatory, ethnological, geographical and scientific notes to the text by the editor. An index to the whole will also be added.

Dr. Coues is well fitted for this task, having made a specialty of the literature of the Lewis & Clarke Expedition, and has been over the entire ground they explored. This new edition, which will be limited, will entirely supersede all others. Full prospectus on application.

LATEST BOOKS.

First Steps in Philosophy: Physical and Ethical. By WILLIAM MACKINTIRE SALTER. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

This little book aims to answer in a thorough-going and scientific way two fundamental inquiries, What is Matter? and What is Duty? Clear notions on these points constitute, in the author's judgment, indispensable preliminary steps to any sound thinking in philosophy. He avoids technical language and puts his thoughts in simple and popular form.

Lessons from the World of Matter and the World of Man. By THEODORE PARKER. Selected from notes of unpublished sermons by Rufus Leighton. 12mo, 430 pages, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A volume of selections from Theodore Parker's unpublished sermons has been published in this city. It makes a veritable book of eloquence, from which one draws inspirations, feeling indebted for every page. Poetic beauty and rugged sense look out by turns from Theodore Parker's sentences, just as from her veil of mosses, ferns, flowers, and grasses, the brown face of good Mother Earth at times appears, making us bless beauty and utility in the same breath."—Chicago Tribune.

The Last Tenet; Imposed upon the Khan of Tomathoz. By HUDOR GRONNE, author of "Inquirendo Island." Copiously illustrated with original drawings by Louis M. Glackens. 12mo, 165 pages, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A delightful story, charmingly illustrated."—Boston Traveller.

D. Appleton & Co.'s New Books

Man and the Glacial Period.

By G. FREDERICK WRIGHT, D.D., LL.D., Professor in Oberlin College; author of "The Ice Age in North America," "Logic of Christian Evidences," etc. No. 69, International Scientific Series. With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

Of Prof. Wright's "Ice Age in North America" the Independent says: "The author has seen with his own eyes the most important phenomena of the Ice age on this continent from Maine to Alaska. In the work itself, elementary description is combined with a broad, scientific and philosophic method, without abandoning for a moment the purely scientific character. Prof. Wright has contrived to give the whole a philosophical direction which lends interest and inspiration to it."

NEW EDITION OF

Fragments of Science.

By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S., author of "Sound," "Heat as a Mode of Motion," "New Fragments," etc. New revised and enlarged edition. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, $4.00.

The first edition of Professor Tyndall's "Fragments of Science" was published some twenty years ago as a single volume, which was made up of a score or more of his detached essays, addresses and reviews. The book was afterward revised, some of the papers recast and from time to time new ones added until, the size of the work becoming somewhat unwieldy, the present two-volume edition was decided upon. This contains fifteen additional papers, and represents the author's latest changes and revisions. The volumes are uniform with "New Fragments," recently issued, and the three together include all the occasional writings which their author has decided to preserve in permanent form.

The Moral Instruction of Children.

By FELIX ADLER. A new volume in the International Education Series. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This book contains the lectures delivered by Dr. Adler in the School of Applied Ethics, during its first session in 1891, at Plymouth, Mass. A few of the lectures have been condensed, but most of them are published substantially as delivered.

In Old St. Stephen's.

By JEANIE DRAKE. No. 102, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.

The author presents a fascinating sketch of the life of an old family in South Carolina in the early part of the century. The story is told forcibly and vividly, and holds the reader's attention and sympathy.

A new novel by the author of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter."

Passing the Love of Women.

By Mrs. J. H. NEEDLE, author of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter," "The Story of Philip Methuen," etc. No. 101, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cts.; cloth, $1.

Of "Stephen Ellicott's Daughter," Hon. W. E. Gladstone says: "I am desirous to bear my humble testimony to the great ability and high aim of the work." Archdeacon Farrar says: "I find it exceedingly interesting, and like its high tone." The London Spectator says: "From first to last an exceptionally strong and beautiful story."

"GOOD BOOKS FOR YOUNG READERS" SERIES.

The Battle of New York.

By WILLIAM O. STODDARD, author of "Little Smoke," "Crowded out o' Crofield," etc. With 11 illustrations and colored frontispiece. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This popular author presents an extraordinary page of our history. He tells what two boys saw and experienced during the great draft riots in New York. Side by side with these scenes there are some vivid descriptions of a boy's adventures at the battle of Gettysburg.

Englishman's Haven.

By W. J. GORDON, author of "The Captain-General," etc. With 8 full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

The romantic story of a boy's adventures among the Indians and French of Cape Breton, and his exploits when the Americans, and afterward the English, captured the stronghold of Louisbourg.

D. APPLETON & CO., and 5 Bond Street, New York.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BANGS & Co.'s regular Fall Parcel Sale will take place on October 25 and following days. Invoices should be sent in no later than the 12th inst.

"HOW TO MANAGE BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS" and "The Working Man's Way to Wealth," by Edmund Wrigley, formerly published by James K. Senior, are now published by J. B. Lippincott Company.

E. STEIGER & Co. have just issued a remarkably complete and cheap "Dictionary of the English and German Languages," by Friederich Koehler, entirely remodelled and enlarged by Prof. Hermann Lambeck. The volume is a small quarto of 1264 pages, bound in half leather, and retails at $2.60.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will have ready October 8 "Giovanni and the Other," a story of children who have made stories, by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, whose skill in drawing children's characters, pleasures and sorrows, needs no tribute of words after the recognition given in the overwhelming success of her "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Sarah Crewe," etc.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on October 8 "Zachary Phips," a new historical novel by Edwin Lassetter Bynner; "Evangeline," beautifully bound and illustrated with the Darley designs; "Children's Rights," a book of kindergarten discussion and talks with mothers, by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "An American Missionary in Japan," by Dr. M. L. Gordon; "Little-Folk Lyrics," a collection of charming verses for children by Frank Dempster Sherman; and new editions of Bynner's "Agnes Surriage" and "Begum's Daughter," and of S. Weir Mitchell's "Roland Blake," all of which have been mentioned in detail in the Fall Announcement Number of THE PUBLISHER'S WEEKLY. They report so large a demand for Charles Francis Adams' "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History," that its publication is postponed to October 8, when another edition will be ready.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued "Man and the Glacial Period," by G. Frederick Wright, author of "The Ice Age in North America," with an appendix on "Tertiary Man," by Professor Henry W. Hayes in their International Scientific Series, and "The Moral Instruction of Children," by Felix Adler; and "English Education in the Elementary and Secondary Schools," by Isaac Sharpless, President of Haverford College, Pa., in their International Educational Series. In their Town and Country Library they have ready "In Old St. Stephens," by Jeanie Drake, a tale of South Carolina in olden days; and will publish at once a novel by Miss Molly Elliot Seawell, entitled "The Berkeleys and Their Neighbors." Two new books for young people are also just out, "Englishman's Haven," by W. J. Gordon, and "The Battle of New York," by William O. Stoddard.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready "London," by Walter Besant, who presents pictures of the City of London, instantaneous photographs, showing the streets, the buildings and the citizens at work and at play—above all, the citizens, with their daily life in the streets, in the shops, in the houses from the time directly following the Romans to the time of George Second, a work for which the author has browsed among many forgotten records, which is very fully illustrated; "Field-Farings," a vagrant chronicle of earth and sky, dedicated to Margaret L. Sangster, full of pretty thoughts suggested by nature in her changing seasons; "The Desire of Beauty," a discussion of æsthetic culture, by Theodore Child; "The West from a Car Window," a series of entertaining papers by Richard Harding Davis, who narrates his experiences in Texas and the mining regions of the Great Divide, and "A Little Swiss Sojourn," one of W. D. Howells' dainty bits of description added to the pretty Black and White Series.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (32mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fz. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, C. C., M.D. Recent archaeological explorations in the valley of the Delaware. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 2+80 p. il. O. (Univ. of Pa. ser. in philology, literature and archaeology, v. 2, no. 1.) bds., 75 c.

Allen, Willis Boyd. Gulf and glacier; or, the Percivals in Alaska. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 2-243 p. il. D. (Pine-cone ser., no. 6.) cl., $1.

The seven weeks' tour described under this title comprised a journey across the continent from sea to sea, a voyage along the coast of Alaska, and the return trip across the continent by way of Yellowstone Park. The "Percivals" are old friends who have figured in all the previous volumes of this series. Pet Sibley and Fred Seacomb join them in this excursion. The fun is fresh and plentiful, and the descriptions the records of an actual journey.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] A life's remorse. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 288 p. il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 75.) pap., 25 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 14, 1890, [1893.]

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] Nor wife, nor maid. N. Y., Hovendon Co., [1892.] c. '91. 3-386 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

English country life with its tennis parties, dances, musical evenings and long walks is pictured with skill and humor. The heroine comes of a family in which there have been clergymen of high degree for generations. Her love-story does not run smooth. The tale hinges on the English law that makes a child legitimate if parents are legally married just before its birth. Most innocently the leading characters suffer from unforeseen complications.

Ball, B. W. The Merrimack river; Hellenics and other poems; ed. with introd. by F. F. Ayer. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. '91. 41+426 p. D. cl., $2.

Benjamin West Ball was born in Concord, Mass., Jan. 27, 1822. He has long been a contributor to periodical literature of prose articles and poems. His article entitled "Woman's rights in ancient Athens," published in the Atlantic Monthly for March, 1871, attracted wide attention. This is the first complete edition published of his poetical writings.

Black, J. W. Maryland's attitude in the struggle for Canada. Balt., Md., The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. 2-73 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, 10th ser., no. 7.) pap., 50 c.

A study of the attitude of Maryland in the French and Indian war. The author has aimed to present briefly the results of a study of the Sharpe correspondence and the proceedings of the Assembly during the years 1753-1761, for the purpose of throwing new light upon Maryland politics at that time.

Blackwood, Alicia, (Lady.) Little lives, and threads of gold to guide them. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-344 p. il. D. cl., $1. A supposed dream is the medium of presenting and illustrating for young readers some of the beautiful Bible precepts and promises. The story is in the style of the "Pilgrim's progress."

Bolton, Mrs. Sarah Knowles. Famous types of womanhood. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 4-350 p. pors. D. cl., $1.50.

In this, the latest addition to the already long list of Mrs. Bolton's "Famous" books, full and entertaining sketches are given of Queen Louise of Prussia, who was not only beautiful in person and in character, but was the inspirer of German unity; Madame Récamier, who stands forth as the best type of social elegance and dignity; Susannah Wesley, whose inspiration did so much toward establishing the world-wide work of Methodism; Harriet Martineau, whose career is an encouragement to all struggling women; Jenny Lind, the "Swedish Nightingale"; Dorothea Dix, whose reform of the treatment of the insane was almost a miracle; the three noble wives of the missionary Judson, and finally of Miss Amelia B. Edwards, who proved that a woman can win glory in a field usually arrogated wholly by men.

Brehat, Alfred de. Romance of Trouville: a novel; from the French, by Meta de Vere; il. by Wechsler. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 4-329 p. D. (Choice ser., no. 69.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A hurdle-race at Trouville introduces the characters, and is the cause of a duel between René Gavary, a Frenchman, and Manuel de Cobrizo, a Portuguese. The sensational incidents that precede and follow this event make up a story of mystery and dramatic interest.

*Briggs, C. A. The case against Prof. Briggs. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 12°, pap., net, 50 c.

These letters written by Columbus to Ferdinand and Isabella, to Raphael Sanchez, Juana De La Torres and Luis De Santangel describing his different voyages of discovery, are offered by the editor as an antidote to the adverse views of the man advanced by some critics. They show, as nothing else can show, his thoughts, acts and desires, proving that he was brave and an advanced thinker.

The treatises mentioned in the title are given with the original text in Latin or French and in an English translation. They are preceded by illustrative comments from well-known literary critics and followed by copious notes.

Cooper, Mrs. Harriet C. Short studies in botany for children. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 4-194 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.

"Aunt Mary" is the central figure of a group of interesting nieces and nephews. It is in walks and talks with her that these short studies in botany are evolved. The style is bright and pleasing, and so simple and untechnical as to be easily understood. Children may gain from the volume information about the "rose family," the "composite family," the "grass family," the "pine family," "orchids," etc.

Corelli, Marie. Ardath: the story of a dead self. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 7-565 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 9.) pap., 50 c.

The story is founded upon four lines from the book of Ecclesiastes, in the Apocrypha, and it teaches that our present natures are but the reflex of ourselves as we were in a pre-existent state, and that according to our own will our lives are for good or for evil. A vision upon the "field which is called Ardath," stretching beyond the ruins of Babylon, reveals to the poet and seer, who is the hero of the tale, his dead self as it lived and sinned five thousand years before Christ. Through the stern lesson of this vision he realizes the immortal power of the soul, and by casting away selfish and earthly desires attains lasting happiness.

Curry, G. Merrill's English history for school and home use; ed. by W. J. Rolfe. N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., [1892.] c. 2-817 p. maps, D. cl., $1.

As the original edition of this work was written for "juvenile Britons," there were many expressions and some allusions in it which would be inappreciable and occasionally unintelligible to children on this side of the ocean. For these reasons Mr. Rolfe, at the request of prominent educators who recognized the merits of the work, made the present revised edition, bringing the last chapter down to date. May be used as a text-book for young pupils, or as supplementary reading either in school or at home.

A historical tale which depicts with great vividness the heartless worldliness that prevailed in the French court during the reign of Charles IX., when Catherine de Médicis really governed king and nation. The heroine of the story, Antoinette de Bourlemont, is a young girl who, though brought up under the direction and influence of Catherine, is of true, loving and loyal spirit. So innocent is she of any guile that she never understands the true character of her royal friend until her eyes are opened by the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

Two volumes bound in one, namely "Favorite rhymes for the nursery" and "Riddles and rhymes." Profusely illustrated.

Favorite tales and stories. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 255 p. il. D. (Favorite nursery lib.) cl., $1.

Two volumes bound in one, namely "Favorite tales for the nursery" and "Favorite stories for the nursery." The volume embraces eighteen of the familiar fairy tales such as "Puss in Boots," "Cinderella," "Jack the giant-killer," "The forty thieves," etc. Profusely illustrated.

Findlater, Sarah L. The children's voyage to the Cape. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-123 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

The voyage of Jennie and Mollie Fanshawe to Cape Town and their novel mode of life in that place are the interesting features of a story of two helpful children.

Fouillée, Alfred. Education from a national standpoint; tr. and ed. with a preface by W. J. Greenstreet. [Also] A preface by W. T. Harris. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 21+832 p. D. (International education ser., no. 23.) cl., $1.50.

The present conflict in European schools as to which is the best education for the people—a literary or a scientific one—the two parties being called the "humanists" and the "realists"—is the basis of the suggestions of this volume. Mr. Fouillée, who represents the more advanced thought on the side of the humanists, takes a more restricted view of the problem of education and heredity than Guyau, the educational questions which he discusses being from the national standpoint and not from that of the individual. The work is divided into five books: 1, Education and selection from the national point of view; 2, Scientific humanities from the national standpoint; 3, Classical humanities from the national standpoint; 4, A "modern" education from the national standpoint; 5, Philosophy, ethics and social science from the national standpoint.

Fulton, Justin D., D.D. Charles H. Spurgeon our ally. Chic., H. J. Smith & Co., 1892. c. 3-496 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.

The chief aim of this sketch of Spurgeon's life is to show that he held to the dogma of "close communion."

Gerard, Morice. The Victoria cross; how it was won; how it was lost; how it came back again. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-156 p. il. D. cl., 60 c.

Robert Wheatcroft, gunner in the British navy, won by bravery a Victoria cross. After this had been awarded, he went back to England to nurse a wound he had received in an encounter with Zulus. On his arrival there he loses, through a second act of bravery, his cherished cross. In the dramatic scene which follows this latter incident, Emma Forster and Robert are seen to advantage, and a Victoria cross is regained.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. The church and the king: a tale of England in the days of Henry VIII. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-599 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

The hero of the story is Guy, second son of Sir Ralph Falconer, a Papist supposed to be prime mover in the religious revolt against Henry VIII. The attack against Wierwold Hall and the conspiracy of Lord Obaldistone, of the opposition party, with Lady Falconer, bring into prominence the religious and political movement of men who fought for and of those who opposed the establishment of the Protestant Episcopal Church as the Church of England.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. In the wars of the roses: a story for the young. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-256 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The chance resemblance of Prince Edward of Wales, son of Margaret of Anjou and Henry VI., to the son of a Staffordshire knight, leads to a case of mistaken identity, and causes Paul Bulkley to substitute himself for the heir-apparent to the English throne. On this incident of England's history is founded a story which deals with events that succeed the restoration of Henry VI., and introduces the struggle of the House of York and Lancaster with the succession of Edward IV.

Green, Mrs. Evelyn Everett. The Lord of Dynevor: a tale of the time of Edward the first. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-260 p. il. D. cl., $1.

This story of the four sons of Res Vychan is historically true, though a pretty romance is woven into the facts and there are minor fictitious details. The scene is laid alternately in Wales and England during the period when the Welsh made their last struggle against English conquest. Wendot, the young Welsh lord of Dynevor, his turbulent brothers, the young Prince Alphonso, Gertrude Cherleton, and the royal princesses, Eleanor and Joanna, are all very natural young people, whose adventures, friendships, quarrels and tribulations are told with spirit and verisimilitude.

Hans in luck and other favorite fairy stories.

N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-109 p. col. il. O. bds., 50 c.

Four fairy tales, printed in large type in brown ink. Twenty-four full-page pictures in colors.

Harvey, Emeline Daggett. Gold dust. Chic., The Lotus Pub. Co., 1892. c. 2-257 p. D. (The Lotus lib., v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 50 c.

A rather sensational story of American life. The scene is laid in Toronto, O., later in Chicago, where the action culminates in the Haymarket riot of May 4, 1887.

Hawthorne, Nathaniel. The house of the seven gables. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1892.] c. '51-'83. 4-378 p. D. (Riverside pap. ser., no. 50.) pap., 50 c.

Hector, Mrs. Annie F. ["Mrs. Alexander." pseud.] The snare of the fowler. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5+349 p. D. cl., $1.

A young girl who believes herself as poor as she is friendless almost falls a victim to the intrigues of an unprincipled woman, an aunt by marriage, who offers her a home, and endeavors to force her into a marriage with her handsome but worthless son. The secret of the aunt's desire to unite the young people is the knowledge she and her son alone possess of facts in the girl's history regarding her claim upon a large estate. The plot is long and has many surprises. The story does not often stray away from London, the characters being taken from fashionable and middle-class English life.

*Henderson, Ridley. Data for engineers, surveyors and explorers; il. by Wallis Mackaye. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1892. 28 p. 16°, pap., $1.20.

Henty, G. A. Beric the Briton: a story of the Roman invasion; il. by W. Parkinson. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 4-383 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a young Briton during the reign of Nero. He takes a prominent part in the war against the Romans, is finally made a prisoner and carried to Rome, where he becomes a gladiator. The story is full of vivid pictures of savage Britain and cultured Roman life, of thrilling scenes in the arena and in the city during that interesting period, including a description of the burning of Rome.

Henty, G. A. Condemned as a Nihilist: a story of escape from Siberia; il. by Walter Paget. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5-332 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Godfrey Bullen, the young hero suspected of Nihilism, is sent with convicts to Siberia. His final escape from prison-life after numerous exciting adventures affords material for a narrative of thrilling interest. The pictures of Siberian prison-life are realistic and read as if taken from life.

Henty, G. A. In Greek waters: a story of the Grecian war of independence (1821-1827); il. by W. S. Stacey. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 4-408 p. map, D. cl., $1.50.

The scenes of this story are laid in and near Greece during the Greek war for national independence. Horace Beveridge and his father, enthusiastic sympathizers with the Greeks, take an active part in their struggle against Turkish rule. They own a well-armed schooner in which they cruise for nearly two years, sharing in numerous fights and rescues on shore and on sea.

Herron, G: D., D.D. A plea for the gospel. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 5+108 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Four sermons by the author of "The message of Jesus" and "The larger Christ." They were delivered before ecclesiastical associations. They are called "The peril of the church," "The opportunity of the church," "The reality of faith," "The faith that overcometh the world."

Knox, T: W. A close shave, or, how Major Flagg won his bet. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., 1892. 5-323 p. D. cl., $1.

The object of the story is to show the possibility of making a journey around the world in seventy days from the time of starting, and to present the various aids to travel and communication which have appeared since Jules Verne published "Around the world in eighty days." Various scientific discoveries and inventions are thus brought to the reader's attention in their adaptation to the needs of the heroes. The geographical descriptions, routes, time-tables, etc., claim to be correct.

Regarding these twelve stories the author says: "An acquaintance with the conditions of Russian life and with prominent members of the revolutionary party in London and on the Continent, has combined to assist me in collecting hitherto unpublished information upon which the narratives are based."

Leighton, Rob. The thirsty sword: a story of the Norse invasion of Scotland, (1262-1268); il. by Alfred Pearse. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 2-849 p. map, D. cl., $1.50.

According to a superstition current in the Isle of Bute at the time of the story, King Somerled's sword was supposed to be endowed with supernatural powers, as it had dealt death to so many, hence was called the "thirsty sword." With this weapon Earl Kenric seeks to revenge the death of his father Hamish, former king of Bute, and to defend his territory against the invader, King Hakon of Norway.

Mathews, Harriet. Outlines of English grammar; with continuous selections for practice. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 17+250 p. D. cl., 80 c.

The writer, a teacher in the State Normal School at Trenton, N. J., prepared this work, partly to comply with the often-repeated request of those who have studied in her classes the system it teaches, and partly for the purpose of furnishing a text-book to follow the excellent works in "Language lessons," which are used in primary teaching. The design of the work is to teach in the order of their dependence the analysis, classifications, modifications and constructions necessary to a grammatical knowledge of the English language.

South Africa at the time of one of the frequent native uprisings is the scene of a dramatic narrative of ghastly vengeance wreaked by a Kafir warrior upon an Englishman. There is a love-story woven in the plot, which terminates in orthodox fashion; but it hardly lightens the gloom cast by the rapidly succeeding scenes of savagery and by the horror of Hlangani's revenge.

Two cousins who only meet when nearing manhood are the leading characters. Gerald Yorke has lived his young life in Italy. He is imbued with a love of art, is a musical genius, and impetuous, imaginative and independent. At his mother's dying request he seeks her brother's home in England. Martin Cartwright is a prosperous tradesman living in a provincial town. He and his wife are strict Methodists, the wife, however, exceeding the husband in narrowness and bigotry. Here Gerald finds John, their only child, who is breaking his heart in the unsympathetic atmosphere. Gerald is a revelation to his cousin John, and from the moment of meeting the boys entertain for each other a deep and faithful friendship which receives no strain even when both unfortunately love the same woman.

- Raymond, Mrs. Evelyn H. Mixed pickles. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 2-286 p. D. cl., $1.25. The "mixed Pickles" which Mrs. Raymond has so entertainingly put up for the delectation of the young are a German family who bear the romantic name of Pickel, and who are brought by an easy-going, good-natured brother of their father to visit their American grandmother. Other grandchildren are domiciled in the roomy Quaker farmhouse, and the adventures of the various members of the household, especially of young Fritz Pickel, are a source of amazement, perplexity, amusement, and not seldom of righteous wrath to the maiden aunt, whom at the last the German uncle carries off in the regulation manner.
- Robinson, Ja. Harvey. The German Bundesrath: a study in comparative constitutional law. Phil., [University of Pennsylvania,] 1891 [1892.] 2-68 p. O. (University of Pennsylvania, political economy and public law ser., v. 3, no. 1.) pap., 75 c.
- Saint-Amand, Imbert de. The Duchess of Berry and the Court of Louis XVIII.; tr. by Eliz. Gilbert Martin. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+301 p. por. D. (Famous women of the French court.) cl., $1.25. The Princess Marie Caroline of Naples became, upon her marriage with the Duke of Berry, the central figure of the French court during the reigns of both Louis XVIII. and Charles X. This volume, like the preceding ones of the series, while largely biographical, presents vivid pictures of the times. The chief events it chronicles are the marriage of Marie Caroline, the assassination of her husband the Duke of Berry, and the birth of her son the Duke of Chambord, and the death of Louis XVIII., the old king having expired Sept. 12, 1894. The other two volumes of this group will deal with the Duchess of Berry and the court of Charles X., and the Duchess of Berry and the revolution of July, 1830.

- Sheldon, Miss Lurana W. Death to the inquisitive: a story of sinful love. N. Y., W. D. Rowland, 1892. c. 263 p. il. D. (Leisure time ser., no. 14.) pap., 25 c. A story of sin and crime which is not immoral, though dealing with immoral subjects. An effort is made to make the book appear utterly objectionable through sensational chapter headings, a lurid cover and a vulgar frontispiece.

- Smith, Z. F. School history of Kentucky, from the earliest discoveries and settlements to the year 1891; prepared for use in the schools of the state. 6th ed. Louisville, Ky., The Courier Journal Job Print. Co., [1892.] c. 2-242 p. map, il. D. cl., 75 c.
- Smyth, Newman, D.D. Christian ethics. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 9+496 p. O. (International theological lib., no. 2.) cl. net, $2.50. Aims to give a scientific and complete account of the ethics of the Christian consciousness and life. The volume fills a gap in English ethical literature, and is a worthy successor of Prof. Driver's "Introduction to the literature of the Old Testament," the initial work of the International library. For a full description of the intent and scope of the library, see notice under Driver, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 10, '91, [1028.]

*Southwestern reporter, v. 19; cont. all the current decisions of the supreme cts. of Mo., Ark. and Tenn., court of appeals of Ky., and supreme ct. and ct. of appeals of Tex. Permanent ed. May 2-Aug. 1, 1892; with tables of southwestern cases published in v. 55, Ark. report; 89, Ky. reports, 106, Mo. reports; 82, Tex. (supreme ct.) reports, a table of statutes cited and construed, is given in the index. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 15+1350 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $4.

Souvenir of the Lakes of Killarney and Glengariff. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 4-47 p. col. il. sq. D. cl., $1.

Twelve plates of views of Killarney printed in colors; descriptive text in brown ink, in which is interspersed small pictures.

Stanwood, E. A history of presidential elections. 3d ed., rev. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1892.] c. '84, '92. 3+492 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The last edition was published in 1888. The present edition, brought down to date, contains the result of the election of 1888, and includes an account of the Harrison administration. An appendix contains an account of the conventions of 1892.

Stredder, Eleanor. The merchant's children: a story for the young. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 6-249 p. il. D. cl., 80 c.

The merchant is the resident agent of a large London tea-house, who lives with his family on the "English Concession," in Hankow, the great tea-market of China. His children, Greville and Cordelia, are wholesome little people, who adopt a castaway Chinese baby, are spectators of a riot against the "foreign devils," and are captured by river pirates, but who carry themselves pluckily through all their adventures. The story gives an interesting picture of life among the foreign residents and among the queer native population of the Celestial Kingdom.

Tasma, [pseud. for Mrs. Jessie Couvreur.] The white feather. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. '91, '92. 2-347 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 217.) pap., 50 c.

Australia is again made the scene of a novel, by the author of "A Sydney Sovereign," "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill," etc. Linda Robley is a wayward, beautiful girl, who has been educated in Paris, and has advanced ideas. She marries one man while loving his cousin; then learns to despise her husband on finding he is a coward. Under the influence of a third admirer, her sneers drive her husband to his death. Her remorse and expiation are deep and life-long.

Tautphues, Jemima Montgomery (Baronin) v. The initials: a story of modern life. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1892.] 2 v., 6+392; 4+409 p. D. cl., $2.50.

Though 40 years have passed since this delightful story was first published, it has never lost its hold upon the reading public. It presents a charming picture of student life in Munich, which is as true to-day as when written. The work is attractively issued, uniform with the Ermoor ed. of "Lorna Doone."

*Tennyson, Alfred, (Lord.) The princess: a medley. Family ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. il. 8°, cl., $2.

*Texas. Court of appeals. Reports during the latter part of the Austin term, 1891, the Tyler term, 1891, and the Galveston term, 1892; rep. by S. W. Willson and J. P. White. V. 30. [Galveston, Clarke & Courts, prs.,] 1892. c. 26+816 p. O. shp., $4.50.

*Thompson, Silvanus P. Electricity in mining: being the operatives' lecture delivered at Cardiff at the meeting of the British Assoc., Aug. 1891. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1892. 45 p. 12°, pap., 75 c.

Thoreau, H. D. Autumn: from the journal of Henry D. Thoreau; ed. by H. G. O. Blake. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 6+470 p. D. cl., $1.50.

More than ten years have gone by since the first volume—"Spring"—of this series was published. Since then we have had "Summer" and "Winter," the present volume completing the cycle of the seasons. As in the other volumes, it is the life out-doors that is recorded. Thoreau seldom wrote of his material affairs. The sunset, the landscape, the deeds of animals were the things that interested him. No detail of life under a New England's autumn sky was too small for him to notice.

*Thornton, W. W. The law of railroad fences and private crossings, including injuries to animals on right of way caused by negligence. Indianapolis, The Bowen-Merrill Co., 1892. c. 47+590 p. O. shp., $6.

Tillier, Claude. My uncle Benjamin; from the French by B. R. Tucker. [Also] A sketch of the author's life and works by L. Pfau. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., [1892.] c. '90, '91. 2-319 p. D. (Idle moment ser., no. 17.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 13, 1890 [1965.] Formerly published by Benjamin R. Tucker, Bost.

Torrey, Bradford. The foot-path way. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 3+245 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A series of papers describing: June in Franconia; December out-of-doors; Dyer's Hollow; Five days on Mount Mansfield; A widow and twins; The male ruby throat; Robin roosts; The passing of the birds; A great blue heron; Flowers and folks; In praise of the Weymouth pine. The author has written an ideal summer book. He takes his title from "The winter's tale"—"Jog on, jog on the foot-path way," etc.

Tucker, Mrs. Charlotte, ["A. L. O. E.," pseud.] The iron chain and the golden. N. Y., T. Nelson & Sons, 1892. 7-208 p. il. D. cl., $1.

By giving incidents in the lives of two Saxon priests of kinship, but of opposite views and character, with the action and some of the relative history of Anselm, former abbot of Bec, afterward Archbishop of Canterbury, the positions of two factions of the Church of Rome are defined, and an endeavor is made to show through contrast that superstition was the iron chain that imposed a cellmate's life on the priest, and that love is the golden chain.

Tyndall, J. Fragments of science: a series of detached essays, addresses and reviews. [New rev. and enl. ed.] N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 2 v. 6+452; 8+452 p. D. cl., $4.

The first edition of Prof. Tyndall's "Fragments of Science" was published some twenty years ago as a single volume, which was made up of a score or more of his detached essays, addresses and reviews. The book was afterward revised, some of the papers recast, and from time to time new ones added, until the size of the work becoming somewhat unwieldy, the present two-volume edition was decided upon. This contains fifteen additional papers, and represents the author's latest changes and revisions. Uniform with "New fragments" recently issued, the three volumes together including all the occasional writings which their author has decided to preserve in permanent form.

*Watson, J., ed. What to do with our boys and girls, by Sir G. Baden-Powell, Sir Herbert Maxwell and other writers. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 173 p. 12°, cl., 75 c.

Werner, E., [pseud. for Eliz. Bürstenbinder.] Enthralled and released; tr. [from the German] by Dr. Raphael. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 2+504 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A translation of Gebannt und erlöst. Published in 1893 by J. B. Lippincott & Co. under the title of "Banned and blessed." See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 20, 1883, [613.] Also published in 1884, under title of "Raymond's atonement."

Whitney, Ernest, and Alexander, W. S. Legends of the Pike's Peak region: the sacred myths of the Manitou; il. by T. C. Parrish. Denver, Col., The Chain & Hardy Co., 1892. c. 4-52 p. il. D. leatherette, 50 c.; same, large-pap. ed., sm. 4°, $1.

A literary résumé of the myths of Colorado, pointing out the poetry and strange romance they testify to in a now extinct nation.

Wilder, Mrs. C. F. Polly Button's New Year. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 9+ 187 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Polly Button is a humble member of the church, but to her it suddenly occurs that she as well as the minister has a duty in the world to perform. She begins a new year with a sense of her responsibility and with a sincere desire to change her life. Thus in her little way she becomes a genuine power in the community, an example to those about her in wealth and position, and a help to the young with whom she comes into contact. Her quaint soliloquies and comments are piquant and bright.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 1, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

THE IMPORTATION OF RE-BOUND BOOKS.

A REVIEW OF THE CASE OF THE BOSTON BOOK CO. VS. COLLECTOR OF BOSTON.

A DECISION of great importance not only to the book trade, importers or dealers in second-hand books, but also to book-collectors and librarians, is that recently handed down by Judge Putnam in the case of the Boston Book Company against the Collector of Customs of Boston. Although we are obliged to present the facts later than we had hoped, we make no apology, in view of the importance of the subject, for spreading so fully before our readers the details of the case at this time:

The Boston Book Co. ordered from London a second-hand set of Howell's State Trials, 34 vols. (which was published in successive volumes between the years 1809 and 1828), believing that it could be admitted free of duty.

On arrival of the set (per S.S. Scythia, April 13, 1891), the Appraiser at the Port of Boston found that, while printed more than twenty years ago, it had evidently been recently re-bound; and the Collector therefore assessed upon it (April 23) a duty of 25% upon the value (£16.10s.) under the provision of the present tariff, which requires a book to have been "printed and bound" more than twenty years, to be admitted free. This duty, amounting to $20.50, the Boston Book Co. paid under protest on April 29, 1891, and the same day entered an appeal to the Board of U. S. General Appraisers against the imposition of this duty. On May 29, 1891, the Board of U. S. General Appraisers sustained the decision of the Collector of the Port of Boston, and so notified the appellants.

Although not stated in their notification, it is presumed that the Board of General Appraisers, in deciding this case only followed the precedent they had established in their decision (G. A. 426) of March 16, 1891, in a similar case, which reads as follows:

(G. A. 426.)

FREE ENTRY OF BOOKS PRINTED AND BOUND MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS.

OFFICE OF THE U. S. GENERAL APPRAISERS,
NEW YORK, MARCH 16, 1891.

To the Collector of Customs, New York.

SIR: We are in receipt of your letter of the 11th ultimo, submitting the protests of Mr. W. E. Benjamin (6105 a) and Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. (6106 a), from assessment of duty at the rate of 25% ad valorem on certain books, on the ground that the books were printed more than twenty years ago.

In addition to the special report of the appraisers we had a hearing at which the appellants appeared.

It was admitted that the books had been printed more than twenty years, and that they had been recently re-bound. The appellants contended that the books having been printed and once bound more than twenty years since, were brought within the provisions of the free list of the existing law, paragraph 512, and could not afterwards be excluded by a re-binding, which is in the nature of repairs. It will not be denied that the term "binding" includes re-binding, and it will be seen from the whole paragraph that Congress intended that such books only should be entitled to free entry as are substantially in the same condition they were twenty years prior to importation.

The tariff act of 1883 contained in the free list paragraph No. 658, which covered this subject by these words: "Books . . . which shall have been printed and manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

The word "bound" is new matter added by the act of October 1, 1890, to previous legislation, and we cannot give effect to this additional language unless we find that Congress meant to embrace by it the entire condition in which books should be admitted to free entry.

The appellants made an effort to pay duty on the cost of rebinding, which they had ascertained, but no previous provision exists therefor.

We hold, therefore, that books entitled to free entry must be both printed and bound more than twenty years prior to importation, and that such binding includes re-binding where the same is entire, as in the present cases.

Your assessment of duty in each of these cases is sustained.

The Boston Book Co. then appealed to the Circuit Court of the United States from this decision of the Board of General Appraisers, claiming that the view of the existing law taken by that board was incorrect, because there was a simpler and more natural interpretation of the change in the law, and because the interpretation of the board, besides being strained and unnatural, would introduce uncertainty and confusion into the importation of old books; would introduce an element of uncertainty into the process of appraisal; would practically repeal the old law in its application to a large class of importations, and would effect these changes, not by plain enactment, but by implication and strained construction only.

Prior to the Act of 1890 the free list of the tariff law contained the following clause:

"Books, engravings, bound or unbound, etchings, maps and charts, which shall have been printed and manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

In the act of 1890, now in force, this paragraph has been amended so as to read thus:

"Books, engravings, photographs, bound or unbound, etchings, maps and charts, which shall have been printed and bound or manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

The amendment in the law which affects the present case consists in the change of the words "printed and manufactured" to "printed and bound or manufactured;" and the application consists in the construction of the words "and bound" as used in this connection.

The Board of General Appraisers held that the introduction of these words "and bound" removed from the free list, and rendered dutiable, any book which had been originally bound, or had been re-bound, within twenty years. The Boston Book Co. contended that these words only covered the case of original binding, and left repaired or re-bound books as they were before, free of duty.

On the one hand the appellants suggested that there was a simpler and more natural construction of the change in the law than that set forth by the Board of General Appraisers.

Under the old law, question arose as to how far the phrase "printed and manufactured" applied to editions, or parts of editions, of books which had been printed more than twenty years at the time of importation, but had never been bound, and were imported "in sheets."

The Treasury Department, in Decision 3716, rendered Sept. 3, 1878, held that such books, not having been bound, were not "manufactured," according to the intent of the law, and were therefore dutiable.

Again in Decision 7338, rendered Jan. 29, 1886, the Department held that "unbound printed sheets were not books printed and manufactured within the meaning of the provision of the free list." (See 18 op. Att.-Gen. 461, for final decision.)

Thus the phrase of the old law, "printed and manufactured," required from the Treasury Department the explanation that binding was a necessary part of the complete manufacture of a book.

If the recent changes in the law are viewed in the light of this ambiguity, and the consequent decisions of the Treasury Department, it seems plain that the substitution of the words "printed and bound or manufactured," for the former phrase "printed and manufactured," are only intended to render the law precise on this mooted point, and to embody definitely in the law the prior decisions of the Treasury Department. As the law now stands, the words "printed and bound" apply to books, and the words "or manufactured" cover engravings, photographs, etchings, maps and charts.

This view of the law is taken in the Seventh edition of Morgan's Digest of the U. S. Tariff and Customs Laws (1891), a work every edition of which "the U. S. Treasury Department has supplied to the Custom-Houses of the United States for the past twenty years." On page 340 of this work the editor, in a note to the provision of the free list now under discussion, says:

"Most of the decisions under the former tariff act turned upon the point whether certain unbound books, pamphlets, etc., which had been printed more than twenty years were entitled to free entry. The present law would seem to clear away the difficulty on that point by the provision, 'books . . . which have been printed and bound or manufactured.'"

It may be added that the same view was taken by the Collector of the Port of Boston when this question was first brought up under the operations of the present tariff acts; and that he only imposed the 25 per cent. duty in such cases after the Board of U. S. General Appraisers had rendered their decision of March 16, 1891.

By the adoption of this construction the change in phraseology is clearly accounted for, the decisions of the Treasury Department are confirmed, and no radical changes in law or custom are effected by implication or indirection.

In the first place, the modification in the free list, as interpreted by the general appraisers, renders it impossible for the citizen or dealer who orders old books from foreign catalogues to know whether they will be dutiable or free of duty, and consequently to reckon within 25 per cent. of the cost. Printed catalogues usually give the date of publication, which may be presumed to be the date of original binding, but no information as to the date of re-binding can be obtained from these catalogues or otherwise. Under the old law, the importer could reckon from the catalogue, or from the written offer of the foreign bookseller, just what he would have to pay for any book or set of books. Under the new law, if this interpretation is allowed to stand, the importer can never know what the cost of an old book is to be, until it has come to the United States Custom-House and the Appraiser has made up his mind whether the binding is more or less than twenty years old. Doubt and uncertainty are thus introduced into the business of importation by the General Appraisers' interpretation of the present law.

In the second place, the General Appraisers' interpretation introduces a new element of uncertainty into the process of appraisal, renders the work of the local appraiser much more difficult, and imposes on him the responsibility of judging—or rather of guessing—how old the binding of each old book may be.

Under the law as it formerly stood, the appraiser found little or no difficulty in separating the dutiable from the non-dutiable books. The dates on the title-pages settled the matter, except in rare cases of fraud. But under the present law, as interpreted by the general appraisers, every second-hand book must be scrutinized by the appraiser—not only for the date of publication, but also to see whether it has been re-bound within twenty years. Here he will have no sure guide for judging between bindings ten, or twenty, or thirty years old. A binding thirty years old, but well preserved, often looks fresher than another ten years old which has been exposed to dampness, excessive heat, or hard usage. He must rely on his own unassisted judgment, for no one can help him. The importer, not having seen the books, cannot say when they were last bound. The foreign bookseller from whom they were bought, having usually got them at auction or from former owners, cannot give accurate information. No one can definitely tell when such second-hand books were bound, except the binder who bound them and the owner who had them bound. Unless the re-binding has just been done—and it will be practically impossible to prove when it was done—the question whether each book or set shall pay duty or shall come in free will rest upon the judgment of the appraiser in each case, without possibility of definite confirmation or proof. Thus this interpretation of the present law introduces uncertainty into the appraisal, and forces the appraiser to decide, by impression or guess-work, the age of bindings on which expert binders could rarely agree.

In the third place, the General Appraiser's interpretation of the law practically repeals and changes the former law in its application to a large class of importations, not by clear enactment but by a forced or strained construction.

Very many books in constant use are bound and re-bound as occasion requires. Law-books, for instance, require frequent re-binding. Under the former law, old books thus rebound were admitted free of duty. Under the General Appraisers' interpretation of the present law, any book or set of books which has been rebound within twenty years, either in fact or in the opinion of the appraisers, becomes dutiable at the rate of 25 per cent. This effects a considerable change of values. A good copy of the first folio edition of Shakespeare, for instance, may be worth three thousand dollars. Under the old law, and under a fair construction of the present law, it would be admitted free of duty. But under the General Appraisers' decision—if the local appraiser thinks that the folio has been rebound within twenty years—a duty of twenty-five per cent. must be levied, not on the value of the binding, which is supposed to be recent, but upon the full value of the old volume—a duty of $750—to be added because the volume has been kept in good repair. This is an extreme case, but it is a fair illustration of the change in the law brought about by the General Appraisers' decision. So large a class of importations may be affected by this decision—law-books, sets of periodicals, publications and society proceedings—books valuable for their age and so on, that it is not too much to say that the insertion of the words "and bound," under this interpretation, partially repeals the former law, by transferring from the free list to the dutiable list all these old books so long considered to be properly free of duty.

And finally this great change is effected, not by plain and explicit enactment, but by implication and construction. If it had been intended to make new bindings on old books dutiable, as a measure of protection to American bookbinders—the law could have been definitely amended in so many words. If it had been intended to make this amendment more effective by adding, as a punitive measure, that old books thus re-bound should not only pay duty on the cost of re-binding, but should also pay duty on the full cost of the books themselves—this radical change in the law could and ought to have been expressed so clearly and unequivocally that there should be no doubt what was intended. A few words would have sufficed for this purpose, and it seems impossible that the framers of the law could have tried to compress its expression into the two words "and bound."

Nor is it correct to assume, as the General Appraisers have done, in their decision, that the word "binding," technically considered, includes re-binding. It is by no means the same process. Beginning with the sheets of a book as they come from the press, the process of binding includes:

- (1.) Folding of each sheet into a "signature;"
- (2.) Placing the signatures in order; (3.) Stitching or sewing together the backs of the signatures preparatory to fastening on the cover; (4.) Attaching the cover, of boards, cloth, sheep or other material, which has been prepared by separate processes.

In re-binding the first three steps of binding are not repeated, unless the book is so shaken as to require re-sewing; but a new cover or the old cover repaired, is attached to the already folded, collated and stitched body of the book. This process is so distinct from original binding, that it is a very strained construction of the word "bound" in this connection, to hold that it also means "re-bound." The decision of the Board of General Appraisers apparently limits this construction to cases where the re-binding is entire; but why? If the term binding includes re-binding, in this context, why does it not also include partial re-binding? There are various grades of re-binding—from the "re-backing" of a single volume to the entire re-binding of a full set with new material. Why stop arbitrarily at the latter, and not include also the other stages? Does not this very limitation of the decision show what numerous and puzzling questions of fact the General Appraisers' construction of the words "and bound" opens up, and what vistas of uncertainty and dispute will follow its adoption? Is it possible that so strained an interpretation, bringing in its train so many uncertainties, both of law and of fact, can prevail against the natural and satisfactory interpretation, which simply changes a previous law to meet an interpretation given by the Attorney-General?

The Court seemed to take this view of the matter, as the following abstract of Judge Putnam's decision will show:

"The Treasury Department twice ruled—the last time January 29, 1886—that under the tariff act of 1883 books printed more than twenty years, but imported in sheets, were not entitled to free entry. The Attorney-General, however, advised otherwise September 16, 1886 (18 Op. Attys.-Gen., 461). He reached this conclusion by making 'bound or unbound' relate to the preceding word 'books.' It is my belief that the change in phraseology which appears in the act of October 1, 1890, par. 512, so far as it reaches the present case, should be construed as intended to remove this doubt, and to make certain that the general policy concerning this subject-matter was not extended as the opinion of the Attorney-General permitted. This was, perhaps, sought to be accomplished by striking out the comma after 'unbound,' for whatever such striking out might be worth, so as, perhaps, to make that word limit what followed it, and not what preceded. It was reached effectually and certainly by inserting 'bound or' after the words 'printed and.' The present paragraph 512 is therefore to be construed distributively; the words 'printed and bound' referring to whatever should be bound to complete it as an article of merchandise, and 'printed' and 'manufactured' to everything else. I discover no evidence of any other change of legislative purpose so far as relates to printed books. By a literal construction of the present statute the petitioner's books seem entitled to free entry, because, having once been bound more than twenty years before importation, they comply with its precise terms, notwithstanding they may have been bound again. But it is not necessary to rely on the mere letter, as the considerations stated lead directly and naturally to a rational construction. Church of Holy Trinity v. U. S., 143 U. S. 457, 463, 12 Sup. Ct. Rep. 511. Moreover, re-binding is not binding. The latter is new and original work; while, ordinarily, the former is repairing, and usually omits one or more of the recognized steps in the latter. If the United States claims that they all actually entered into the present case, it had the burden of showing this fact to the Board of General Appraisers. But, as it is apparent that these books were bound more than twenty years before importation as books of like character are usually bound before being offered for sale, I would regard them as entitled to free entry, even though it also appeared that, in consequence of accident or ordinary use, they had needed and received repairs in all respects equal in extent to new and original binding. I adopt the conclusions of the decision of the Treasury Department of March 2, 1891 (10,800), and hold that the books are entitled to free entry. The petitioner will prepare the proper order, and, if not agreed to, will submit it to the Court for revision. For the present the order will be: Petitioner entitled to relief per order to be entered in compliance with the opinion of the Court."

EARLY BIBLES OF AMERICA.

THE REV. JOHN WRIGHT, D.D., Rector of St. Paul's Church, St. Paul, Minn., has just published, through Thomas Whitaker, New York, an interesting contribution to the bibliography of the Bibles printed during the existence of the American colonies, and of others that appeared after the colonies became the United States.

Dr. Wright begins his account with a description of the Elliot Bible, of which an edition of 1500 copies was first printed in 1661. This comprises only the New Testament in the (Algonkin) Indian language and bears the imprint of Samuel Green and Marmaduke Johnson, Cambridge. The printing of the Old Testament began in 1660 and was completed in 1663, at which time the whole Bible was issued. This issue, notwithstanding Dr. O'Callaghan's strictures, was remarkably free from errors considering the difficulties under which the work was performed. In the first place the Algonkin was a harsh language, having no equivalents for many English words; then the presses, type, ink and paper had to be imported, coming long distances and by slow means of conveyance, and lastly workmen were few, and the sources of instruction very limited. A second and last version of this Bible was printed in 1685. Of the two issues the latter is the more valuable to the philologist, although the first edition has naturally more attraction for the collector. A copy of the 1661 New Testament at the sale of the Brinley Library brought $700; the Bible of 1663 was knocked down at $1000. At an auction in 1884 a 1685 Bible brought $950, and at a sale in 1882 Mr. Quaritch bought for Mr. Kalbfleisch an Elliot Bible of 1663 for $2900. There are at present upwards of a hundred copies in existence.

The next issue of which the writer treats is the Saur Bible, printed in German, in Germantown, Pa., by Christoph Saur in 1743, and bearing the proud distinction of being the first Bible printed in America in a European language. Saur, born in Laasphe in Wittgenstein, Germany, 1693, settled in this country in 1724, and at first followed the practice of medicine. In time he turned his attention to the importation and sale of books, and finally to printing. He received the type for his Bible as a present from H. E. Luther, a type-founder of Frankfurt-on-the-Main. Mr. Saur met with great opposition in this venture. He was accused of selfish and mercenary motives; booksellers tried to undersell him by offering imported Bibles at low rate; and others raised opposition by declaring that his Bible was not a genuine rendering of the Lutheran translation; and yet, the Bible was a copy of Luther's translation as rendered in the Halle and Berlinberger editions; and the price was for the whole work "in plain binding with a clasp 13 shillings, but to the poor and needy we have no price." In 1763 Saur printed a second; and in 1776 a third edition of this Bible. Saur died in 1784 leaving descendants to carry his name proudly down to the present day.

The next issue of the Bible described by Dr. Wright is the Aitken Bible, which claims to be the first printed in the English language in this country; of this, the New Testament was printed by Robert Aitken, in Philadelphia in 1777. Four editions were printed in 1778, 1779, 1780 and 1781. In 1782 he printed the Old Testament upon the recommendation of Congress.

In 1790 Matthew Carey began the publication of the first quarto edition of the Douay version of the Bible. In 1791 Isaiah Thomas, of Worcester, Mass., printed a folio and quarto edition of the Bible which were far in advance of any other publications of the same kind that had appeared in America in point of typography, excellence of paper, binding and general execution, calling from Benjamin Franklin the praise that Thomas "is the Baskerville of America." In 1797 Thomas printed a twelvemo edition of the Bible.

The first quarto Bible printed in New Jersey was that printed by Isaac Collins in Trenton, 1791. Two years later Mr. Collins printed a Bible in octavo, and in 1796 he transferred his business to New York, where it has been continued by his descendants until this day, the present representative being Charles Collins.

Other Bibles described by Dr. Wright are the first translation from the Septuagint made by Charles Thomson and printed in 1808 by Jane Aitkin, of Philadelphia; the first translation from the Peshito Syriac, made by Rev. James Murdock, and printed by Stanford & Swords, of 137 Broadway, New York, in 1851; the various curious versions printed by Benjamin Franklin; Lilly, Wait, Coleman & Holden, of Boston; Henry Oliphant, of Auburn, N. Y.; Joshua V. Himes, of Boston (a Millerite); Thomas D. Wait & Co. (to advance the views of Socinianism); and a number of others, all remarkable for their reckless and free-handed rendering of the original.

The first edition of the New Testament in Greek was printed in this country in 1800 by Isaiah Thomas, Jr., of Worcester; S. F. Bradford, of Philadelphia, printed a parallel English-Greek New Testament in 1806; George Long, 71 Pearl Street, New York, printed a New Testament in Greek in 1821; and these were rapidly followed by others.

It is impossible to follow the author further though we have not by any means exhausted the list. The volume is liberally illustrated with reproductions of the title-pages of some of the more important editions, and is sumptuously gotten up as far as paper, presswork and binding are concerned. There is also a limited large-paper edition.

JAMES C. DERBY.—OBIT.

ANOTHER of the "old guard" of the book trade has been called from the fast thinning ranks. It is some time since Mr. Derby took active part in business affairs, but not so many years back he was known to every one, and he knew all about the trade and every man in it. In 1884 he published his reminiscences of business life in "Fifty Years Among Authors, Books and Publishers," through George W. Carleton, a large volume full of history, gossip and confidences, giving a reasonably fair account of the book trade during the second and third quarters of the century. From this book, really an autobiography, we learn that Mr. Derby was born in 1818 in Little Falls, N. Y. At fifteen he was apprenticed to H. Iverson & Co., of Auburn, N. Y., to learn the bookselling business, for which he had a natural inclination. Auburn was then an incorporated village of about 5000 inhabitants. The Iverson store was well appointed with a good stock of miscellaneous books and stationery, and a bookbindery in the rear. It was at first intended that the new apprentice should learn the binder's trade also, but as he showed no aptitude whatever in that direction, and as he was particularly fitted to make a good salesman, he was soon kept wholly in the store. After about three months' trial his employers wrote his mother that he bid fair to become a useful man, and made definite arrangements with her as to terms. Young Derby was taken into Mr. Iverson's family and began his career at fifty dollars a year, with business hours from 7 in the morning until 9 at night.

After Mr. Derby had worked four years for Mr. Iverson the latter took a partner from Connecticut, with whom the young clerk did not get on, so he left in November, 1837, with an excellent recommendation, and went to work in the bookstore of Ulysses F. Doubleday, a prominent politician in the Auburn district. After about a year Mr. Iverson separated from his partner and took back Mr. Derby. In 1838 Mr. Derby visited New York and Philadelphia for the first time to lay in new stock. Those were the days of stage-coaches, and the trip from Auburn to New York occupied three days. In 1840, Mr. Doubleday having gone out of business, a good opening for another bookstore showed itself in Auburn, and, backed by his old employer, Mr. Derby organized the firm of J. C. Derby & Co., H. Iverson, Jr., becoming his partner. He began publishing in 1844. His first volume bore the title "Conference Hymns, with Tunes, Adapted to Religious Meetings for Prayers," and was compiled by Rev. Josiah Hopkins and Henry Iverson, Jr. In 1848 Mr. Derby took Norman C. Miller, one of his trusted clerks, into partnership, and the firm became Derby & Miller. Among the more important books published by them were: "The Life of Zachary Taylor," by Henry Montgomery; "Lives of Mary and Martha Washington," by Margaret C. Conkling, a sister of Roscoe Conkling; Headley's "Life of the Empress Josephine;" "Life of Rev. Adoniram Judson;"

and "Lives of the Three Mrs. Judsons;" Jenkins' "History of the War with Mexico;" "Life of George Washington," by Jared Sparks, and several important law-books, amongst them volumes of Blatchford's "United States Circuit Court Reports," now published by Baker, Voorhis & Co. After thirteen years of business success in Auburn, Mr. Derby decided to move to New York, which he did in 1853, Mr. Miller remaining in Auburn. In New York Mr. Derby formed a new partnership with Edwin Jackson, under the name of Derby & Jackson, a firm that also had a prosperous career until 1861, when they discontinued business.

In 1862 he again came together with Norman C. Miller, under the firm-name of Derby & Miller, and once more published some very successful works, among which were Raymond's "Life of Lincoln," Headley's "Life of Grant," Goodrich's "Tribute-Book," and the engraving of Carpenter's painting of the Emancipation Proclamation. After some years they again separated, Mr. Miller having become interested in the express business and also in printing enterprises.

Mr. Derby had two brothers also in the book business who were very successful. These men trace their success and character to their mother, who was a woman of strong character and moulding influence. She wrote her sons the following letter in 1844, advising them strongly never to print, publish or even sell any book that might exert pernicious influence, and Mr. Derby has said: "I can confidently say that in the long and varied experience of my brothers and myself, not a single volume has ever been sold of a doubtful tendency."

A MOTHER'S ADVICE TO HER CHILDREN—BOOKSELLERS—ON THE PURCHASING AND VENDING PERNICIOUS BOOKS.

As you are soon going on your accustomed journey, I will ask you once more to consider my plea regarding the policy and character of some portion of your business. The selecting of books for a reading community is a peculiar responsibility; and if the matter therein contained be good in its wholesale and retail consequences, it will rise up for you; if bad, against you, even here in this partly Christianized America.

You now stand upon the pivot of general improvement in almost everything, and it is your special province to go forward in this particular branch of progression, provided your religious principles, high moral character and self-denial be such as should be worthy the patronage and confidence of the world, and more especially your own conscience.

Consider now, I pray you, and take the choice whether you will be men who greatly improve and exalt the moral faculties and unsubdued hearts of this intelligent but inconsistent people, whose God and kingdom should not be of this world, or as one regardless, principally, of all that is, has been, and will be said, but who is in favor of many good operations, and help to sustain and encourage orthodox institutions, yet at the same time are trafficking the disgusting, heart-sickening literature of moral corruption, which of its own inherent nature undermines more or less the very groundwork of those blessed institutions which you otherwise help and wish to have supported, and which are our own individual as well as national safety, and the strength and hope of perpetual happiness—strange contradiction! And this is all for money? Can it be? Think of the impolicy and sin of an impure press and those who sustain it!

I intend to be brief but plain, and how can I let you alone as long as a mother's blood runs in my veins and my heart is constrained by the love of Christ to act for the good of souls?

The mind of man is a soil that God has made highly productive of greatness and goodness, provided it is beneath the refreshing showers of healthful and exalting influences; and it is your peculiar privilege to administer in the books you put into their hands such influences to fallen and rebellious man. . . . I would therefore have you come out on the right and on the safe side, and to extend your usefulness, make your principles publicly known and your reasons for them, then your names may be written in letters of gold as the first booksellers resolved to put nothing but that which is good and healthful upon your shelves and counters.

Your affectionate mother,
LEZZETTA DERBY.

For a number of years Mr. Derby was manager of the subscription department of D. Appleton & Co. At Auburn Derby & Miller published the first subscription-book west of New York City—Goodrich's "History of All Nations."

For the past few years Mr. Derby has led a very retired life, although still the nominal head of Derby & Miller, 149 Church Street, N. Y. The old partners had once more organized their firm at the special request of Frederick W. Seward for the express purpose of bringing out the biography of his father, William H. Seward, a work in three volumes, which appeared in the summer of 1891.

Mr. Derby died at the home of his daughter in Brooklyn on Thursday, September 22. He was a member of the Century Club, and also held several public positions of trust. In 1865 he was appointed United States General Agent of the Paris Exposition of 1867, and worked hard to make the American display representative.

COPYRIGHT IN CANADA.

ACCORDING to a communication from Ottawa, dated September 23, a despatch has been received from London from the Secretary of State for the Colonies stating that the imperial authorities confirm the position taken by the Canadian Government in declining to grant copyright to the citizens of the United States in the terms of Mr. Blaine's contention, which was based upon the verbal assurance of Lord Salisbury that they would be entitled to copyright in all of Her Majesty's dominions, overlooking the fact that the Canadian statute confers that right only upon citizens of a country having a copyright treaty with Great Britain. The fact that no such treaty exists is the backbone of the Canadian contention.

ENGLISH LITERARY SWINDLERS.

THE trial of Sir Gilbert Edward Campbell and others associated with him in a series of frauds on persons ambitious for literary fame, terminated on September 27, in London, at the Old Bailey, in a verdict of guilty. Sir Gilbert Edward Campbell was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at hard labor, he appearing on the evidence to have been a guilty stool-pigeon rather than a principal in the fraudulent schemes; William James Morgan, who was the chief in forming the various fraudulent societies and obtaining money from literary aspirants, was sentenced to eight years' penal servitude; James Sidney Tomkins, who was Morgan's right-hand man in the "International Society of Literature and Art," was sentenced to five years' penal servitude; William Nathan Steadman, one of the lesser conspirators, received a sentence of fifteen months at hard labor; David William Tolmie, six months, and Charles Montague Clarke, four months. The schemes of the conspirators have been explained in the testimony as given by several witnesses.

They obtained various sums of money from clergymen, farmers, and even domestic servants upon the pretext, never fulfilled, of publishing poems and other productions, or of giving them literary employment. The sums amounted to considerable in the aggregate, and were divided between the swindlers.

To the Newsdealers and Booksellers of the United States:

THE National Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association will hold their next annual conference in the city of Philadelphia, October 11, 12 and 13, 1892.

The committee in charge makes an earnest appeal to all organized bodies in the United States to send delegates to the above-mentioned conference. The following subjects will be thoroughly discussed and acted upon:

1. The revision of the postal laws enabling dealers to send books at pound rates.
2. The cutting of prices by publishing houses who retail.
3. The cutting of prices by dry-goods houses.
4. The cutting of prices by publishers to jobbers, thus enabling one jobber to undersell another.
5. The licensing of all newsdealers and book-sellers.
6. The canvassing by publishers of magazines for yearly subscriptions.

Also many other abuses appertaining to the trade.

In any town or city where a union exists the union shall be the medium in transactions with the National Association. It shall pay fifteen cents per capita fees for each member, and shall have the right to elect one delegate for every twenty members, to represent them at all future national conventions. In places where no union exists, any newsdealer, bookseller or stationer who is engaged in business for himself can become a member of the National Association by paying the sum of one dollar.

It is hoped that by this means a bond of brotherhood will be established, which will bring into the association every one engaged in this important branch of business.

There will also be a publishers' exhibit held in the convention hall during the session, which will last for three days. Publishers will be invited to send their display without any cost save transportation.

Join at once, and help the good work along.

Send by postal note, post-office order, check or currency, to

C. B. SWIFT, Chairman.

SOLD HIS SONGS TWICE OVER.

UP to the age of twenty-four Joseph P. Skelly, says the New York Sun, was a respectable plumber. Then he took to writing sentimental songs. Since he began he has written more than fifty songs and sold considerably more than he has written. This he accomplished by selling one song two or three times to different publishers, and it finally got him into trouble.

After having established himself in the favor of a certain class of the musical public by such songs as "Poor Little Chick-a-dee-dee," "Where Have You Seen Little Birdie?" "Birdie Singing in the Rain" and "When the Birdies Nest Again," Skelly found a ready market for his music, and got along pretty well. It was when he branched off from the birdies and attempted to handle such themes as "Be Kind to Your Father When He's Old," "Safe to My Heart Again" and "I'm Coming Back Again, Eileen," that his fate overtook him. He didn't get enough for these from a single publisher to reward him for his trouble, so, after selling "Safe to My Heart Again" to Harding, the Bowery (New York) publisher, for $10 on January 27, five days later he sold the same song to Louis Berge, of 525½ Sixth Avenue, New York, and a week after that got another $10 for it from the Chicago Music Publishing Company. Harding and Berge having, as they supposed, the exclusive right to the song, did not hurry about having it copyrighted, and when, a short time ago, Berge attempted to do so he found a copyright had been secured three days before by the Chicago company. It is said that Skelly has swindled other publishers in the same manner. Berge had Skelly arrested, and in the Jefferson Market Court, New York, on the 27th ult., he was held in $300 bail for trial.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

J. ASHBY-STERRY, who is the London correspondent of The Book-Buyer, is reported to be the original of George Meredith's Evan Harrington.

MRS. TAYLOR, the widow of Bayard Taylor, has written a clever cook-book, which is to be brought out immediately. A large portion of it appeared in the columns of the Sunday [N. Y.] Tribune.

It is now confidently predicted that Lord Tennyson's new play will be published before Christmas, but nothing has been settled as to whether it will be performed before it is issued in book form.

It has been found impossible to get Mr. Edison to devote the necessary time to complete the story for which Mr. S. S. McClure had arranged terms with him, and the contract has therefore been rescinded.

THE letters of Adrienne Lecouvreur, the actress, have lately been for the first time collected and edited. Explanatory and illustrative notes, taken from unpublished archives of the Comédie Française, have been added.

HANS S. BRATTIE, ex-Street-Cleaning Commissioner of New York City, has surprised his old political friends by blossoming out as an author. "Joshua Wray" is the name of Mr. Beattie's story, and it has to do with philosophy and religion. It has just been published by the United States Book Co.

THOMAS HARDY writes to The Critic, in reply to complaints that have reached him to the effect that "even in the revised and enlarged American edition of 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' I have thought fit to suppress the explanatory preface which appears in all the English editions," that he is now taking measures to attach to the American edition both the original preface and a new preface which is in preparation for the fifth English edition. He adds in explanation that "the necessity for (at least) simultaneous publication in America of English books, to secure copyright, renders it almost impossible that the latest addenda of an author should be incorporated in the foreign imprint. Could even a fortnight's grace be allowed, final touches, given just before going to press on this side, would not be excluded from American copies as they now are in so many cases."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE following has been sent out by the office of The Cosmopolitan: "Mr. Howells will begin in the November Cosmopolitan, a department under the attractive title: 'A Traveller from Altruria.' Those who have seen the first two papers think they will equal in interest and in their wide appeal to all classes, the Breakfast Table Papers of Dr. Holmes. In order to give the necessary time to this work, Mr. Howells has turned over the detail editorial work to Mr. Walker."

MR. TILDEN is the subject of a remarkably interesting paper in the October Atlantic Monthly, by James C. Carter, a distinguished lawyer of New York, who knew Mr. Tilden intimately, and who, though differing from him in politics, found him so great and wise a man that he writes of him with a noble enthusiasm. Alexander Brown, author of the important work, "The Genesis of the United States," also contributes a valuable historical article on "The English Occupancy of North America" to this issue of The Atlantic.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ABINGDON, VA.—George R. Barr, of Geo. R. Barr & Co., booksellers and stationers, is dead.

BAXTER SPRINGS, KAN.—F. H. Hoose has bought the bookstore recently sold by C. W. Daniels.

BURNET, TEXAS.—J. F. Cook has again engaged in the book and stationery business.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Limbach & Wolter, 211 Wabash Ave. (Room 56), are sole agents in this country for P. Thelen, the well-known music publisher of Berlin. They will have a catalogue ready shortly.

CHICAGO, ILL.—F. A. K. Moore has entered into an engagement to travel in Northern Iowa for C. M. Barnes. S. D. Siler, formerly of Siler Book and Stationery Co., Birmingham, Ala., has also entered the service of Mr. Barnes to travel in the South.

CINCINNATI, O.—A combination of music publishing and musical instrument manufacturers has been consummated in this city. The capital of the interests involved will reach, it is claimed, $5,000,000. The interests involved are the John Church Company, of Cincinnati and New York; the Everett Piano Company, of Boston; Root & Sons Music Company, of Chicago; the Harvard Piano Company, of Boston, and the Royal Manufacturing Company, of Cincinnati. These are to be combined under one management. The men in the new venture are William N. Hobart, Edward Rawson, A. Howard Hinkle, Frank A. Lee and William Hooper. The John Church Company publishes music and music-books, deals in pianos, organs and all kinds of music and imports musical merchandise.

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—F. W. Iddings Book and Stationery Co. succeed F. W. Iddings.

LAKE CITY, FLA.—The report that S. B. Thompson, bookseller and stationer, had been sold out by the sheriff is erroneous. It appears that about two years ago he sought to establish a millinery department in his business and bought stock of a Baltimore house. Part of the stock was unsalable, being adapted for a more northern climate, and did not meet the requirement of the order given. Mr. Thompson offered to return the goods and pay losses and expenses, but the seller declined this proposition and sued for the full bill. Judgment was entered against Mr. Thompson for about $800 and the sheriff levied on part of his stock, but the judgment was satisfied and no sale took place. Mr. Thompson established his business in 1884, has built up a good trade, was never sued before and proposes to pay for his goods according to agreement. He is well spoken of by his neighbors.

MUSKOGEE, INDIAN TER.—P. M. Smith & Co., booksellers and stationers, have sold out.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—Antonello R. Andrews has removed his "Olde Book Shoppe" from City Market to 176 Temple, directly opposite William Neely's. He will continue as before to deal in second-hand books, making a specialty of local histories and rare books. Mr. Andrews' ambition is to run his store on lines as nearly like the old Archway of Boston as possible. He asks for new catalogues.

NEW YORK CITY.—Funk & Wagnalls Co. have temporary headquarters at 739 Broadway, second floor, pending repairs in their store at Astor Place.

NEW YORK CITY.—The creditors of W. J. Kelly, publisher, who was burned out August 27, held a meeting at the office of the Stationers' Board of Trade last Friday afternoon. Mr. Kelly presented his report, and it is understood that he will commence business again after the holidays.

NEW YORK CITY.—The schedules of James J. McCarthy and Clarence E. Reed, composing the firm of McCarthy & Co., recently assigned, show liabilities $13,351.10; nominal assets $10,500.37, and actual assets of $7749.61.

NEW YORK CITY.—The New York Book Depository, of 17 Clinton Place, of which John Von Glahn has been appointed receiver in the suit of Ralph A. Young, was carried on under the management of Emanuel Glaeser, the President, who started the business ten years ago and turned it into a stock company in January, 1890, with a capital stock of $20,000.

SALINA, KANSAS.—The Normal Bookstore has been opened with J. F. Barwick as manager.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—James Richardson, bookseller and stationer, has filed a voluntary petition of insolvency.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—The book and the wall-paper departments of W. F. Adams Co. have been separated and the latter organized under the name of "The Old Corner Wall-Paper Co." Mr. Adams will now devote his entire time to the Old Corner Book Store which for almost three score years has been the leading book store in the Connecticut Valley.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—Jno. S. Barr, of Jno. S. Barr & Co., booksellers, is dead.

TACOMA, WASH.—Oscar Nuhn, bookseller, has made an assignment.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

The Electrical World will publish in an early issue a list of the best indexes to electrical literature, which should, in the absence of a systematic bibliography of the subject, be useful to many who have occasion to consult the voluminous and daily growing mass of literature devoted to electrical science. This list will comprise many of the indexes which have heretofore been scattered through periodicals, etc., and it will be made as complete as is practicable.

DR. LIPSUS, the great German theologian, who died at Jena, August 19, was the possessor of a most valuable theological library containing many very rare books and complete sets of periodicals. It was his wish that this collection of books should go to some one library. A catalogue is now being made. Any communications on the subject should be addressed to Professor Baumgarten, at Jena, Germany.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

THE "Bibliographical Contributions" issued under the editorship of Justin Winsor by the Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. (No. 45), contains a valuable collection of "Notes on Special Collections in American Libraries," prepared by William Coolidge Lane and Charles Knowles Bolton, both connected with the library. The list is especially valuable to booksellers dealing in special lines of literature. (82 p. 8°.)

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—Edward Baker, Birmingham, Eng., First or rare editions. (No. 33, 12°.)—Book Shop, F. M. Morris, 73 E. Madison St., Chic., Miscellaneous. Smith*, 119 No. 9th St., Phila., Miscellaneous. (No. 1, 558 titles.)—Henry Sotheran & Co., 136 Strand, London, Eng., Sotheran's Price Current. (No. 517.)—Subscription News Co., 47 Dey St., N. Y., Trade list of periodicals, etc. (No. 368.)—James H. Wood, 176 Sixth Ave., N. Y., Works on iron and steel industry. (No. 1, 4 p. 16°.)—Charles L. Woodward, 78 Nassau St., N. Y., Rare books and pamphlets relating to America. (7th catalogue of American topographs, 1866 titles)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

F. A. DAVIS & Co. have in preparation the "Biography of Dr. D. Hayes Agnew," the celebrated surgeon, not of Dr. H. Agnew, the oculist, as was inadvertently stated in our last issue.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just issued "James Gilmour of Mongolia," in which the life of this untiring missionary is compiled from his letters and diaries by Richard Lovett; and "The Story of Uganda and the Victory of the Victoria Nyanza Mission," by Sarah Geraldine Stock.

AT a hearing of the case of the C. F. Jewett Publishing Co. against Gen. Benj. F. Butler for breach of contract, Mr. A. M. Thayer, publisher of "Butler's Book," is reported to have said that although 30,000 copies had been sold, his firm must still make about $10,000 to cover its expenses.

A BOOKSELLER in one of his recent catalogues, under a lot of "Irvingiana, N. Y., 1860," makes the following note: "An original poem by Irving was first published in this volume." If our information is correct the bookseller in question will find this poem in "The New York Book of Poetry," issued in New York in 1837.

THE only complete and authentic life of ex-President Cleveland yet written has just been published in Cassell's Sunshine Series. The author is George F. Parker, editor of "The Writings and Speeches of Grover Cleveland," published by the Cassell Publishing Co.; and he has had the authorization of Mr. Cleveland in his work. There will be included in the book a literary estimate of the ex-President by R. W. Gilder, and a review of his legal career by his late partner, W. S. Bissell, of Buffalo.

GINN & Co. will publish at once a series of papers on the study of children in nursery and kindergarten schools, entitled "The Place of the Story in Early Education and other essays," by Sara E. Wiltse, with an introductory note by President G. Stanley Hall. In November they will publish in the International Modern Language Series, "La Cigale chez les Fourmis," comédie en un acte, par Legouvé et Labiche, with English notes by Alphonse N. van Daell, Professor of Modern Languages in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MARCH BROS., Lebanon, Ohio, are the publishers of all the books entered under G. P. Putnam's Sons in the Fall Announcement Number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, with the exception of "Manual of Physics," by Wm. Peddie, which is rightly credited to the Putnams. The publications of the March Brothers are: the new volumes in the Science Training Series; and in the Manual Training Series, MacLeod's "Practical Drill Problems;" "A Year with Emerson, Lowell and Holmes," by Miss May Mackintosh; and "Shedd's Special Day Exercises."

The North American Review has sued the New York Telegram for an alleged violation of the copyright laws in republishing without permission an article which appeared in the October number of the Review from the pen of William E. Gladstone, entitled "A Vindication of Home Rule." Judge Lacombe granted a temporary injunction. Under the law if the violation is proved against the Telegram its proprietor will be liable in damages to the extent of $1 for every copy of the paper containing the article. In the Telegram's case this, it is said, would be about $16,500.

CHARLES E. MERRILL & Co. will publish, early in October, "Comeos from Ruskin," by Miss Mary E. Cardwill. The purpose of the book which consists of extracts from Mr. Ruskin's works, is to illustrate the fundamental principle of all his criticism—that art is inseparably connected with character and conduct or morality, and that all great art rests upon the basis of what is intrinsically good. Of the authorized (Brantwood) edition they will also publish, in October, "Ruskin's Lectures on Architecture and Painting," with a special introduction by Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

F. J. SCHULTE, Chicago, is publishing fast-selling books with great rapidity. Among his latest announcements is "Arms and Others," a collection of three tales by Mrs. Lindon W. Bates, bearing the separate titles "Winged Victory," a story of reincarnation; "Taken in at Oare's," a character-study of life in the far West; and "A Venetian Payment," a romance of love, intrigue and society. This active publisher has just issued a Norwegian translation of his successful book "Cæsar's Column," by Ignatius Donnelly, and during the winter will also bring out the book in German under the title "Weltuntergang."

JOHN G. WHITTIER bequeathed to Lucy Larcum the copyrights of "Child Life," "Child Life in Prose" and "Songs of Three Centuries," besides $500. The copyrights of his other writings are placed in the hands of executors, the income to be divided among certain of his heirs. His manuscripts, letters and papers were entrusted to Samuel T. Pickard, of Portland, Me. Referring to this legacy the poet requests "all who have letters of mine to refrain from publishing them, unless with his [Pickard's] consent." It is understood that Mr. Pickard has undertaken to write a biography of Whittier, in which work he will be assisted by Mr. Chase, of Providence.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, of London, will publish shortly a novel by Edmund Gosse, entitled "The Secret of Narcisse."

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co. announce a new edition of the translation, by George Eliot, of Strauss' "Life of Christ," with an introduction by Prof. Otto Pfeiderer, of Berlin.

ANDREW W. TIER, of the Leadenhall Press, London, is engaged on a little work on horn-books, and desires it to be known that he will be grateful for references to material and examples.

It is said that the second half of the second volume of the late Prof. B. Ten Brink's "Geschichte der Englischen Literatur" will be published this month, and that his literary remains contain materials for two more volumes.

THE Railway Automatic Library Company has had a short career and by no means a prosperous one, and is now about to be wound up; and for the present, at all events, railway passengers in Great Britain will have to do without their automatically-supplied course of reading.

THE death is announced at Frankfort-on-the-Main, of Dr. Edward Schubert, owner of the largest Paracelsus library in the world. He devoted many years of his life to works on Paracelsus and pharmaceutical alchemy, and studiously collected the literary material relating to these subjects. His valuable collection is to be sold, en bloc, if possible.

BLACKWOOD & SONS, London, have just ready an interesting addition to the literature of the turf in a work, entitled "The Racing Life of Lord George Bentinck, M.P.," written by John Kent, private trainer to the Goodwood stable, and edited by Francis Lawley. The book gives a complete account of the Goodwood stable, as well as a history of the turf during Lord George's time, and portraits of some celebrated sporting personages, besides other illustrations.

DAVID NUTT will publish at once the first volume of the Rev. W. E. Addis' new translation of the documents of the Hexateuch chronologically arranged. This will comprise the documents commonly known as Jahvist and Elohist, the combination of which forms the oldest book of Hebrew history. The second volume, to appear, it is hoped, next year, will comprise the Deuteronomist and the Priestly Writer. Prof. Kuno Meyer's edition of the "Vision of MacConglinne" is also ready for issue. The two versions of the Irish text are printed for the first time; Hennessy's translation has been thoroughly revised and corrected, and the philological importance of the twelfth-century text is brought out by elaborate notes and glossary. Prof. W. Wollner, of Leipzig, contributes an introduction, dealing with the composition, origin and authorship of the tale.

PICK-UPS.

"I READ Schopenhauer in German." "Why. I never knew you understood German?" "I don't. But Schopenhauer is no harder to understand in the original than in English."—Harper's Bazar.

A NEW KIND.—McCommick (In reading-room of the Manhattan Athletic): What book is that you are reading? Fellow Member: A "History of Famous Prize-fights." McCommick: Must be a sort of scrap-book.—The Club.

VERY LIKELY.—"They say he is a literary man, and perhaps he is. He talks rapidly, but upon my word, I can't make head or tail of what he talks about." "Ha! Perhaps he is a magazine poet!"—New York Press.

FRAPPANT.—Exeter: What do you read to keep cool this weather? Dexeter: The love letters of my last year's Boston girl. They simply frappé my blood.—Town Topics.

UNWORTHY HIS NOTICE.—"James," said Mr. Newrox, "you can take that there 'Paradise Lost' down to the second-hand store and sell it for what you can get. Feller told me to-day that the man that wrote it didn't make as much as $100 out of it."—Indianapolis Journal.

THE enclosed facetious advertisement of "Books Wanted" deserves, says a correspondent, to be placed on record in your columns: H. H. Hartley, second-hand bookseller, will give good prices for copies of the following books: "The Art of Turning by Handel," "John Knox on Death's Door," "Malthus's Attack on Infantry," "Macadam's Views in Rhodes," "Pygmalion, by Lord Bacon," "Boyle on Steam," and "Lamb's Recollections of Suet."—Book-Shop.

QUATRAIN.

BY JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

SOME years ago I wrote a single joke;
'Twas mild—not very sharp—but sunny.
'Twas printed, and quite famous I awoke;
An error in the types had made it funny.

OF THE

Book on the Physician Himself,

AND

Things that Concern His Reputation and Success,

BY

D. W. CATHELL, M.D., Baltimore, Md.

The author's final revision of this, one of the most useful, successful and popular medical books ever published, is now ready for delivery.

It has been wisely and carefully revised throughout. The well-known charming style of the author is preserved intact, while the practical value of the book is truly enhanced by the addition of much of the author's gathered wisdom not introduced into any previous edition. The volume has been brought to perfection, as far as human effort can achieve, and though enlarged to 350 Royal Octavo pages the price has not been increased.

A New Book by Mrs. Burnett.

Giovanni and the Other.

CHILDREN WHO HAVE MADE STORIES.

BY MRS. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT. With nine full-page illustrations by Reginald B. Birch. Uniform with "Fauntleroy," "Sara Crewe" and "Little Saint Elizabeth." Square 8vo, $1.50.

---

A new book by Mrs. Burnett is sure of a wide and cordial welcome, particularly when it introduces to the public several more of those charming little heroes and heroines about whom the author writes so delightfully. Mrs. Burnett has become justly celebrated as a delineator of child life; and "Giovanni" bids fair to win the title of being her best work, rivaling if not surpassing the popularity of her famous "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Lovell, Coryell & Company

NOW HAVE READY:

Speeches of Benjamin Harrison.

Complete. With his Letter of Acceptance. Compiled by CHARLES HEDGES. With portrait. Octavo, limp cloth, gilt, 75 cents; paper, 50 cents.

"This work should prove an important factor in the Presidential Campaign. If the contest, indeed, were to be decided alone by the personal qualifications of the candidates, this remarkable collection of addresses would constitute an irresistible party appeal. Compared with the volume of speeches of Mr. Cleveland, which Mr. Parker recently compiled, it exhibits superiority at every point."—Philadelphia Press.

Ardath.

The Story of a Dead Self. By MARIE CORELLI, author of "The Soul of Lillith," "Wormwood," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt, $1.00; paper, 50 cents. "Ardath" is undoubtedly one of Marie Corelli's strongest creations. It is written in a flowing and graceful style, is full of oriental imagery and soaring fancies, and will delight the great number of readers who revel in the literature of the unknowable.

The White Feather.

By TASMA, author of "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill," "A Sydney Sovereign," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

All readers of current fiction will recall the unmistakable sensation which occurred upon the publication of Tasma's novel, "Uncle Piper of Piper's Hill." The most recent work of the distinguished author is entitled "The White Feather," a novel that is peculiarly fascinating, written as it is in that pleasing style to which the author has accustomed her readers.

THE WORKS OF H. B. PHILBROOK

The most important publications of the century.

What and Where Is God?

480 pages, cloth, $1.50.

"The author sees in the electrical current the essentials of God and the originating force of man; explains the presence and movement of mind and matter, the origin and distribution of species, the cause of phenomena of physical science and the operations of the solar system. In brief, the work is an attempt to solve the problem of universal creation."—Publishers' Weekly.

Work of Electricity in Nature.

188 two-column pages, cloth, $1.50.

"A series of articles published originally in the 'Problems of Nature,' which aim to prove that electricity is as main force of human existence. OCCULT AND METAPHYSICAL PUBLICATIONS,

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

A POWERFUL NOVEL.

The Woman Who Dares.

By URSULA N. GESTEFELD, author of "The Prodigal Son," "The Popular Craze," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25.

"The Woman Who Dares" is a novel dealing with the sexual rights of woman in the marital relation. A woman's right to her own person, the author holds, is as inviolate in the married as in the single state. The book sounds another note of warning in this day of struggle for adjustment of opposing forces, and marks the entrance of another factor—which has to be reckoned with—upon the field of action.

The Island of Fantasy.

By FERGUS HUME, author of "Madam Midas," "The Piccadilly Puzzle," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"This novel is a long way in advance of anything Mr. Fergus Hume has hitherto attempted. His style has greatly improved; his conceptions are really noble, if not great."—London Academy.

"The Island of Fantasy" is not merely an exciting romance, but a sufficiently well-studied work with a decided evidence of poetic feeling. . . . A rousing adventure story."—Athenaeum.

Philosophical Suggestions.

By BROTHER FREDERICK. With illustrative diagrams. 12mo, leatherette, 50 cents.

An argument based upon logical propositions which outlines the relation and consequence of cause and effect. Applied to God and man, it shows his final reconciliation with God by means of the knowledge gained through experience which brings understanding.

RECENT ISSUES:

The New Rector.

By STANLEY WEYMAN. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The narrative is well written, the interest unflagging the ensemble is satisfactory, and the dénouement clearly wrought out, leaving nothing to be desired."—The Churchman.

Margery of Quether.

By S. BARING-GOULD, author of "Urith," "John Her-ring," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"A story cast on strong lines, containing dramatic possibilities, vivid and sympathetic descriptions of nature, and a wealth of ingenious imagery."—The Speaker, London.

Paddles and Politics Down the Danube.

By POULTNEY BIGELOW. With illustrations by the author. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, gilt titles, 75 cents.

"He (Mr. Bigelow) has given a lively description of a canoe voyage down an historic river, and of the quaint and picturesque phases of civilization along its banks."—Boston Advertiser.

"The results of Mr. Bigelow's keen and trained power of observation are described in this volume in graceful style."—The New York Observer.

Writings of Christopher Columbus.

Edited with an introduction, by PAUL LEICESTER FORD. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, gilt titles, 12mo, 256 pages, with portrait frontispiece, 75 cents.

Mr. Ford has for the first time collected in one handy volume those letters and other documents, written by Christopher Columbus, which describe his experiences in the discovery and occupation of the New World. Besides his letters to Ferdinand and Isabella, and to various friends, the volume includes the Deed of Entail, Will, and so-called "Privileges" of Columbus. An excellent opportunity is thus presented for studying the beginnings of America from original sources.

"Some of this matter is more curious than luminous, but it is all in some degree illustrative of the interesting character behind the words, and offers in brief space a decidedly valuable commentary on one of the most interesting and notable characters in the history of the world."—Brooklyn Times.

Autobiographia; or, The Story of a Life.

By WALT WHITMAN. (Fiction, Fact and Fancy Series.) Stamped cloth, etc., 206 pages, with view of Whitman's home at Camden, 75 cents. Ready, October 1.

These selections from the bulk of the poet's prose writings have been made by Arthur Stedman, and are so arranged as to give a consecutive account of Mr. Whitman's career in the latter's own picturesque language. The "Autobiographia" is published as a companion volume to "Selected Poems," and, like that book, was authorized by the poet shortly before his death.

Handy Volume Culinary Series.

ONE HUNDRED WAYS OF COOKING
AND SERVING FISH.

EGGS.

These little books contain only the best recipes, all of which have been tested by Mr. Filippini during twenty-five years' experience with the Delmonicos. They are oblong, 16mo volumes of 128 pages each, tastefully bound in cloth, each, 50 cents.

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

"A Powerful Romance."*Joshua Wray.

A Novel. By HANS STEVENSON BEATTIE. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

In this new novel, New York's Ex-Street Commissioner, Hans Stevenson Beattie, has given evidence of literary ability of no common order. In certain passages his analysis of philosophical thought is marvellous. A powerful element of romance enters into the work, and those portions pertaining to metaphysical discussion are delightfully interwoven with the story itself.

Mr. Witt's Widow.

A Frivolous Tale. By ANTHONY HOPE, author of "Father Stafford," "A Man of Mark," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Mr. Witt's Widow" is, in truth, a brilliant little tale. This commendation is justified by a style at once easy and terse, by the wit of the dialogue, and by the good humor of the satire."—London Times.

NOW IN ITS SECOND EDITION.

Diana:

The History of a Great Mistake. By Mrs. OLIPHANT, author of "The Perpetual Curate," "The Open Door," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The style is very smooth and finished, the story is interesting, and the characters are well drawn."—Boston Times.

New Illustrated Holiday Gift-Books.

Genoa, the Superb.

THE CITY OF COLUMBUS. By VIRGINIA W. JOHNSON, author of "The Lily of the Arno," etc. Uniform in style with "The Lily of the Arno," which met with such marked success last year. The approaching Columbian Exposition (World's Fair) at Chicago has awakened a great interest in all places associated with the life of Columbus, and this city, his birthplace, is not only interesting from its historical associations, but is remarkable for the beauty of its parks, palaces and cathedrals of modern architecture. Genoa is at the present time the most prosperous city of Italy, and attractive alike to tourist and historian. Illustrated with photogravures.

1 vol., crown 8vo, vellum cloth, illuminated in gold and colors..... $3.00

Zenobia.

QUEEN OF PALMYRA. By WILLIAM WARE, author of "Aurelian," "Julian," etc. A new edition of this standard work set from new, large type, and fully illustrated with half-tone plates from photogravures taken in Palmyra, showing the ruins of that splendid civilization which was at its zenith nearly two thousand years ago.

1 vol., crown 8vo, cloth gilt..... $2.50

The Vicar of Wakefield. (Exquisite Series.) EDITION JOUAUST.

By OLIVER GOLDSMITH. The most beautiful edition of this gem of English literature ever made. It is illustrated with dainty etchings by the great French Artist, Ad. Lalauze, together with artistic head and tail pieces and initials. The page is small, with clear, new type, and is printed on fine laid paper. The binding is half genuine parchment and India silk. This edition is modelled from that issued in French by the Paris publisher, Jouaust, whose reputation for artistic bookmaking is so great that he is known in Europe as the modern Elzevir.

2 vols., 16mo, parchment and silk binding..... $3.50

Édition de Luxe, limited to 500 numbered copies for Europe and America, printed entirely on Holland hand-made paper..... 5.00

Paul and Virginia. (Exquisite Series.) EDITION JOUAUST.

By BERNARDIN DE SAINT-PIERRE. Precisely uniform in manufacture with "The Vicar of Wakefield" above described. The illustrations are by the celebrated French etcher, Laguillermie. The most artistic edition of this prose idyl ever made.

1 vol., 16mo, parchment and silk binding..... $2.00

Édition de Luxe, limited to 500 numbered copies for Europe and America, printed entirely on Holland hand-made paper..... 3.00

Spring. Summer. Autumn. Winter.

Four exquisite little volumes comprising Thomson's beautiful poem "The Seasons," one of the gems of English poetry. Each volume is embellished with dainty illustrations appropriate to the poem and set into the text in artistic style. The volumes are beautifully printed on fine coated-surface paper and bound in full India silk in new and delicate shades stamped in gold.

4 vols., full silk, in neat box..... $4.00

4 vols., sold separately, each..... 1.00

CÆSAR'S COLUMN. By Ignatius Donnelly. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. 150th thousand.

ARMAIS AND OTHERS. By Mrs. Lindon W. Bates. With illustrations by WILL CHAPIN. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. No. 21 of the Ariel Library.

IN PRESS:

THE MONK AND THE HANGMAN'S DAUGHTER. By Ambrose Bierce and G. A. Danziger. With illustrations by THEODOR HAMPE. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents. No. 23 of the Ariel Library.

We urge the trade to send in early orders for this book, which will undoubtedly create a decided sensation. As a model of pure, strong English it will compare with anything in the language, and the interest of the story itself will commend it at once to the general public. The illustrations are unusually attractive, and the typographical execution of the book will be unique and original.

AN AMERICAN NOBLEMAN. A Story of the Canaan Wilderness. By William Armstrong. With illustrations by HOLME. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents. No. 22 of the Ariel Library.

A charming story of life among the lowly in West Virginia. Strongly and simply told, with a charming trace of humor and a touching pathos. An American novel of decided originality.

VIC: The Autobiography of a Fox-Terrier. By Marie Moore Marsh. Illustrated by FOERSTER. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00.

This is the story of a dog, as "Black Beauty" is the story of a horse, but it is by no means an imitation. It has elements of humor and humanity which will endear the book to all readers, and particularly to the young. We shall issue only one book for children this year, and this one is "Vic." We confidently believe that it will prove the favorite with little ones generally, judging from the delight and the eagerness with which the story was received by the children to whom the manuscript was read before it was given to the printers.

SUNFLOWER LAND: Stories of God's Own Country. By Roswell Martin Field. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

A LODI GIRL. A Story of the Canadian Rebellion. By Forrest Crissey. Paper, 50 cents. No. 24 of the Ariel Library.

Magical Experiments; or, Science in Play. A Book for the Young and Old. By Arthur Good. A series of 200 amusing, popular, scientific experiments, meant for the recreation of young and old. 1 vol., square 12mo, fancy cloth, fully illustrated, $2.00; same, with gilt edges, $2.50.

Many of these are simple pastimes, others possess a really scientific character, while the whole of these experiments may be performed without any special apparatus whatever.

This entertaining book, written in language that every one can understand, gives the best answer to the so often repeated question, "What shall we do to-night?"

Napoleon's Life and Character as Illustrated by his Conversations, Letters and the Writings of his Associates. By E. O. Chapman. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth extra, with steel portraits, $1.25; half morocco extra, $2.50.

A collection of sentences, maxims, anecdotes, table talk and opinions of Napoleon I., giving an insight into his character and inner life. Selected from the highest as well as latest authorities, such as Marbot, Macdonald, Mme. de Rémusat, Bourrienne, Las Cases, Montholon, Gourgaud, Ségur, Antommarchi, Duchesse d'Abrantes, Talleyrand and others.

Intellectual Pursuits; or, Culture by Self-Help. By Robert Waters. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.25.

A series of highly spirited and entertaining essays on the acquiring of knowledge and culture, collected from the pages of The Christian Advocate, The Home Journal, Far and Near, and other papers.

Heimburg's (W.) Works. Translated by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Lowrey and Miss Lathrop. 11 vols., 12mo, illustrated with photogravures, cloth, new style, $13.75; handsomely bound in half calf, extra, $27.50. 1. Gertrude's Marriage. 2. Two Daughters of One Race. 3. Lora, the Major's Daughter. 4. Magdalen's Fortune. 5. The Pastor's Daughter. 6. Lucie's Mistake. 7. A Sister's Love. 8. Short Stories. 9. Misjudged. 10. A Maiden's Choice. 11. A Poor Girl.

From the life of a Virtuoso. Vol. II., Boris Lensky. (Sequel to above.) Vol. III., Felix Landsberg's Expiation. A story of Vienna. Vol. IV., The Hand of Destiny.

Leon de Tinsseau's Novels. Translated by Camden Curwen. 2 vols., 12mo, illustrated, extra cloth, $2.50; half calf extra, $5.00. Vol. I., Jenny's Ordeal. Vol. II., Love Knows No Law.

Memory's Sketch-Book. With designs By Helen P. Strong. 1 vol., oblong 4to, cloth, $3.50; boards, $2.50.

The most attractive gift-book of the year, showing exquisite designs printed in purple tints. The illustrations interpret successfully poems of great authors.

Manners and Customs of Spain. By James Mew. With 36 etchings by R. de Los Rios, illustrating the works of Cervantes, Le Sage, Mendoza and Aleman. 1 vol., royal 8vo, $5.00.

Flirt. By Paul Hervieu. Translated by Hugh Craig. With 37 photogravure plates after the original water colors of Madeleine Lemaire. 1 vol., 4to, $5.00; or cloth, extra gilt edges, $6.00.

A Parisian novel with charming designs and head and tail pieces in colors, perfect in drawing and admirable in composition. The most brilliant illustrations of French society life ever made.

Macaulay's Lays of Ancient Rome. With numerous illustrations and steel portrait. 4to, cloth, $3.00; full gilt, $3.75.

A poem that breathes the very spirit of antiquity, unsurpassed in vividness of outline, full of heroic action and energy.

Picturesque Ireland. Descriptive and Historical. With 50 full-page steel-engravings from original drawings by W. H. Bartlett. Edited by Markinfeld Addey. 2 vols., 4to, cloth, $10.00.

Only by a combination of pen and pencil was it possible to give an idea of the beauty of Ireland, its marvellous lakes, mountains and valleys, romantic streams, round towers, etc.

Nell Gwynn. The Story of —, and the Sayings of Charles II. By Peter Cunningham. With 11 engravings and portrait. 8vo, $3.50.

An exceedingly vivacious memoir of "Pretty, witty Nell, the friend of Charles II."

Memoirs of Count Grammont. By Anthony Hamilton. Edited by Sir Walter Scott. With 16 superb photogravures (the beauties of the court of Charles II.). Imperial 8vo, $5.00.

For drollery, knowledge of the world, various satire united with great veracity of composition, it is unrivalled. It is pleasant throughout, and pleasantry of the best sort, unforced, graceful and engaging.

A Treasury of English Sonnets. Edited from original sources, with Notes by David M. Main. With steel portraits. 1 vol., royal 8vo, $7.50. Edition de luxe.

A superb book chosen from large type, on laid paper, in cloth uncut, the choicest and most scholarly selection of sonnets ever made.

Festus. A Poem by Philip J. Bailey. With exquisite steel-engravings by Hammett Billings. 4to, cloth, $3.00; full gilt, $5.00.

NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERTS BROTHERS announce authorized editions of Olive Schreiner's "Story of an African Farm" and "Dreams," attractively bound in cloth, at sixty cents per volume.

WORTHINGTON COMPANY will publish at once in their International Library a historical novel entitled "With Columbus in America," by C. Falkenhorst, adapted by Elise L. Lathrop. This volume will be followed by two others, "With Cortez in Mexico" and "With Pizarro in Peru." They will add shortly to their Rose Library a translation of Zola's "Money."

LAIRD & LEE call special attention to "Hill's Souvenir Guide to Chicago," a pocket-size manual of information in regard to the World's Fair, containing maps, indexes, time-tables, plans of the exhibition buildings and grounds, and detailed information on all questions likely to concern visitors. They have also ready for the holiday trade "The Feast of the Virgins, and Other Poems," by H. H. Gordon.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just added W. D. Howells' "The Quality of Mercy" to their Franklin Square Library. They have also just published A. Conan Doyle's "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes;" "Americanisms and Britishisms," by Brander Matthews, who has recently been named Professor of Literature at Columbia College, N. Y., and "Canoe-mates," a stirring story for boys, by Kirk Munro.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have just published a complete new edition of Tennyson's poems, complete in two volumes, handsomely illustrated and attractively bound. They have also ready "Tom Clifton," by Warren Lee Goss, the story of a Western boy in Grant and Sherman's armies; and "The Every-Day of Life," a volume of short, thoughtful essays by Rev. J. R. Miller. "Daily Food," a little devotional book which has long been popular, has been reissued in a new edition, embellished with pleasing illustrations and bound in a pretty, ornamental cover.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just issued "Sir Godfrey's Grand-Daughters," a new story by that ever-popular writer, Rosa N. Carey; "An Affair of Honour," a book for young people; a new novel by Lulah Ragsdale, author of "The Crime of Philip Guthrie," entitled "A Shadow's Shadow;" an attractive compilation of "Souvenirs of Occasions," by Sara Louise Oberholtzer; "Axel Ebersen," a story by A. Laurie; and a new revised and partly rewritten edition of Henry Frith's "The Triumphs of Steam," which tells in interesting style for young readers of the wonders of modern engineering.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 22d Mr. Stedman's new volume, "The Nature and Elements of Poetry," first given as lectures at Johns Hopkins University, then revised for the Century Magazine, and now put in Mr. Stedman's best literary form for this volume. It discusses the various elements and qualities of poetry with great acumen and force, and the book is one which will add distinctly to Mr. Stedman's literary reputation as well as to the critical literature of the country. At the same time will appear "David Alden's Daughter, and Other Stories of Colonial Times," a book of short stories by Mrs. Jane G. Austin, who has gained a great reputation from her stories of the Old Plymouth Colony; and "At the Beautiful Gate, and Other Songs of Faith," a volume of religious poems by Lucy Larcom, about two-thirds of which are culled from her poems previously published; the other third consists of poems not heretofore issued in book form. The whole is of a very high, serene and beautiful spirit, and cannot fail to appeal to thoughtful readers. Hawthorne's "Wonder Book for Girls and Boys," with Walter Crane's remarkable illustrations, will appear at the same time in an edition de luxe, limited to 250 copies, and brought out in the very best style of which the Riverside Press is capable; and at the same time also large-paper editions of the holiday issue of Mr. Warner's "In the Levant" and of Prof. Norton's translation of "Dante's Divine Comedy" and "New Life."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; m. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (Folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Addison, Jos. Criticisms on "Paradise lost;" ed. with introd. and notes, by Albert S. Cook. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 22+200 p. D. cl., $1.10.

The text is based upon the literal productions of Arber and Morley, and, allowing for the modernization of spelling and punctuation, is believed to be more correct than any published in this century. The index is unusually full, and will enable Addison's comments on any particular passage of "Paradise lost," as well as those of the ancient epics with which it is compared, to be found with the least possible trouble.

Adler, Felix. The moral instruction of children. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 9+270 p. D. (International education ser., no. 21.) cl., $1.50.

Lectures delivered by Dr. Adler in the School of Applied Ethics during its first session in 1891 at Plymouth, Mass. A few of the lectures have been condensed, the others are published substantially as delivered. The rising tide of interest in moral education, and the demand of the age to separate church from state make the publication of this book, with its many helpful suggestions, timely and of unusual interest.

Allen, Grant. The Duchess of Powysland. [New issue.] N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. '91. 8-358 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2022.) pap., 25 c.

Published originally by B. R. Tucker, 1891. See notice, P. W., "Weekly Record," Jan. 2, '92. [1040.]

Applegarth, Albert C. Quakers in Pennsylvania. Balt., Md, The Johns Hopkins Press, 1892. c. 3-84 p. O. (Johns Hopkins Univ. studies, 10th ser., nos. 8, 9.) pap., 75 c. The customs and laws of the Pennsylvania Quakers, their attitude towards Indians and slavery are the leading points in this paper.

Atkinson, E. Taxation and work: a series of treatises on the tariff and the currency. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 17+296 p. D. cl., $1.25.

In the series of treatises reprinted in this volume, which first appeared in the Boston Herald, the New York Times and other daily papers, Mr. Atkinson says: "I have endeavored to make an impartial statement of the account of the United States Government with the people. I have also endeavored, as far as might be in my power, to bring the bearing and effect of our present system of taxation into conspicuous notice."

Austen, Jane. Northanger Abbey. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 2-308 p. il. S. hf. cl., $1.25. Edition de luxe, 8°, cl., $2. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

"Northanger Abbey" and the volume following, "Persuasion," complete this edition of Jane Austen's novels. The edition with Jane Austen's letters consists of twelve volumes.

Austen, Jane. Persuasion. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 2-328 p. il. S. hf. cl., $1.25. Edition de luxe, 8°, cl., $2. [Edition limited to 250 copies.]

*Bamberger, G. Education of head and hand. Chic., A. Flanagan, 1892. 116 p. 16°, cl., 75 c.

Beattie, Hans Stevenson. Joshua Wray.

N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 2-307 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The greater part of the story takes place in Florida. A study is made of the character of Joshua Wray—an agnostic—as it is affected by his daughter's misfortune—a school-girl who is ruined by a young man from the North. The author is New York's ex-Street Commissioner.

Berkow, K. Woe to the conquered (Vae victis); a romance of the Moors in Spain; tr. by H. E. M. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1892. c. 3-218 p. il. D. (Rialto ser., no. 40.) pap., 50 c.

The time is from 1483 to the opening of 1492, the closing years of the long struggle between the Moors and Spaniards. Torquemada, the High Priest of the Inquisition, is one of the characters. The great feeling against the Jews led to much bloodshed, which is once more described with attention to historic details. The final overthrow of the Moors is worked into a strong climax.

*Bernard, Rev. T. Dehany. The central teaching of Jesus Christ: a study and exposition of the five chapters of the gospel according to St. John, xiii. to xvii. incl. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 10-416 p. 12°, cl., $1.50.

Besant, Walter. London. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 11+509 p. il. O. cl., $3.

"In the following chapters," Mr. Besant says in his preface, "it has been my endeavor to present pictures of the city of London—instantaneous photographs showing the streets, the buildings and the citizens at work and at play. . . . The history of London has been undertaken by many writers. The presentment of the city and the people from age to age has never yet, I believe, been attempted." The text is admirably supplemented by more than a hundred illustrations of architectural remains, buildings, bridges, street scenes, works of art, etc.

- Brewster, Marian. Under the water-oaks; il. by J. F. Goodridge. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 5-319 p. il. sq. S. cl., $1.25.
A child's story with the scene in Florida. The play of the three little boys, one of whom is a quaint little colored boy, takes place mostly "under the water-oaks." The incidents are a deer hunt, the taking prisoner of a tramp, and similar every-day happenings.
- Brittingham, Florence V. Verse and story. Buffalo, N. Y., C: Wells Moulton, 1892. c. 5+220 p. por. sq. S. cl., $1.25.
Berwick's mistake; Agnes; A bona-fide ghost; The paradise of pins; My first investment, and King and Queen days, are five short stories, written by the author for her little son. They are preceded by a number of poems of a religious character, and a memoir by the Bishop of West Virginia testifying to the love in which all held the devoted wife of one of the clergymen of his diocese. Mrs. Brittingham died April 26, 1891.
- Brooks, Phillips (Bp.) Christmas once is Christmas still. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., [1892.] unsp. col. il. O. pap., $1.

First published by Henry Holt & Co. in 1873.
- Cherbuliez, Victor. Joseph Noirel's revenge. [New issue.] N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 8+317 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2001.) pap., 25 c.
Published first by Henry Holt & Co. in the Leisure hour series, 1872.
- Child, Theodore. The desire of beauty: being indications for æsthetic culture. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 3+178 p. S. cl., 75 c.
Matters pertaining to art and art criticism are discussed in eight papers under the following titles: The solitude of the soul; The invention of beauty; Various kinds of criticism; The joy of art; The error of realism; Paper ingres; An art critic of the fifteenth century; The education of the eye. Mr. Child is author of "Art and criticism," etc.
- Clare, Austin. The highway to Heaven; it's hindrances and helps: lessons for Bible classes, etc.; with story illustrations. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1892. 2-216 p. D. cl., 80 c.
A series of short lessons based on scriptural verses, with reference leaflets appended, showing the perils that attend the Christian life, and counselling how they may be avoided. Prayer and the sacraments of baptism and confirmation are considered as a means of spiritual guidance and of eternal life.
- Clark, J: B. Patten's dynamic economics. Phil., American Acad. of Political and Social Science, [1892.] 29-44 p. D. (Publications of the American Acad. of Political and Social Science, no. 62.) pap., 15 c.
A review of Simon N. Patten's "Theory of dynamic economics," with new thoughts on the same subject suggested by the work.
- Coffin, G: M. Silver from 1849 to 1892. Wash., D. C., McGill & Wallace, 1107 E street, northwest, 1892. c. 47 p. D. pap., 50 c.
An outline sketch of the history of silver since the year 1849. The facts and figures have been obtained from official documents, and the author has aimed to give an impartial statement.
- Crozier, A. A. A dictionary of botanical terms. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1892. c. 5+202 p. O. cl., $2.40.
The scope of this dictionary is nearly the same as that of its predecessors, except that it is broader on the side of agriculture and horticulture, as it aims to include all technical terms applied to plants both by botanists and others. As it is now nearly twenty years since an English dictionary of botanical terms was published, the development of botany during that time has brought into use many new terms and led to the abandonment of some of those that were formerly employed. These obsolete terms, as a general thing, have been omitted, excepting a few which occur in standard botanical literature.
- Daily food for Christians: being a promise and another scriptural portion for every day in the year; with the verse of a hymn. [New ed.] N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] 492 p. il. T. hf. cl., 75 c.
A new edition of a favorite little book, printed from new plates and illustrated by 12 photo-engravings of celebrated religious paintings.
- Davis, Mrs. Rebecca Harding. Kent Hampden; il. by Rufus F. Zogbaum. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 6+152 p. D. cl., $1.
Virginia seventy years ago furnishes the background. Kent Hampden is a brave, manly boy who, in a series of stirring scenes, establishes the innocence of his father, who has been made to appear a thief by a hypocritical, unprincipled bank cashier.
- Davis, R: Harding. The west from a car-window. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 5+243 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
Mr. Davis narrates what he saw and heard during a brief tour of observation in Texas and in the mining regions of the "Great Divide," his experiences with cowboys and with the troops on the border, and his impressions of some interesting phases of western life as seen by an eastern man.
- De Quincey, T: Joan of Arc, and other selections; with introd. and explanatory notes by H: H. Belfield. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, [1892.] c. 3+166 p. S. (Student's ser. of English classics.) cl., 42 c.
The selections are, besides Joan of Arc, "The English mail-coach" and "Dinner, real and reputed," both abridged, and "Levana and our Ladies of Sorrow." The introduction gives a brief sketch of De Quincey's life, a criticism of De Quincey's style, and a sketch of Joan of Arc.
- Doudney, Sarah. Through pain to peace: a novel. N. Y., J: A. Taylor & Co., [1892.] c. 2-380 p. D. (Broadway ser., no. 14.) pap., 50 c.
English rural life and its conditions shape the destiny of a wild, imaginative child whose ideal is embodied in an old painting of "Douglas Douglas, tender and true." She lives with her grandmother, and, yielding to her influence, becomes engaged to the young squire of the village. Before it is too late she breaks with him, devotes herself to art, finds her ideal embodied in a young clergyman, and after a new break in her life devotes herself to others until she finds peace.
- Drake, Jeanie. In old St. Stephens: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 4+232 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 102.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
The story is supposed to be made from the records and diaries bequeathed to the writer by his grandfather, a South Carolina planter, in the early part of the century. John C. Calhoun plays a prominent part in the plot, and General Lafayette is also referred to. Presents phases of life, customs and conditions of southern life that are now wholly matters of history. The chief characters were members of old wealthy families or negro slaves.
- Droz, Gustave. Babolain. N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. '73. 2+306 p. D. (Seaside lib., 2002.) pap., 25 c.
First published by Henry Holt & Co., 1872.
- Dumas, Alex. Camille, or, the fate of a co-

- First published in Holt's Leisure hour series. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Jan. 22, '81, [471.]
- Fraser, Mrs. Alex. The new duchess. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 312 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2007.) pap., 25 c.
- The story opens in South Carolina. The heroine throws over her lover, who vows revenge, and allows her sister to die under a false accusation to gain the love of a man who does not care for her. Fearing discovery, she flies to New York City, and later appears in London society as the protégée of a wealthy American widow. Married to a lord and installed as "the new duchess" of Eversfield, vengeance finally overtakes her at the hands of her first lover.
- *Garnier, Russell M. History of the English landed interest: its customs, laws and agriculture. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 18+406 p. 8°, cl., $3.50.
- Gestefeld, Ursula N. The woman who dares. N. Y., Lovell, Gestefeld & Co., 1892. 3-358 p. D. cl., $1.25.
- The author is a "woman who dares" as well as her heroine. She writes with a purpose. She holds that women are responsible for their bondage to man, and specially points out to wives the duty of maintaining their individuality and asserting the rights of their womanhood in the marriage relation. She believes that a wife can influence her husband to control his physical as well as his moral passions, and bring them all into subjection to the high purpose to make of his life the very best his talents fit him for. Not suitable for the general novel reader.
- Gilberne, Agnes. The Andersons: brother and sister. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 347 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
- The story opens in Brighton, where Felix Anderson declares his ability to succeed, and his determination to get on in life. This determination soon becomes a ruling passion to the lad, who fosters it to the exclusion of every other thought. As a consequence he loses sight of his sister's interest, and is suddenly awakened to this fact through a sad experience of the latter. In the events which follow this revelation Felix learns his moral obligations, and seems to fulfil his mission in fiction. The hero begins life as a bookseller's assistant.
- Gilmour, Ja. James Gilmour, of Mongolia: his diaries, letters and reports; ed. and arr. by R. Lovett. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1892.] 4-336 p. pors. il. D. cl., $1.75.
- James Gilmour, missionary to Mongolia, was born near Glasgow, Scotland, June 12, 1843. In 1870 he went as missionary to China, and continued an active worker, both as physician and preacher, until May, 1891, when he died. His diaries and letters are full of interesting details, and this biography has been compiled from them by the author of "Norwegian pictures."
- Gordon, W. J. Englishman's Haven. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 5+288 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
- "Englishman's Haven" was the first name by which Louisbourg was known. The siege and capture of this once formidable fortress, first by Americans and afterwards by the English, is the central motive of a romantic story. The boy-hero witnesses the scenes described, and has many exciting adventures among the Indians and French of Cape Breton.
- *Gossip of the century, personal and traditional; memories, social, literary, artistic, etc., by the author of "Flemish interiors." N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 2 v. 8°, cl., $10.50.
- Greene, Homer. The Riverpark rebellion. [Also] A tale of the tow-path; [il. by H. W. Peirce.] N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. '89, '92. 274 p. D. cl., $1.
- Riverpark Academy, the scene of the story, stands for the Riverview Military Academy at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where the author long ago spent two years under the preceptorship of the late Colonel Otis Bisbee, who appears under the name of "Colonel Silsbee." The "rebellion" is a vivid scene from a boy's life at school, which may or may not be all true, although it has a background of fact. In "A tale of the tow-path" the Pennsylvania canal region is vividly described.

- Haskins, Caryl D. Transformers: their theory, construction and application simplified. Lynn, Mass., Bubier Pub. Co., 1892. c. 3-150 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
- The "transformer" and its action is treated in such a manner in this work as to render it of special value to the central-station electrician, the student and the investigator, while the greatest care has been exercised to render the matter so clear, simple and interesting that it may come within the scope of the general public, and meet "the demand for a semi-technical and yet semi-popular treatise on the electrical transformer, which has not heretofore been obtainable."
- Hatton, Jos. A modern Ulysses: the strange history of Horace Durand, his loves and adventures. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. 13+427 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2008.) pap., 25 c.
- A story of English life which takes its name from the hero's youthful experiences and his perilous adventures among South Sea Islanders. Appeared in serial form several years ago, the principal chapters of adventure being later republished as a book for boys entitled "Captured by cannibals."
- Hewes, Fletcher W., and McKinley, W., jr.

What are the facts? Protection and Reciprocity illustrated: questions of to-day answered in one hundred graphic studies, embracing a century of American politics, industries and finance. N. Y., H. F. Clark, 70 Fifth ave., [1892.] c. 126 p. diagrams, O., pap., $1.50.

Republican campaign handbook. The author's preface claims that the studies "furnish an authoritative review of the tariff, commerce, finances and national policies of the United States from the adoption of the Constitution to the present year. They portray the condition of the wage-earner under a tariff purposely framed to exclude protection, and under one purposely framed to provide protection, and the wages of labor in this country and in Europe are graphically compared. They also compare the results to the farmer and the manufacturer from increasing wages and decreasing prices during the Protective Tariff period. They treat silver as one of the products of labor. . . . They examine the trade of South American countries, and show the possibilities and achievements of Reciprocity."

Hope, Anthony. Mr. Witt's widow: a frivolous tale. N. Y., United States Book Co., 1892. c. 5+249 p. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

The fascinations of Mr. Witt's widow are "harmonious contrasts," chief among which are dark eyes and golden hair. She is about to take as second husband Gerald Neston, an Englishman of good position, when his cousin, a young lawyer, is struck with the resemblance of Neenera Witt to Nelly Gale, a girl he had defended seven years before on a charge of theft. The story relates his efforts to trace her identity, and leaves the reader's mind in suspense until the unexpected dénouement.

Hopkins, Tighe. The incomplete adventurer. [Also] The boom in Bell Topps. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. '92. 3-274 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2006.) pap., 25 c.

The initial story tells amusingly of an impecunious young fellow's unsuccessful efforts to organize a stock company to handle a mysterious and potent medicinal powder. "The boom in Bell Topps" is a short tale of a London city clerk who invests an unexpected legacy of fifty pounds in American silver mines, lives extravagantly while expecting to realize a fortune, and finds himself ruined by the sudden collapse of the "boom."

Lowell, E. J. The eve of the French Revolution. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 8+408 p. O. cl., $2.

By the author of "The Hessians and the other German auxiliaries of Great Britain in the Revolutionary war." In this volume he gives a clear and comprehensive view of one of the most important and engrossing periods of modern history. He depicts the distinctive features and personal elements of France in the years just before old France disappeared in the cyclone of the French Revolution. There are chapters on the king, the court, the army, the nobility, Paris, the provincial towns, the county taxation, the cochiers of the States-General, etc.; also on Montesquieu and his works, and on the influence of the French philosophers.

Melville, Herman. Typee: a real romance of the South seas; with biographical and critical introd. by Arthur Stedman. [New issue.] N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 33+389 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Herman Melville's recent death in New York City (Sept. 23, 1891) attracted fresh interest to his works. The present reissue, of which "Typee" and "Omoo" are the initial volumes, meets a demand. Mr. Stedman's introduction gives an interesting account of the author, and notes how largely his stories are biographical. "Typee" and "Omoo" are almost literal accounts of his own experience when, aboard a sailing ship, he visited the Marquesas Islands and other points in the South Seas. Aside from the adventures and charming descriptions of scenery which the books include, they are rich in rare information, which has given them a permanent place in all libraries.

Milne, W. J. Standard arithmetic: embracing a complete course for schools and - academies. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 428 p. D. hf. leath., 65 c.

- In the preparation of this work the author has aimed to secure two results, namely, skill in numerical computations and a proper understanding of the reasons for the steps in the explanation of processes and the solution of problems. He has endeavored to secure both these ends by embodying a large number of examples upon which the pupil may be trained to accuracy and rapidity, while at the same time he has not failed to incorporate a large number of problems that are designed to train the analytical powers, and to develop the reasoning faculties.

- Molesworth, Mrs. Ma. Louise, ["Ennis Graham," pseud.] The next-door house. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] 4+271 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
- Willie Peebles, a little motherless boy of nine years, spent a greater part of his time at the window speculating about "the next-door house," which after being closed for a long time, seemed to be taking upon itself signs of life. The new occupants count a couple of little girls among their number, and it is several episodes growing out the children's intercourse which make the story.

- Norton, A. B., M.D. Ophthalmic diseases and therapeutics. Phil., Boericke & Tafel, 1892. c. 4-555 p. por. il. O. cl., net, $3.50.
- A text-book upon ophthalmology, devoting especial attention to the homœopathic treatment of the diseases of the eye. Gives as concisely as possible all the essential features necessary to a thorough knowledge of the subject, commencing with the anatomy of the various structures. It has been the aim to follow a definite and systematic order, taking up successively the pathology, symptoms, course, causes, diagnosis, prognosis and treatment of each separate disease. Practically a new work, though offered as a continuation of Allen and Norton's "Ophthalmic therapeutics," which has long been out of print.

- This life of Cleveland may be looked upon as a supplement to his "Writings and speeches" prepared by the same author. So much unused material came to Mr. Parker's hand in the preparation of the latter volume, that he was moved to embody it in the present brief sketch. It chiefly relates to Mr. Cleveland's political life since elected in 1884 to the Presidency. Besides Mr. Parker's own eulogistic summing up of his subject's character, there are warm appreciative letters from Richard Watson Gilder and Wilson S. Bassell, Mr. Cleveland's former law partner.
- *Peacock, T. Love. Calidore and miscellanea; ed. by R. Garnett. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 157 p. 12°, cl., $1.
- Phillips, F. C. Constance. N. Y., J. A. Taylor & Co., [1892.] c. 2-305 p. D. (Broadway ser., no. 13.) pap., 50 c.
- After a stormy scene at Greystone Park, in Norfolk, England, between Cyril Armitage and his wife, Cyril forces Constance to leave his house late at night. Immediately after her arrival in London she receives news of his death. The complications that follow are created by Lord Hardstock's redoubled efforts to win Mrs. Armitage, and Basil St. Quentin's varied action.
- Pickering, Miss Ellen. Kate Walsingham: a novel. [New cheaper ed.] Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1892.] 6-116 p. O. (Peterson's ser. of choice fiction.) pap., 25 c.

- Designed for handy reference during the presidential campaign. Has been prepared mainly from matter of a political nature in the World Almanac for 1892, corrected so far as possible to date. Embraces the full tables of the latest election returns in all the states and territories; the national platforms of the four political parties, the ballots for candidates for President and Vice-President in their national conventions of 1892, the central organization of their national committees, a register of the state elections to be held through the year, and other statistics and information.
- Pryce, J., Rev. Notes on the history of the early church. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1892. 3-90 p. S. cl., 40 c.
- The author is Archdeacon of Bangor, Wales, and Canon of Bangor Cathedral. The notes were written for his private use in preparing a course of lectures. He gives an historical account of the rise of Christianity in the Roman and Greek world; describes what the new faith was to the early Christians, and then explains the various "heresies" that threatened its dogmas: Gnosticism; Appollinarism; Entychianism; Sabellianism; Arianism; Nestorianism, etc.
- Putnam, Arthur Lee. Number 91; or, the adventures of a New York telegraph boy. N. Y., Seaside Pub. Co., [1892.] c. '89. 3-205 p. il. D. (Rugby lib., no. 11.) pap., 10 c.
- Ray, Anna Chapin. The cadets of Flemming Hall. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 2-300+3 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
- School-boy life with its hopes and disappointments, its fun and pleasures, is woven into an attractive story. The boy-heroes are healthy, hearty specimens whom it is pleasant to read about.
- Rossetti, Christina G. The face of the deep: a devotional commentary on the Apocalypse. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1892. 5-552 p. O. cl., $3.
- The book is divided into twenty-two chapters as is the Book of the Revelation of St. John. The separate verses of the chapters are numbered and printed in large type, and under every verse, or collection of verses, the artistic, poetic writer has gathered the inspiring thoughts and pictures which the Bible words have awakened in her heart, mind and imagination.

Sargent, N. B. The hour of song: songs secular and sacred; with a collection of opening exercises on special subjects for high schools, academies, upper grammar grades, choruses, etc. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, 1892. c. 178 p. O. cl., 85 c.

Scollard, Clinton. Songs of sunrise lands: Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 3+118 p. D. cl., $1.

Poems suggested by a journey in Egypt, Syria and Greece. They are marked by the grace and suffused with the color of the Orient.

Seymour, G. Franklin. An open letter to the Rt. Rev. William C. Doane (Bishop of Albany) in reference to the consecration of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Brooks (Bishop of Massachusetts) by the Bishop of Springfield (Ill.), [Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., 1892.] c. 6+148 p. O. pap., 50 c.

This arraignment of the bishops who voted for Dr. Phillips Brooks and approved of his consecration as Bishop of Massachusetts on October 14, 1891, is addressed to the Bishop of Albany because "you commend yourself to me as the one of our brethren whom I ought, without any hesitation, to associate with myself before the public in the statement which follows." Bishop Seymour claims that Bishop Brooks "is as to faith in Jesus Christ an Arian of some sort, as to man's natural condition a Pelagian, and as to church polity a Congregationalist," and he therefore opposed his consecration.

Sharpless, I. English education in the elementary and secondary schools. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 10+198 p. D. (International education ser., no. 22.) cl., $1.

Dr. Sharpless is president of Haverford College, Penn. The greater part of the winter of 1890-91 was spent by him in England in visiting schools of various kinds, in collecting educational literature and in conversing with school and university men. Believing that there is in America great ignorance of the present condition of English education, he has briefly summarized the results of his investigations and presents them in this volume. In one chapter the author discusses the great endowed schools of England—Eton, Rugby, Harrow, Winchester, etc.—which he believes deserve the most careful study on the part of American high-school teachers. He found great advances in all English schools since 1870.

*Shelley, Percy Bysshe. Poetical works; ed. with a memoir by H. Buxton Forman. In 5 v. V. 1-8. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 16°, (Aldine poets.) cl., ea., 75 c.

Stock, Sarah Geraldina. The story of Uganda and the Victoria Nyanza mission. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1892.] 4-238 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A detailed history of the Victoria Nyanza mission from its founding in 1876 to the present time, 1892, which reviews the work of Krapf, the pioneer missionary of East Africa, and the efforts of Alexander Mackay, with others famous in the East African movement. Describes the Uganda country, its past and present conditions, the persecution of the missionaries, views its rulers, chiefly King Mtesa, in the light of native religious belief and superstitions, and introduces relative actions of Stanley and Gordon.

Stockton, Frank R. The clocks of Rondaine and other stories; il. by E. H. Blashfield, W. A. Rogers, D. C. Beard and others. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 7+174 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Some quaint conceit is elaborated in each of the seven stories with all the author's characteristic humor. "The clocks of Rondaine" tells of the experience of a girl who tried to make all the clocks in the town keep time with her own; "The curious history of a message" is a tale in which a telephone plays a part; "A fortunate opening" is an account of the adventures of a man and woman on an abandoned steamer; "The Christmas truants"; "The tricycle of the future"; "The accommodating circumstance" and "The great show in Kobil-land" are the other stories.

Stoddard, C. A. Spanish cities, with glimpses of Gibraltar and Tangier. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 9+228 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The writer is editor of the N. Y. Observer, author of "Across Russia." He travelled with his daughter, and to her the book is dedicated. Among the cities described are Gerona, celebrated for its cathedral; Barcelona, Tarrogonia, Lerida, Taragoza Madrid, Cordova, Seville, Cadiz, Granada, Malaga and Gibraltar. The travellers also crossed into Tangier, the earliest African town. People, customs, manners, traditions, history, commerce and the political economy of modern Spain are originally discussed.

Stoddard, W. O. The battle of New York: a story for all young people. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 4+248 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

The draft riots, which occurred in New York City, July, 1863, are the culminating scenes in a story of a most exciting period. The young heroes are a southern boy, who is playing the spy between General Lee and traitors in New York City who only wait an opportunity to betray the government, and a northern boy who is selling newspapers to help his mother while his father is at the front. The boys fraternize during the days New York City is in the hands of the mob and have a thrilling experience. The southern boy's experience at Gettysburg is a vivid piece of description.

Strange, Daniel. The farmers' tariff manual; by a farmer. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 13+363 p. D. (Questions of the day ser., no. 71.) cl., $1.25.

"The author has no new theories to advance, no new facts to offer. He has aimed to present in available form such true theories as are accepted by students of economic science, and so much of the false theories regarding tariffs, now popularly current, as the limits of the work allow room to exhibit and refute. An array of historical facts and of statistics is also presented, which may be verified by any one having the facilities, the time and the inclination."—Preface.

Sunday reading for the young; il. by Gordon Browne, G. Montbard, Helen Miles and others. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1893 [1892.] 3+412 p. O. cl., $2; bds., $1.25.

Contains, besides a number of short stories, poems and songs, two continuous stories, entitled "At the King's right hand" and "Jim." Also a series of Scripture texts, from which words are omitted for the reader to supply. Illustrated with a colored frontispiece and numerous woodcuts in text and many full-page pictures.

- White J: Williams. The beginner's Greek book. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 14+428+70 p. D. cl., $1.60.
Intended to furnish work for the first year's study,
- In preparing this volume Prof. White has assumed that the main object of elementary instruction in Greek is to teach the beginner to read; further, that the pupils who uses it will be fifteen years of age, on the average, when they take it in hand; that they will already have studied Latin for at least one year, and that they are to be fitted at the end of two years to read simple Attic prose at sight. The book differs in important particulars but not essentially in its plan from the author's "First book in Greek," first published in 1876.

- Willcox, Mrs. Ella Wheeler. Sweet danger. Chic., F. T. Neely, [1892.] c. 5-296 p. por. D. (Neely's lib. of choice literature, v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 50 c.
Dolores King and Helena Moxon meet in a boarding-school and become dear friends. Dolores has theories against marriage founded on a diary left by her mother, whose married life was a failure. Helena looks forward to a happy home with children to love and care for, such as she has always known her mother's to be. The "sweet danger" comes to Dolores who, loving a man devotedly, consents to live with him but not to marry him. The experiment ends after two years. Her old friend Helena finds her home and happiness after Dolores has fallen a victim to impossible theories. Scene shifts between New York and Paris.
- Williams, Mrs. Alice L., comp. Comforting thoughts. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. 5-221 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.
"Comforting thoughts" from many sources, in prose and poetry.
- Williams, Mrs. Alice L., comp. Love and friendship. [New ed.] Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. '83. 2-169 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

A concise presentation of the facts which have been rapidly accumulating during the past few years relating to the glacial period and to its connection with human history. Chapters on: Existing glaciers; Glacial motion; Signs of past glaciation; Ancient glaciers in the western hemisphere and in the eastern hemisphere; Drainage systems in the glacial period; Relics of man in the glacial period; The cause and date of the glacial period. While the chapters relating to America cover much of the same ground gone over in "The Ice Age in North America," the matter has been entirely rewritten and very much condensed.
- Wright, Elvirton. Marjoribanks. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 2-280 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
The story deals with the training into a strong and well-balanced manhood and womanhood of four very different young persons. Two of the characters are waifs adopted by the two chief persons, one of whom, Marjoribanks Pomeroy, achieves success as a sculptor

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 8, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

LITERARY POSSIBILITIES OF THE WEST.

Two centuries ago Bishop Berkeley wrote the now familiar lines:

"Westward the course of empire takes its way;
The first four acts already past,
A fifth shall close the drama with the day;
Time's noblest offspring is the last."

The poem in which this verse occurs is entitled "On the Prospect of Planting Arts and Learning in America." Almost a century rolled by before the prophecy of the far-seeing Bishop seemed realized in fact. These hundred years were devoted to the mere physical life of the new country; then the higher powers of the national, municipal and physical life began to unfold, and the intellectual life called for exercise and nourishment. In the following century a distinctive American literature was produced that ranks with the best in the cultivated world. But the struggle for this distinction was a long and a hard one; it battled for this place, and within the memory of many still alive the question was asked in England: "Who reads an American book?" And the fault lay in ourselves. We distrusted our own powers and we waited for England to tell us that we had a Motley, a Prescott, an Irving, a Hawthorne, a Poe and a Longfellow among us. And now we who represent the East again turn our eyes westward and see the same conditions, and with our larger experience look confidently for the same results.

Even the extremely conservative London Times has already discovered literary possibilities in the West. In half a century she has done what it took us twice as long to accomplish. She has put all the energy of her half century of life into a material body which is magnificent in its functional structure and health, and unique in the history of the world for so young a community. All the laws of healthy growth would have been violated had she developed her intellectual life along parallel lines. Thus far the West has done her duty by herself and for her past there is no censure and no recall. And now her intellectual life also calls for exercise and nourishment. Art institutes, universities, public libraries, and historical societies are springing up in answer to the demand, which will result, the London Times thinks, "in the diversion to mental pursuits of a percentage of the exuberant and heroic energy which turned Chicago's conflagration of twenty-one years back into a blessing, and which will result in the addition to the world's intellectual types of one as peculiar as is in the sphere of affairs the present Chicago financier."

In Chicago, the dominant inland city of the Western continent, is developing a literary centre. And, as ever, history repeats itself—the West herself distrusts her home products. Thus far she has waited for the East to tell her that she had within her borders writers who are telling the story of those who have shorn away forests and built railroads and huge cities; who have had their hopes, their aims, their passions, their temptations and their loves. The West is rich in unused literary material, and the men are coming who will have as keen an eye for that as those before them had for the possibilities of the great lakes and plains to which they owe their fabulous prosperity. Now Chicago herself is asking "Who reads a Chicago book?" "It is literally true," says a recent writer in The Dial, a literary paper of first rank, published in Chicago, "that the average Chicago reader steers clear of a Chicago book, unless it chances to be written by a friend, or a man who has made his name and fame by Eastern success. Whenever there shall be among our millions a few thousands, who on seeing a Chicago book announced cry, 'Hello! what's this? I must buy it and see,' there will be a Western literature. Then it will only be the second book of a worthless writer that is neglected; now it is the first book of a worthy writer, if he happen to be a Westerner."

The trouble thus far has been that the book-review columns of the more important Western daily newspapers, through which the public hears of all new things, books included, have not as yet kept pace in development with the other features of the same dailies. The reviewers' work has been distinctly and imitatively Eastern. They have neglected books of Western writers or with Western imprints until some New York or Boston paper has advised them of a new writer or of a very successful book that has lain for weeks upon their tables.

The remedy for this state of things lies largely with the publishers of the West, among whose number may already be counted many enterprising, aggressive and prospering men. Some of the younger ones have, like the book critics, worshipped afar off and paid good prices for works, chiefly because they were Eastern. But this was but a natural error of youth. A number of these young houses are now strong and growing stronger, and a patriotic feeling is springing up in them to use their growing facilities to forward the talent and claims of native writers. One move in the right direction has been the organization of the Papyrus Club, of Chicago, which has now been in existence a year. Composed exclusively of Western publishers, authors and artists, its object is to bring the authors to a better understanding with their publishers for their mutual benefit, and for the advancement of the profession of letters. This club has a most important work in hand at present—the compilation and publication of a list of Western authors. Besides giving the names of the authors it will contain a list of their works, including all published volumes and all plays that have been performed. "It will astonish most people," says its compiler, Mr. Charles H. Sergel, "to know that there are at least 250 authors in Chicago who will find their names in this volume, and some of them have written as many as twenty-five books. Chicago has plenty of literary talent, but the world does not give her credit for it."

It lies with the Western publishers to make a lasting reputation for Western authors. The outside world never puts a higher value on us than we put upon ourselves. If writers are encouraged to write good books, if the line is carefully drawn against worthless ones, no matter how great a name the author may have acquired by former efforts, and these books are given in convenient and attractive shape to the public, Western publishers may look for pecuniary success and feel that they have helped to make obsolete the question: "Who reads a Chicago book?"

OWING to a scarcity of rags consequent upon the strict quarantine regulations upon foreign importations, the paper market has been thrown into an anxious state, especially the manufacturers of the finer grades. A meeting was held recently, and it was voted that, in view of the present embargo, which was not likely to be of a temporary nature, the mills shut down during the first and fourth weeks in October and the first two weeks in November. It was also voted that the prices of all fine-grade paper be advanced two cents per pound. The effect of this action will be a decrease in the output of these mills this fall one hundred and seventy-five tons a day during the shut-down. All book and magazine paper is made of rags and chemical fibres combined. This is, of course, directly affected, while newspaper, which is made of chemical fibre alone, is indirectly affected, since the scarcity of rags increases the price. The paper industry is one of the largest in the country. There are $150,000,000 invested in the business, and the value of a yearly product is on an average $135,000,000. One of the importing firms has 1100 bales of foreign rags which have been disinfected three times, held in quarantine on the wharf, but which the department will not allow removed yet. A member of the firm said no infectious diseases ever yet were known to come from rags imported from the old country. If they were wet when baled the germs might live in them, but never when dry. He thinks people are more frightened here than they are abroad.

AUTHORS' PROTECTIVE STAMPS.

THE Association of American Authors met in parlors D, R, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on the afternoon of the 5th inst. In the absence of President Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Gen. James Wilson presided. Vice-President Cynthia Cleveland, Secretary Charles Burr Todd and George W. Cable, Dr. Titus Munson Coan, Albert Matthews, William H. Beard, Edward H. Shannon, Charles F. Wingate, Berthold Fernow, Edward F. De Lancey and others were present. The committee appointed to report a plan whereby authors who get their works published may keep a check on the publishers, advised the adoption of the French plan.

Authors, under this plan, are to furnish as many autograph stamps as the edition numbers, and a stamp is to be pasted on the inside of the cover of each book issued. The offer of sale of an unstamped book is to be considered a breach of contract. The president said he had talked with a number of publishers, who approve the plan. The matter was laid over for action at the next meeting.

A WHITMAN MEMORIAL.

THE little old two-story frame cottage in Camden wherein Walt Whitman spent his last lingering days is to be moved from historical Mickle Street to a more quiet and sequestered site out on the Haddonfield Pike. Horace Traubel, of Camden, one of Mr. Whitman's warmest admirers, will issue a circular within a week appealing to Whitman's friends and admirers all over the world for funds to accomplish this purpose and to put the house in shape as a memorial of the dead bard. The purchase by the Pennsylvania railroad of the land adjoining Mickel Street upon the opposite side primarily necessitates this moving.

The old house will be equipped with relics after the fashion of the Penn Manor in Fairmount Park. These relics will include a full set of portraits and photographs of Whitman, original letters and manuscripts, editions of his letters, his picturesque garb, his old slouch hat and walking-stick, and a host of other interesting memorials of his busy life.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO. vs. THE OLIVER DITSON CO.

THE Oliver Ditson Company, of Boston, are defendants in a suit brought in the United States Circuit Court by publishers in Great Britain to test an important clause in the International Copyright Law. The plaintiffs are the music publishing house of Novello, Ewer & Co., of London. The bill sets forth that the plaintiffs printed in London, in 1891, several musical compositions, including "Lead, Kindly Light," words by Cardinal Newman; "A Song of Judgment," words by Powell Metcalf, M.A., and the "O, Ye That Love the Lord!" words by U. W. Elliot. The plaintiffs sent the printed copies of these songs to the Librarian of Congress with a request that the title and music be copyrighted, it not being claimed that the words were subject of copyright. Simultaneously with mailing the copies to the Librarian, the music was published for the first time in England and the United States, all the printing having been done in London. A copyright was granted by the Librarian of Congress. After the music was published, the bill alleges, the defendant, with other publishers, published and sold unauthorized editions of the same, set up and printed at their own establishments. The claim of the defendant is that the copyrights on the plaintiff's publication is invalid because the International Copyright Law has not been complied with.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW vs. THE N. Y. TELEGRAM AND THE LONDON TIMES.

JUDGE WALLACE in the United States Circuit Court, on the 5th inst., granted an injunction restraining the publishers of the Evening Telegram from further circulating or issuing any copies of that paper of the date of September 26, containing an article by William E. Gladstone, entitled "A Vindication of Home Rule," copyrighted by the North American Review and reprinted without permission in the Telegram. On September 30 Judge Lacombe granted a temporary restraining order, and Judge Wallace, as above noted, made the restraint an injunction to lie until the conclusion of the trial of the suit brought by the editor of the Review, Lloyd Bryce, against the Telegram for violation of the copyright law. The defendant did not appear in court. Attorney for plaintiff said that he understood the defendant would make no attempt to have the injunction vacated. In our note of this case in a previous issue we were in error in stating that the Telegram would be liable in the case of its defeat in the sum of $16,500. The one dollar-a-sheet penalty prescribed by § 4965 of the Revised Statutes of the United States does not apply to the case of books. The losing defendant, infringing the copyright of a book forfeits "every copy thereof to such proprietor and shall also forfeit and pay such damages as may be recovered in a civil action by such proprietor in any court of competent jurisdiction."

LLOYD S. BRYCE, editor of the North American Review, wrote to Collector Hendricks on the 1st inst., asking him to keep out of the country copies of the London Times containing a reprint of Mr. Gladstone's article on Irish Home Rule, published in the Review. This application was made under the new copyright law, and was enough of a novelty to puzzle the customs officers, who finally decided, however, to hold such bundles of the newspaper, containing the article in question as reached the Appraiser's Stores, pending a reference of the question to the Treasury Department.

Hardly had this disposition of the case been decided upon when Mr. Bryce was heard from again. This time he said he had just received a message from the London Times to the effect that the article printed had been merely a synopsis. Accordingly Mr. Bryce's application was withdrawn and the Custom-House had one less problem to solve.

INFRINGEMENT OF COPYRIGHT IN "BALDWIN'S DIRECTORY OF THE ORANGES."

THE HOLBROOK COMPANY and J. H. Baldwin, the publishers and author of "Baldwin's Directory of the Oranges," have secured an injunction restraining the publishers of "Moffatt's Directory of Newark and Essex County" from publishing that book, because the part containing the Directory of the Oranges is a violation of the copyright of the plaintiff's book. "Baldwin's Directory of the Oranges" has been published for years, and has been as regularly pirated. This year the publishers set a trap for the Moffatt Company by including some fictitious names in their book, all of which duly appeared in the pirated edition, together with all the other names, precisely as they appeared in the copyrighted book.

OBITUARY.

ALFRED TENNYSON.

THE Poet-Laureate of England, marked by this laurelled rank as the acknowledged leader of Victorian poets, died at his home in Haslemere on Thursday, October 6. Alfred Tennyson, the third son of Dr. George Clayton Tennyson, Rector of Somersby, was born in that quiet village of Lincolnshire on August 6, 1809. His early surroundings were fitted to inspire learning and poetry. His father was a man of fine education, accomplished in poetry, painting, music and languages, as well as in more serious studies. From him Tennyson received his early instruction, and inherited a love of out-of-door nature and a facility in verse-making. Tennyson entered Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1829, where his comrades included Thackeray, Lord Houghton, Trench, Alford, Kemble and Kinglake. He took the Chancellor's prize during his first term for a poem on a given subject—"Timbuctoo"—and was considered by all a scholar of rare promise. Tennyson did not graduate, however, but left the university and for years led an extremely quiet and meditative life, devoted to a few intimate friends, of whom Arthur Hallam, the son of the historian, was the dearest and also the most brilliant. A great deal of his time was spent in solitary country rambles, during which he stored up that exact acquaintance with landscape, sea, clouds sunshine, bird, tree and flower, which has stamped all his sweet songs of nature with the deep mark of truth as well as music.

His first published volume was entitled "Poems, Chiefly Lyrical" (1830). They had no deep meaning, but they betrayed a new touch and a sense of the music of verse which no then living poet could approach. When the second collection of his poems appeared, in 1832, the young singer was hailed as master. His art had already reached the perfection of polish which from that time forth has been the despair of the legion of his fascinated imitators. In that day Wordsworth, Southey, Coleridge, Scott, Rogers, Campbell, Moore, Proctor and Hood were still living, but had almost ceased to be creative forces in the day of material and mechanical progress which had already dawned in England. In this new atmosphere the older poets became weak and wandering, depressed and even trivial. In 1830 Tennyson's art was absolutely fresh. He broke out with a sure young voice, and instantly became a great power.

After the appearance of his second volume he was silent for years, and when he again brought out a volume in 1842 he showed that he had ripened and become ready to do his appointed work.

"The Princess," his first long poem, appeared in 1847. It perplexed the critics, but it conquered a place in the popular affection. His next publication is by common consent the greatest of his works. "In Memoriam," an elegy upon his dearest friend, Arthur Hallam, who had died in 1833, did not appear until 1850, and was published anonymously at first, although the reading world knew at once that only one man could have written it. In the year of its publication Tennyson received his appointment as Poet-Laureate to succeed Wordsworth. Five years later he wrote "Maud," which has been the most vigorously discussed of all his productions. "The Idylls of the King" appeared in 1859, the work with which the name of Tennyson is most closely associated, and in 1864 "Enoch Arden," which took the public by storm and marks the high-water mark of the Laureate's work. These are the great works of Tennyson. But his fame rests most securely on his lyrics and songs, which almost set themselves to music, and are sung on two continents from the farmer's cottage to the classic concert platform.

Tennyson was created Baron in 1884, and has since been known as Alfred Lord Tennyson. During the last years he has lived very quietly. His first effort as Poet-Laureate was the Ode upon the death of the Duke of Wellington in 1852; his last the Ode upon the death of the eldest son of the Prince of Wales this year.

JOSEPH ERNEST RENAN.

JOSEPH ERNEST RENAN, the distinguished philologist and author, died suddenly at the College of France, Paris, on the 1st inst., after a painful illness. M. Renan was born at Tréguier, Department of Côtes-du-Nord, on February 27, 1823, and was of Breton descent. In his youth he was destined for the priesthood, and when thirteen years old went to Paris to study. In 1839 he was chosen to follow the course in theology at the seminary of Saint Sulpice, where he showed a taste for the study of languages and philosophy and studied the Hebrew, Arabic and Syriac languages. But his independence of thought did not accord with the necessary qualifications for the priesthood and he quitted the seminary in order to be better able to pursue his own course. In 1847 he gained the Volney prize for a treatise upon the Semitic languages, which has been published under the title of "Histoire Générale et Systèmes Comparés des Langues Semitiques." He took his degree in 1848. He wrote for various periodicals and travelled extensively in Italy and Syria for purposes of study and investigation. He held a post in the National Library, was a member of the Academy of Inscription, and in 1861 was given the order of the Legion of Honor and appointed Hebrew Professor at the College of France, a position which he lost in 1863 by the publication of his famous "Vie de Jesus," a work which has been enthusiastically lauded and violently condemned, and which, whatever its merits and its defects, has found readers all over the world. There is hardly a civilized language into which it has not been translated, and there is scarcely a country in Europe from which attacks against it have not proceeded. M. Renan took some part in politics, and in 1878 was elected a member of the French Academy. In 1880 he delivered a course of lectures in London, and in 1883 was appointed a Rector of the College of France. He published a large number of works, among which are "Spinoza" (1877), "Histoire des Origines du Christianisme" (1863-1882), "Souvenirs d'Enfance et de Jeunesse" (1883), "The History of the People of Israel till the Time of David" (1889), and "The History of Israel before the Birth of Christ." It is in his "Souvenirs d'Enfance et de Jeunesse" that M. Renan discloses why he separated from the Catholic Church while remaining "a moral disciple of Jesus." Before his death he had finished the "History of Israel," on which he had been engaged for some time, and had made all arrangements for the publication of the final volume, and, five years hence, of some volumes of reminiscences.

REV. SAMUEL LONGFELLOW, brother of the poet, died in Portland, Me., October 3, aged seventy-three. Mr. Longfellow spent most of his life in ministering to Unitarian churches in Fall River, Mass., Brooklyn, N. Y., Germantown, Pa., and Cambridge, Mass. In addition to writing several essays for The Radical (1866-71) and many hymns that have a place in several collections, Mr. Longfellow compiled, in association with the Rev. Samuel Johnson, "A Book of Hymns" (1846). This was jocosely called "The Book of Sams," from its two compilers. He published for congregational use "A Book of Hymns and Tunes" (1859) and a small volume for the vesper service that he had instituted. In 1853 he and Colonel T. W. Higginson edited "Thalatta: a book for the seaside," a collection of poetry that was partly original. He also published the "Life of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow" (1886), and "Final Memorials of H. W. Longfellow" (1887).

EDWIN LOOMIS, formerly a member of the firm of Potter, Knight, Ainsworth & Co., died in Plainfield, N. J., September 29. He withdrew from the publishing firm shortly before it failed and invested his money in coal, being at the time of his death senior member of the firm of Loomis & Rice, coal-dealers in Plainfield.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY is said to be at work on a book in the same line to rival Bellamy's "Looking Backward."

MR. AUSTIN DOBSON has written a chapter on "Modern English Library Books" for Mr. Lang's volume on "The Library."

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX is writing a society novel, the scene of which will be located in Chicago during the World's Fair. It will be out before the fair is opened.

STOFFORD A. BROOKE's "History of Early English Literature" will be in two volumes, and is announced as "a history of English poetry from its beginning to the accession of King Alfred."

DOUGLAS SLADEN, author of "Younger American Poets," "Australian Lyrics," etc., who has resided for some time in Japan, has joined the industrious army of writers on that country. His book will be called "The Japs at Home."

THE REV. H. R. HAWKES, at the request of the family, has undertaken the compilation of a memoir of the late Sir Morell Mackenzie, from private papers placed in his hands and personal reminiscences. The work will be issued about the close of the year by W. H. Allen & Co., of London.

"DROCH, whose weekly literary criticisms in Life form one of the chief delights of that ever-delightful publication, is one of the few men in New York whose modesty compels him to remain beneath the bushel-basket of a nom de plume. His real name is Robert S. Bridges, and at present he occupies the position of associate editor of Scribner's Magazine. He is a Princeton graduate and a warm supporter of the yellow and black."—Black and White.

DR. C. M. NEWELL, author of "The Voyage of the Fleetwing," "The Isle of Palms," and "The Wreck of the Greyhound," published by De Wolfe, Fiske & Co. in the Fleetwing Series, has nearly completed the manuscript of a new story for boys, to be published in the same series, entitled "Sailor-Boy Joe." It gives the actual experience of a boy of sixteen who shipped on a New Bedford whaler, and who became master of a vessel at the age of twenty-six. We understand that the story is almost entirely an account of the author's own experiences.

S. T. PICKARD, editor of the Portland Transcript, desires to make public this statement: "Several years ago Mr. Whittier expressed to me his wish that I would undertake his biography, if, after he had passed away, the public should call for some account of his life. Since that time he has put into my hands such materials in his possession as he thought would be helpful, and in his last will he has asked those who have letters of his to refrain from publishing them without my consent. It would greatly oblige me if those who have letters written by him, which may be serviceable in preparing the biography, would send them to me. I will carefully and promptly return them." Mr. Pickard, whose wife was Mr. Whittier's favorite niece, has the material for the biography well in hand, having begun to write out his reminiscences of the poet during the latter's lifetime. Its publication, therefore, may be looked for at no distant day. Mr. Pickard has been a journalist nearly all his life. When quite young he settled in Boston and was associated with B. P. Shillaber ("Mrs. Partington") and Charles G. Halpine (Private Miles O'Reilly) in journalistic work. As literary editor of the Portland Transcript he has placed that weekly on a high plane of excellence.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Boys' Home Journal is the title of a new periodical for young people to be issued shortly in Philadelphia.

We understand that there is no truth in the rumor that the Scribners are going to launch a new juvenile magazine in November.

JAMES G. BLAINE has promised to furnish for the November issue of the North American Review an article on "the political situation."

MR. CURTIS' last "Easy Chair" paper will appear in the November number of Harper's Magazine. It was completed several weeks before his death. It is understood that the department will be discontinued.

The American Athenaeum, a new literary journal, is to be published next month by Mitchell's, 830 Broadway. It is to be edited by A. J. Bowden, who expects to be assisted by contributions from a corps of prominent literary men.

SIR CHARLES DILKE—than whom there are few persons better qualified for the task—has written the article on London for the series of papers on the Great Capitals of the World, now being published in Harper's Weekly. It appeared in the number issued October 5. The same number contains illustrations of the American fleet at Genoa, in connection with the Columbus celebrations at that place; an article, fully illustrated, on the return of Lieutenant Peary and the results of his expedition to the polar regions; and portraits of the principal athletes in the championship games of the present season.

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. W. Johnson, bookseller, has removed from 649 Sixth Avenue to 1396 Broadway.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—B. W. Dodge, for some time connected with the Washington house of Brentano's, and for the past two years with Scrantom, Wetmore & Co., and H. Brown, formerly with Steele & Avery, and latterly of Chapin & Brown, stationers, of Rochester, have formed a copartnership under the firm-name of Dodge & Brown Company. They will carry on an extensive book and stationery business in the store formerly occupied by Scrantom, Wetmore & Co., at 41 State Street, Mr. Dodge having charge of the book department and Mr. Brown managing the stationery. As both of these gentlemen in their specialties have had an extensive experience, and as they are enterprising and progressive, it is reasonable to assume that their united efforts will succeed in building up a successful business in a short time.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—S. B. Fisher, bookseller, has removed from 143 State to 78 Worthington Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish at once a new complete edition of Père Lacordaire's famous "Conferences at Notre-Dame de Paris." He also announces a new cheap reissue of "The Class and the Desk," by J. Comper Gray.

THE STAR ALMANAC, in press at the office of the Star, Montreal, Canada, is announced for early publication. It will contain some 400 pages, and in addition to much general information will be specially full in statistics of the Dominion, its provinces and territories.

GINN & Co. have just ready the first of a series of "Light Pamphlets," progressive pamphlets for learning to read Latin, which will give in consecutive numbers selected passages adapted for all grades of advancement in preparatory schools, and some intended for college use, with suggestive remarks and notes by Prof. J. B. Greenough, of Harvard. The first number is "Eutropius."

THE October number (No. 55) of the Riverside Literature Series (published quarterly during the school year, at 15 cents a single number, by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.) contains Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," edited for school use by Samuel Thurber, Master in the Girls' High School, of Boston, Mass. Mr. Thurber, who is a teacher of large experience, has availed himself of the text of the Riverside Edition of Shakespeare, edited by Richard Grant White; and by notes at once brief, clear, and not too numerous, he has produced an edition of this favorite play which is admirably suited for use in schools.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have now ready "The Ainu of Japan: the religion, superstitions and general history of the hairy aborigines of Japan," by Rev. John Batchelor, who has resided among the Ainu for several years, and has paid very close attention to their religious views and practices, and to their habits and customs. They have also just ready "Ten Years Digging in Egypt—1881-1891," by W. M. Flinders Petrie. This book is a valuable contribution to the literature of a most fascinating subject. It is furnished with a map, and the text is profusely illustrated with no less than 116 engravings, all reproduced from the accurate drawings of the author.

THE New York Type-Setting Company, according to the American Bookmaker, has resolved to wind up business. This is the company organized to use type-setting machines, that selected being the McMillan. The President of the company is Theodore L. De Vinne, and among the stockholders are Messrs. Pratt, Rogers, Taylor, Smith and others. The closing up is not caused by dissatisfaction with the machine, which worked admirably, but from failure to secure the necessary subscriptions to the capital stock and because of the inherent difficulties in establishing a new business. None of the moneyed stockholders were able to devote the necessary time to the business.

THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE announces for early publication the following monographs: "The Influence on Business of the Independent Treasury," by Prof. David Kinley, of the University of Wisconsin, which shows the dangers to business from the "Sub-Treasury" system; "Sir Wm. Temple on the Origin and Nature of Government," by Frank I. Herriott, a criticism and digest of Temple's works on government; "Preventive Legislation in Relation to Crime," by C. H. Reeve, a plan to abolish crime by doing away with the criminal classes; "Sidgwick's Elements of Politics," by James Harvey Robinson, Ph.D., a criticism of present political notions, taking Prof. Sidgwick's recent work as a basis for the discussion. These will be followed by a translation, with critical notes by Prof. Frederick W. Moore, of Prof. L. Gumplowicz's "Sociologie," a monograph on the "Ethics of the Wages Question," by Prof. C. A. Tuttle, and one on the "Standard of Deferred Payments," by Prof. E. A. Ross.

MACMILLAN & Co. announce that the publication of F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "The Children of the King," is postponed until next year, but that they are to issue almost immediately "Don Orsino," completing the trilogy descriptive of modern Italian society, of which "Saracinesca" and "Sant'Illario" are the earlier volumes. They will publish shortly "Edward Burne-Jones: a record and review," by Malcolm Bell, a large quarto volume, illustrated with photogravures and engravings, which will include among other specimens of the artist's work, several hitherto unpublished in this country. They also announce the following important works: a new volume of poems, by George Meredith, entitled "The Empty Purse, and other poems;" and a volume of "Historical Essays," by Lord Acton. Also, a new volume of poems entitled "Akbar's Dream," by Lord Tennyson. Akbar the wise, gentle and tolerant, the greatest of the Mogul emperors, who planned the noble city of Fatehpur Sikri, whose ruins still survive in singular preservation to excite the admiration of the Western traveller, the subject of Tennyson's new volume, was a great dreamer who, among other things, fancied himself entitled to divine honors.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The Story of Columbus," by Elizabeth Eggleston Seelye, edited by Dr. Edward Eggleston, with nearly a hundred illustrations by Allegra Eggleston. This book is the result of most extensive investigations which have been carefully verified by the eminent historian and novelist, Dr. Eggleston. To a considerable extent the plan of both text and illustrations is like that of Eggleston's "Household History of the United States." "The Story of Columbus" will be the first volume in a series to be called Delights of History, which will be prepared by the same author, artist and editor. They will shortly add to their list of Good Books for Young Readers "Along the Florida Reef," by C. F. Holder, which is a story of camping and fishing adventures in company with a naturalist in Florida. The author combines entertainment and instruction, and his book is filled with illustrations which will be prized by every young reader who has ever visited the seashore, or cares for information regarding fishes, shells, and the various forms of marine life. This will be uniform with Mr. W. O. Stoddard's new book, "The Battle of New York," and Mr. Gordon's exciting story, called "Englishman's Haven."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready "State Papers and Speeches on the Tariff," with an introduction by Prof. F. W. Taussig, of Harvard. This volume contains five papers and speeches on the tariff question by Hamilton, Gallatin, Walker, Clay and Webster, reprinted from the works of the respective authors. They have been selected for their importance as presentations, by great statesmen, of the arguments on both sides of the protective controversy. "Hamilton's Report on Manufactures," the first in the list, was written in 1791, and is still considered to be the strongest statement of the arguments for protection made by any American statesman. Gallatin, who was Jefferson's associate and Hamilton's great rival as Secretary of the Treasury, wrote in 1832 the "Free Trade Memorial," a strong statement of the arguments for free trade. The third paper is Robert J. Walker's report as Secretary of the Treasury in 1845, making the recommendations for lower duties which were followed in the revenue tariff act of 1846. At the close of the volume come Clay's and Webster's speeches of 1824 on the tariff. Clay's speech is for the American system, to which he gave the name on this occasion. Webster's speech is in reply to Clay, denying that protection is American, and arguing against it. The volume is meant to be used for collateral reading in colleges giving courses on the tariff and on American history. The prominence of the subject, and the fame of the statesmen whose opinions are given, will, of course, make it attractive to the general public also.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press for early publication "Nullification, Secession, Webster's Argument, and the Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions," considered by Caleb William Loring; "Notes for the Nile," a most interesting volume containing the hymns of ancient Egypt, metrically rendered into English by Hardwicke D. Rawsley; "Short Stalks," a narrative of hunting trips and adventures, by Edward N. Buxton; "The Supernatural," a discussion of its origin, nature and evolution, by John H. King; "The Genesis of the Art Forms," by Prof. Geo. T. Raymond, and "An Artist in Crime," a story by R. Ottolengui. They will shortly issue the third and last volume of "The Scriptures, Hebrew and Christian," edited by Rev. Dr. Edward T. Bartlett; and the fourth series of "The Best Reading," covering the publications for 1887-1891, edited by Lynds E. Jones. Volume 2 in their Leaders in Science Series will be "The Life and Work of Louis Agassiz," by Prof. C. F. Holder. Other new books announced are: "Hygienic Measures in Relation to Infectious Diseases," by Geo. H. F. Nuttall; "Alcoholism and Its Treatment," by J. E. Usher; "Prisoners and Paupers," a sociological study, by Henry M. Boies, and "The Philosophy of Individuality," by Antoinette Brown Blackwell. Three new works on economics are announced: "Taxation and Work," by Edward Atkinson, "The Farmer's Tariff Manual," by D. Strange; and "A Complete Guide to the World's Metal Monetary System," by John Henry Worman. They will have new editions of Dr. Jessop's "Coming of the Friars," Wagner's "Names and Their Meanings," and Taussig's "Tariff History of the United States," revised and brought down to date.

THE first volume of Mr. Alfred Pollard's new series of Books about Books, to be published by Kegan Paul, Trübner & Co., will be "The Great Book Collectors," by Mr. Elton.

At a recent meeting in Edinburgh of news-agents and booksellers to discuss their grievances, it was resolved to form a branch of the Retail News Agents and Booksellers' Union.

THE third volume of "Slang and its Analogues," by John S. Farmer and W. E. Henley, is promised for October. Half the work will then assumably be in the hands of the subscribers.

IN the July number of that very entertaining miscellany, Brown's Bookstall, published by A. Brown & Co., of Aberdeen, an account is given of the early Aberdeen booksellers and printers.

THE government of India has recently issued stringent regulations for the prevention of the importation of pirated editions of English copyright works into the country. To this end the customs officers have been instructed to open and examine all consignments of books from foreign countries, especially from the United States.

LORD CHARLES BRUCE, who has made a study of the contents of the Althorpe Library, has written an account of the most important books in the collection. This will shortly be published by Elliot Stock, of London, in a volume of about three hundred pages quarto, with numerous illustrations and fac-similes, under the title "Treasures of the Althorpe Library: the origin and development of the art of printing, illustrated by examples from the collection of Earl Spenser."

MR. GEORGE BARNETT SMITH'S "History of the English Parliament"—a work upon which he has been engaged for the last five years—is to be published next month in two huge volumes. It will include an account of the Parliaments of Scotland and Ireland, and will be illustrated with fac-similes of constitutional documents. The London Academy says: "There are no fewer than seventeen appendices, in the shape of 'Constitutional Addenda,' dealing with a great number of matters affecting Parliament and the Constitution. The work differs entirely from the many existing constitutional histories treating of the government of England at various periods. It is the first complete, consecutive record of the English Parliament as a legislative institution from the earliest times to the present day. In addition to the Parliamentary journals and official documents, all the constitutional writers of authority upon each epoch have been consulted in its preparation—a fact which will sufficiently testify to the magnitude of the undertaking."

"BOOK COLLECTING, A GUIDE FOR AMATEURS," by J. H. Slater, recently issued in London by Swan Sonnenschein, will hardly, we think, fulfil the expectations of the amateur collector; while the book certainly will not mislead even the most guileless amateur, it will also guide him to nothing of any very great importance. In short, while we have no fault to find with the contents—though from the former editor of Book Lore, the editor of "Book Prices Current," and other useful publications for booksellers and librarians, we had a right to expect less superficial information than he furnishes on the subjects he treats of—we take exception to the title he uses. "Gossip for the Amateur Book Collector" would have been more to the point, and as such we recommend the book without hesitation. Appended to the volume is a selection from Clegg's "Directory of Second-Hand Booksellers" of the dealers in certain specialties. A good index ought to be added to the next issue of the work; without it the book loses much of its value. The book is published by Swan Sonnenschein & Co., London.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

A New Book by Mrs. Burnett.

GIOVANNI AND THE OTHER.

CHILDREN WHO HAVE MADE STORIES.

Handsomely bound, with nine full-page illustrations by Reginald B. Birch. Uniform with "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Square 8vo, $1.50.

An autobiographic interest attaches to the twelve stories in this book, as they relate to Mrs. Burnett's sons and to other little people whom she has known. They have the same magic charm which distinguished "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and disclose the beauty of child life with Mrs. Burnett's characteristic sympathy, pathos and humor. Mr. Birch's illustrations portray the little heroes and heroines with charming grace.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY,

4 Park St., Boston; 11 East 17th St., New York,

Will Publish on Saturday, October 22:

A Wonder-Book for Girls and Boys.

By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Illustrated in colors by Walter Crane, with twenty exquisite full-page pictures in colors, and about forty head-pieces, tail-pieces and initials, also in color.

Edition de Luxe. Limited to 250 copies. With the full-page illustrations carefully mounted. Printed on imported English paper, with every detail of binding, etc., in accord with the beauty of the contents. With binding designed by Walter Crane in embossed vellum, and with a jacket bearing an emblematic design specially made for it by the Artist. In one volume, in a tasteful box, octavo, $15.00 net.

The Nature and Elements of Poetry.

By EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN, author of "Victorian Poets," "Poets of America," etc. With a photogravure of Dürer's Melencolia for a frontispiece, a topical analysis in the margin, and a full analytical index. One volume, crown 8vo, $1.50.

In this work Mr. Stedman reviews compactly the great poetry of the world, ancient and modern; defines the nature of poetry; considers its various forms; and discusses beauty, imagination, truth, passion, genius, and other constituents of rhythmic literature. Mr. Stedman has brought to this work his maturest thought and has given to it his utmost grace of style, so that in treatment and manner it is eminently worthy of its great theme.

David Alden's Daughter, and Other Stories of Colonial Times.

By JANE G. AUSTIN, author of "A Nameless Nobleman," "Standish of Standish," "Betty Alden," "Dr. Le Baron and His Daughters," etc. 16mo, $1.25.

This is not a novel but a series of stories, each representing some noteworthy character or incident or aspect of colonial times. A large circle of readers will give it most hearty welcome.

At the Beautiful Gate, and Other Songs of Faith.

By LUCY LARCOM. 16mo, $1.00.

This little book containing Miss Larcom's hymns and lyrics on sacred subjects is an excellent companion volume to her two latest books, "As It Is in Heaven" and "The Unseen Friend," and like these is sure to be in special request as a gift-book.

In the Levant.

By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, author of "A Summer in a Garden," "Backlog Studies," "My Winter on the Nile," etc. With a new portrait of Mr. Warner, and about twenty-five full-page photogravures, decorative head-pieces and initials.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

THE STORY OF COLUMBUS.

By ELIZABETH EGGLESTON SEELYE. Edited by Dr. Edward Eggleston. With 100 illustrations by Allegra Eggleston. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

This book is the result of most extensive investigations, which have been carefully verified by the eminent historian and novelist, Dr. Eggleston. It is not too much to say that the whole world has been drawn upon for material by the author and the artist. The fruits of these investigations are presented in a popular, readable, always entertaining form. While the book contains all the results of modern inquiry offered in the bulkiest biographies, the story is here condensed and the material selected with a view to an always interesting narrative. To a considerable extent the plan of both text and illustrations is like that of Eggleston's Household History of the United States. It is hardly necessary to say more regarding the fitness of this volume for a place in every American private, public and school library.

ADMIRAL FARRAGUT.

By Captain A. T. MAHAN, U. S. N., author of "The Gulf and Inland Waters," etc. With portrait and maps. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This is the first book in "The Great Commander Series," edited by Gen. James Grant Wilson. It represents an effort to satisfy a popular demand for a series of convenient, readable, popular, but authoritative biographies of illustrious American leaders on land and sea. The second volume will be "General Taylor," by Major-General O. O. Howard, U. S. A. Other volumes will follow shortly. Each will present a steel-plate portrait of the subject as a frontispiece, and will contain several maps.

MAN AND THE STATE.

STUDIES IN APPLIED SOCIOLOGY. A Series of Seventeen Lectures and Discussions before the Brooklyn Ethical Association. Uniform with "Evolution in Science and Art." 12mo, cloth, $2.

"The series containing these interesting studies is a valuable and efficient medium for the popularization of modern sociological thought."—Public Opinion.

"All are by men of unquestioned ability, whether one accepts their views or not, and form in their mass a series of able articles on economic science, a subject which has grown into popularity as of high importance, affecting every class of the community."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

GOD'S FOOL.

By MAARTEN MAARTENS, author of "The Sin of Joost Avelingh." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

In the opinion of competent critics, "God's Fool," the new novel by Maarten Maartens, represents the finest development thus far of the author's powers, and its appearance in book form will enlist general attention. There can be no question regarding the high appreciation of Maarten Maartens' work by American and English readers.

THE BERKELEYS AND THEIR NEIGHBORS.

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL, author of "Throckmorton," "Maid Marian," "Little Jarvis," "Midshipman Paulding," etc. No. 103, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.

"The pages of 'Throckmorton' are alive with picturesque sketches. Its humor is never forced, and its pathos is never overdone. It is a novel to linger over."—The Critic.

"Not since Dr. Edward Everett Hale's classic, 'The Man Without a Country,' has there been published a more stirring lesson in patriotism than 'Little Jarvis.'"—Boston Beacon.

NOTES IN SEASON.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce that hereafter the price of their Series of Select Novels, in cloth binding, will be $1 per volume. The price in paper remains the same, fifty cents a volume.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish shortly "The Institutes of Education, comprising a rational introduction to psychology," by Dr. S. S. Laurie, author of "Occasional Addresses on Educational Subjects," who writes with authority based on long experience on the meaning and importance of a science of education.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. will issue at once a new work by the Rev. James Stalker, entitled "The Four Men and Other Addresses," describing the man the world sees, the man seen by the person that knows him best, the man seen by himself and the man whom God sees, and also containing lectures on conscience, culture, youth, age, public spirit, humanity, etc. A new book by Miss Evelyn Everett Green will be called "Miss Audrey," and will give the chronicle of a quiet village.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just issued the "Itinerary of General Washington," by W. S. Baker, a careful compilation from original sources which will lay the student of American history under great obligations as it gives a detailed account from day to day of the period of the Revolutionary War. Early in November the house will bring out a sequel to Amélie Rives' story, "The Quick or the Dead," under the title of "Barbara Dering," the heroine of that much-discussed story, a book for which the advance orders are very large. The holiday juveniles of the firm are also ready and include some remarkably pretty volumes.

RUFUS C. HARTMANFT, Philadelphia, will issue on November 1 "In Arctic Seas," the narrative of the voyage of the ship Kite, which carried the Peary expedition to North Greenland, told by Robert N. Keely, surgeon on the expedition, sent out by the Academy of Natural Sciences to accompany Lieutenant Peary, and G. G. Davis, of the Archaeological Society of Pennsylvania. The work will contain a full history of the Peary Relief Expedition, and will also give the "log" of the Kite, the "Certificate of Search," the life near the Pole, the reception of the expedition upon its return, etc., all illustrated with maps, charts, views and portraits, and made into a handsome book.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will bring out on October 22 two capital books for boys, "The Story of John G. Paton" (of which the first London edition is 10,000 copies), a thrilling narrative of thirty years' experiences among South Sea cannibals, embellished with forty-five full-page illustrations from designs by James Finnemore; and "The Story of the Life of Mackay of Uganda," an entirely new book by the sister of the famous missionary, Alexander Mackay, who tells the story of her brother's heroic life in a way to appeal to boy readers. They will also have ready a handsome édition de luxe of Dr. Stalker's "Imago Christi," a book for which there has been a long-continued demand, over 30,000 copies of the regular edition having been sold.

CASELL & Co. have just ready "The Medicine Lady," a novel by L. T. Meade. The heroine is a young lady who, in 1870, goes as nurse in an English hospital. She is excitable and cannot stand seeing suffering, but after a time learns to use her highly strung nervous organization for the benefit of others. The book contains much medical information. There is also ready a volume of short stories by Morley Roberts, entitled "The Reputation of George Saxon, and other stories." The first three volumes of a new Children's Library are pretty little sixteenmos in light-colored blue cloth bindings, beautified with many illustrations which bear the separate titles "Story of a Puppet," by C. Collodi; "La Belle Nivernaise," by Alphonse Daudet; and "Irish Fairy Tales," edited with an introduction by W. M. Yeats.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

*Abbott, Austin. New cases selected chiefly from decisions of the courts of the State of New York; with notes and an analytical index to all points of law and practice, and all code citations contained in the standard reports of N. Y. issued during the period covered by this v. V. 28. N. Y., The Dossy Law-Book Co., 1892. c. 7+49+389 p. O. shp., $5.

Abbott, C. C., M. D. Recent rambles; or, in touch with nature. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 4-380 p. il. D. cl., $2.

The author of "A naturalist's rambles about home," "Outings at odd times," etc., tells the thoughts that came to him on his rambles, under such headings as: A river view, A victim of Thoreau, Animals as barometers, All day afloat, A rocky ramble, In a seaside forest, A cool gray day, An August reverie, A defence of idleness, A pre-Columbian mine, Why do the birds sing? In winter quarters, Caught in the rain, etc.

Adams, C. Francis. Three episodes of Massachusetts history: the settlement of Boston Bay; the Antinomian controversy; a study of church and town government. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 2 v., 7+581; 581-1067 p. maps, O. cl., $4.

The first episode deals exhaustively with the settlement of Massachusetts Bay, showing the struggle which took place between the royal party represented by Sir Ferdinando Gorges, and the Puritans led by John Winthrop. In this episode the stories of the Maypole of Merry Mount, and of Miles Standish's struggle with the Indians at Wessagusset are also told. The second episode deals with the early religious dispute in Massachusetts known as the Antinomian controversy, the account of which is now for the first time written from a modern or agnostic point of view. A vivid picture is given of the theological, social and intellectual condition of New England in 1630-40. The third episode describes the slow growth and gradual development of a Massachusetts town from 1640 to 1890, and is practically a close study, from original sources, of New England town government, its origin, methods and results.

Adams, W. T., ["Oliver Optic" pseud.] Oliver Optic's annual [1892]: stories, poems and pictures for little men and women, by the best authors and artists. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. '82-'88. unip. il. O. bds., $1.50.

Alger, Horatio, jr. Digging for gold: a story of California. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1892.] c. 4+352 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A young Connecticut boy of sixteen, living in Iowa with a hard and heartless stepfather, conceives the idea that he will go out to California and gain wealth digging gold. He is without means to carry out his plans till in a lucky moment he saves a train of cars from going over a broken bridge. The grateful passengers present him with two hundred and fifty dollars, and he starts for the gold region. In the mines and through speculation in real estate he amasses the sum of eight thousand dollars, with which he returns to his home and his mother after his stepfather's death.

Austen, Frances Vescelius. Elsie's visit to Cloudland and the moon; or, the tricks of E-ma-ji-na-shun; il. by E. J. Austen.

Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. '91. 4-84 p. Q. cl., $1.25.

Elsie was a dissatisfied and sceptical little girl who asked many questions relative to the moon, to Mother Goose and the many other personages of the nursery rhymes. A grown-up artist friend tells her that all these people live in the "Realm of Fancy," and that they cannot be seen or visited unless with the aid of a good fairy named "E-ma-ji-na-shun." The fairy is called up for Elsie's benefit, and with him she visits his realms and witnesses a number of queer and ridiculous things.

Baker, W. S., comp. Itinerary of General Washington, from June 15, 1775, to December 28, 1788. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 8+884 p. por. O. cl., $2.50.

Extensive research and judgment in selection are exhibited in the compilation of this book, the work of Mr. Baker, whose contributions to Washingtoniana are well known. His sources of information are the letters of Washington, published and unpublished, "orderly" books and contemporaneous diaries and newspapers. The material brought together is a concise record of the prominent events in our War for Independence, covering the period from Washington's appointment as Commander-in-Chief of the Continental forces, June 15, 1775, to the surrender of his commission, Dec. 28, 1788.

Batchelor, Rev. J. The Ainu of Japan: the religion, superstitions and general history of the hairy aborigines of Japan. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., [1892.] 6-336 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

There are but sixteen or seventeen thousand of these aboriginal inhabitants of Japan alive to-day. The first record of them is found in a Japanese book dated A.D. 712. Their present home is Yezo and the Kurile Islands and Saghalien, which now belongs to Russia. Ainu means "man." They are a filthy and degraded-looking race, but at heart a kind and sympathetic people. The author has been a missionary among them, and here describes their manners, customs, their religion, special superstitions, etc.

Black, W. Green pastures and Piccadilly. New [uniform] rev. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 5+421 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Blackwood, Alicia (Lady). Six in the fold—and one: narratives from life. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 96 p. 16", cl., 40 c.

Braine, Rob. D. Messages from Mars by the aid of the telescope plant. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1892.] 5-258 p. D. (The peerless ser., no. 62.) pap., 50 c.

The "telescope plant" was a remarkable vegetable, bearing crystal lenses of incredible power, through which messages were transmitted from the earth to the planet Mars. Wrecked at sea, the narrator of the tale was cast ashore on the island of Roxana, isolated from the rest of the world by impassable cliffs. The Roxanians were in constant communication with the inhabitants of Mars—beings ten feet high, devoid of speech, possessing twenty fingers, twenty toes and a proboscis, and dwelling in a state of blissful social democracy. After several unpleasant experiences and the assimilation of much information, the writer escapes from Roxana and returns to Chicago to cultivate a telescope plant.

Twelve full-page pictures of children in fancy costumes, with appropriate verses.

Browning, Rob. Robert Browning's prose life of Strafford; with an introd. by C. H. Firth, and forewords by F. J. Furnivall. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1892. 76+319 p. D. cl., $2. [Ed. limited to 500 copies.]

When John Forster was writing the "Life of Strafford" to complete a volume of Lives of eminent statesmen he fell ill, and the work was done for him by Robert Browning. It appeared in 1836 under the name of Forster, but competent critics have since decided that the great bulk of the book was Browning's. The present reprint is due to Dana Estes. Both Smith & Elder, Browning's publishers, and the Longmans, who published the original edition in 1890, declined to undertake the work. Mr. Estes, who is chairman of the Boston Browning Society, offered to share the expense of the work with any other publisher Mr. Furnivall could find. The Browning Society of England agreed to take his offer. The book has been revised and brought up to date by recognized authorities on the time it covers. A new appendix gives the chief fresh letters and documents about Strafford.

Bubler, E. T., ed., 2d. Questions and answers about electricity: a first book for students: theory of electricity and magnetism by T. O'Connor Sloane, Caryl D. Haskins, A. E. Watson, and E. Trevert. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 5-100 p. il. S. cl., 50 c.

In the form of question and answer, gives elementary information upon electricity, magnetism, voltaic batteries, dynamos and motors, electric lamps, miscellaneous electrical apparatus and electrical measurements. Contains a glossary of electrical terms.

Butler, W., D.D. Mexico in transition from the power of political Romanism to civil and religious liberty. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1892. c. 13+325 p. por. il. O. cl., $2.

In 1851 the writer first began to take interest in the events which his book describes. During the singing of Bishop Heber's missionary hymn, "From Greenland's icy mountains," the thought came to him that the words must come true, and the Evangelical religion spread even through priest-governed Mexico. After more than forty years he here reviews the great public events that have since transpired in Northern, Central and South America, all tending to bring about the result of religious and civil liberty.

Butterworth, Hezekiah. Zigzag journeys on the Mississippi from Chicago to the islands of the discovery. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 9-319 p. il. O. cl., $2; bds., $1.50.

The present "Zigzag" book has a special aim, as had the previous volumes of the series, to prepare its readers to discuss the meaning of the Great World's Fair of 1893, and the historical progress that the enterprise represents and illustrates. Hence it is a book of stories associated for the most part with the Columbian discovery, with Chicago and the Mississippi Valley.

Bynner, Edwin Lassetter. Zachary Phips. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 2+512 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Zachary Phips, a Boston boy, runs away from home, goes through the Aaron Burr Expedition, the War of 1812, and the Seminole War, and becomes connected with the American legation at London. Admirable use is made of historical events and situations; there is even more adventure than story of the ordinary type, and a humorous element adds very greatly to the interest.

Carey, Rosa Nouchette. Sir Godfrey's granddaughters: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 4-469 p. D. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 138.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

Sir Godfrey is autocrat in his household. He is really fond of his daughter and her two daughters, but he interferes with all their hopes, wishes and amusements. The novel is a study in married and engaged couples. An old English hall is the home of Sir Godfrey. His granddaughter Gerda is imaginative and self-asserting, and she often clashes with his old-fashioned and arbitrary commands. This author always brings out the possibilities and duties of family life.

Carryl, C. E. The admiral's caravan: il. by Reginald B. Birch. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '91, '92. 4-140 p. O. cl., $1.50.

The scene of the story is laid in Dreamland, the principal characters being a little girl and a wooden admiral and his companions. Dorothy witnesses a great many queer scenes and meets many odd characters in Dreamland, her adventures being something like those of Davy in "Davy and the goblin," by the same author.

Case, Mary Emily. The love of the world: a book of religious meditation. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. 4-92 p. S. cl., $1.

The author is Professor of Latin and Greek at Wells College. This is a little book of religious meditations, issued somewhat in the style of Thomas à Kempis' "Imitation of Christ." Its liberal Christianity is sure to appeal to a large number of people. It is daintily bound in pearl-gray cloth covers, with cover design in gold.

Castlemon, Harry, [pseud. for C. A. Fosdick.]

Marcy the refugee: il. by G. C. White. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1892.] c. 8+432 p. D. (Castlemon's war ser.) cl., $1.25.

This story takes up once more the history of the exploits and adventures of the daring young Union hero Marcy Gray, the North Carolina boy, who tried so hard and so unsuccessfully to be "true to his colors." The larger part of the story takes place at the Gray plantation, where Marcy and his mother are attacked by masked robbers who think they have money hidden. Also includes the coming of the Burnside expedition to Roanoke Island.

Champney, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Three Vassar girls in the Holy Land. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 5-272 p. il. O. cl., $2; bds., $1.50.

The Vassar girls in this volume travel through the east, from Egypt and the mouth of the Nile, through Palestine to Jerusalem.

Chatterbox [1892-'93] ed. by J. Erskine Clarke. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. '78-'92. 4+412 p. il. O. cl., $1.75, $2.25; bds., $1.25.

Cheap-money experiments, its past and present times; reprinted with slight revision from Topics of the Time in the Century Magazine. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '91, '92. 3-122 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Consists of a number of papers on various cheap-money plans, which originally appeared in the Century Magazine, and are now reprinted, with revisions. Contains chapters on "The Argentine cheap-money paradise," "Mississippi crop-moving currency," "Alabama's thousand-dollar-a-day blunder," "The 'per capita' delusion," "The sub-treasury cheap-money plan," etc.

*Connecticut. Supreme ct. of errors. Reports of cases. V. 60, 61, [June, 1891-April, 1892;] by J. Hooker. N. Y., Banks & Bros., 1892. c. O. shp., ea., $3.50.

Doyle, A. Conan. Adventures of Sherlock

Holmes. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 8+307 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Sherlock Holmes and the man who relates these adventures had roomed together before the marriage of the latter. Sherlock Holmes was deeply attracted by the study of crime, and occupied his immense faculties and extraordinary powers of observation in following out clues and clearing up mysteries which had been abandoned as hopeless by the official police. This volume tells of twelve different cases upon which he exercised his perfect reasoning and almost miraculous intuition.

Dyer, Oliver. Life of General Jackson (Old Hickory); il. by H. M. Eaton. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. '91, '92. 5-378 p. D. (Choice ser.) cl., $1; paper, 50 c. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 10, 1891, [1025.]

Ellis, E. S. On the trail of the moose. Phil., Porter & Coates, [1892.] c. 4+353 p. il. D. (Wild-woods ser., no. 2.) cl., $1.25.

Nick Ribsam, the young Pennsylvanian of Dutch descent, who was one of the characters in "Through forest and fire," is found in this story to be in almost hopeless ill-health, brought about through his suffering in the flaming forest. Just as the doctor has ordered him a decided change of scene a letter is received from Herbert Watrous asking him to accompany him to his uncle's home in Maine for the winter. The boys, of course, go, and have a splendid time hunting moose and other game.

Ewing, Juliana Horatio. The story of a short life. [Il. ed.] N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1892. 6+181 p. il. O. cl., $1.50. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., June 27, 1885, [700.]

Farrar, C. A. J. Through the wilds: a record of sport and adventure in the forests of New Hampshire and Maine. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1892. c. 13+415 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

Narrates the adventures of a party of boys—from fifteen to eighteen years of age—who go up into the wilds of Maine and New Hampshire for a summer vacation. With the account of their fishing and hunting and the events of their camp life are given the history and legends of the various places of note they visit. The author is himself an ardent sportsman, and knows from experience of what he writes. Profusely illustrated.

Fenn, G. Manville. Burnside, H. M., [and others.] In the chimney corner: fireside stories for young people; il. in col. and photogravure by Helen M. Jackson. H. M. Bennett and others. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., [1892.] unsp. Q. bds., $2.

Francis, J. G. A book of cheerful cats and other animated animals. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. 7+37 p. il. obl. S. cl., $1.

Nonsense verse and funny pictures collected from St. Nicholas and other periodicals, to which the author has added much new material. Cats and kittens are the principal characters depicted, and every one knows how amusing Francis' cats are, and consequently how entertaining the little volume must prove to young and old.

Francis, Laurence H., ed. The boys of the Mirthfield Academy. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 5-185 p. il. O. bds., $1.25. School-life in England is the subject. Boys' sports and games are described.

Fuller, H. B., ["Stanton Page," pseud.] The châtelaine of La Trinité. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. 4+176 p. D. cl., $1.25.

In "The Chevalier of Il Pensieri-Vani" the author brought his keen satire to bear upon music, painting, architecture, bibliography and diplomacy in Italy. Switzerland is now the scene, and the satire is l-veled against would-be scientists, fin de siècle novelists, the opera-bouffe stage, the shopping craze of the girl of the period, and various other features of present existence. The heroine is really Aurelia West, from Rochester, N. Y. The châtelaine furnishes a type of fresh ideal womanhood. Swiss types, luns, scenery, customs, etc., are woven into the study of human nature with artistic discretion. First appeared in the Century Magazine.

Goldsmith, Oliver. The vicar of Wakefield: a tale supposed to be written by himself.

Edition Jouaust; il. with etchings by Adolph Lalauze. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] 2 v., 7+161; 5+153 p. S. (The exquisite ser.) parchment and silk, $3.50. [Edition de luxe, limited to 500 copies.] $5.

This edition is modelled from that issued in French by the Paris publisher Jouaust. It is illustrated with dainty page etchings and graceful head and tail pieces and decorative initials. The page is small, with clear, new type, and is printed on fine laid paper.

Gordon, Rev. M. L., M.D. An American missionary in Japan. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 21+276 p. D. cl., $1.25.

In this manly and outspoken report on the possibilities of missionary work in Japan the information given is copious and at first hand. It is not a chronicle of the writer's individual deeds, "but an attempt to record what he has seen of the wonderful manner in which the religion of Christ is approaching the minds, hearts and lives of the Japanese people." It also outlines the way in which missionaries should prepare for, begin, and with the help of Japanese associates, to carry on successfully the work for which they are sent out. Introductory note by Dr. Griffin. Appendix containing Report of the Committee on a Christian College for Japan; Doshisha University Faculty of Instruction for 1891-92; Japanese Christian literature; Protestant missionary work in Japan for 1891; Creeds. Index.

Co., 1892. c. '85-'92. 5+212 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"Crow's Nest" is a beautiful Southern home left motherless some years before the arrival of two young Northern men in search of health and pleasure. The events of the summer of 1863, during the Civil War, influence the lives of all the characters. There are four "Belhaven Tales," entitled, When the century came in, told in letters dated 1803; Penelope's swains; Monsieur Alcibiade, and Gay's romance. Una and King David is, like all the others, a story of the old comfortable homes of Old Virginia just before the all-changing war of 1861-1865.

Lathrop, G. Parsons. Gold of pleasure. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. '91. 140 p. por. D. (American novels' ser.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A love-story which finds its chief purpose in the contrast of two characters, one unselfish and constant, the other impractical, shifting, seeking the "gold of pleasure." Lizard Rock Light-house, on Long Island Sound, is the home of the heroine, whose sailor lover meets temptation among the tropical East Indies. How both kept their promises of constancy, and how Martha was freed at last to marry the man of her choice, is told with simple directness.

Laurie, André. School boy days in Russia; tr. by Laura E. Kendall; il. by G. Roux. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 5-382 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Dmitri Téréntieff is sixteen when the story opens, and a pupil of the Gymnasium, Moscow. While in a gloomy dungeon awaiting his trial for a crime of which he is innocent—the assault of the janitor of the Gymnasium—Dmitri writes his reminiscences. They include the days of his childhood in an obscure Russian village, the finding of "Sacha," a little girl who becomes his beloved companion, his father's death, and his coming to Moscow under the impression that he is heir to a fortune. His disappointment and his poverty and his struggle to live and obtain an education are well depicted. His meeting with a famous musician who discovers he has a beautiful voice, colors his whole life. The scenes from Russian school life are novel and extremely interesting.

By the author of "A tramp across the Continent;" a book for young folks describing some of the out-of-the-way wonders of the West. It is very fully illustrated and contains chapters on "The grand cañon of the Colorado," "The great American desert," "Montezuma's well" and other natural wonders, besides a great deal about the curious customs of various Indian tribes. It has for a frontispiece a reproduction of a Navajo blanket in colors.

MacInnes, Mrs. —. Joyfully ready: a sketch of the life of Harry MacInnes, by his mother; from the 9th London ed. N. Y., American Tract Soc., [1892.] c. 3-204 p. por. S. cl., 75 c.

Harry MacInnes, undergraduate of Trinity College, Cambridge, England, met instant death by a fall from the rocks of Chatillon, in the neighborhood of Villars-sur-Ollon, Switzerland, on September 23, 1884. From his earliest youth he had been a manly, unselfish and courageous boy, whose passion was to win souls to Christ. During his life as naval cadet and later as student in Cambridge, he had many opportunities to labor among a rather wild set. He was born in 1863, and was only 21 when he died.

Guthrie and H. C. Bunner). The author encourages Americans to be fearlessly American within cultured limits.

Matthews, Ja. Brander. Tom Paulding: the story of a search for buried treasure in the streets of New York. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '91, '92. 8+254 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

An interesting bit of Revolutionary history is woven in with the story of Tom Paulding's search for buried treasure. Tom Paulding, a boy of to-day, lived above Central Park, in a house on the Hudson built by his great-grandfather. It is in looking over this ancestor's papers that he obtains a clue to the lost money. With a couple of his school friends he has an exciting hunt for the treasure, only to discover on finding it that the "golden guineas" are worthless counterfeits. Boy life and its games is amusingly depicted.

Milman, Helen, [Mrs. Caldwell Crofton.] Uncle Bill's children; il. by the author. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. 5+148 p. O. cl., $1.

By the author of "The little ladies." Will Seymour, who dislikes children, offers, in a weak moment, to take care of his sister's boy and girl for a few weeks at the seashore, to remove them from the danger of contagion from scarlet fever. The scene of his experience with venturesome "Jack" and wild "Mamie" is Tenby, a little out-of-the-way place in South Wales. The children's pranks are very amusing, and serve to bring their uncle's little romance to a very sudden climax.

*Missouri. St. Louis and the Kansas City courts of appeals. Cases determined from Nov. 10, 1891, to Feb. 2, 1892; rep. by D: Goldsmith and Ben Eli Guthrie, off. reps. V. 47. Columbia, E. W. Stephens, 1892. c. 20+735+16 p. O. shp., $5.

Mitchell, S. Weir. Characteristics. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '91, '92. 4+307 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A romance by the eminent Philadelphia physician; was published first as a serial in the Century. In the form of a narrative the author has given the results of a life-long study of human nature, skillfully dissecting various impulses and discoursing entertainingly on love and hate, art, music, literature, health, sickness, life and death.

Montgomery, Walter, ed. Tales of ancient Troy. [Also] The adventures of Ulysses. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 4-211 p. il. O. bds., $1.25.

The subjects immortalized in Homer's "Iliad" and "Odyssey" are told in simple sketches, with many full-page illustrations; large type.

Montmahon, C. de, and Beauregard, H. A course on zoölogy: designed for secondary education; tr. and adapted [from the French] for American schools by W: H. Greene, M.D. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 2-368 p. il. S. cl., 75 c.

This book forms the basis of instruction upon the natural history of animals in the secondary schools of France. Its methods are such as have been found by experience to excite most interest on the part of the pupil. In the translation the plan of the original work has been followed closely; but such changes have been made as were needed to Americanize the book.

Morris, C: Tales from the dramatists. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 4 v., 3-207; 3-215; 3-216; 3-224 p. por. S. cl., $4; hf. pol. cf. or mor., $8; 1/2 cf., $10.

A series of entertaining stories taken from the leading plays of the most noted dramatic authors, from Ben Jonson to the present day. This work is based on the general plan of Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," and deals with the most popular plays of the best-known English playwrights.

Morris, Harrison S. Tales from ten poets. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 3 v., 5-235; 4-241; 5-240 p. por. S. cl., $3; hf. cf. and hf. mor., $6; 1/2 cf., $7.50.

These three volumes contain the most famous narrative poems of ten great Victorian poets, done into prose, which has preserved the charm of the poetry, in so far as it was possible, while giving the story pure and simple. The collection affords an admirable means of learning in a brief and agreeable manner what has been done in narrative poetry during the present generation. The poems represented are: The ring and the book, by Robert Browning; The Princess, by Tennyson; Rose Mary, by Daniel Gabriel Rossetti; The lovers of Gudrun, by W: Morris; Tennyson's Enoch Arden; A blot on the 'scutcheon, by Browning; Aurora Leigh, by Mrs. Browning; Matthew Arnold's Sohrab and Rustum; Buchanan's The two babes; Swinburne's Tristram of Lyonesse; Lucile, and The Spanish Gypsy.

Munroe, Kirk. Canoemates: a story of the Florida reef and everglades. N. Y., Harper, 1893 [1892.] c. 6+324 p. il. D. (Harper's young people [new] ser.) cl., $1.25.

The adventures of two boys who made a canoe trip up the great Florida Reef. One was the son of a wealthy New York Wall Street broker; the father of the other had been a naval officer stationed at Key West, where he had died a few years before. Among the many episodes in which the boys figure are the loss of their canoes, a short sojourn on a deserted island, a hunt for a panther, adventures with rattlesnakes, etc.

Nelson, Anson and Fanny. Memorials of Sarah Childress Polk: wife of the eleventh President of the United States. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] c. '92. 10+284 p. por. O. cl., $1.75.

Mrs. Polk was born in 1803, and died in the summer of 1891. Her father's family lived in the ease which a competency gives. She was married in 1824 to James Knox Polk. In 1825 Mr. Polk was elected Member of Congress, and in 1845 he was inaugurated as President of the United States. The Mexican War was carried on during his administration. He died in 1860, and since that time Mrs. Polk has lived the quiet life of a lady of the old school at her beautiful home at Polk Place in Tennessee. She was a remarkable woman of deep religious nature. The book contains valuable historical data.

The author desires to tell the story of the discoveries made in Egypt in a style between the dry, scientific and the pleasing, inaccurate work which has appeared in fiction. He gives many hints how travellers may go about in Egypt "without the usual routine of coddling and being led by the nose by a dragoman." Gives a table of the kings and dynasties, addenda to Eschschke's vocabulary, and a full index, giving reference to every illustration. The author has already published "Pyramids of Gizeh," "Hawara," etc. He is actively engaged in the "digging" he describes.
- Richards, Mrs. Laura E. Captain January; il. by Frank T. Merrill. [New illustrated ed.] Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1892 [1892.] c. '90, '92. 4-133 p. O. cl., $1.25.

- Richards, Mrs. Laura E. Hildegard's home. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 6-318 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
Hildegard Grahame has already been the heroine of two volumes, "Queen Hildegard" and "Hildegard's holiday." Her story is taken up again about six months after her father's death and loss of fortune. She and her mother are obliged to give up their elegant New York home and live in the country in an old-fashioned house full of quaint furniture and reminiscences of the past. Here Hildegard finds a cousin Jack and other interesting characters who both charm and amuse.
- Roberts, Morley. The reputation of George Saxon, and other stories. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 7-232 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
George Saxon, upon coming into a fortune, aims to be an author. He buys manuscripts from impecunious geniuses and brings them out over his own name. His books cover many subjects and betoken a catholic intellect and an unprecedented capacity for work. The extent of his reputation is the subject of the first story. The "others" are entitled The artist; The bronze caster; Exlex; A noble German; The troubles of Johann Eckert; The plot of his story; On Bear Creek; The captain's wife; Sam Jackson's snake, and Francke and party.
- Rosboro, Viola. Old ways and new; stories. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '89-'92. 5+216 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
Ten short stories in which humor, pathos and keen satire blend harmoniously. "The clown and the missionary" meet as second-cabin passengers on an eastward-bound steamer from New York and before reaching England the clown's devoted love for his sister and his habit of reading the Bible have convinced the missionary that he will make a much-needed assistant in Chinese mission work. The other stories are: Bentley's system; A jest of fate; The last Marchbanks; The reign of reason; Nannie's career; The force of example; Rudolph; The village alien, and The girl and the problem.

Smith, Mrs. Eliz. T. T., [formerly L. T.

Meade.] The medicine lady. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] 5+426 p. D. cl., $1.

Cecilia Harvey entered St. Christopher's Hospital, London, in 1870, as a nurse on probation. During an operation she faints and almost causes the death of the little four-year-old patient. She is dismissed and returns to her aunt's home, where she is not wanted. A short time after she marries the doctor who dismissed her from hospital work, and for several years is perfectly happy. Her husband is killed by an accident and bequeaths her a secret and papers relating to an inoculating virus to cure consumption. He charges her not to use this, but she does and effects several wonderful cures. The end is a tragedy, led up to by some strong scenes.

*Texas. Court of appeals. Condensed reports of decisions in civil causes, commencing with the Tyler term of 1889, and ending with the Austin term of 1892; compiled by S. A. Willson. V. 4. St. Louis, Mo., The Gilbert Book Co., 1892. c. 17-606 p. O. shp., $3.

Theodoli, Lily, (Marchesa). Under pressure: scenes from Roman life. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 4+307 p. D. (Macmillan's dollar novel ser.) cl., $1.

This heart-history of two young Roman noblewomen was enacted about twenty-five years back, immediately after the battles between Church and State that led to the unification of Italy. They are the daughters of a Princess of the old school who designs them both for convent life. The eldest receives a brilliant offer of marriage and is allowed to accept it. Her lover loses fortune and the Princess-mother again wishes to make her a nun. But Lavinia shows her new independence gained under her liberal lover's influence and defies her mother. Her devoted sister aids and abets her, and when she sees her darling sister happy becomes herself "a bride of the church."

Thompson, A. C. Our birthdays toward sunset: seventy-one to one hundred. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 5+271 p. D. cl., $1.

Rev. A. C. Thompson is senior pastor of the First Congregational Church, Roxbury, Mass. He has recently celebrated his eightieth birthday and the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. He has here collected the letters which he has addressed as birthday greetings to friends between the ages of seventy-one and eighty-four. He tells illustrative anecdotes of over three hundred famous people who outlived the three-score years and ten and accomplished telling work after that period of life. An index to the names of these celebrities is given.

Thomson, Ja. Seasons. In 4 v. V. 1, Spring; v. 2, Summer; v. 3, Autumn; v. 4, Winter. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 5-95; 5-127; 5-105; 5-92 p. il. S. silk, $4.

A new illustrated dainty four-volume edition; each book is bound in a different shade of silk, and stamped in gold. The illustrations are appropriate to the poem, and are mostly set into the text.

*Throop, Montgomery. The New York justices' manual; cont. all the laws of the state relating to the official tenure and duties of a justice of the peace, and the proceedings in civil cases before him, in force on the 1st of Sept., 1892; with explanatory notes and an appendix of forms. 13th ed. *Timperley, W. H. Bush luck: an Australian story. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 256 p. il. 8°, cl., $1.75.

Tolstol, Count Alexis. Prince Serebryani: an historical novel of the times of Ivan the Terrible and of the conquest of Siberia; from the Russian, by Jeremiah Curtin. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. c. 35+490 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Sovereign power in Russia reached its climax in the reign of Ivan the Terrible, in the sixteenth century. Tolstol has made an exhaustive study of the historical data of that age, and has woven the material at his command into a picture of the life and times of this cruel tyrant, which is accurate enough to be of lasting service to the student of Russian history. Believing, like the good Russians of his time, that "the Tsar's will is God's will," Prince Serebryani is torn between his loyalty to his sovereign and the inborn instincts of his chivalrous nature. There is pathetic interest in his fatal love for the fair Selena. Admirably translated, with instructive introductory sketch, by Mr. Curtin.

Treanor, Rev. T. Stanley. Heroes of the Goodwin Sands. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 255 p. il. 8°, cl., $1.75.

Walker, M. D. Domestic guide to the use of Dr. Schüssler's new remedies; the more common diseases and their treatment. Chic., Ackermann & Eyler, 86 Fifth ave., 1892. 5+88 p. 8°, cl., 75 c.

Warren, Mortimer A. Almost fourteen: a book designed as a gift from parents to their sons and daughters after those sons and daughters have passed the age of seven, and before they reach the age of fourteen. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. c. 5+154 p. S. cl., $1.50.

Contents: The physical changes in our lives; Modesty dawns in childhood; Modesty as between the sexes; The sexual instinct; The two great mysteries: The urinary organs; Pure and sacred to myself; The new power which comes to us in youth; Sex in nature; Marriage is reciprocity; Home is the place where we share; Marriage is the bond of the home, the home is the foundation of the state.

Weatherley, F. E., [and others.] Daisy chain: a wreath of golden stories for little people; il. in col. and photogravure by Lizzie Mack, M. Ellen Edwards, and others. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., 1892. unnp. Q. bds., $1.25.

Contains twelve full-page colored plates and many small pictures in text.

Weber, Alice. An affair of honor; il. by Emily J. Harding. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1898 [1892.] 4+117 p. O. cl., $1.50.

The Morays, of Moray Moss, were very proud of their noble descent and old family name. This trait led Douglas Moray, whose duties as a soldier forced him to confide his little sister to her grandmother's guardianship, to impress on Mrs. Bally the necessity of Alicia's remembering her name. The child overheard the injunction, and thought it related to her Christian name, which signified noble. This fancy so impresses the little heroine that she strives to live up to it. The incidents which follow this resolve lead to an episode in which the Pilgrim's progress, Robin and Mr. Despair are important factors. The scene is English.

Whitman, Walt. Autobiographia, or, the story of a life: selected from his prose writings. N. Y., C. L. Webster & Co., 1892. c. '75-92. 5-205 p. il. D. (Fiction, fact and fancy ser.) cl., 75 c.

Shortly before his death Mr. Whitman gave his consent to have an eclectic volume prepared from his poems, and also to have a volume of autobiography selected from his prose works. "Specimen days" forms the basis of the book, and the compiler has added in their proper order passages from "November boughs," "Good-by, my fancy" and "Memoranda during the war." Mr. Harrison S. Morris has assisted in the preparation of this autobiography. Some connecting links are supplied from the "Notes" of John Burroughs.

Wiggin, Mrs. Kate Douglas. Children's rights: a book of nursery logic. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 3+235 p. D. cl., $1.

Ten chapters upon the duties of parents and teachers to children; The rights of the child; Children's plays; Children's playthings; What shall children read? The relation of the kindergarten to social reform; The relation of the kindergarten to the public school, and Other people's children are by Mrs. Wiggin. How shall we govern our children? and The magic of "together" are by Nora A. Smith, Mrs. Wiggin's sister, who was her collaborateur in "The story hour." Contains many home truths made palatable by Mrs. Wiggin's unfailing humor.

Wilbur, Mrs. R. M. Floy's reward. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1892. 256 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Wilson, Olivia L. At the sign of the White Swan: a tale of old Pennsylvania; [il. by Copeland.] Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] c. 5-240 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

In 1840 the inhabitants of Fayette County, Pennsylvania, were startled by a series of daring mail robberies, which were finally traced to a Dr. Bradder, a well-known "quack." Under different names and with a change of locality, these facts are woven into a thrilling story for boys and girls, the leading episode occurring at "the sign of the White Swan," a rechristening of the National Hotel, the real name of the tavern celebrated in the records of the facts.

Wister, Owen. The dragon of Wantley, his rise, his voracity, and his downfall: a romance; il. by J. Stewardson. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 5-149 p. il. O. cl., $2.

Owen Wister offers a new version of the old ballad of "The dragon of Wantley," whose dainty humor will amuse old and young. His "dragon" masquerades as a monk and lives with his followers in an old monastery, where secret carousals are held upon the good things stolen from the neighboring towns. The slaying of the dragon—known in the romance as Francis Almolgn, Knight of the Voracious Stomach and Grand Marshal of the Guild of Go-as-You-Please—is an amusing burlesque upon the old tales of knightly deeds and the days of chivalry. The illustrations fit well into the humor of the text; they are in full pages and in chapter headings, and also woven in with the reading-matter.

Wright, J.; D.D. Early Bibles of America. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. c. 5+171 p. D. cl., net, $1.50.

America must be understood to be that part of America which is now the United States. The versions or editions were, in most cases, associated with certain translators or publishers, and the accounts are not only bibliographic, but to some extent biographic. The Bibles described are known as the Eliot Bible; Saur Bible; Altken Bible; First Douay Version; Thomas' Bible; Collins' Bible; First Translation from the Septuagint; First Translation from the Peshito Syriac Version; and there are also chapters on curious versions, early editions of the Greek Testament, and on various editions. Three appendices give the dedication in the Eliot New Testament of 1661; dedication in the Eliot Bible of 1663, and the dedication to Hon. Robert Boyle in the Eliot Bible of 1665. The book contains fac-similes of title-pages of several of the Bibles. The writer is rector of St. Paul's Church, St. Paul, Minn.

Wright, Theo. F. The human and its relation to the divine. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 271 p. D. cl., $1.

"The author has endeavored to solve, by means within the reach of all, the problems which present themselves to him who seeks to know man and his relation to God, hoping thus to be of some use in resisting the tendency of studious minds to cast off faith, and in leading them to build on firm foundations houses which shall be both sanctuaries and fortresses. The word of God is frequently referred to, but undogmatically, and many writers are cited."—Preface.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Ladies' Companion is the name of a new magazine to be published in New Orleans, La.

The College Fraternity is the title of a new monthly magazine published in the interest of the American college fraternity system, of which the first number has just been issued by the Fraternity Publishing Co., 171 Broadway, N. Y.

The United States Investor, of Boston, offers $1000 in prizes for essays of not more than one column each respecting American cities and towns. The prizes will be subdivided as follows: For the best essay respecting any American city or town, $500; for the second best essay respecting any American city or town, $300; for the third best essay respecting any American city or town, $200.

The Ladies' Home Journal, with its usual foresight and good luck, has secured a novel of William Dean Howells to be called "The Coast of Bohemia," of which this calm novelist declares "it is the prettiest thing I have ever done;" and also has made arrangements for an entertaining narration by Miss Mamie Dickens, the great novelist's favorite daughter, to be entitled "My Father as I Recall Him."

A NEW monthly periodical for the home has just appeared under the self-descriptive name of The Whole Family. It is four columns wide and illustrated. Its prospectus promises to provide suitable and palatable mental food for all the members of a family from grandfather to youngest toddler. It is to be inexpensive and to help families of limited means to get all they need in one newspaper. The new paper is published by the Russell Publishing Company, Boston. It is to be edited by Edward Breck.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 15, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PUBLISHERS' INVESTMENTS.

THE suit brought by Estes & Lauriat against General Butler for an alleged breach of contract has led to some interesting bits of information in regard to the great pecuniary risks run by publishers in attempting to make marketable the products of the author's brain. General Butler, it will be remembered, withdrew his book from the C. F. Jewett Publishing Company (in which Estes & Lauriat are interested), after they had already begun work upon the manuscript, and transferred its publication to A. M. Thayer & Co. The latter claim to have printed 50,000 copies and to have lost $10,000, although 32,000 copies of the book have already been disposed of. Among the witnesses who gave testimony regarding the intrinsic value of books and the average profits of publishers were Mr. H. O. Houghton, of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and Mr. Knight, of the Methodist Book Concern. Mr. Houghton declared that nine-tenths of the books published through the ordinary channels of the trade do not realize profits to the publishers; while "books published by subscription have a greater sale than books disposed of to the trade." He thought Butler's book would not sell among distinctively literary people, but rather among those who knew him personally, and that his own firm would have hesitated about publishing Butler's book if he had come to them in the beginning about it. The books of well-known authors, of course, his firm rarely hesitated about publishing.

Mr. Knight testified that it was the ability of the canvassers and the amount of pushing given by the publishers rather than the fame of the author which regulated the number of copies a book would sell. He said his establishment often sold large editions of books whose authors were unknown. "We keep a book carpenter," he said, "whose business it is to get up books on subjects we select." On the other hand well-known names are used to advantage in "booming" forthcoming books. In this connection he mentioned that his firm had made arrangements to publish a book to be called "Columbus and Columbia," for which James G. Blaine was to write an article of 11,000 words, for which he would receive $5,000. Mr. Knight also recalled the fact that the Scribners had paid Stanley $40,000 for the manuscript of "In Darkest Africa" before the book was written, and ventured the statement that neither Logan's nor McClellan's subscription-books could be called successes, though some money had been made out of the latter.

One fact seems once more made clear by the testimony of two such competent witnesses, that the publishing business is after all more or less of a lottery, with constantly changing combinations of name, fame, literary value, timeliness of subject, state of business, localities for sale, etc.

Another fact this evidence should not fail to impress is the necessity that the bookseller should bring his ability to sell books at least up to the level, if not beyond, that of the canvasser, and that sales should be worked up for books in the regular trade as persistently as they are in the subscription-book business. The bookseller must realize that to sell a book he must supplement his natural ability to sell goods with a sufficient knowledge of what he is selling, and a "judgment" of the class of people for which his wares are suited. In other words, he must have a fair knowledge of his constituency and of his stock, as well as the ability to sell. Some subscription-book houses employ experts at a fancy salary to give their canvassers "points" and a full course of instruction in selling their books. What are booksellers doing in this direction? It is a subject worth thinking about, especially at this season.

THE INTERNATIONAL LITERARY AND ARTISTIC CONGRESS, held at Milan, finished its session September 24. The Italian Minister of Instruction thanked the delegates in the name of the Government for the useful work they had accomplished, and expressed special recognition of the sentiments of peace and fraternity to which the foreign delegates had given utterance. Among the resolutions arrived at is the important one that the country in which a work is first published shall be regarded as the country of origin, but that, in case of simultaneous publication in more than one country, that country which grants the shortest period for the protection of the rights of authors is to be considered the country of origin. Another resolution was adopted for the suppression of a rule which imposes upon the complainant in an action for the infringement of copyright the necessity of depositing in court the costs of the action. The conversion of a play into a novel, or vice versa, was declared to be an illegal appropriation. The establishment at Berne of an International Statistical Bureau for the registration of the works of authors, together with the date of their publication, was approved; and the arrangement arrived at for the settlement of relations between authors and publishers was likewise sanctioned.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

NEWSDEALERS' AND BOOKSELLERS' NATIONAL ASSOCIATION CONVENTION.

THE tenth annual convention of the Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association opened in the Philopatrian Hall, Twelfth and Locust Streets, Philadelphia, at about one o'clock in the afternoon of the 11th inst. The members were called to order by President Philip J. Henzel, of Albany, N. Y. The credentials of the visiting members were examined and informal talk indulged in. Owing to the tardiness of delegates from distant points in arriving it was decided to adjourn for a drive through Fairmount Park. In the evening the delegates viewed the Catholic Columbian parade in Broad Street from seats reserved for them.

On the morning of the 12th the association settled down to business, Mr. Henzel in the chair. The Executive Committee submitted its annual report. It stated that the Northwestern Newsdealers' and Booksellers' Association had agreed to join the National Association, and had sent two delegates to the convention. A warm discussion was precipitated when J. J. Brennan, representing the New York Newsdealers' Union and Benevolent Association, questioned the right of B. F. Gordon to a vote as the representative of the East Side Newsdealers' Association, No. 2, which, he asserted, was "a mushroom organization." The matter was finally referred to the Executive Committee, with instructions to report in thirty days.

Resolutions were adopted condemning club and combination subscription rates; bringing the postal laws to the attention of Congress; ordering the issuance of a souvenir journal; recommending the licensing of all persons engaged in the sale of newspapers and periodicals, at a minimum fee of $5, to be paid to the authorities, in order to prevent hawking on the streets without a license; recommending the maintenance of the regular retail price on all publications; deciding to publish a list of dry-goods stores which sell periodicals at cut prices; instructing the Executive Committee to endeavor to arrange with the American News Company for a more uniform delivery, and for diminished freight charges. A letter was read from Josiah W. Leeds, of Philadelphia, asking for the abolishing of the sale of all dime novels and sensational literature. This resolution was first laid upon the table and afterward referred to a committee.

It was decided to select a secretary in all large cities to correspond with the National Association. A proposition to give 50 per cent. discount on all periodicals, except those less than two years old, and to discontinue the return privilege on all publications except these, was referred to the Executive Committee. A resolution of respect to the memory of John R. Suter, of Brooklyn, was adopted.

The convention also adopted a resolution that the association accept no aid, pecuniary or otherwise, from the American News Company. Messrs. Brennan, McKiernan, Winnemore, Lunt and Clendennin were appointed a committee to draft a constitution for the National Association.

The election resulted in the choice of the following officers: President, Charles B. Swift, Philadelphia; First Vice-President, William H. McKiernan, New York; Second Vice-President, Miss E. Denroche, Friendship, N. J.; Corresponding Secretary, Thomas J. Kernan, Pittsfield, Mass.; Recording Secretary, J. F. J. Reilly; Financial Secretary, J. M. Shawcross; Treasurer, F. J. Salisbury—all of Providence, R. I.; Executive Committee, E. C. Rahine, Philadelphia; James Brennan, New York; T. J. Lunt, Brooklyn; M. Nusbaum, Norfolk, and P. J. Henzel, Albany; Sergeant-at-Arms, Charles W. Wildermuth, Pottsville, Penn.

After voting that the next convention take place in Chicago, in the rooms of the Papyrus Club, September 19, 20 and 21, 1893, the meeting adjourned. In the evening the association had a banquet at the Hotel Vendig. The session being a day shorter than expected, the delegates devoted the 13th to pleasure, taking a trip on the Delaware.

PUBLISHERS' CONTRIBUTION TO THE N. Y. COLUMBIAN LOAN PICTURES.

A COLLECTION of paintings, drawings and pieces of sculpture has been put together by noted amateurs and artists to attract the strangers who are spending the Columbian festival week in New York City. About three or four hundred works of art have been gathered in the National Academy of Design. The corridor of the building contains everything having direct or remote reference to Columbus and to this part of the exhibit the New York publishers have made some specially pretty and quite valuable contributions. D. Appleton & Co. have offered the original drawings by Miss Allegra Eggleston for her sister's forthcoming book, "The Story of Columbus." These drawings are signed and framed and include portraits of the navigator in black and white, reproductions of paintings having Columbus as the hero, and other pictures in crayon or water-color referring to him or to the Spanish discovery. The Century Company sends interesting water-colors of views of the World's Fair buildings in different stages of erection, taken recently by W. T. Smedley and others, and also drawings in ink by Gibson and Birch; and Mr. Lewis Frazer of that firm adds a number of drawings by clever workmen from his private collection. Harper & Brothers exhibit a number of charming drawings by E. A. Abbey, from "The Tempest" and other plays of Shakespeare. In spite of the collection having been very hastily brought together, it must be said in fairness to be a very pleasing one. ●

THE ENGLISH PRESS ON AMERICAN LITERATURE.

The London Academy has been delivering the following uncommonly just and sensible remarks concerning American literature: "It is an old charge against America," it says, "that she had no literature of her own, but supplied her mental needs from England, either at first hand or by imitation. Some few critics try to maintain it still, but it has lost the force it once had. Even then, however, it was an unworthy charge, for the time for a national literature had not arrived. A nation in the making cannot be expected to have a literature of its own. Government must become settled, and commerce must be sufficiently organized to yield the necessities of living first of all. As soon as these things seem fairly secured in America, literature did begin to spring up. But there came an unexpected check. The settlement of the nation proved to have been more apparent than real. Agitation arose so violent as almost to break the nation to pieces. Thus it was that men of letters found their interest divided between building up literature and helping to save the state. In the long run American literature will be all the better because her pioneers were good citizens as well as scholars."

The Author (of London) says that it seems natural that as the American nation "advances in culture it should provide its own literature for itself; and as there are few who would now be so daring as to deny the best English culture to the best-bred American, it is still more natural that America should endeavor to be sufficient for itself in matters of modern literature."

A. R. SPOFFORD ON INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

MR. SPOFFORD upon his return from Europe last week, in conversation with a newspaper reporter, said that "the developments of the new international copyright system are not yet sufficiently advanced to show any radical change in the literary production of Europe and America, such as expected to follow the new law. The most numerous entries for copyright thus far have been musical compositions and works of art. Great numbers of the products of foreign arts are now thus protected in this country, and the number of compositions covered by the copyright is becoming increasingly large. A good many translations of French and German books, chiefly novels, have been entered, and a very considerable increase to the copyright business has ensued. Many publishers are bringing out not only English works, but those of French and German authors in translations, and the employment thus given to American translators is very considerable."

BUYING A BOOK.

Tom Hall, in "Capital Chaps."

THE time was afternoon.

The characters were a young lady and a clerk.

The scene was a bookstore.

The heard was as follows:

Young Lady (rushing in): I wish to get a novel.

Clerk (calmly): Yes, miss, will you be good enough to tell me what novel you wish?

Young Lady: Oh, really, I'm sure I don't know. I haven't read anything for so long that I'm quite uninformed. Let me see, a lady friend of mine told me of a book I ought to read, but I can't think of the name of it. And then a day or two ago I heard of a book I wanted to read, but I've forgotten that too.

Clerk (sympathetically): Too bad, I'm sure. If you would permit me to make a suggestion, why not take a copy of Ibsen's "Doll's House"? That is the rage just at the present time, you know.

Young Lady: Dear me, no! I put away my dolls two or three years ago. (Surprised and delighted.) How could you think me so young?

Clerk (meaningly): Oh, that was very evident, I thought. Have you read "Perdita's Wrong"?

Young Lady (blushing): No, I think I would hardly dare to read that.

Clerk: "Wooded, Won and Wed"—do you think that would suit you?

Young Lady (doubtfully): No.

Clerk: "Matilda's Mistake" is an intensely exciting novel.

Young Lady: Well, I will not take it then. You see I am going on a railroad journey of some hours, and if I become too deeply interested I may be carried beyond my station.

Clerk (distractedly): Well, here is "Emily's Error," which is said to be but moderately interesting. How would that suit?

Young Lady: Oh, if I bought a dull novel I would go to sleep in the train, and run the same risk of being carried beyond my station.

Clerk (desperately): Can't you make a suggestion as to what you would like yourself? I find it a little difficult to hit off your tastes exactly.

Young Lady: The only thing I can think of is that I would like a book with a dark-blue cover, so that it would match my travelling dress.

Clerk (brightly): I have it. Now if you will trust my judgment I will wrap you up a book with just such a cover which will be precisely what you want.

Young Lady: Oh, will you? You are awfully kind. (After a stage wait.) A dollar and a half. Here it is—all except five cents. Dear me! how careless I am. I will pay you the five cents the next time I come in. Good day. (She retires.)

Clerk: Now that's what I call a good sale. I get the five-dollar prize for selling the first copy of "Madam Becalmtree's Cream Cook-Book," and please the young lady by selling her a book with a dark-blue cover, not too interesting, eminently proper, and yet which will not put her to sleep, as she will not read it at all. I am really beginning to appreciate my own abilities.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

W. E. NORRIS has been writing a new novel which is to be published under the title of "His Grace."

A CLERGYMAN, the Rev. Charles A. Adams, has written a book on the future life of animals. It is to be called "Where Is My Dog?"

CHRISTIE MURRAY is at present writing a new novel, to which he has given the title of "A Rising Star." We understand the story deals with the stage.

AUSTIN DOBSON's new volume will be named "The Ballad of Beau Brocade, and other poems." It will be illustrated with fifty drawings by Hugh Thomson.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY's (the elder) new novel is entitled "The Dictator." The scene is laid partly in "Gloria," an imaginary South American republic, and partly in London.

HARRIET MONROE, the young lady to whom was entrusted the task of writing the Columbian Ode, is about to publish a book of verse. Its title is to be "Valeria, and Other Poems."

PRESIDENT CARNOT has bestowed the Cross of the Legion of Honor on Henry Harris, an American living in Paris. Mr. Harris is the author of several works on the life, discoveries and times of Columbus.

HALL CAINE proposes to publish next year a novel dealing with the position of the Jew in Europe at the end of this century. In the preparation of this book he has had the help of the distinguished Austrian novelist, Karl Emil Franzos, himself a Jew.

THE publication of Queen Natalie's memoirs in London, which were delayed owing to the hesitation of the publisher as to her revelations about ex-King Milan, will shortly be resumed, as on a recent visit to London Queen Natalia allayed the fears of the publisher.

STANLEY LANE-POOLE has himself drawn a plan showing the positions of the principal mosques and the plan of the city, for his forthcoming work on "Cairo: sketches of its history, monuments and social life," as he found there was no authentic map of the city giving the information he wished for.

PRACTICAL NOTES.

FINGER-MARKS, commonly called "thumb-marks," are the most difficult to erase, the dirt being generally of a greasy nature, and forced into the fibres of the paper. Make a jelly of white or curd soap, apply to the stain, and leave it on for some time, then wash away gently by means of a soft brush while the leaf is in cold water; this will, as a rule, take all, or nearly all, away; a slight rinsing in very weak acid water, again with cold water, and when dry size.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just ready George Manville Fenn's new book for boys entitled "The Rajah of Dah." He will issue at once "Miss Pringle's Pearls," a story for girls, by Mrs. G. Linnaeus Banks.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish at once a new Moltke volume which will contain the field marshal's letter to his father, a novel, or rather an attempt at a novel, his views of Turkey, and a number of drawings.

EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING HOUSE, N. Y., have in press "Modern Dances," by George E. Wilson, a new exposition containing full, clear and practical instructive diagrams of marches, quadrilles, waltzes, polkas, etc., etc., quite up to date as regards its information.

THE biography of A. Bronson Alcott, which F. B. Sanborn and William T. Harris have prepared, will contain a monograph of some seventy or more pages, written by Emerson, who had in mind its publication as part of whatever authorized biography might be written.

LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY announce that they have made a reduction in the price of their editions of Alexandre Dumas' "Count of Monte Cristo." The edition in two volumes and the edition in four volumes are both reduced one dollar. Discounts will remain the same.

CLIFTON JOHNSON, manager of the Picturesque Publishing Company, Springfield, Mass., has contracted with D. Appleton & Co. to aid them in getting out a new edition of "Picturesque America." Mr. Johnson will resume his management of the Picturesque Publishing Company next spring.

HUBBARD BROTHERS have sued Charles L. Webster & Co. for $25,000 damages. The plaintiffs allege that the defendants circulated false, malicious and defamatory statements about the life of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, written by W. Fletcher Adams Johnson, and published by Hubbard Brothers.

"THE AMERICAN DICTIONARY OF PRINTING AND BOOKMAKING," published quarterly as a premium to advance subscribers of The American Bookmaker, has reached the seventh part and covers the alphabet to the word "Letter." We can add nothing to the unqualified praise we have already bestowed upon this handsome work.

THE AMERICAN CITIZEN CO., Boston, has issued "The Assassination of Lincoln," written by members of the military commission who tried the conspirators. Many intensely interesting facts hitherto unknown to the general public are brought to light in this volume. The book is edited by Gen. T. M. Harris, is illustrated, and covers about 500 pages octavo.

THE CYCLOPEDIA PUBLISHING CO., 822 Broadway, N. Y., have in hand "The Cyclopaedia of American Biography," a subscription work in five octavo volumes, to be edited by James R. Gilmore (Edmund Kirke). It promises to include all persons who have risen to distinction at any period of American history, soldiers, statesmen, authors, clergymen, lawyers, etc. The biographies will be full enough to include all salient features of their careers.

GINN & COMPANY have in preparation an English edition of "The Spectrum Analysis of Stars," from the German of Dr. J. Scheiner, Astronomer to the Royal Astrophysical Observatory at Potsdam. The translation is by Professor Edwin B. Frost, of Dartmouth College, who has revised and enlarged the original to include the advance of the subject up to date. The fine wood-cuts and lithographed plates of spectra in the original will be reproduced and the extensive tables and bibliography will be enlarged and brought up to date.

MR. E. D. NORTH, of Charles Scribner's Sons, compiler of a valuable bibliography of Charles Lamb, has compiled for the Putnam's Knickerbocker Nuggets a volume of "Wit and Wisdom of Charles Lamb," comprising selections from Lamb's letters and essays, together with anecdotes by his friends, culled from various sources. The book will contain a portrait from a drawing by Hancock in 1798 in the possession of Mr. Cottle. Besides the regular edition there will be one hundred and fifty copies printed on large paper, with proof of the portrait. These will be bound in plain cloth, with uncut edges.

MACMILLAN & CO. announce a new play by Henry Arthur Jones, with an introduction by William Archer, the well-known dramatic critic, of which the title is not yet made public; "The Reminiscences of Charles Santley," embodying the recollections of the famous baritone in his successful Italian opera engagements in many large cities here and in Europe; "Round London, Down East and Up West," a new book by Montague Williams; and "An Old Woman's Outlook," in which Miss Charlotte M. Yonge will describe, in a chatty way, the out-door life of England that she has lived for so many years.

CURIOSITY runs high even in Boston to know what author is hidden under the pseudonym "Robert Appleton," which appears on the title-page of a book soon to be issued by Morrill, Higgins & Co., under the title of "Mrs. Harry St. John." It is said to slaughter many Boston society idols. These publishers have also ready "The Devil's Gold," the story of a forgotten race, by Oscar F. G. Day; "Fencing with Shadows," a story of American life, by Mrs. Hattie Tyng Griswold; "The Evil Eye," by Théophile Gautier, and "The Schwarzbach Inn," by Guy de Maupassant, the two stories forming a volume in their Idylwild Series.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A CALCUTTA bookseller was recently fined 201 rupees for selling "The Theory and Practice of Neo-Malthusianism."

SMITH, ELDER & CO. have in press a new volume of essays by Mr. Leslie Stephen, to be entitled "An Agnostic's Apology."

A CURIOUS volume on "Dancing as an Art and Pastime" is announced in London. Its author is Edward Scott and it is to have forty illustrations from life.

LAWRENCE & BULLEN, London, have just ready a volume of reminiscences by Mr. W. J. Linton, under the title of "European Republicans: recollections of Mazzini and his friends."

THE highest price ever paid in France for the serial rights of a novel has just been given to M. Zola for those rights in his new story, "Docteur Pascal." The sum amounts to $7000, or about 31 cents a line.

THE books which will first be published by the Irish Publishing Company, founded recently by Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, will consist mainly of biographies and sketches of Irish historical personages. The publishing arrangements are expected to be completed early next year.

CHAPMAN & HALL, according to the London Bookman, "have sold 643,000 copies of the 'Pickwick Papers' since Charles Dickens' death. This is exclusive of the large number of editions issued by other publishers. The profits on his works are said to amount to something like £8000 a year."

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON & Co. have just issued "Frederick Chopin: a biography," by C. Willeby. The aim of the book is to give "a true, concise and unexaggerated account of the Raphael of the piano, as Helne called him, as well as to point out some of the most characteristic features of his work as a musician."

A REMARKABLE case of plagiarism has recently come to light in Hungary. It seems that a textbook on logic published by a Professor of Philosophy of the University of Pesth had been stolen bodily from the German works of Wundt and von Oettingen. To make matters worse, the Hungarian Academy of Sciences has "crowned" the treatise and elected the pseudo-author a member of the academy.

EYRE & SPOTTISWOODE will publish this month a reproduction in type of the "Book of Common Prayer," which was annexed, as the authoritative record, to the Act of 1662. The text has been reproduced verbatim et literatim, and wherever an erasure or correction occurs in the MS., the passage is printed as it was finally left. The same publishers issued a fac-simile of the entire MS. last year.

GEORGE ALLEN (Ruskin's publisher) will publish in November an early prose work by Mr. Ruskin, "The Poetry of Architecture," comprising articles supplied to London's Magazine in 1837-9, reprinted for the first time in book form, and illustrated with fifteen full-page plates from unpublished drawings by the author, besides several new wood-cuts. An edition, limited to three hundred copies, will be issued on Arnold's unbleached hand-made paper, with India proofs of the plates.

DAVID PATRICK, the editor of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," is, on the approaching completion of his labors, being presented by his colleagues with a set of albums containing photographs of the writers of the signed articles. Nearly two hundred photographs have at present been sent in response to a circular, and at least as many more are expected. Should any contributor inadvertently not have received that circular, he is requested to forward his photograph to Mr. J. R. Pairman, 339 High Street, Edinburgh.

MR. I. ZANGWILL'S "Children of the Ghetto" will be published shortly by W. Heinemann, of London. The story, which is of a realistic nature, deals with phases of Jewish life in London, and is divided into two books—"Children of the Ghetto" and "Grandchildren of the Ghetto," treating of the East-End Jew and the West-End Jew respectively. An American edition will be published simultaneously, and a copy will be presented by the Jewish Publication Society of America to each of its 4000 members as a New Year's gift.

VINTON & Co., London, will issue for Mr. Walter Gilbey an "Index of Engravings, with the names of the artists in the Sporting Magazine from the year 1792 to 1870." The index proper is preceded by engravings from the original of the frontispiece to the first part, and also of the title-page to volume I., followed by a history of the magazine by the well-known writer on sporting subjects, the Hon. Francis Lawley. The volume, which is to be issued shortly, will form an interesting souvenir of the one hundredth anniversary of the first publication, which took place in October, 1792.

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co. will publish at once a new book of a somewhat unusual character. It is a poem of thirty-six stanzas by Mr. George Meredith, entitled "Jump to Glory Jane," each verse of which will have a separate drawing, the text, moreover, being designed also by the artist, so that at each opening—excepting where the eight full-page plates appear—the illustrations and letter-press will form, so to speak, a single composition. A critical essay on Meredith by Mr. Harry Quilter will preface the poem, which is being printed at the Chiswick Press. Macmillan & Co. will handle the book in this country.

A NEW edition of Fairbairn's "Book of Crests" has just been published by Messrs. Jack, of London and Edinburgh. The original edition was published thirty-four years ago. The materials have now increased to such an extent that the work will be much more comprehensive than was originally intended. It will contain half as many more engravings as the old edition, and the index of surnames is so elaborated and extended as to make practically a new book. The blazoning of the crests is a special feature of the new edition. The work will be in two volumes, Vol. I. consisting of the text, and Vol. II. of 230 large plates of crests.

"It will be gratifying," remarks the Athenæum "to Mr. Besant and the Society of Authors to know that there is one country where the value of literary property is highly appreciated, and that is Turkey. Some thieves broke into the house of Nighiah Hanum, daughter of Gen. Osman Pasha, at Constantinople, the most fashionable and popular Turkish poetess. They stole her jewels, and they stole what they considered to be more precious—her MSS., including a large finished poem, entitled 'Ephesus.' The thieves have been caught, but it is not stated what is the fate of 'Ephesus,' and whether they had sold the copyright to a Turkish publisher."

LUZAC & Co., London, have in preparation "Assyrian and Babylonian Letters Belonging to the K. Collection of the British Museum," by Dr. R. F. Harper; "Oriental Diplomacy: being the transliterated text of the cuneiform despatches between the kings of Egypt and Western Asia in the fifteenth century B.C., discovered at Tell el-Amarna," with vocabulary and notes by C. Bezold; "Suh-ki-li-ih-kiu, the Suhrillekha, or 'Friendly Letter,' written by Lung Shu (Nāgārjuna) and addressed to King Śādvāha," by S. Beal; "Useful Sanskrit Nouns and Verbs," by Ch. Johnston; "Buddhaghosa: a historical romance," by Prof. James Gray; "The Discovery of Secrets," attributed to Geber, in Arabic and English, by R. R. Steele, and "The Great Sea Serpent," by Dr. A. C. Oudemans.

PICK-UPS.

COULDN'T GET BY.

I TRIED to climb Parnassus high,
But gave up in despair;
For at the foot 'twas crowded by
The asses grazing there.

—John Kendrick Bangs, in Harper's Magazine.

"ARE you interested in Ibsen?" "No. I read the divorce reports in the newspapers."—Chicago News.

A GOOD REASON WHY.—"Do you ever shed real tears on the stage?" "Once in a while when I catch a glimpse of the author."—Town Topics.

Anglomaniac: Kipling will be read after every American author is forgotten. Plain American: Possibly; but isn't that a long time to wait?—Puck.

Satan: Who are you? Shade: A magazine poet! Satan: Front! . . . Take this man down in the magazine-room and blow him up.—Town Topics.

Snooper: A newspaper in New York has paid over $10,000 to the heirs of people found dead with copies of it on their persons. Sumway: Is it as fatal as that?—Town Topics.

DETERIORATING LITERATURE.—Assistant: Don't you think Spacer's work is deteriorating? Editor (putting a bundle in an envelope): It is certainly going back.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

LITERARY DEVELOPMENT OF CHICAGO.—Chicago has become so gosh-awful literary that nowadays when the magic name of Hawthorne is mentioned very many of us know instinctively that it is the revered Salem novelist and not the West-Side race-track that is referred to.—Chicago News Record.

ANOTHER TYPOGRAPHICAL BLUNDER.—"Laws a mussey," sighed old Miss Leftout, "here's another case of discrimination against us women folk." "What is it?" "This yere paper gives special terms to male subscribers. Ye can jest bet that sheet never gits this female subscription."—St. Joseph News.

SHE'LL RISK IT.—The General: "I've brought you a new book, Aunt Emily—by the new French Academician. I'm told it's very good—but I've not read it myself—and so I'm not quite sure it's quite—a—correct, you know." Aunt Emily: "My dear boy—I'm ninety-six, and I'll risk it."—Du Maurier in Harper's Monthly.

MENTAL ARITHMETIC.—Wife of young literary man: "Why, George, $50 for that magazine story? How long did it take you to write it?" Young husband (nonchalantly): "Oh, I don't know. A couple of days, I suppose." Wife (exultingly): "$25 a day. That's $150 a week and $600 a month. Twelve times $600 is nearly $7500 a year. Why, George, we can keep a carriage just as well as not."—Phila. Telegraph.

A WELL-KNOWN press clippings bureau recently addressed a letter to "Miss Jane Austen, care of Roberts Brothers," in which they offered to supply her with items about her books at five dollars per hundred. A short time ago another clippings bureau addressed a letter to Charles Dickens, in care of a well-known monthly journal, enclosing a clipping of a review of one of the new issues of his works, and an offer to supply further notices at a certain sum per hundred.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. ### THREE SUPERB EDITIONS.

Messrs. LOVELL, CORYELL & COMPANY take pleasure in announcing the early publication of the following beautiful editions of BARRIE's greatest literary achievement, "The Little Minister," and ANNA BOWMAN DODD's fascinating volume on the old historic province of Normandy, entitled "In and Out of Three Normandy Inns."

EDITION DE LUXE.

The Little Minister.

By JAMES MATTHEW BARRIE. In two vols., royal 8vo, $12.00 net.

Large paper, limited to 260 copies, signed and numbered. Printed on Van Gelder's hand-made Holland paper, especially imported for this edition, embellished with exquisite initial letters in blue and red, and illustrated with nine superb etchings and an etched frontispiece portrait of the author, printed on Imperial Japanese paper. A duplicate set of etchings, printed before letter and in bistre, are inserted in each set.

Nos. 1 to 5 are printed entirely on Imperial Japanese paper, with three sets of etchings, on vellum, in three colors.

KIRRIEMUIR EDITION.

The Little Minister.

By JAMES MATTHEW BARRIE. In two vols., post 8vo, gilt top, $6.00.

This beautiful edition, which has received its name from the birthplace of the famous novelist, has been carefully printed from new plates on laid paper made especially for the work. The volumes are tastefully bound in vellum and gold, and contain nine superb etchings and a frontispiece portrait of the author, all of which are printed on Van Gelder's hand-made Holland paper.

HOLIDAY EDITION.

Three Normandy Inns.

By ANNA BOWMAN DODD. In one vol., 8vo, full gilt, $5.00. Strictly limited to five hundred copies.

"An enticing volume."—Boston Literary World.

"It is rarely that so thoroughly delightful a bit of travel and study is encountered."—New York Tribune.

This is an exquisite setting for a most charming volume. The text of the edition is printed in blue-black ink on extra heavy super-finished paper, while the twenty-four full-page illustrations, by C. S. Reinhart and other artists, are printed separately on Imperial Japanese paper in six different tints. The superb binding of vellum and gold is preserved by a red slip cover in the Roman style. Altogether, this edition is one that will commend itself to the judgment of those who are lovers of the beautiful in the art of bookmaking.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

A NEW ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF PARKMAN'S "OREGON TRAIL."

The Oregon Trail. Sketches of Prairie and Rocky Mountain Life. By FRANCIS PARKMAN. With 77 pictures of Indian life by the celebrated artist, Frederic Remington. 8vo, decorated covers, $4.00.

This ever popular book for young and old describes a journey among the Indian camps and Rockies by the eminent historian in 1847. Its vivid descriptions of a condition of country and of Indian life now passed away are made still more fascinating by Mr. Remington's striking pictures of Indian settlements, camps, implements, buffalo hunts, trappers, etc.

A NEW BOOK FOR GIRLS BY NORA PERRY.

A Rosebud Garden of Girls. By NORA PERRY, author of "Another Flock of Girls," "Lyrics and Legends," etc. With 14 illustrations by F. C. Gordon. 12mo, cloth extra, $1.50.

CHARLES LEVER'S MILITARY ROMANCES.

Jack Hinton, the Guardsman. ("Our Mess," First Series.) With 15 full-page etchings and 20 illustrations in the text by "Phiz." 2 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $5.00.

Tom Burke of "Ours." ("Old Mess," Second Series.) With 14 full-page etchings and 30 illustrations in the text by "Phiz." 2 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, $5.00.

PREVIOUSLY ISSUED UNIFORM WITH THE ABOVE VOLUMES OF LEVER.

Harry Lorrequer. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $5.00.

Charles O'Malley. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $5.00.

Arthur O'Leary. 1 vol., crown 8vo, $2.50.

The above set of nine volumes, beautifully printed, with the characteristic Phiz and Cruikshank plates newly etched, affords, for the first time, a really choice Library Edition of Lever's five famous stories.

THE CAXTONS. The First Issue in a New and Beautiful Library Edition of Bulwer.

The Caxtons. A Family Picture. By EDWARD BULWER-LYTTON (Lord Lytton). With etched frontispiece by E. H. Garrett. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth extra, gilt top, $3.00.

The volumes are of handy size, yet possess clear and legible type and ample margins. The type used is new throughout. Send for full prospectus of Little, Brown & Co.'s new Library Edition.

Parkman's Half Century of Conflict. With 3 maps. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, $5.00.

This work takes up the narrative at the close of the author's "Count Frontenac and New France under Louis XIV.," filling the gap between that work and "Montcalm and Wolfe." It completes the series of historical narratives, "France and England in North America," the publication of which was begun in 1865.

NEW HOLIDAY GIFT-BOOKS.

Zenobia.

QUEEN OF PALMYRA. By WILLIAM WARE, author of "Aurelian," "Julian," etc. A new edition of this standard work set from new and large type and fully illustrated with half-tone plates from photographs taken in Palmyra, showing the ruins of that splendid civilization, which was at its zenith nearly two thousand years ago. 1 vol., crown 8vo, cloth, gilt ..... $2 50

Genoa, the Superb.

THE CITY OF COLUMBUS. By VIRGINIA W. JOHNSON, author of "The Lily of the Arno," etc. Uniform in style with "The Lily of the Arno," which met with such marked success last year. The approaching Columbian Exposition (World's Fair) at Chicago has awakened a great interest in all places associated with the life of Columbus, and this city, his birthplace, is not only interesting, from its historical associations, but is remarkable for the beauty of its parks, palaces and cathedrals of modern architecture. Genoa is at the present time the most prosperous city of Italy, and attractive alike to tourist and historian. Illustrated with photogravures. 1 vol., crown 8vo, vellum cloth, illuminated in gold and colors ..... $3 00

The Vicar of Wakefield. (Exquisite Series.) EDITION JOUAST.

By OLIVER GOLDSMITH. The most beautiful edition of this gem of English literature ever made. It is illustrated with dainty etchings by the great French artist, Ad. Lalauze, together with artistic head and tail pieces and initials. The page is small, with clear, new type, and is printed on fine laid paper. The binding is half genuine parchment and India silk. This edition is modelled from that issued in French by the Paris publisher, Jouast, whose reputation for artistic bookmaking is so great that he is known in Europe as the modern Elzevir. 2 vols., 16mo, parchment and silk binding ..... $3 50

Paul and Virginia. (Exquisite Series.) EDITION JOUAST.

By BERNARDIN DE SAINT-PIERRE. Precisely uniform in manufacture with the "Vicar of Wakefield" above described. The illustrations are by the celebrated French etcher, Laguillermie. The most artistic edition of this prose idyl ever made. 1 vol., 16mo, parchment and silk binding ..... $2 00

Also a new illustrated edition of that little classic

Captain January.

By LAURA E. RICHARDS. This charming idyl of New England coast life has already passed through fifteen editions in two years, and the demand is increasing as the story becomes more widely known. This is an entirely new edition in larger type, larger page and superbly illustrated with thirty half-tone pictures, from drawings by Frank T. Merrill. 1 vol., quarto, cloth, unique ..... $1 25

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish at once in their standard series of Good Books for Young Readers, "Along the Florida Reef," by C. F. Holder, a story of camping and fishing adventures in company with a naturalist in Florida. The author combines entertainment and instruction, and his book is filled with illustrations which will be prized by every young reader who has ever visited the seashore, or cares for information regarding fishes, shells, and the various forms of marine life.

ORANGE JUDD CO. will have ready by November 1 a fine Library edition of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," to be issued in commemoration of the publication and sale of 100,000 copies of the book that was the pioneer almost in the dialect stories that have become so popular. Mr. Eggleston has written an extended preface for his popular book which has been translated into many languages, explaining many points regarding the origin of the novel and its history to the present day. The edition will be finely printed and appropriately bound.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish early in November Lord Tennyson's new volume of poems uniform with their edition of his "Foresters." It is entitled "The Death of Enone, Akbar's Dream, and other poems," and the contents, with one exception, are quite new, including the lines entitled "The Silent Voices," which begin,

"When the dumb hour clothed in black Brings the dreams about my bed."

This the poet wrote and dedicated to his wife but a few days before his death, and at the funeral services in Westminster Abbey it was sung to music written by Lady Tennyson.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish immediately "Night Etchings," a book of poems by A. R. G.; "Handy Book of Literary Curiosities," by William S. Walsh, author of "Literary Life"; "My Flirtations," by Margaret Wynman, illustrated by J. Bernard Partridge, and "By Subtle Fragments Held," a novel by Mary Fletcher Stevens. They have also ready "The International Magazine Pocket Visiting List" for 1893, arranged for use of practitioners by Dr. J. C. Wilson; and a third edition of "Practical Pathology," a manual for students and practitioners, by Dr. J. Sims Woodhead, which has been revised and greatly enlarged.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "The Life of Michel-Angelo Buonarroti," by John Addington Symonds, in two volumes, with appendices and fifty handsome illustrations; an édition de luxe of "American Illustrators," by F. Hopkinson Smith, complete in five parts, containing fifteen plates printed in color on Japan paper, and one hundred sketches, portraits and drawings; "Afloat and Ashore on the Mediterranean," by Lee Meriwether, with illustrations from the author's kodak; "Boyhood in Norway," by H. H. Boyesen; and "The Little Dinner," by Christine Terhune Herrick, giving menus, recipes and helpful hints to young housewives. A new and cheaper edition of Boyesen's "Modern Vikings" is also ready.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready Anne Thackeray Ritchie's "Records of Tennyson, Ruskin, Browning," in which, quoting from "Præterita," she says, "I have written frankly, garrulously, and at ease, speaking of what gives me joy to remember at any length I like; sometimes very carefully of what I think may be useful for others to know, and passing over in total silence things which I have no pleasure in reviewing." The result is a delightful book, full of illustrations. Other volumes just issued are "The Ivory Gate," by Walter Besant, a new novel written for the purpose of raising his fellow-men, of which the scene is laid in London; "Children, Their Models and Critics," by Aurette Roys Aldrich, a book of hints to mothers and educators; and Thomas Knox's "Boy Travellers in Central Europe," this year's contribution to a series that increases in popularity every year.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Lewis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (Q. 4to; under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Allen, S. Ellsworth, M.D. The mastoid operation, including its history, anatomy and pathology. Cin., O., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1892. c. 6+111 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

"In the little monograph here presented to the profession the author does not lay any claim to originality. What knowledge he possesses was obtained at the fountain-head, namely, at the clinic of Professor Schwartz, and the results of this instruction, supplemented by considerable thought and anatomical work of his own, are here made public."—Preface.

Austen, Jane. Novels. In 10 v. [ed. by Reginald Brimley Johnson.] V. 5, 6, Mansfield Park. [N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892.] 2 v., 5+245; 3+249 p. il. S. cl., $2.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Sept. 10, '92, [1076.]

*Beach, C. Fisk, jr. The American probate reports: cont. recent cases of general value decided in the courts of the several states on points of probate law; with notes and references. V. 7. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1892. c. 23+665 p. O. shp., $5.50.

Bible. New Testament. The resultant Greek Testament: exhibiting the text in which the majority of modern editors are agreed, and containing the readings of Stephens (1550), Lachmann, Tregelles, Tischendorf and others, Westcott and Hort and the Revision committee; by R. Francis Weymouth; with an introd. by the Rev. J. Ja. Stewart Perowne, Bishop of Worcester. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. 23+648 p. D. cl., $3.

The main object of this edition of the Greek Testament is to enable the student to tell at a glance the different readings in the leading editions of the Testament. The editor has produced a text in which (roughly speaking) the majority of the authorities named agree. At the same time he has not merely counted names, but has weighed the reasons which may have influenced an editor in adopting any particular reading.

Boynton, G. M. The model Sunday-school: a handbook of principles and practices. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 175 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Discusses the organization of the Sunday-school and its various methods and relationships. There is something in the book for each worker—superintendent, pastor, teacher, librarian, secretary, chorister.

Brassey, Lady Annie. A voyage in the Sunbeam. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] 7+479 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Formerly published by Lee & Shepard under the title, "Around the world in the yacht Sunbeam." See "Weekly Record," P. W., June 22, 1878, [336.]

Buchanan, Rob. The heir of Linne. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 2-234 p. il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 78.) pap., 50 c.

Buckley, J. M. Faith-healing, Christian science and kindred phenomena. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '87-'92. 7+308 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Dreams, somnambulism, presentiments, spiritualism, apparitions, astrology, animal magnetism, witchcraft, mindcure, etc., are among the subjects treated. Dr. Buckley, who is the editor of the New York Christian Advocate, takes an eminently practical view of the psychological questions discussed, and has been to abundant pains to verify the many curious anecdotes with which the book abounds.

Buel, J. W. The border outlaws: an authentic history of the most noted bandits of ancient or modern times; the younger brothers, Jesse and Frank James, and their comrades in crime; comp. from reliable sources, and containing the latest facts in regard to these celebrated outlaws. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 4-268 p. pors. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 77.) pap., 25 c.

Bumpus, Hermon C. A laboratory course in invertebrate zoölogy. Providence, R. I., Preston & Rounds, 1892. c. 6+135 p. D. cl., net, $1.20.

For students who are pursuing a course of laboratory work in invertebrate zoölogy. An effort has been made to direct the work, without at the same time actually telling the student all that there is to be learned from the specimen. In the appendix a few words have been given regarding laboratory methods, etc.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson. Giovanni and the other: children who have made stories. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 7+193 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

A little Italian boy with a beautiful voice, who comforted Mrs. Burnett when she mourned for her dead son at San Remo, is the hero of the first story. It is slightly autobiographical, introducing the writer and her tender reminiscences of her lost boy. "The boy who became a Socialist" is a pleasant sketch of "Geoff," her second son. The other stories deal with children she has met all over the world—princes and peasants—and are full of a delightful humor.

*Chaplin, Stewart. Principles of the law of wills, with selected cases. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1892. c. 25+505 p. O. shp., $4.50.

Collodi, C. The story of a puppet; or, the adventures of Pinocchio; from the Italian by M. A. Murray; il. by C. Mazzanti. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 233 p. S. (The children's lib.) cl., 75 c.

Pinocchio, a wooden puppet, who grows to be a real boy, when he repents his evil ways and becomes a loving and obedient son, points a moral for naughty boys, with quaint Italian humor. Pinocchio's adventures after he runs away from home lead him into many strange scenes, in which fairies figure, and also insects and animals who can talk. Pinocchio's own transformations are very funny.

Cyr, Ellen M. The children's first reader. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 5+81 p. il. D. cl., 35 c.

Daudet, Alphonse. La belle Nivernaise: the story of an old boat and her crew; tr. [from the French] by Rob. Routledge; il. by Montégut. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. c. 2+232 p. S. (The children's lib.) cl., 75 c.

This pretty story of a Parisian walt, adopted through pity by the poor owners of La belle Nivernaise, an old barge carrying lumber, though not new, is offered in a new form. With its many illustrations and simple text it is quite adapted to children's reading.

Donnelly, Ignatius, ["Edmund Boisgilbert," pseud.] The golden bottle; or, the story of Ephraim Benezet of Kansas. N. Y. and St. Paul, Minn., D. D. Merrill Co., 1892. c. 318 p. D. cl., 50 c.

Ephraim Benezet is supposed to be a Kansas farmer ground down with mortgage and debt. His son has a dream in which he is directed to a golden bottle containing fluid that changes iron to gold. They become immensely wealthy, and use all the gold for the improvement of their fellow-men. The writer's object is to show that every wrong under which the human race is groaning can be cured by capital rightly used, hard work and a true fraternal spirit.

Dorr, Julia C. R. Poems. [New] complete ed. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. '79-'92. 10+469 p. por. D. cl., $2.50.

Contains all the poems heretofore published as "Earlier poems," "Pro patria," "Friar Anselmo, and other poems," "Sonnets," "Afternoon songs" and "Later poems."

Duhring, Julia. Amor in society: a study from life. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 4-320 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"A series of thirty-eight essays, supposed to be written by Love, on the various phases of the heart emotion, in which the blind god is the impelling power. Among the topics discussed are falling in love and its penalties; the loves women like, women's wild oats, enforced celibacy, infatuation, ostracized women, love in novels, American princesses, can love survive marriage? disparity in years, irregular marriages, love-cure, cure of passion, affinities, watering-place life, swells, the romantic woman, cross people and blind moralists."—Boston Gazette.

Easton, Morton W. Observations on the platform at Persepolis. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. 2+18 p. 1 il. O. (Publication of the Univ. of Pa. ser. in philology, literature and archaeology, v. 2, no. 2.) bds., 25 c.

Eaton, Arthur Wentworth, and Betts, Craven Langstroth. Tales of a garrison town. N. Y. and St. Paul, D. D. Merrill Co., 1892. c. 5-260 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Fourteen tales of love and adventure in an English garrison town, dedicated to Mrs. E. B. Custer.

Elliott, Orrin Leslie. The tariff controversy in the United States, 1789-1833; with a summary of the period before the adoption of the Constitution. Palo Alto, Cal., published by Leland Stanford Junior University, 1892. c. 2-272 p. O. (Leland Stanford Junior Univ. monographs, history and economics, no. 1.) pap., $1.

Ennery, Adolphe d'. The two orphans. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] 2-188 p. 1 il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 79.) pap., 25 c.

Fawcett, Edgar. The adopted daughter. Chic., F. T. Neely, [1892.] c. 3-262 p. D. (Neely's lib. of choice literature, v. 1, no. 1.) pap., 50 c.

The "adopted daughter" is the child of a maid servant and an uneducated Irishman, who is adopted in infancy by a wealthy New York woman and reared as her daughter and heiress. Years later, when the real parents have become rich people—the father being a millionaire political "boss"—they insist on reclaiming their daughter. She is a beautiful, cultured, proud young girl, engaged to a rich New Yorker, when her parentage is revealed to her. The bravery with which she faces the situation determines her future happiness and assures the keeping of the secret of her birth. New York life is delineated with the author's accustomed insight.

Foster, Stephen Collins. The old folks at home; il. by G. W. Brenneman. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. '88. unip. O.

(The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

The "favorite folk ballads" consist of a number of popular songs, very generously illustrated. The music and words are given in full; they are designed as gift-books for various occasions, and are attractively bound. See Foster, "My darling Nelly Gray," Grant, Jerrold, Mahony.

Foster, Stephen Collins. Old Uncle Ned; il. by G. W. Brenneman. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. unip. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

French, Ferdinand Courtney. The concept of law in ethics: thesis accepted by the faculty of Cornell University for the Ph.D. degree in philosophy. Providence, R. I., Preston & Rounds, 1892. c. 4+51 p. O. pap., 60 c.

French, H. W. Our boys in China. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., 1892. c. 9+308 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Formerly published by Lee & Shepard. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 20, 1883, [613.]

French, H. W. Our boys in India. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 6+814 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Formerly published by Lee & Shepard. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 2, 1882, [563.]

Goethe, J. Wolfg. v. Faust. V. 1. Pt. 1, ed. by Calvin Thomas. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 82+353 p. D. (Heath's modern language ser.) cl., $1.20.

In undertaking this edition of "Faust" the editor was actuated chiefly by a desire to promote the study of the poem as a whole. The text (German) aims to be an exact reprint of the Weimar edition. There is an interesting introduction containing remarks upon "Faust" and the study of "Faust," the data of the legend, upon the preparatory experience of Goethe, etc.

Goldsmith, Carrie. Massage for nurses. Cin., O., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1892. c. 3-56 p. il. S. cl., 75 c.

A brief and comprehensive description of the different movements of massage, their effects and mode of application.

Grant, Mrs. Anne MacVicar. Blue bells of Scotland; il. by F. M. Gregory. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., 1892. c. unip. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

*Greenleaf, Simon. A treatise on the law of evidence. In 3 v. V. 3, 15th ed., rev., with large additions, by Simon Greenleaf Crosswell. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1892. c. 42+584 p. O. shp., $6.

Greely, E. Young Americans in Japan. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 8+308 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Formerly published by Lee & Shepard. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Nov. 12, 1881, [513.]

Greely, E. Young Americans in Tokio. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 8+301 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Formerly published by Lee & Shepard under the title of "The wonderful city of Tokio." See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 2, 1882, [568.]

Greely, E. Young Americans in Yezo and the Island of Karafuto (Saghalin); il. by Rinzo and by Ichiske Hamada. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 10+304 p. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

A new revised edition in commemoration of the twenty-first year of publication.

Hedd, Luke A., (pseud.) Philip Meyer's scheme: a story of trades unionism. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1892.] c. 2-144 p. D. (The sunnyside ser., no. 67.) pap., 25 c.

Philip Meyer's scheme is that every workman should belong to the union; that all the trades should be one organization, with the separate trades under special committees. All members of the union should contribute a relative proportion of their earnings to a fund which would be rich enough to pay strikers full wages and enable labor to resist capital when it is unjustly treated. The writer thinks workmen owe it to their own negligence and want of co-operation that so many grievances remain without redress. The time is the beginning of the next century.

Henty, G. A. The fall of Sebastopol: a tale of the Crimea. [New issue.] Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] 4+802 p. il. O. (The roundabout books.) cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Laidlaw, J., D.D. The miracles of our Lord: expository and homiletic. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. 4-884 p. O. cl., $1.75.

"The aim is entirely expository and didactic. The apologetic questions are assumed to have been sufficiently dealt with by other writers. . . . All that is sought is to set each incident in the light of the best exposition. For the spiritual lessons, again, the plan followed is not to collect the entire uses which might be made of each narrative. This would have given a mere outline of homiletic hints, which does not seem a very profitable task, however carefully done. The attempt made is to indicate, under most of the miracles, some one line of spiritual application, and so give an actual instance of their pulpit use."—Preface.

Lamb, C. and Mary. Tales from Shakespeare; ed. with an introd. by Rev. Alfredinger. [Boydell ed.] Phil., Porter & Coates, [1892.] 2-428 p. il. D. cl., $2.50; ¾ mor., $6; full cf., $7.

Tastefully bound in crimson and green, and illustrated with twenty photogravures.

Longfellow, H.; Wadsworth. Hyperion: a romance. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1892. 2-382 p. il. D. cl., $3.50; full cf., $8.

Illustrated with thirty photogravures; the binding is half-crimson cloth and half white, the white being decorated in green and gold, and the crimson is gold only; fine paper, gilt edges.

Maartens, Maarten, [pseud. for J. Van der Poorsen Schwartz.] God's fool: a Koopstad story. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 2+446 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A flourishing commercial town of Holland appears as Koopstad. The head of a large tea importing house is the father of "God's fool." When a boy Elias Lossell was hit on the head by a flower-pot thrown by his stepbrother. He becomes deaf and afterwards blind in consequence and his mind naturally remains that of a child. The book carries him to the age of thirty-five. In physique he is a perfect man of six foot two, in mind a child of nine. By his grandfather's will he is head of the firm when his father dies. His stepbrothers take active charge of the business. Their plans, their wives, their daily lives and the influences brought to bear upon their afflicted brother make intricate studies in character and psychology.

Mack, W. A digest of the decisions of the courts of last resort of the several states from the year 1887 to the year 1892 contained in the American state reports, v. 1 to 24 inclusive, and of the notes therein contained; to which is prefixed an alphabetical index to the notes. San Francisco, Cal., Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1892. c. 158+161-1854 p. O. shp., $4.

Mahon, A. T. Admiral Farragut. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 6+333 p. por. maps, D. (Great commanders ser., no. 1, ed. by Ja. Grant Wilson.) cl., $1.25.

The first volume of a series that is to include all the great American commanders on land and water from Washington to the present day. The author is President of the United States Naval War College. His facts are chiefly taken from the biography of Farragut by his son, published in 1878. Farragut was born in 1801, received his warrant as midshipman in 1820, became lieutenant in 1825, commander in 1841 and captain in 1854, the highest naval rank before the Civil War. The bulk of the book deals with the war in which the great leader so distinguished himself. A final chapter sums up the character of Farragut and of special interest. Farragut died in August, 1870, and is buried in Woodlawn, New York.

Mahony, Rev. Francis, ["Father Prout," pseud.] Shandon bells; il. by Jos. Lauber. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., 1892. c. unp. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

Man and the state: studies in applied sociology: popular lectures and discussions before the Brooklyn Ethical Association. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 10+558 p. D. cl., $2.

Seventeen lectures on various political subjects, all of which were published in pamphlet form and entered under authors in our "Weekly Record" during the past year. They are especially interesting in view of the approaching presidential contest, treating as they do of the relations of the individual to the state as illustrated in the practical issues of current American politics.

Mantegazza, Paul. Laura: a study of platonic love; from the Italian. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., [1892.] c. 4-275 p. 1 il. D. (Dearborn ser., no. 68.) pap., 25 c. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 21, 1891, [1081.]

Miller, J. R., D.D. The every day of life. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 4+283 p. S. cl., $1; $1.25; levant mor., $2.50. Dedicated "to those who want to grow better." "It is sent out in the hope that it may be helpful to some, first in showing glimpses of better things, and then in leading towards them. It is written for people who have common human experiences in the heart of the world's toil and care. One who is a fellow-pilgrim with like experiences would lend a brother's hand."

Muddock, J. E. Maid Marian and Robin Hood: a romance of old Sherwood Forest; il. by Stanley L. Wood. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. 4+326 p. D. cl., $1.25.

For old or young; relates again with much spirit the legends of Robin Hood, his wild, free life of Sherwood Forest, his winning of Maid Marian and other exploits of this picturesque hero.

Musick, J. R. Saint Augustine: a story of the Huguenots in America. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. c. 7+819 p. il. D. (Columbian historical novels, no. 8.) cl., $1.50.

The period covered is the establishment of St. Augustine, the oldest town in the United States—the period corresponding to the Reformation in Europe and the fierce persecution of the early reformers. The murder of the Huguenots, who had sought a home in Florida, constitutes the chief historical episode. The romance of the story is again centred in an Estevan, a grandson of Hernando Estevan, who accompanied Columbus on his voyage of discovery. This Francisco Estevan, after many experiences, is made prisoner by French pirates and taken to the Huguenot settlement in Florida, where he saves the woman he loves from the massacre in which nearly the whole Huguenot colony perished.

My darling Nellie Gray; il. by G. W. Brenne-man. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., 1892. unsp. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

*Ohio. The Ohio election law: a manual for the guidance of electors and election officers; to which is added an appendix containing general principles of law and judicial decisions applicable to elections and the Australian ballot; by Guy Ward Mallon. Cin., O., Robert Clarke & Co., 1892. c. 7+106 p. D. pap., 50 c.

Parker, Jos., D.D. The people's Bible: discourses upon Holy Scripture. V. 17, Hosea-Malachi. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1892. 7+456 p. O. cl., $1.50.

This is the concluding volume of Dr. Parker's pastoral notes on the Old Testament, and it covers a vast and interesting field from Hosea to Malachi. These sermons are not only for the theologian, but of special use to the Christian man or woman who is anxious to get greater illumination upon the divine word. There are but two more books on the New Testament to follow and complete this series, making in all twenty-five volumes, Parker's People's Bible.

Parloa, Miss Maria. The original Appledore cook-book; containing practical receipts for plain and rich cooking. New illustrated ed. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. 72-'81. 230 p. D. cl., $1.25. Formerly published by Andrew F. Graves, 1872.

Paul, Mrs. G. A. [Minnie E. Kenney.] Dorothy darling. N. Y., Ja. Pott & Co., [1892.] c. 5+181 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

A simple little story of the innocent ways and pretty plays of a little girl, by the author of "Prince Dimple."

Pierson, A. T., D.D. From the pulpit to the palm-branch: a memorial of C. H. Spurgeon: sequel to the sketch of his life entitled "From the usher's desk to the Tabernacle pulpit:" five memorial sermons. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1892. 4-281 p. pers. il. D. cl., $1.25.

On the morning of June 7, 1891, Spurgeon preached for the last time in the Metropolitan Tabernacle. On Aug. 9 he wrote a letter to his congregation, of which a fac-simile is given. On Oct. 26 the great preacher started for Mentone, where he died Jan. 81, 1892. This little volume gives the record of his last hours and a full description of the funeral honors all Christian churches and societies have offered him.

Rand, McNally & Co.'s handy guide to Chicago and World's Columbian Exposition. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1892. 7-216 p. il. map, S. cl., 50 c.; pap., 25 c.

Repplier, Agnes. Essays in miniature. N. Y., C. L. Webster & Co., 1892. c. 7-217 p. D. (Fiction, fact and fancy ser.) cl., 75 c.

Contents: Our friends, the books; Trials of a publisher: The oppression of notes; Conversation in novels; A short defence of villains; A by-way in fiction; Comedy of the Custom-House; Mr. Wilde's "Intentions"; Humors of gastronomy; Children in fiction; Three famous old maids; The charm of the familiar; Old world pets; Battle of the babies; The novel of incident.

Reynolds, C. B., comp. The game laws in brief: laws of the United States and Canada relating to game and fish seasons, for the guidance of sportsmen and anglers. [New ed., rev. to date.] N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., [1892.] 43 p. il. D. pap., 25 c.

Roy, J. Helen Treveryan; or, the ruling race. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 5+487 p. D. (Macmillan's dollar ser.) cl., $1.

The far-reaching effects upon the home life of England of her rule in India are made clear in a strong story. Helen Treveryan, the child of English parents, is born in India, returns after some years of schooling in England, marries a gay, selfish but affectionate British cavalry officer, is left widowed with a baby after an Indian uprising in 1879, returns to England and feels all the drawbacks of both the English and Indian modes of living. A pretty romance conveys some important truths.

Ryan, Marah Ellis. Squaw Elouise. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1892. c. 5-240 p. D. (Rialto ser., no. 47.) pap., 50 c.

A pathetic story of the devotion and noble qualities of an Indian girl who loves and is deceived by a white man. Life on the upper reaches of the Columbia River and among the Selkirk mountains, as well as the mining camps, gambling-houses and motley population of the region, are well described.

Safford, Mary J. Lorelei, and other stories. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., [1892.] c. 6-247 p. D. (The golden lib. of choice fiction, no. 4.) pap., 25 c.

Contents: Lorelei; The golden fleece; Caught by a cyclone; An idea in decorative art; Tea-roses; Herring dory; Kate's cameos; The last of their line.

Seawell, Molly Elliot. The Berkeleys and their neighbors. Rev. ed. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. '88, '92. 2+232 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 108.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

The Berkeleys are a hot-headed, soft-hearted, narrow minded Virginia gentleman of the old school and his handsome daughter just returned from Paris, where she had spent the years of the Civil War finishing her education. Their neighbors are two brothers Pembroke and the Peytons. Of the latter one young relative has been on the stage, has been married to a man who has left her a fortune, and has returned to her native country home for love of Pembroke. The story shifts to Washington, where two of the characters turn up at the Russian Legation.

Seelye, Elizabeth Eggleston. The story of Columbus; il. by Allegra Eggleston; ed. with an introd. by E. Eggleston. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 12+303 p. il. D. (The delights of history ser.; ed. by E. Eggleston.) cl., $1.75.

The first volume of a series to be prepared by the same author, artist and editor, which will present not only the stories of great lives, but also the coloring and interesting details of the times and environments of their subjects. There is no attempt made here to discuss the pros and cons of debated points in Columbian history. Careful use has been made of leading authorities. The personal coloring is chiefly derived from the curious researches of Harrisse and the local descriptions from the work of the antiquary Staglieno. The narrative conforms strictly to facts, though related with enthusiasm and made delightful for the general reader. The artist has gathered material for her illustrations from every well-known picture, chiefly in private collections.

State papers and speeches on the tariff: with an introd. by F. W. Taussig. Cambridge, Mass., J. Bertram Williams, pub. agt., Harvard University, 1892. c. 8+385 p. D. cl., net, $1.

Five papers and speeches on the tariff question, by Hamilton, Gallatin, Walker, Clay and Webster, reprinted from the works of the respective authors. They have been selected for their importance as presentations by great statesmen, of the arguments on both sides of the protective controversy.

Stillman, W. J. Old Italian masters; engraved by Timothy Cole; with historical notes by W. J. Stillman, and brief comments by the engraver. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '88, '92. 21+282 p. il. O. cl., $10.

For several years the famous American wood-engraver, Timothy Cole, has been contributing these full-page engravings of old Italian masters to the Century Magazine. The sixty-seven engravings are now collected and issued in a handsome book. Each engraving in this collection has been cut by the engraver in the presence of the original. Mr Cole also furnishes brief comments on the paintings reproduced. The running text is by the art critic and correspondent in Rome of the London Times.

Taylor, J. A. The Independent in politics. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 2+488-506 p. D. (Evolution ser., no. 33.) pap., 10 c.

Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Mariana G. [Mrs Schuyler Van Rensselaer.] English cathedrals; Canterbury, Peterborough, Durham, Salisbury, Lichfield, Lincoln, Ely, Wells, Winchester, Gloucester, York, London; il. by Jos. Pennell. N. Y., The Century Co., 1892. c. '87, '92. 29+395 p. plans, diagrams, Q. cl., $6.

The twelve cathedrals described were chosen partly for their typical importance as buildings and partly because of the length and richness of their lives as cathedral buildings. They are in Canterbury, Peterborough, Durham, Salisbury, Lichfield, Lincoln, Ely, Wells, Winchester, Gloucester, York and London. Professor Freeman has stated that a more representative list of twelve cathedrals could not be made. The work is intended to represent the development of English architecture and the importance of English cathedral establishments. The chapters have been almost rewritten since their first appearance in the Century

Magazine. Sumptuously gotten up as regards all details of bookmaking.

Williams, J. W. Hume. Unsoundness of mind in its legal and medical considerations; reprinted from Wood's medical and surgical monographs. N. Y., W: Wood & Co., 1892. 8-179 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Composed of five chapters, treating of "Legal and medical views examined," "Monomania," "Moral insanity," "Impulsive insanity," and "Further observations."

Willse, Sara E. The place of the story in early education, and other essays. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 7+182 p. D. cl., 60 c.

A series of papers on the study of children in nursery and kindergarten, besides some observations of pupils in primary, grammar and high-school grades with reference to sound-blindness, mental imagery and other phases of the physical and intellectual development of children.

Woods, Margaret L. Esther Vanhomrigh. N. Y., Hovendon Co., [1892.] c. 91. 4-380 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Esther Vanhomrigh, whose stormy love for Dean Swift is a matter of history, is the heroine of this novel of the eighteenth century. The author of "A village tragedy" has photographed in words the surroundings of Swift, Steele, Addison, Pope, Lord Bolingbroke and the gay young Lotharios of that day. The sad story of Esther Johnson and Esther Vanhomrigh is skillfully used to bring out the character of Swift, that strange combination of virtues and faults with its keynote of passion for power. The story shifts between London and Dublin and occupies ten years, beginning in 1712.

Wordsworth, W: Wordsworth's prefaces and essays on poetry; with letter to Lady Beaumont (1786-1845); ed. with introd. and notes by A. J. George. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 18+120 p. D. (Heath's English classics.) cl., 50 c.

Yeats, W. B., ed. Irish fairy tales; ed. with an introd. by W. B. Yeats; il. by Jack B. Yeats. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 5+236 p. S. (The children's lib.) cl., 75 c.

The stories are about land and water fairies, evil spirits, cats, and kings and warriors. They are both humorous and pathetic. Mr. Yeats has included no story that has already appeared in his "Fairy and folk tales of the Irish peasantry" in the Camelot series. These two volumes together make a fairly representative collection of Irish folk tales.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

ADOLPH RUSSELL'S (Münster, Westphalia) Gesamt "Verlags-Katalog des deutschen und mit diesem in Verkehr stehenden ausländischen Buchhandels," a complete publishers' trade-list or reference catalogue of the German book trade, is now complete as regards Germany, Austria-Hungary and Switzerland, and active work has been begun upon Volume XV., covering the Ausland. A supplementary volume, perhaps two, and an index will also be published, covering the period from 1881 to 1892, during which this great work has been issued in parts. Yearly volumes will be issued hereafter, compiled on the original plan, giving the new publications of the year under the firm names of publishers classified by countries and localities.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co.'s Portrait Catalogue will shortly appear in a cover designed by Walter Crane. Three new portraits—Mrs. Jane G. Austin, Mrs. Wiggin and F. Hopkinson Smith are added, making fifty-three in all.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 22, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CANVASSING FOR TRADE.

APROPOS of our remarks upon the necessity of the bookseller bringing up his ability to sell books to the level of that of the canvasser for books published on the subscription plan, we have received several opinions, all lamenting the fact that the regular book trade has much too long been content to remain "purely indoors," and so "is in danger of losing its vim." The average bookseller, so one of our friends argues, contents himself by "laying in as few of the better books as he can possibly afford to get along with and trusts to luck to get rid of them to such customers as may stray into his store," while his active competitor, the canvasser or peripatetic bookseller, "plies the latter's possible customers and fishes away the dollars they have to spend for books by unloading on them such monstrosities as the professional subscription-book publishers are capable of turning out of their mills." We are afraid there is some truth in this, though we hesitate to apply such a generalization.

It is no doubt true that the average bookseller has not yet fully awakened to the absolute necessity of pushing his business beyond the door of his shop into the houses of his customers, or of those who should become his customers, either by personal canvass and agents, or through the mail, or by means of newspaper advertising; but already some of the more wide-awake booksellers are actually doing this, and our object, therefore, in touching upon the subject is to stir up those who have thus far refused or neglected to recognize the possibility of such a course, and to make them see the necessity of making the practice more general.

The one secret of agency "business" is—push. It is purely a question of men and means. There are nooks and corners which the stationed bookseller cannot reach and the canvasser can; but if the regular trade were more wisely conducted the relative advantage in these days, when every American village is large enough in a year or so to have a bookstore of its own, is really very small. The practice of underselling and the mistaken ignoring by the publishing trade of the fact that they must support the retail trade, and that their interests are identified with it, have to a very large extent demoralized and taken the life out of the regular retail book trade and allowed the system of canvassers to attain its present proportions.

The trained bookseller, knowing his books and his customers, able to talk intelligently about the right books to the right people—in other words, the good salesman—is in danger of being crowded out of the trade, because large discount practically means only small profit. Books in the trade are pushed indifferently, and the trade is therefore cut out by the canvassers, who are obliged to bear no risks, and are fully protected by their principals. As we have already insisted, there is little reason why a good bookseller in a small community anywhere in this country, who knows how to keep an attractive open store, should not succeed in getting direct hold of the agent's victims ahead of him, and checkmating that gentleman by giving his customers the worth of their money. A bookseller should even fight the canvassers with his own weapons, and send from house to house to show people what really cheap books are. With his varied stock he has no need to force upon people what they do not want. Even in publishing expensive works by the part there is little reason why the regular trade should not re-enter and hold the field.

We repeat that much of the difficulty comes from the evils of underselling and from the rivalry between the publishers and retailers. So long as the trade is apathetic, as for these reasons it is now, so long will the agency system flourish to its hurt.

We are at work on the Christmas issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, which we hope to send out as early in November as possible. We wish to urge those publishers who have not already done so to send us at once such of their holiday books as they may wish noticed in its pages, as well as to make early application for advertising space. Booksellers who may wish supplies of editions of this number, or of the Literary News, which is also issued from this office, will do well to place their orders at once, because in a few weeks we may be unable to fill them.

PRESERVATION OF BOOKS AND IDEAS.

Paul Stapfer in the Paris Revue Bleue.

ONE of the principal uses of our national library is to assure the preservation of one copy, at least, of each work printed. Precarious assurance, the idea of which makes one smile, as it reminds one of the naïve question of the countryman to the Parisian who pointed out to him the weakness of that great treasure exposed to a fire, "Is it possible that all that is not insured?"

In 1888 there were deposited 20,810 publications in the national library; in 1889, 23,111; in 1890, 21,710; this, which gives an average of three-score works a day for the legal deposit, comprises neither journals and periodical reviews nor purchases, gifts, theses of foreign universities, charts and plans, pieces of music, reports, programmes, statutes, etc. It is impossible that this enormous mass of printed matter should increase indefinitely. Where will the place to lodge them be found? It seems to me that some law of reaction and equilibrium analogous to that which condemns to annihilation nations corrupted by the excess of civilization and social classes weakened by luxury and prosperity, devotes also the populations of books, sick from their own riches, to an inevitable cataclysm. It is said that it is the destiny of all theatres to become, sooner or later, the prey of the flames; the destruction by fire will perhaps be the fatal or providential end of all the libraries.

"When one reflects," writes M. Renan, "he will see that it is absolutely necessary to expect in the future a great reform in scientific work. The matter of learning, in effect, will always increase in a rapid manner, it may be by new discoveries, or by the multiplication of the centuries, that it will finally pass the capacity of investigators. In one hundred years France will count three or four superimposed literatures. In five hundred years there will be two ancient histories. Now, if the first, which the time and the lack of printing facilities have so greatly simplified for us, has sufficed to occupy so many laborious lives, what will it be for that of our time, which will have to be extracted from so prodigious a mass of documents? If the national library continues to enrich itself with all the new productions, in one hundred years it will be absolutely impracticable, and will tend to annul itself. It is evident that a library may become so rich as to be a veritable impoverishment, through the impossibility of being able to make use of it."

It will not suffice, then, to say that our printed volumes will be able to be destroyed by billions as formerly manuscript volumes by thousands and millions; it is necessary to recognize the necessity and even the providential reason for that destruction, which exercises itself, sometimes by slow and continuous action, sometimes by immense periodic disasters, and which is only one of the forms of a renewal of life. If the excessive production of books be joined to their indefinite preservation, we will be literally overwhelmed by them and will be obliged to produce what Sainte-Beuve calls "an interment of a new kind." All the destructive agents which operate against books—some with regularity, others with sudden violence—as dampness, worms, fire, little gnawing teeth, awkward or brutal hands which soil and destroy, looked upon from a certain high philosophical point of view, seem helpful and benevolent.

Our conception of the book is greatly modified since the Renaissance; in virtue of that new conception, we suppose that printing is, was, and always will be ready to fly to the succor of all that is worth saving. Theoretically, that optimism is just. The book is a living soul, incarnate in a body, which is certainly necessary to it, but the form of which is not at all confining, as it may be changed indefinitely.

It is for us specially, sages, moralists, literary critics, that philosophy has conceived that sweet consolation which scandalizes our egotistic wisdom but is not without effect on some souls truly grand, and which I offer to you, dear brothers, for what it is worth; our work will be entirely lost in form, even our name will remain obscure or be totally ignored, but the useful idea which we have developed, the new fact which we have made clear, the truth which will serve, thanks to us, for the instruction of studious youth, will not die. In our little contribution to the intellectual and moral heritage of humanity, behold our only immortality. As to the rest, all the hopes on which our imagination feeds are only phantasms and deceptions. It is the part of wisdom to accept as just and good that which is necessary; and nothing is more necessary than the destruction, in a mass, of forms, ideas, creatures and individual creations, which perish in order to be re-born and metamorphosed indefinitely.

WOMAN'S WORK IN LITERATURE.

THE COMMITTEE ON WOMAN'S WORK IN LITERATURE of the Board of Women Managers of the Exhibit of the State of New York at the Columbian Exposition, according to the New York Tribune, has undertaken to have at Chicago a most exhaustive and interesting exhibit of the history of the literary work of women in New York, of the extent to which New York women have engaged in literary occupations, and of the rank which their productions hold. The record of work has been divided into three departments—work on books, work in literary clubs and classes, and work on the press and periodicals. Competent investigators have already begun the collection and arrangement of material in each of these fields. Mrs. Frederick P. Bellamy, the chairman of the Committee on Woman's Work in Literature, has general supervision of the undertaking.

Miss Charlotte Mulligan, well known in western New York as a practical philanthropist, and president of the Buffalo Graduates' Club, has in charge the exhibit of the work on the press and periodicals. She is to be assisted by an advisory council of some of the best-known literary women in the State.

COMSTOCK ON THE RAMPAGE.

ANTHONY COMSTOCK, during the past two weeks, has been making things particularly uncomfortable for peddlers and newsdealers in New York City and vicinity. On the 17th he made a raid during which he gathered in seven agents and peddlers for selling obscene literature. The men arrested were John A. Lawler, of 865 Sixth Avenue; John G. Walsh, of Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue; Luther B. Cooley, of Thirty-second Street and Eighth Avenue; Thomas O'Rourke, of 518 Seventh Ave.; George Johnson, of 704 Eighth Avenue; Patrick McGurke, of Thirty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue, and Michael McNally, of Fourteenth Street and Sixth Avenue, all of New York. McNally and Cooley, in the Tombs Court, demanded an examination, and the hearing was set down for the 19th, at which time it was put down for a later date. They and the others, who waived examination, were held in $500 bail.

Johnson, who says he comes from the West and has no friends in New York, was the only one who did not get a bondsman.

Mr. Comstock told Justice McMahon that he believed Johnson was entirely guiltless of any evil intent, and that although he exhibited the book he was ignorant of its nature. He will be held until his employer is arrested. Mr. Comstock also said that most of the obscene books are published in Chicago, and that he intends to prevent their circulation in this city. Charles M. Johnson, who was arrested last week at 1397 Broadway, is, he said, the agent of B. Stein & Co., of Chicago. Two of Stein's agents, who were in New York selling the firm's publications, had been previously arrested.

ENEMIES OF BOOKS.

THE arts of the book-destroyer are amusingly described by the London Globe. It notes that there are several dainty feminine devices for ruining books. "With a brand new closely bound book it is useful to mark the place with a pair of scissors or a thick skein of silk. The scissors are better, because when the book is closed and a few thick volumes put on top of it or a heavy parcel from the stores, the steel offers more resistance and forces the back more surely. It is also a good thing to wedge a book in the bookcase with a big bunch of violets left to decay inside it. This is a graceful, sentimental method of destruction. The passion in the fair sex for tracing designs offers splendid opportunities. If a young lady takes Ruskin's 'Stones of Venice,' covers a plate with a piece of tissue-paper (best extracted from a bonnet-box), and then pressing hard with a sharp-pointed H pencil traces out the drawing, she will have done good work. To complete it, she should go right through the book."

OBITUARY NOTES.

JAMES SLOAN GIBBONS, author of "The Banks of New York," "The Public Debt of the United States," and of the famous war song, "We're Coming, Father Abraham, Three Hundred Thousand Strong," died on the 17th inst., aged eighty-two. He was for years connected with banking and financial enterprises in New York City, at one time having been cashier of the Ocean Bank.

WILLIAM BRADBURY, whose death in London has just been announced, was the senior partner in the firm of Bradbury, Evans & Co., one of the oldest London publishing firms. It brought out Dickens' earliest works. Mr. Bradbury used to tell how he and his brothers, all being practical printers, set up Mr. Dickens' copy when coming out in serial form. The type was jealously guarded in order to prevent surreptitious publication. At the time Miss Evans, under the signature of "George Eliot," was writing "Adam Bede" all the world was guessing at the identity of the writer. Some one asked Dickens, who oracularly replied: "I believe it is either Bradbury or Evans, and I don't think it's Bradbury." William Bradbury, as representing the firm owning Punch, for many years occupied a chair at the weekly dinners of that journal, where his genial presence will be long missed.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IT is interesting to note that Rudyard Kipling's father is making a number of illustrations for a new edition of "The Naulahka."

"H. W. L." the New York Tribune correspondent, is Henry W. Lucy, author of the delightful "Essence of Parliament," which is published every week in Punch, when the Lords and Commons are in session.

MONCURE D. CONWAY has gone to England on a six months' engagement at South Place Chapel. During the winter he hopes to prepare a critical edition of Thomas Paine's work as a fitting complement to the "Life" he has just finished.

A MEMOIR of the late Professor of Modern History at Oxford, E. A. Freeman, is about to be taken in hand. Friends who may be willing to contribute letters, reminiscences, or other biographical materials are invited to forward them as soon as possible to the Rev. Prebendary Stephens (Woodbeding Rectory, Midhurst, Sussex, England), who, at the request of Mr. Freeman's family, has undertaken to edit the work.

ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE, who is mentioned by the Pall Mall Gazette as the probable successor of Lord Tennyson as poet laureate, was born in London on April 5, 1837. He entered as a commoner at Balliol College, Oxford, in 1857, but left the university without taking a degree. His first productions, "The Queen Mother" and "Rosamond," two plays that were published in 1861, attracted little attention. They were followed in 1864 and 1865 by two tragedies, and in 1866 by "Poems and Ballads." The latter work was severely censured, and was consequently withdrawn from circulation. Since that time he has written many works, in one of which "Songs Before Sunrise," published in 1871, he glorified Pantheism and Republicanism. In 1890 he published a poem in which he advocated the assassination of the Czar for the cruelties perpetrated under his government. This elicited a remonstrance from the House of Commons.

PROFESSOR HENRY DRUMMOND, the author of that remarkably successful book, "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," is a man of a slight and intellectual physical type, with a splendid head. He has a wonderfully magnetic influence over his students. His most famous book first appeared serially in a journal which soon died, the chapters not having attracted much attention, and the writer feeling "a lingering remorse at what share I might have had in its untimely end." Then, The Bookman says, "two leading London publishers were offered the book and declined it. The author had resolved never again to be served with the black seal of literature, and put the doomed sheets back in their pigeon-holes. Mr. M. H. Hodder, however, had read the papers in their serial form, and proposed their publication to the author, who rewrote his pages in much haste, corrected his proofs, and started for a tour in Africa. He heard nothing of his fate for five months' travel, during which he never saw a letter or newspaper, and, engrossed with a geological and botanical survey, he forgot his venture completely. One night, an hour after midnight, three black messengers from the north end of Lake Nyassa disturbed his camp, and delivered the hollow skin of a tiger-cat with a small package of letters and papers. Among them he found a copy of The Spectator containing a review of his book."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE first number of the Art Student, "an illustrated monthly for home art study," edited by E. Kauff, has just been published from No. 40 East Twenty-third Street, N. Y.

AMONG the notable articles of the November number of The Forum will be one on "The Library of the United States," by Mr. Ainsworth R. Spofford, Librarian of Congress, who explains the rank that this great library will take among the great libraries of the world.

A NEW ladies' newspaper called Le Journal is creating a sensation in Paris. Mme. Adam (Juliette Lambert), "Gyp" (Mme. de Martel), and "Severine" are all on the staff. A lady well known in Paris society, who signs herself "Jocelyne," supplies the gossip on fashions. The list of contributors includes some of the foremost literati of the day.

A NEW departure in Brooklyn journalism has appeared this month in the shape of a quarterly magazine named the The Aquarium. The editor is Mr. Hugo Mulerdt, of No. 173 Nostrand Avenue, a man well known in the ichthyological world. The periodical will treat of the various habits and species of fishes and will contain other pisciculture data.

PROFIT sharing and kindred reforms are now to be represented in the periodical field. The announcement is just made of the publication on October 15 of the first number of a modest little quarterly called Employer and Employed, edited by N. P. Gilman, Secretary of the Association for the Promotion of Profit Sharing. It will be published for the association by Geo. H. Ellis, 141 Franklin Street, Boston.

THE discontinuance of the "Easy Chair" in Harper's Magazine is intended as a signal mark of respect to the memory of him who for nearly forty years had imparted to it so much of his own personality that it would seem impossible to imagine an "Easy Chair" with any other occupant than himself. The department was started in September, 1851, with Donald G. Mitchell as its writer. Mr. Curtis' connection with it began with the number for October, 1853, when he and Mr. Mitchell became joint editors of the department. The latter was responsible for the foreign paragraphs, which appeared for some time under a subhead as "Our Foreign Gossip," although still a part of the "Easy Chair." In March, 1859, "Our Foreign Gossip" became a distinct department called "Our Foreign Bureau," and from that time Mr. Curtis was the sole occupant of the "Easy Chair." Mr. Curtis' last contribution—a plea for Christmas—will be printed in the November issue of Harper's Magazine.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mr. Johs. Eyller, heretofore co-partner of the firm of Ackermann & Eyller, has severed his connection with that firm. Mr. Ed. Ackermann (formerly manager of the Foreign Department of Brentano's of this city) will continue the same under the original firm-name, Ed. Ackermann & Co., at 86 Fifth Avenue.

DALLAS, TEX.—The Dallas Book Publishing Company has been incorporated by C. R. Jones, W. G. Scarff and George E. Fallon.

FARGO, N. D.—E. V. Quinby has opened a book and stationery department at his art-store on Broadway.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—The Herbert Booth King & Brother Publishing Company has been incorporated here.

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—J. K. Turner has established an Eastern agency of Morrill, Higgins & Co. at 133 Bible House, where he will carry a complete line of samples of the publications of this house.

NEW YORK CITY. — Deputy Sheriff Fox, on the 17th, received an execution for $2010 against the Hub Publishing Company, in the Pulitzer Building, in favor of Valentine & Co., on a note. The company was incorporated in July, 1887, and had a capital stock of $30,000. Valentine & Co. held a chattel mortgage for $6900 on the effects, which was foreclosed a few weeks ago, and they bought in the property. The publication of the Hub is continued by the Trades News Publishing Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Further particulars of the California Book Co., whose incorporation was noted in a recent issue of the WEEKLY are as follows: The board of officers and directors is composed of H. H. Bancroft, president; George H. Morrison, vice-president and general manager; Thomas A. C. Dorland, secretary and treasurer; these officers and M. E. Morrison and M. G. Bancroft constituting the board of directors. The amount of the capital stock is said to be $100,000, divided into 2000 shares of a par value of $50 each, the whole amount already having been subscribed for. H. H. Bancroft, president of the new company, is already the president of both the Bancroft Company and the History Company. Mr. Morrison, mentioned as vice-president and general manager of the new incorporation, is the secretary of the History Company. Thomas A. C. Dorland is also the secretary and treasurer of the Bancroft Company. The articles of incorporation state that the purposes of the company are the "publishing of books or engaging in any other mercantile or manufacturing business."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WM. C. EDWARDS leaves Otto Ulbrich, of Buffalo, N. Y., to take a position with Scrantom, Wetmore & Co., of Rochester.

THOMAS WHITTAKER publishes this week "Robin Redbreast, a story for girls," by Mrs. Molesworth; also, "A Candle in the Sea," a story of the life-saving service, by Edward A. Rand.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. announce "Persian Tales," edited in two volumes by Justin H. McCarthy; and "The History and the Theory of Money," by Sidney Sherwood, of the Wharton School of Finance and Economy.

WARD, LOCK, BOWDEN & Co. will publish early in November George Barnett Smith's "History of the English Parliament," upon which he has been engaged for the last five years, and which was fully described on page 603 of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for October 8. The work will be in two large volumes.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. will publish at once a new and cheaper illustrated edition of the autobiography of Dr. John G. Paton, who is at present visiting this country. They will publish early in November a life of "Henry Martyn, saint, scholar, first modern missionary to the Mohammedans, 1781-1812," by Dr. George Smith, with a portrait and illustrations.

DAVID MCKAY is to publish a volume entitled "In Re Walt Whitman," to be edited by Horace L. Traubel, Dr. Richard M. Bucke and Thomas B. Harned. There will be a number of poems and essays in Whitman's praise that have already been printed but have never been collected, and there will be much that is new. Of the latter class, says a correspondent of The Critic, will be a "Symphony," by John Addington Symonds, some criticism of Whitman by John Burroughs, and various and varied contributions from Dr. Bucke and Messrs. Traubel and Harned. The edition is to be limited to a thousand copies.

WEST, JOHNSTON & Co., of Richmond, Va., will issue early in November an American edition of "The History of the United States from the Foundation of Virginia to the Reconstruction of the Union," by Percy Greg, which appeared in England about five years ago, and is now entirely out of print. The work, which was highly spoken of upon its first appearance, claims to be an unbiassed and impartial judgment on what the author designates "the three central events of American history—the Revolution, the Constitution and the Civil War," and is in a measure a vindication of the South. Gen. Wade Hampton has prepared an introduction for this edition.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY have just ready "The Cradle of the Colombos," a brochure by Rev. Hugh Flattery, tracing the genesis of the great navigator's patronymic, giving an analysis of the Columbian nomenclature and answering the question who was the first Columbus. This pamphlet traces the surname Columbo to the city of Bobbio, Lombardy, Italy, which three hundred years before the birth of Columbus had been made a bishopric of the province of Genoa the Superb. The author also traces an abiding connection between Italy, Ireland and the United States, between the Iron crown of Lombardy and the Stars and Stripes, between Bobbio and San Salvador.

THE fine steel portrait of Columbus which appeared in the first volume of the "Memorial History of the City of New York" is copied from the only authentic portrait of the discoverer known to have been painted during his lifetime. It was engraved by the Royal Society of Spain. When General Wilson was in that country a few years ago a copy of the steel portrait was presented to him by the Royal Society, and he was informed by the Duke of Veraagua, a lineal descendant of Columbus, that it was the only trustworthy likeness of his illustrious ancestor. It has been successfully reproduced on steel for the Memorial History, of which the third volume is now in the press.

THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA faculty have announced their intention of issuing a book on "Philadelphia," through the members of the senior class, who, under the direction of Dr. Roland P. Falkner, will individually write on the subjects assigned them. This will make the writing of the yearly theses by the graduates unnecessary. The subjects to be treated in the book are: Population—density, growth, proportion to other cities and nationalities; manufactures—value, nature, containing more capital than New York; churches—denominations and value; politics—government effect of Bullitt bill, education, prisons and charitable institutions. Last year's class had for its book subject, "Recent Development of American Industries."

FOREIGN NOTES.

M. E. BOUILLON, Paris, has just issued a work of interest to bibliographers, entitled "Essai d'une Bibliographie Historique de la Bibliothèque Nationale," by E. Pierret, honorary librarian of the French National Library.

A NEW volume of original poetry by Francis Turner Palgrave, editor of "The Golden Treasury of Songs and Lyrics," is in the press. It is to be entitled "Amenophis and Other Poems, Sacred and Secular." Mr. Palgrave published his first volume of verse, "The Passionate Pilgrim," thirty-eight years ago.

B. F. STEVENS, London, has finished the fifteenth volume of his "Fac-similes of Manuscripts Relating to America." It contains a considerable mass of correspondence concerning the visit of Arthur Lee and Mr. Sayre to Berlin in the summer of 1777 and the robbery of Lee's despatch-box at the instigation of the British Minister.

MR. JACOBI, of the Chiswick Press, is about to issue, for authors and others, a little work, "Some Notes on Books and Printing." It will, practically, be a revised edition of his "On the Making and Issuing of Books," published in the spring of last year, but in a different form, and with many typographical specimens, together with samples of various papers, any of which are suitable for good printing.

PERCIVAL & Co., London, announce a work in two volumes, by Mrs. Oliphant and Mr. F. R. Oliphant, entitled "The Victorian Age of English Literature." Besides giving an account of the various departments of letters (including journalism) during the last half century, an introductory chapter will deal with those writers whose work was already finished at the Queen's accession, and a final chapter will give an estimate of the present condition of literature.

PICK UPS.

THE CRITIC'S BOOMERANG.

ONE summer time I sat me down
To write a novel light,
Which, when the leaves had turned to brown,
Should greet the public's sight.

'Twas published o'er a nom de guerre
Which no one could decry—
Save her with whom my woes I share,
And him 'twas published by.

To-day I'm fully steeped in blue—

A LIBRARY EDITION OF
THE HOOSIER SCHOOL-MASTER.
 A NOVEL.

Revised, with an Introduction and Notes on the Dialect.

—BY—

EDWARD EGGLESTON.

THIS Library Edition is issued in commemoration of the publication and sale of one hundred thousand copies of this fascinating work, which has enjoyed an undiminished popularity from the moment of its publication, and has had the honor of many foreign editions in various languages. It has been rendered into French, German, Danish and Russian. In England an edition of ten thousand copies was printed immediately after its first appearance. Meantime the demand for the American editions has been so great that we are now issuing an elegant Library Edition, to be ready November 1. We need not say anything in praise of the book.

The questions of its merit have been settled by the public at home and abroad. The author calls attention in his preface to the present edition to the fact that THE HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER was the "FILE-LEADER" of the present DIALECT MOVEMENT IN AMERICAN FICTION. Before its appearance the New England dialect had kept the field from Sam Slick's time down. The Hoosier, the Creole, the Cracker, the Pennsylvania German, the Georgia Planter and the negro have all found their way into our literature since that time.

The great hold that this story has on the heart and mind of the public causes the sales of the Hoosier Schoolmaster to increase rather than diminish. The time has come when we may ask ourselves whether this is not ONE OF THE FEW BOOKS DESTINED TO RANK AS CLASSICS. Will Bud Means, Squire Hawkins, Shocky and the bull-dog live in literature to delight our grandchildren? The state of society here described has already passed into history. The days when public opinion regarding education was represented by Mr. Peter Jones' dictum: "No lickin', no larnin'," have gone forever. Spelling-schools of the old sort, and hard-shells, and bands of robbers in rustic districts were all real enough forty or fifty years ago. But in the future he who would learn of these things and see the pathos and the fun of them will find it hardly anywhere else than in this swift-moving story of a life that was full of fire and action.

Mr. Eggleston has written an extended preface to the present edition giving many curious facts regarding the origin and history of this novel from its first conception to the present time. He has also appended interesting notes in explanation of the origin of such words as "dog-on," "juberous," "right smart" and so forth.

The Library Edition is beautifully printed and bound and is worthy of the world-wide fame of this most American of all American books.

NOTES IN SEASON.

GINN & Co. will publish this winter in their College Series of Latin Authors an edition of Caullus prepared, with introduction and notes, by Prof. Elmer T. Merrill, of Wesleyan University.

W. B. PERKINS, Astor Place, N. Y., calls attention to "A Holiday in Bed, and other sketches," by J. M. Barrie, and to two new volumes by the Rev. De Witt Talmage, entitled "From the Pyramids to the Acropolis" and "Ready! Ay, Ready!" for which he is sole agent.

ORANGE JUDD Co. will issue a book full of ideas on horse lore, to be called "My Horse; My Love," by Dinah Sharpe, by which the reader may become familiar with types and pedigrees of Arabian horses for centuries, the beauties of English and Russian horses, docking, the Mexican bit, General Grant's horses, Seward's Arabs, blinkers, bearing-reins, etc. The volume will be fully illustrated.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just ready Heyse's "L'Arrabbiata," edited with notes and vocabulary by Dr. Wilhelm Bernhardt, director of German instruction in the Washington high schools; also, "A Primary French Translation Book," by W. S. Lyon, and G. de H. Larpent, the object of which is to furnish the beginner in school or college with very easy French, so copiously annotated at first that reading may be begun at the very start.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish at once a striking volume by W. H. Davenport Adams, entitled "Warriors of the Crescent," a story of Oriental magnificence, of glittering campaigns, fatalistic heroism, etc. It will be uniform in style with Church's "Pictures from Roman Life and Story." They have nearly ready a neat and acceptable edition in two volumes of Herndon and Weik's "Abraham Lincoln, the story of a great life," with an introduction by Horace White and with new illustrations.

JOHN A. TAYLOR & Co. have ready in their Broadway Series of copyrighted novels "The Last Sigurd," by Dora Russell, and "Ænath of the Ford," by "Rita." Forthcoming volumes will be: "Bob Martin's Little Girl," by David Christie Murray; and "Inscrutable," by Esmé Stuart, the latter being No. 8 of the Mayflower Library. Recent issues in these two popular series are: "Through Pain to Peace," by Sarah Doudney; "The Old Mill Mystery," by A. W. Marchmont, and "Mayflower Tales," by Julian Hawthorne and others.

LOVELL, CORYELL & Co. have ready three new novels: "The Woman Who Stood Between," by Minnie Gilmore; "Scarabeus," the story of an African beetle, by the Marquise Lanza, in collaboration with James Clarence Harvey; and "The Adventures of John Pas-Plus," by the Marquis of Lorne. New miscellaneous books are: "Woman—Through a Man's Eyeglass," satirical sketches by Malcolm C. Salaman; "The Truth About Beauty," hints and suggestions for preserving youthful freshness, by Annie Wolf; a new edition of Gosse's "Gossip in a Library," and new issues of Sydney Lusk's "Mea Culpa," and of Barrie's "Better Dead" and "My Lady Nicotine" in one volume.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "The Great Streets of the World," a series of brilliant descriptive papers which first appeared in Scribner's Magazine and are now issued in book form; "The Children of the Poor," by Jacob A. Riis, a companion and supplement to the author's well-known study of "How the Other Half Lives," and, like that, the result of personal observation; three plays by W. E. Henley and R. L. Stevenson, issued in one volume, and entitled "Deacon Brodie," "Beau Austin" and "Admiral Guinea;" "The Battles of Frederick the Great," edited by Cyril Ransome; "Alcuin and the Rise of the Christian Schools," a new volume by Andrew F. West in the Great Educators Series; and "Theological Propædætic," an introduction to the study of theology by Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (O. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); TV. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fo. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, W. T., ["Oliver Optic," pseud.] Fighting for the right. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 4-363 p. il. D. (The blue and the gray ser., no. 5.) cl., $1.50.

Lieut. Christy Passford again serves his country, and under new conditions. After a sufficient stay in New York to recover completely from his wounds, he is ordered to the Chateaugay, which sails with sealed orders. A chase is first made for the Ionian, a suspicious vessel engaged in supplying the Confederates with machinery, and after her capture various other exciting races after blockade-runners take place. Christy also visits the Bahama Islands and does some detective business regarding suspected vessels.

Adams, W. T., ["Oliver Optic," pseud.] A young knight-errant; or, cruising in the West Indies. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 9+329 p. il. D. (All-over-the-world ser., no. 3.) cl., $1.25.

Though a completed story which may be read without reference to its predecessors, it is a continuation of the adventures of Louis Belgrave, who was a millionaire at sixteen, and the owner of the magnificent steam-yacht Guardian-Mother. Louis and Mrs. Belgrave and other old friends are on board the yacht, the party being reinforced by the presence of several others. The yacht makes her voyage among the Bahama Islands and circumnavigates Cuba, visiting the principal cities, etc. Louis is the hero of many adventures.

Aldrich, Anne Reeve. Songs about life, love and death. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 8+133 p. S. cl., $1.25.

With a single exception this volume remains as Miss Aldrich had left it in her publisher's hands, just before her death last June. This exception is a poem, entitled "Death at daybreak," dictated during her illness when she was too weak to hold the pen, and not long before she herself died—at the age of twenty-six—just before dawn. The collection represents her maturer poems. Delicately bound in white, green and gold.

Aldrich, Mrs. Aurette Roys. Children, their models and critics. N. Y., Harper, 1893 [1892.] c. 6+158 p. S. cl., 75 c.

The author thinks that mothers, although as a rule wonderfully unselfish, still do not make their children's lives as happy and useful as they might be owing to their ignorance of their childish aspirations and heart-aches. In eight short chapters she points out mothers' sins of omission and commission, and their far-reaching consequences. The kindergarten is advocated.

Austin, Mrs. Jane G. David Alden's daughter, and other stories of Colonial times. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 8+316 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A series of twelve stories, each representing some noteworthy character or incident or aspect of Colonial times. Most of them have appeared in Harper's, the Atlantic and other magazines. They are called: David Alden's daughter; The wife of John Carver; Barbara Standish; William Bradford's lone life; Nazareth Pitcher; Witch Hazel; The freight of the schooner Dolphin; Miss Betty's pictures; The love of John Maserene; The last of the proud Pulfifers; The first and the last; Wrecked and rescued.

Baby John; by the author of "Miss Toosey's mission." Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 8-114 p. S. cl., 50 c.

A grave, severe, middle-aged mill-owner asks one of his "hands," pretty, ignorant, silly little Lucy Coles, to marry him. The marriage is not a success, Lucy pining in the midst of all the luxury by which she is surrounded for her old associates, and her husband, John Craddock, showing impatience with her ignorance and apparent coldness. The coming of "Baby John," a long and serious sickness and a brief separation bring about a happier state of things.

Bates, Clara Doty. From hearts content. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. 3-128 p. O. (Golden-rod ser.) pap., $1.25.

A collection of graceful, original poems. Bound in stiff paper with Japanese wrapper; printed on heavy linen paper, on one side of page only, with ragged edges.

Besant, Walter. The ivory gate: a novel. Library ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 4+359 p. D. cl., $1.25.

An apparently unaccountable and unexplainable forgery is the incident from which the story is evolved. Edward Dering, a rich solicitor of London, in looking over his check-books finds that a check has been drawn for £720, seemingly in his own handwriting, to Edmund Gray. Who Edmund Gray is and who drew the check are the questions which the story finally answers. As only two people besides Dering have access to the safe the suspicion is narrowed to a few characters—one of whom is almost ruined in his life and career by the circumstantial evidence which is gathered around him. A study is made of a strange abnormal mental condition in the chief character, who lives a dual life, being in his dreams a Socialist, while in his true character a close, hard business man.

*Bettany, G. T. Animal life: a concise introduction to zoology; especially suited to home students. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 144 p. il. 12", cl., 50 c.

*Bjorling, Philip R. The construction of pump details. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1892. 208 p. il. 12", cl., $3.

*Blakeley, W. A statement of the laws of the United States and rules relating to pensions, [etc.] Pittsburg, Pa., H. L. McGaw & Son, prs., [1892.] c. 20 p. D. pap., 10 c.

*Boisot, L., jr. The law of by-laws of private corporations. Chic., The United States Corporation Bureau, 1892. c. 26+129 p. D. shp., $2.

Boulger, Mrs. Dora Henrietta, ["Theo Gift," pseud.] A matter-of-fact girl. N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 351 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2027.) pap., 25 c. Formerly published by H. Holt & Co., 1881, in Leisure hour series. See notice under Havenra, "Weekly Record," P. W., May 28, '81, [489.]

Browning, Eliz. Barrett. Aurora Leigh, and other poems. Vignette ed.; il. by F. C. Gordon. N. Y., F: A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 3+415 p. D. cl., or "orchid," $1.50; hf. cl., $3.

Besides Aurora Leigh includes A drama of exile: The seraphim, and Prometheus bound. "Orchid" binding, with backs and half sides of white vellum cloth entirely covered with tracery of gold and with outer half sides in an illuminated design of pale purple or-chids with gold heavily embossed.

*Bunyan, J. The pilgrim's progress from this world to that which is to come. New ed.; with a memoir of the author by H. W. Dulcken; il. by T. Dalziel. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 304 p. 8°, cl., $1.50.

*Catholic home almanac for 1893. 10th year. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 16°, pap., 25 c.

Chapman, H. C., M.D. A manual of medical jurisprudence and toxicology. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 1892. c. 10-287 p. il. D. cl., net, $1.25.

Embraces essentially the course of lectures on medical jurisprudence delivered by the author to the Jefferson Medical College of Phila. during the sessions of 1891 and 1892. His experience for six years as coroners' physician of the city of Phila. has made him limit his work to the consideration of those parts of the subject only which he knows to be the most important for practical purposes.

Chalsea householder (A). N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 8+387 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2034.) pap., 25 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., April 28, '93, [588.] First published by H. Holt & Co. in the Leisure hour series.

*Cook, A. M. Macmillan's shorter Latin course; rev. and enl. for the use of American schools by J. C. Egbert, jr. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 10+208 p. 16°, cl., 40 c.

Cox, Palmer. Hans Von Pelter's trip to Gotham; in pen and pencil by Palmer Cox. N. Y., Art Printing Establishment, 28 Bond st., 1892. c. 76. 64 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Sets forth in a very humorous vein the trials and adventures of a Dutchman unfamiliar with the ways of a great city. His first visit brings about many mishaps, which, in spite of guide-books and directories, cause him much trouble and perplexity.

Cox, Palmer. How Columbus found America; in pen and pencil by Palmer Cox. N. Y., The Art Printing Establishment, 28 Bond st., 1892. c. 77. 64 p. D. pap., 25 c.

Treats of Columbus' life from his infancy to his return to Spain after his discovery of the New World. His trials and disappointments while trying to enlist the people in his cause are humorously set forth in both verse and picture.

Cuyler, Theo. L., D.D. Stirring the eagle's nest, and other practical discourses. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., [1892.] c. 8+317 p. por., D. cl., $1.25.

Eighteen sermons by the late pastor of the Lafayette Avenue Church, Brooklyn. The first one gives title to the volume. Some of the others have for subjects: "Burden-bearing," "The reconverted Christian," "The grace of silence," "Character tested—and detested," "The joys of the Christian ministry."

Dall, Caroline Healey. Barbara Fritchie: a study. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 4-99 p. por., D. cl., $1.

The story of Barbara Fritchie is traced as told to Mrs. Southworth and reported by her to Whittier. Evidence for and against the statements of the poem Whittier created in honor of the brave Barbara is given and weighed. The poem is quoted with the questioned facts printed in italics. The last chapter is the paper read at Amesbury on Sept. 10 in honor of Whittier. Photographs of Barbara and of her house, which was taken down in 1888, are given.

Dear; by the author of "Miss Toosey's mission." Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 4-312 p. il. S. cl., $1.

The peaceful little place of Kingscombe, an English village, is the scene, the story changing from the minister's house to the Kingscombe Manor. "Dear" and "Clive" are the minister's children, two beautiful, neglected but loving and lonely little ones. The father is absent-minded, impracticable and wholly unworldly, his heart and mind constantly seeking the young wife, lately buried. "Dear's" youth and strange love-story are full of pathos, and "Clive's" life at Cambridge very realistic. The minister's character is strongly portrayed.

*Dobbin, Leonard, and Walker, Ja. Chemical theory for beginners. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 8+240 p. 16°, cl., 70 c.

Dorr, Julia C. R. The fallow field; il. in charcoal by Zulma De Lacey Steele. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. unp. obl. O. cl., $3.

The artist is the daughter of Mrs. Dorr. There are thirty-two full-page sketches and many vignettes.

*Dulcken, H. W. English literature: a concise introduction to the study of the works of English writers, from the earliest period to the Victorian era. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 12°, cl., 50 c.

Edwards, Emilie. Love's temptation; or, a heart laid bare. Chic., N. C. Smith Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5-165 p. il. por., D. (Lakeside ser., v. 1.) pap., 25 c.

A short novel and a number of poems.

*Egan, M. F. How they worked their way, and other tales: stories of duty. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 12°, cl., $1.

Falkenhörst, C. With Columbus in America: a novel; adapted by Elise L. Lathrop. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 302 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The well-known facts of the career of Columbus are connected by a slight thread of fiction. The story begins in Lisbon in 1478. There Columbus is supposed to have met his wife while making some copies of maps at her mother's house. The long story of his hopes and disappointments, his banishment from court, and his final acknowledgment as discoverer of a new continent and the honors bestowed upon him after death, are all worked into the novel.

*Federal reporter, v. 50; cases argued and determined in the circuit courts of appeals and circuit and district courts of the U. S. Permanent ed. May-Aug., 1892. A table of statutes cited and construed is given in the index. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 43+1019 p. O. (National reporter system, U. S. ser.) shp., $5.

*Finn, Francis J. Harry Dee; or, making it out. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 12°, cl., $1.

Fliske, Stephen. Holiday stories. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., [1892.] c. 91. 2-247 p. D. cl., $1.

Nine short stories for grown readers. Originally published by Benjamin R. Tucker, Bost.

Flattery, Rev. Hugh. The cradle of the Colombos. N. Y., United States Book Co., [1892.] c. 7-46 p. D. pap., 25 c.

It is the unambitious aim of this monograph to unfold in brief outline the aboriginal home of the Colombos as well as the interesting Hiberno-Biblical surname of the 'Admiral of the Indies,' as discoverable in the dim, historic twilight of pre-medieval times.—Preface.

Frederic, Harold. The return of the O'Mahony: a novel; il. by Warren B. Davis. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 5-334 p. D. (The choice ser., no. 71.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The story opens beside the camp-fires near Richmond, Va., in 1865, where a solicitor's clerk seeks Hugh O'Mahony, the unconscious heir to an Irish estate. In a sudden sortie the clerk is badly hurt, and Zeke Tisdale, a shrewd, brave, unscrupulous Yankee, believing him dead, and knowing of the inheritance, takes the identification papers, becomes to all intents and purposes the O'Mahony, and "returns" to his ancestral home. The slangy, good-hearted, energetic American becomes the idol of his tenants, takes a hand in Fenianism, and is finally confronted by the true O'Mahony. The author makes the most of the "situation," and tells a story that is humorous, pathetic and dramatic.

Glave, E. J. In savage Africa; or, six years of adventure in Congo-land; with an introd. by H. M. Stanley; il. by the author, Bacher, Bridgman and others. N. Y., R. H. Russell & Son, [The De Witt Publishing House,] [1892.] c. 5-247 p. por. O. cl., $2.

Mr. Glave was a young Englishman of eighteen, who in 1883 entered the service of the African International Association of Brussels, led by his longing for travel and exploration. His services were offered to Stanley when he started for the Congo, and the great explorer was so pleased with his enterprise and bravery that he made him at once chief of a new station that was to be built at Lukolela. Mr. Glave remained for six years in the heart of Africa, making many expeditions on his own responsibility, and living a life full of novelty and adventure. The volume is profusely illustrated.

Good things (The) of Life. Ninth series. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 64 p. il. obl. O. cl., $2.

Sixty-four plates selected from the best drawings and wittiest pages of Life for 1892.

Goss, Warren Lee. Tom Clifton; or, western boys in Grant and Sherman's army, '61-'65. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 8+427 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Another story of the Civil War, and of a genuine boy, by the author of "Jed." Tom Clifton, the son of a Congregational minister living in Massachusetts, is the proverbial minister's son, his mischievousness and high spirits often leading him into trouble. His father's anti-slavery views make him unpopular, and just before the late war he moves to Minnesota with his family. Here Tom and his brother and a little Irish newsboy they pick up in New York see many novel phases of western life in a new country, and finally enter the army, being present at Shiloh, the siege of Corinth and capture of Vicksburg, at Atlanta and other great battles and engagements.

Griffiths, Arthur. Lola: a tale of Gibraltar. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 8+354 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2028.) pap., 25 c.

Formerly published in the Leisure hour series by Henry Holt & Co., 1877, [286.]

Hamilton, Kate W. Dr. Lincoln's children. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 2-207 p. il. D. cl., $1.

A story for children from the ages of eight to fourteen. Doctor Lincoln's children are a healthy set of young people. They are full of life, do a good many foolish things, a few mean or bad things, and not a few kind and helpful things.

Hartley, Mrs. Noel. ["May Laffan," pseud.] The Hon. Miss Ferrard. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. '78. 2+331 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2025.) pap., 25 c. See notice. P. W., March 2, '78, [320.] Formerly published in Holt's Leisure hour series.

Herron, Rev. G. D. The call of the cross: four college sermons; introd. by G. W. Gates. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 111 p. 12", cl., 75 c.

Holder, C. F. Along the Florida reef. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 7+273 p. il. O. cl., $1.50. Records the actual happenings in the daily life of several boys, one of whom, the author, resided for five or six years upon a small key of the great coral reef that stretches away into the Gulf of Mexico from the Florida Peninsula. The excursions described were made under the guidance of a naturalist who, while a surgeon in the army and stationed at the post, was studying the corals and other animals of the reef. He relied not a little upon the young naturalists and divers to collect the specimens in which he was interested, and which ultimately found their way into the Smithsonian Institution and other scientific institutions.

Hospitality in town and country; with usages, formal and informal: how to make it a pleasure to entertain and entertained.

N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 2-76 p. S. (Good form ser.) cl., 75 c.

An introductory chapter on the soul of hospitality is followed by directions regarding town visits, country visits, invitations, reception of guests and entertainments of guests in town and country, leave-takings, mutual obligations of guests and servants, letters of thanks and recognition of hospitalities, etc.

Hume, Fergus. The Island of Fantasy: a romance. N. Y., Lovell, Gastefield & Co., [1892.] c. 7-453 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A rich young Englishman with a talent for sculpture, bored to death with his conventional surroundings, is encouraged by a young Greek, who serves him as a model, to make a journey to "The Island of Fantasy." It is an island in the Aegean Sea, on which an Englishman, who calls himself Justinian, is trying to reproduce the old Grecian life. The result of his schemes, the mystery influencing his life, his beautiful daughter's heart history, and many theories of art and social well-being, make a story of marked originality.

Humphrey, Frank Pope. A New England cactus, and other tales. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 3+182 p. nar. D. (The unknown lib.) cl., 50 c.

Contents: A New England cactus: A car of love: The courageous action of Lucia Richmond: A middle-aged comedy: A belated letter; Olive: A high ideal.

Humphrey, Maud. The fairy calendar; with fac-similes of water-color designs. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. unpag. Q. pap., ribbon-tied, $1.50.

Twelve of the heroes and heroines of fairy-lore have been chosen by the artist to represent the months of the year. Among them are Cinderella, Red Riding Hood, the Sleeping Beauty, Little Boy Blue, etc.

Humphrey, Maud. Kalendar of beauties for 1893. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1892.] c. unpag. Q. pap., ribbon tied, $1.50.

Six plates are arranged for two months each. The "beauties" are mostly ladies of a former generation in wigs and patches and gorgeous gowns.

Humphrey, Maud. Maud Humphrey's book of fairy tales. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. unpag. il. Q. bds., $2.50.

Maud Humphrey retells twenty-one of the sweet old fairy tales and gives them a beautiful new setting of full-page and text pictures in colors; the text is printed in brown ink.

*Jaynson, F., ed. The iron and steel maker: being detailed descriptions of the various processes for the conversion of the ores of iron into pig iron or cast iron, wrought or malleable iron, and the different qualities of steel; with drawings and descriptions of the various furnaces, appliances and machines by various practical writers. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 447 p. il. folding pl. 8", cl., $2.

Jerome, Irene E. Sun prints in sky tints: original designs with appropriate selections. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 4-78 p. Q. cl., $3.

Over thirty illustrations engraved on wood, accompanied by appropriate selections in poetry and prose, all printed in a blue "sky-tint." The gray and blue cover has a pretty design of corn-flowers.

Jewett, J. Howard. The bunny stories for young people; il. by Culmer Barnes. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 4-210 p. D. cl., $1.75.

The characters are all "bunnies," happy, home-sheltered bunnies, who spend their uneventful lives in a neighborhood called "Runwild Terrace." They talk and act like little children, and have the same thoughts and feelings. Written to console a little girl for the loss of two real, snow-white rabbits.

Johnson, Clifton. The New England country. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 7+121 p. Q. cl., $2.50.

Divided into four parts: Old times on a New England farm; The New England of to-day; New England as the traveller sees it; Camping among the New England hills. About 125 illustrations picture the author's descriptions. The twelve full-page illustrations of the months are specially happy.

Jusserand, J. J. A French ambassador at the court of Charles the Second, le Comte de Cominges; from his unpublished correspondence. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. 259 p. pors. O. cl., $3.50.

Gaston Jean Baptiste de Cominges was an accomplished Frenchman sent by Louis the Fourteenth in 1662 as ambassador to the English court of Charles the Second. During his residence in England he wrote voluminous letters to the French king on all subjects, politics, literature, the manners and customs, art, etc., in a quaintly familiar style, giving an almost photographic picture of the England of that period. M. Jusserand makes this correspondence the basis of his work, quoting largely from it, with a running commentary of criticism and explanation. He also gives chapters on Cominges' family and ancestors, how Cominges' predecessor had to leave England, etc. Contains a number of portraits.

*Ketteler, W. E. v. (Bp.) Public schools or denominational schools: pastoral letter on the separation of the school from the church; from the German, by a Catholic priest. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 16°, pap., net, 10 c.

Knox, T. W. The boy travellers in Central Europe: adventures of two youths in a journey through France, Switzerland and Austria, with excursions among the Alps of Switzerland and the Tyrol. N. Y., Harper, 1898 [1892.] c. 14+532 p. maps, il. O. cl., $3.

The same scheme followed in preparing the other volumes of the series is continued in the present record, and the readers will find the same characters and the same general form of talk, observation and journal-making that they found in "Great Britain and Ireland" and "Northern Europe." Dr. Bronson is less conspicuous than before, but Frank and Fred are well able to manage the details of the journey and look after the comfort and pleasure of Mrs. Bassett and Mary, who make part of the group of travellers.

Larcom, Lucy. At the beautiful gate, and other songs of faith. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 10+117 p. S. cl., $1.

Many readers of Miss Larcom's poetry have wished for just such a book from her as is here offered, one containing her hymns and lyrics on sacred subjects. She has gathered from the Household edition of her poems those specially suited for this purpose, which make about two-thirds of the collection, the remainder never having appeared in book form.

*Lee, Sidney, ed. Dictionary of national biography. V. 32, Lamb-Leigh. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 6+445 p. 8°, cl., $3.75.

Lemcke, Gesine. Desserts and salads, European and American, economical and dainty. 5th ed. N. Y., C. T. Dillingham & Co., 1892. c. 2-296 p. O. cl., $1.25.

*Lightfoot, J. B. (Bp.) Dissertations on the Apostolic age; reprinted from editions of "St. Paul's Epistles;" published by the trustees of the Lightfoot fund. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 12+435 p. 8°, cl., $3.50.

Lockwood, Ingersoll. Baron Trump's marvellous underground journey; il. by C. Howard Johnson. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 13+235 p. O. cl., $2.

"The world within a world" is the scene of Baron Trump's new journey. That is, he finds an opening in Russia to the interior of the earth, through which he passes with his faithful dog Bulger into a strange and marvellous country. The various people he meets with are described with wit and humor and exhibit a wonderful inventive power in the author. The Mikkamemies, or Transparent Folk, and the Rattlebrains, or Happy Forgetters, are among the most ingenious and clever delineations. Grown people will thoroughly appreciate the work, though it is written for children.

*Lodge, Oliver J. Lightning conductors and lightning guards: a treatise on the protection of buildings, of telegraph instruments and submarine cables, and of electric installations generally from damage by atmospheric discharges. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., [1892.] 12+540 p. 12°, cl., $4.

*Lodge, Oliver J. Modern views of electricity. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 16+480 p. il. 12°, (Nature ser.) cl., $2.

*Lomas, J., ed. O'Shea's guide to Spain and Portugal. 9th ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 118+562 p. 13°, cl., $5.

*Luening, D. C. Am markstein des lebens: twenty-five funeral orations: selected poetry in the German language suitable for funeral services. Milwaukee, Wis., C. A. Rohde Co., 1892. 245 p. 8°, cl., $3.75.

McGaffey, Ernest. Poems of gun and rod; il. by Herbert E. Butler. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 7+140 p. il. O. cl., $1.75.

Such phases of the pure delight to be obtained in shooting or fishing as appeal to the poetic sensibility, are celebrated by Mr. McGaffey with spirit and cleverness in a series of verses, characteristically illustrated in page and text pictures.

Machar, Miss Agnes Maule. Roland Graeme, knight: a novel of our time. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, [1892.] c. 285 p. D. cl., $1.

The author shows the world is out of joint, but has a firm faith that it may be set right by sufficient brother-love and true Christian sacrifice. The scene is a small manufacturing town in the United States. Mill owners and their families, mill hands and theirs, discussions of matters social, religious, economic, musical, poetical, etc., are worked into a story intended to bring rich and poor together and show people their duty towards each other.

Mexican and South American poems (Spanish and English); tr. by Ernest S. Green and Miss H. von Lowenfels. San Diego, Cal., Dodge & Burbeck, 1892. c. 398 p. D. cl., $2.

With the exception of a few poems this is a "line for line translation," with the Spanish text on one page and the English on the opposite. It is designed not only to introduce American readers to some of the most beautiful poems of their sister republics, but also to supply a useful and entertaining auxiliary to the Spanish grammars and readers now in use. The selections are largely from Manuel Acuña, Manuel Carpio and Fernando Calderon. Single poems are given from twenty-five other poets.

*Mississippi. The annotated code of the general statute laws, prepared by R. H. Thompson, G. G. Dillard and R. B. Campbell, and reported to and amended and adopted by the legislature at its regular session in 1892. Nashville, Tenn., Marshall and Bruce, 1892. c. 4+1253 p. O. shp., $7.50.

Molesworth, Mrs. Mary L. ["Ennis Graham, pseud."] Hathercourt. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] 5+380 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2026.) pap., 25 c.

First published in Holt's Leisure hour series. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., July 6, '78, [EN.]

Monday Club. Sermons on the international Sunday-school lessons for 1893, by the Monday Club. 18th ser. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 415 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The eighteenth series of Monday Club Sermons has the same authors and the same valuable features that its immediate predecessors have had. The sermons are brief, clear and scholarly expositions of the passages selected by the International Lesson Committee. The authors, one of whom is a member of the International Committee, and most of whom are well known for success in Sunday-school work as well as for ability as preachers, have been very happy in hitting upon those features of the lessons which are most valuable for spiritual instruction.

*Muirhead, Ja. Historical introduction to the private law of Rome. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 28+462 p. 8°, cl., $5.

*Müller, Rev. Michael. Catholic priesthood. New ed. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1892. 2 v., 12°, cl., $3.

*New York. The code of civil procedure, the 23 chapters in full, the different amendments in their proper actions, as in force on Sept. 1, 1892, and all subsequent amendments and enactments affecting the same; together with a table showing the sections of the revised statutes repealed by the acts of 1877 and 1880, and also those embodied in the code of civil procedure, [etc.] N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1892. c. 148+55-62+733+193 p. O. shp., $3.50.

*New York. Code of election laws, embracing the general election law of 1892, the legislative and congressional apportionment laws of 1892, the constitutional amendment law of 1892, [etc.]: with annots., forms and instructions; by W. H. Silvernail. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1892. c. 166 p. O. pap., 75 c.

*New York. Superior ct. Reports of cases, S: Jones and Ja. C. Spencer, reps., v. 69; Jones and Spencer's reports, v. 27. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1892. c. 28+680 p. O. shp., $6.50.

Oberholtzer, Sara Louisa. Souvenirs of occasions. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1892. c. 2-152 p. S. cl., $1.

A volume of poems upon births, deaths, wedding anniversaries, reunions of societies, etc., dedicated to the author's two sons. The poems are religious in tone and the author proves herself a strong advocate of temperance.

Omteda, Christian v. (Baron.) A Hanoverian-English officer a hundred years ago: memoirs of Baron Omteda, Colonel in the King's German Legion, 26th Nov., 1765 to 18th June, 1815; tr. by J. Hill. N. Y., B. Westermann & Co., 1892. 7+320 p. por. O. cl., $5.

The memoirs of Baron von Omteda have been edited by his grandnephew, Baron Louis von Omteda, who has made use, for that purpose, primarily of the letters and diaries of his granduncle, and the personal literary remains of the late Baron Louis, Christian's brother, and secondarily a number of historical works of the period treated. The hero was a brave soldier who served in many countries and died at Waterloo. The book has a wide historic interest and also a strong personal one, as Omteda's life was full of incident and vicissitudes.

*Ornamental draughtsman and designer: being a series of practical instructions and examples of free-hand drawing in outline and from the round examples of design in the various styles of ornament adapted to practice; with a series of practical papers on form and color as applied to industrial decoration and art manufacturers by several practical draughtsmen and designers. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 142 p. il. folding pl., 8°, cl., $2.

Page, T: Nelson. Marse Chan: a tale of old Virginia; il. by W. T. Smedley. [New il. ed.] N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. '87, '92. 4+53 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

This pathetic story is offered in new holiday attire for the coming season. Smedley's illustrations admirably reproduce the spirit of the story.

*Paton, J. G., missionary to the New Hebrides: an autobiography; ed. by his brother. New il. ed. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 3 v., 787 p. 12°, cl., $2.

Payne, J: Howard. Home, sweet home; il. by Miss L. B. Humphrey. Bost., Lee & Shepard, [1892.] c. '80. unsp. il. O. celluloid, $1.25.

This well-known poem is now issued with a cover of imitation ivory, with a new design by Maud Humphrey, showing a girlish figure set in the midst of birds and flowers.

Peck, S: Minturn. Rings and love-knots. N. Y., F: A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 5+149 p. S. cl. or "orchid," $1.
Seventy-five short poems daintily printed.

Pelletreau, C: Sylvester Romaine: a novel. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., [1892.] c. 2+255 p. sq. D. cl., $1.
See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., April 2, 1892, [1064.]

*Pennsylvania. Colonial cases. The administration of law in Pa. prior to 1700 as shown in the cases decided and in the court proceedings; by Hon. S. W. Pennypacker. Phil., Rees Welsh & Co., 1892. c. O. shp. net, $5.

*Pennsylvania. County courts. Reports. v. 11, [1892.] Phil., T. & J. W. Johnson & Co., 1892. c. 32+725 p. O. shp., $5.

Plympton, A. G. The little sister of Wilfred; il. by the author. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 6-211 p. sq. D. cl., $1.

Dr. Moran and his wife, wealthy, educated people, looking for a girl baby to adopt, are attracted by girl twins in a home for friendless children. The doctor's first impulse is to take both the little girls, but his wife's advice prevails, and one is left, who figures as "the little sister of Wilfred." The "little sister," known as Peggy, becomes the property of a boarding-house keeper, and the "slave" of a third-rate establishment, made up largely of students. The children by chance meet after they have reached their twelfth year, and they are able through their extreme likeness to play a very funny comedy, which again reunited them.

*Railway and corporation law journal; a weekly record of current corporation law; ed. by Stewart Rapalje. V. 10. 11. July. 1891, to July, 1892. N. Y., L. K. Strouse & Co., 1892. c. O. shp. ea., $6.

Describes a world south of the South Pole, almost as large as the earth, which is discovered by a party of Americans in an "electric yacht." The explorers are shipwrecked, tame "primitives," and have many adventures before they succeed in returning to Minneapolis, Minn.

*Randolph, T: P., and Hall, E: P., comps. The pension attorney's guide: a ready reference to the laws of the U. S. relating to pensions: the standard decisions upon all matters relating to title to pensions, legal rates and limitations, [etc.] Wash., D. C., J: F. Theiry, 1892. c. 520 p. O. cl., $2.50; sbp., $3.

*Rapalje, Stewart. A digest of all railroad and corporation decisions of the federal courts and the courts of the several states and territories, together with important English decisions. V. 1, Jan. to June, 1892. N. Y., L. K. Strouse & Co., 1892. c. 21 + 381 p. O. shp., $3.50.

Ritchie, Mrs. Anne Thackeray. Records of Tennyson, Ruskin, Browning. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 6 + 190 p. pors. il. O. cl., $2.

The author writes "frankly, garrulously and at ease" about all the Tennysons, the places they have lived, the friends they have known and incidents connected with the publication of Tennyson's best-known poems. She treats of Ruskin and Robert and Mrs. Browning in the same way. There is no attempt at criticism. The book deals with the people and their surroundings as they have come under her personal notice or that of her celebrated father.

S., E. A. B. Virginia Dare: a romance of the sixteenth century. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. c. 2-207 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The true story of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in the Virginia colony. She was the grand-daughter of Governor White, who sailed for England from Roanoke on the 28th of Aug., 1587, leaving behind him his daughter and her child who had been born ten days before, intending to return immediately. Owing to war with Spain it was three years before he did return, and then he found the island of Roanoke deserted, and indications that there had been a fight with the Indians. He never found his daughter or grand-daughter, though they lived for many years afterwards with a friendly Indian tribe.

Scenes from nature: six photogravures. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. unsp. il. obl. O. (Choice photogravure ser., no. 7.) $1.50.

The subjects are: On the fence; Silver stream; Going to market; The crossing place; Returning from the fête; Pastoral farms. The binding of this series is back and half sides of white vellum cloth entirely covered with tracery in silver and lettering in gold, and with outer half sides in illuminated designs, embossed. No text.

Scott, Sir Walter. The lady of the lake: a poem in six cantos. Vignette ed.; il. by Jos. M. Gleeson. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. c. 266 p. D. cl. or "orchid," $1.50; hf. cf., $3.

Mr. Joseph M. Gleeson was commissioned to visit Scotland to make these original illustrations. His work covered a period of several months. His sketches of scenery, costumes and weapons are the result of thorough personal study.

Selected photogravures: six photogravures. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. unsp. il. obl. O. (Choice photogravure ser., no. 8.) "orchid" binding, $1.50.

Smith, Ja. E. A famous battery and its campaigns, 1861-64. [Also] The career of Corporal James Tanner in war and in peace. [Also] Early days in the Black Hills; with some account of Capt. Jack Crawford, the poet scout. Wash., D. C., W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., 1892. c. 6 + 237 p. pors., il. D. cl., $1.

The war record of Varian's Battery of Light Artillery, formerly Company I of the 8th N. Y. State Militia. A sketch of its marches from the uplands of Bull Run to the swamps of the Chickahominy, and from the Peninsula to the Pennsylvania hills.

Smith, Mary P. Wells. More good times at Hackmatack. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 277 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Carries on the story of "Jolly good times at Hackmatack," and sets forth the further doings of Parson Strong's children. Opens with the spring in New England of fifty years ago; the incidents are the gathering of maple sap; moving the meeting-house, making hay, going a fishing, nutting, etc.

*South Carolina. Supreme ct. Reports of cases. V. 32 to 35, cont. cases from Nov. term, 1889, to Nov. term, 1891, by Robert W. Shand, st. rep. Columbia, S. C., Ja. Woodrow & Co., 1890-'91. c. O. shp., ea., $5.75.

Souvestre, Emile. An attic philosopher in Paris; or, a peep at the world from a garret, being the journal of a happy man; from the French. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 3-191 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Souvestre's little masterpiece of the reflections of a happy clerk, arranged by the months of the year, has been illustrated by the French artist, Jean Claude, the illustrator of "Colette," to which this forms a companion volume. The vignettes heading the different months are original and pretty. The binding of dark red and gilt has been specially designed for the book and shows a picture of the irregular roofs of Paris.

Spelling and letter-writing: a text-book for use in commercial schools, normal schools, colleges, academies and high schools. New ed. [Cleveland, O., Spencer, Felton & Loomis, 1892.] c. '89. 195 p. D. cl., $1.

C. The practical polish and varnish maker: a treatise cont. 750 practical receipts and formulae for the manufacture of polishes, lacquers, varnishes and japans of all kinds for workers in wood and metal and directions for using. N. Y., Spon & Chamberlain, 1892. 260 p. 12°, cl., $2.50.

Stedman, Edmund Clarence. The nature and elements of poetry. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 14 + 338 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

This series of lectures, although now somewhat revised and extended, formed the initial course as delivered in 1891, of the Percy Turnbull Memorial Lecture-ship of Poetry, at Johns Hopkins University. The lectureship was founded by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnbull to commemorate the name of their son, who died in 1887, in his ninth year. In conformity with the terms of the gift a course of lectures is to be delivered annually by some maker or critical student of poetry. "I have thought it appropriate," says Mr. Stedman, "that an opening course upon this foundation should relate to the absolute nature of the art which future lecturers will consider more in detail with respect to its technical laws, varied forms and historic illustrations. Hence these pages treat of the quality and attributes of poetry itself, of its sources and efficacy, and of the enduring laws to which its true examples ever are conforming."

Streamer, Volney, comp. In friendship's name. 6th ed. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. c. '87. unsp. O. (Golden rod ser.) pap., $1.25.

A fine collection of extracts testifying to the sacredness of friendship. Printed on heavy linen paper, on one side of page only, ragged edges, etc.

Streamer, Volney, comp. What makes a friend: definitions and opinions from various sources. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. unsp. O. (The golden rod ser.) pap., $1.25.

Delightful selections in prose and verse, printed on one side only, of heavy linen paper, with ragged edges, bound in stiff paper, with Japanese wrapper.

Stretton, Hesba. [Hannah Smith.] Half-brothers. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] 4 + 490 p. D. cl., $1.

A young Oxford graduate makes a runaway match with a pretty, ignorant, furious-tempered saddler's daughter. They wander about Italy and Austria-Hungary and finally quarrel once more and separate. Miscellaneous letters, the greed of ignorant peasants and many complications prevent the husband, who is heir to millions, learning that he has had a child born to him. After seven years he marries happily, and when his son by this marriage is twenty-one he discovers his half-brother in an almost savage state in the mountain wilds of Hungary. The solution of difficulties is ingenious.

Sunter, J. Pauline. All around the year 1893. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1892. c. unsp. obl. Tt., cards, silken cords, rings and chain, 50 c. Entirely new designs printed in colors showing litt's men and women in old-style costumes surrounded by objects specially characteristic of the month they typify.

This volume includes 9751 author titles, representing 4213 volumes and 6806 pamphlets. It also includes 13,498 subject-titles of separate books and pamphlets, and 20,896 titles of articles in periodicals.

*Varigny, H. de. Experimental evolution: lectures delivered in the Summer School of Art and Science, University Hall, Edinburgh, Aug., 1891. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 9+271 p. 12°, (Nature ser.) cl., $1.50.

Washington, Beatrice. The story of Juliette: a child's romance. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 5-186 p. il. D. cl., $1.

A sunny, dreamy, quaint little town of France is the scene. In an old deserted garden, adorned with a large blue dragon left to Juliette's father as his father's sole legacy, the little girl weaves her romance. She is an enchanted Princess, the blue dragon is her keeper, her father is the dethroned king, and they are waiting for the true knight to release them from the spell. The knight comes in the form of an English lawyer, who loses his way in Saint-Servans; the dragon is broken by accident and a last will is found inside of him giving back to the king, Juliette's father, his lost estates.

Watson, W. Wordworth's grave, and other poems. 2d ed. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., 1892. 4-94 p. il. S. cl. or "orchid." $1.

The entire edition of this popular work in the Cameo Series has been exhausted. Two pieces printed in the first edition are withdrawn and four new ones inserted by permission of The Spectator. Twenty-seven new epigrams are also included.

Williams, Mrs. Alice L. A handful of letters, old and new: selected from many that are helpful and inspiring. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. 6-100 p. O. (Golden rod ser.) pap., $1.25.

Letters of James T. Field, Henry Ward Beecher, Florence Nightingale, Mrs. Nathaniel Hawthorne, Felton, Milton, Daniel Webster, Thomas Hood and others. Bound in stiff paper, with Japanese wrapper; printed on one side only of thick linen paper, with ragged edges.

*Williams, M. B. Words for the anxious: a worker's handbook. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 40 p. sq. 24°, leath., 25 c.

Woolsey, Sa C. ["Susan Coolidge," pseud.] Rhymes and ballads for girls and boys; il. by Harriet Roosevelt Richards, E. H. Garrett and others. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 5-143 p. O. cl., $1.50.

"Little Alis, a story of the Children's Crusade" opens the volume in a pretty setting of characteristic scenes from this picturesque movement of the Middle Ages. "Hodge the cat" has been quoted in many periodicals; it illustrates one of the virtues of Dr. Johnson of dictionary fame. The many other poems, such as "The world-wide consolation," "Queen Margaret's needles," "What is the wind like?" "How the snowman felt," etc., etc., are all of a kind to give small readers much pleasure.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 29, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help therunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING.—XX.

DELIVERY AND SHIPPING DEPARTMENT.

THIS department, if not a part of the Order Department, should work in conjunction and within easy reach of it, and receive from the order clerk all books for shipment or for delivery. The order slips and shipping directions used should be of uniform size, with the items printed, or clearly and distinctly written upon them. As a combination shipping and order blank the following may serve as a fair sample:

These slips should be carefully compared with the goods to be sent out, to make certain that the books or whatever the articles may be are the right ones, and that the prices agree. When the slips have served their purpose they should be carefully filed and preserved for future reference, so that in case of the miscarriage of the package, or delay, or any other untoward happening, the error may be traced at once to the person in fault. By this means the shipping clerk may become an important factor in the business, and act as a check upon all goods that leave the house. The shipping clerk must not permit the forwarding of a single article until the slip accompanying it is correctly filled out, whether he receive it from the order clerk, salesman, or any one else authorized to communicate with his department. If any delay is caused through negligence in such matters the one causing it should be made responsible—the shipping clerk should not be expected to use his own judgment in the matter nor to take the risk of sending out goods for which he has imperfect or incomplete directions. We do not mean that the shipping clerk should be a martinet and a red-tape fiend, but simply that he should take proper precaution to have a warrant for everything that leaves his hands. Among other things the shipping clerk should see to it that the slips are properly stamped "paid," "C. O. D." or "charged." It is a good plan to have the charge clerk send with the goods to the shipping clerk a slip peculiar to his department stating that the goods have been actually charged, or else, use a peculiar stamp for the regular order and shipping slip, otherwise an opportunity for fraud may be given to the evil-disposed. Of course the paid slip is so stamped by the cashier, and in the case of goods sent "C. O. D." the money for them must come back.

The shipping clerk should keep a General Delivery Book in which to record every transaction that occurs in his department, so that it may serve as proof, in addition to his slips, of the exact history of every package handled by him from the time he received it until it was finally disposed of. Every entry should be made at once so that every step may be verified and accounted for. This book may be of any size required, of good paper and durably bound, and ruled somewhat as below:

The shipping clerk should write the names and addresses, and so arrange the list and bundles that they will be in the order in which he desires them to be delivered. Every package delivered should be signed for by the party receiving it. If this be refused the messenger should refuse to leave it, excepting at hotels which generally do not give receipts for packages left in their care. Guests at hotels must therefore be informed that goods will be delivered in their absence at their own risk. Goods not delivered must be brought back by the messenger, and the receipt for them acknowledged in his delivery book by the shipping clerk. Shelves or a bin should be provided for the packages not delivered, so that they may be kept apart from the other goods until it can be decided what disposition is to be made of them. "C. O. D." goods should never be left at the house of the pur-

The messengers should be provided with everything necessary for the proper and safe delivery of goods, which should invariably be carefully and neatly wrapped up and plainly marked—in fact the address should always be written in large hand upon a printed label bearing the address of the firm. The outfit of a messenger should consist of a stout strap, a square of rubber cloth, a wallet and a delivery book. It is not unusual to require the messenger to deposit a sum equal to the value of his outfit to repay for the loss of any part of it, which amount is refunded in case he leaves or is dismissed. The messenger's delivery book is generally oblong, about  $4\frac{1}{2}$  x 9 inches, and ruled as below:

chaser unless paid for. The messenger is to be instructed not to hand in the goods, but to keep them in his possession and send in the unreceipted bill which accompanies the package. Upon receipt of the money he may sign the bill, and deliver the goods—but not before. The messenger should have no discretion in the matter. "C. O. D." means cash on delivery and can leave no room for doubt. If the party ordering the goods is not in, or has not left the money, or should wish to have the goods left on some pretext, without paying for them then and there, the messenger must politely but firmly insist upon taking his package back to the store and leave his employers to settle with the customer. At any rate he must not "think" for them unless specially instructed in the matter.

Books sent by mail should be duly recorded in a special book with an alphabetical index, giving the date when sent, and other particulars necessary for tracing the package in case of loss, or for other reasons. Books sent by express or otherwise should be recorded in a special express book also with an alphabetical index, and with headings as the following for instance:

Date.	Name and address.	Express receipt.
9/30/99.	Parker, J., Trenton, N. J.	Adams Express Williams.

Some prefer to keep only the receipt books supplied by the express companies. This is an inconvenient method when it becomes necessary to trace a package, while the method suggested renders such a course comparatively easy and secures as valid a receipt as that given in the company's books. The suggestions offered above may seem to call for an undue amount of clerical work; but that will be found in actual experience to be only seemingly so. On the other hand it will be found, especially in houses doing a large business, in which it becomes necessary almost daily to give an account of from one to a dozen packages, that the slight amount of extra work in keeping a detailed record of everything that passes through the shipping clerk's hands will, in an emergency, save him hours of time and no end of worry. But even in a small business the system outlined will give equal satisfaction when the proprietor or person in charge can convince a customer step by step, that so far as he was concerned his work was done as well and carefully as was possible.

COPYRIGHT IN CANADA

THE CANADIAN COPYRIGHT ASSOCIATION sent a delegation to Ottawa on the 22d inst. who had a three hours' interview with Sir John Thompson on the present position of copyright. Lord Ripon, as already noted, has refused to approve the Canadian legislation passed in 1889, pointing out that the existing treaty between Great Britain and the United States is sufficient to cover Canada, and that such a treaty ought to include copyright to United States citizens domiciled in Canada. So far Sir John Thompson has refused to give reciprocity in copyright to the United States in Canada, arguing that technically there is no treaty, since Canada was not a party to it. The matter was referred to a commission composed of foreign and colonial representatives to consider the whole matter. This commission has made a long report, in which are suggestions regarding amendments to the Canadian act of 1889. These suggestions are confidential for the present, but are understood to indicate a possible solution of the question pending between Canada and Great Britain on the subject of copyright.

VIEWS OF SOME FOREIGN AUTHORS ON THE AMERICAN COPYRIGHT LAW.

WM. HENRY BISHOP in the New York Times of the 23d inst. gives a very full account of the Convention of the International Literary and Artistic Congress held in Milan last month, from which we extract the following opinions of some of the members present regarding what they consider the "ambiguities" of the international copyright law:

"I believe it is agreed that the English authors are fairly well satisfied with the new American copyright law. Whereas they had nothing, now they have something; it has given a good many of them considerable pecuniary returns, and I know of one, at least, whose income it has doubled. They were not present in force at the congress to be consulted personally. All that portion of the question relating to England is a division apart, the main division naturally.

"The attitude of the Continental authors toward our law is this: They are puzzled and dazed by it. They think the two conditions, requiring the refabrication of their book in America and its simultaneous issue as an essential to copyright, make the law a mere mockery in their hands. Still, they are not indignant. They are perfectly well posted on the history of the gallant struggle for international copyright in the United States and the rapid growth of public enlightenment on the subject, and they wait expectantly, I trust with reason, for something better. President Pouillet, of the Association Littéraire et Artistique, has said, in one of the earnest reports devoted to the subject, that if the law was to be considered as the final word of the American legislator it would not be worth even the pains of a mention; M. Darras thought the conditions it imposed were so onerous that it must remain, the greater part of the time, a dead letter; M. de Varigny, in the Revue des Deux Mondes, inclined to suggest legitimate reprisals by equally hampering the protection of American patents, a more vulnerable interest abroad than our literature; M. Lermine has reviewed forcibly the 'strangeness'—he takes care to call it a parliamentary word—of the conceptions that first opposed all legislation and then managed to some extent to creep into the bill in its passage; M. Wauwermans, in a Belgian treatise, has shown its rigors, especially for young authors, its preventive character for all who have not the daring or the resources to publish in both countries at once. But they are gratified that the principle of justice is recognized, and they hope the law is but the entering wedge.

"What is a particular hardship for Continental authors is that they should be obliged to republish their book, not merely in one form, like the English, but in two. Naturally the English translation must be issued in America; but the book in the original language must be there too in order to secure the copyright. In looking at the law, which, in a later clause, allows the free importation of books in foreign languages, it seems as if this must have been an oversight. It is certainly not in the interest of printers, but quite the contrary, for the issue in the foreign language will simply not be made, while the spread of translations, which would be increased by an easy relation in this matter, will be checked. Zola has published in both languages in the United States, and this may be so with great celebrities to a limited extent, but I am told that even Zola is not content with his venture. He has drawn little profit from it and is not ready to repeat it.

"Some American publishers have proposed to French authors to publish their books first in the English translation, translating them back afterward, as it were, into the original; but a cautious adviser in one of their business bureaux in Paris counsels them against this, for fear of losing equal or greater rights abroad. Again, the exaction of the same day of publication on both sides of the Atlantic is most oppressive. Besides ruling out entirely the feuilleton form of publication, how many chances of calamitous error, even in the mails, what solicitude, what expensive employment of agents are necessitated by this rigid and quite needless demand! If those who have certain articles to deposit in the mails, on American soil, at a fixed time, could deposit them instead with the American consuls, a trifling amount of comfort would be given them. Without hoping for the immediate amendment of the law in a large way, it certainly seems as if it might be revised in these petty matters, and also in the way of clearing up its obscurities of language. For worse than all the rest, I believe, are the doubts that arise from its phraseology, in a number of passages, as to what one is protected in doing or not doing. Little wonder that there should be hesitations here, when even Mr. Spofford, the Librarian of Congress, charged with carrying out its provisions, has spoken of it as 'very blind in parts.' I doubt if even the most strenuous intriguer for local interests in the bill meant to keep the legal fraternity in mind and merely offer foreign authors the luxury of unlimited lawsuits.

"A test case on one of the doubtful points had been mooted. An American publisher—and I have no doubt in good faith—had offered to undertake the suit for them himself and pay all expenses. 'But we have refused,' said my informant, cautiously. 'When we undertake such a thing we prefer to do it ourselves, by our own attorney. Who knows but some little collusion between the publisher and the other side might purposely mismanage the thing, and so get us entirely robbed of a right which we at least seem to have under the bill? Such things have been heard of.' He could hardly be blamed for this sceptical temper, but see what a hesitating, timorous state of mind it indicates.

"Nevertheless the law has certain advantages and it has been accepted under its reciprocity article by the greater part of Europe. I found Italy, my own most immediate interest in the mission confided to me by the Copyright League, all ready to go into it. This had come about through a conflict of interests. The musical and art publishers, not being subject for their productions to the refabrication clause, were in favor; the book publishers opposed. Had it not been for the unfortunate New Orleans difficulty and the absence of an Italian Minister from Washington, I am of opinion that it would have gone through long ago. The pillaging of Mascagni's operas, one of the most notorious instances of recent times, gave good ground for reflection. His publisher, Souzogne, and the yet greater one, Ricordi, are now holding back work to which they hope to give the benefit of the new treaty that has been already arranged. Possibly President Harrison will have proclaimed it even before these lines reach America. The Printers and Publishers' Association, under the lead of Treves, protested against the conclusion of a treaty, but the Ministry returns them a rather sharp answer, based upon regard for the superior interest. The treaty has been signed at Rome and despatched to Washington.

"The news is favorable also from Austria-Hungary. The Austro-Hungarian Publishers' Association has petitioned its government to conclude with the United States a literary convention, similar to that existing between the United States and Germany. There remain scarcely more than Spain, Holland and the Scandinavian countries—these last in the process of harmonizing and codifying their legislation and likely to act together. It can be but a question of a short time when all will come in and our union with Europe be complete. The dignified association will have its effect upon us, and it is not likely that our country, which prides itself upon clear-cut, practical ideas, will long resist the simplifying, unifying influence of the convention of Berne."

SYNDICATE OF ASSOCIATED AUTHORS AND ITS VOYAGE OF DISCOVERY.

THE SYNDICATE OF ASSOCIATED AUTHORS was organized on Monday, October 24, in New York City. The first meeting was held in the Astor House, Colonel T. W. Knox presiding. The purpose of the association is to "place the productions of its members before the press of the country without the intervention of agents or syndicates." The membership will probably be limited to 20. So far 19 have assented to the articles of agreement. Their names are: George P. Lathrop, Thomas Nelson Page, Thomas A. Janvier, Frank R. Stockton, Melville Phillips, Eugene Field, Joel Chandler Harris, Colonel Thomas W. Knox, John Habberton, Mr. Beach, editor of the New York Sunday Sun; Julian Ralph, W. J. Henderson, Charles De Kay, Julian Hawthorne, William Drysdale, M. Paul Blouet ("Max O'Rell"), A. Conan Doyle, Paul B. Du Chaillu, and D. L. Dawson. Letters were read from Charles Dudley Warner, Thomas Nelson Page, H. C. Bunner, Capt. Charles King, Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis, and others, and an executive committee, consisting of Messrs. Henderson, Drysdale and Phillips, was appointed to complete the organization.

The most interesting announcement made by the syndicate is that it will send a number of noted writers on a voyage of discovery around the world after literary material. The following gentlemen will compose the members of the expedition: Julian Hawthorne, the novelist, who is to be the leader; Melville Phillips, literary editor of the Philadelphia Press; Paul Du Chaillu, Dr. R. N. Keely, Richard A. F. Penrose and Rogers Rich. Mr. Rich will be the artist and Mr. Penrose the geologist of the expedition. Science will have as its other representatives a naturalist and conchologist. Julian Hawthorne and Melville Phillips will be accompanied by their families. The syndicate will charter a schooner, which will be named the Sargasso. They will join the New York Yacht Club in order to have the advantages of membership in that organization, and expect to sail from New York about January 1. The expedition will be a literary one, with scientific research, however, as a secondary object.

It is expected eventually to circumnavigate the globe, the special object being descriptive stories and romantic fiction based on the life and scenes of the foreign lands visited. Among the most important objects of the expedition is the collection of curiosities of household economy among the aborigines of South America and the various islands visited.

COMMUNICATIONS.

AN APPEAL TO BOOKSELLERS TO ORGANIZE.

RICHMOND, VA., October 20, 1892.

THE idea of a Booksellers' Association, as most of your readers know, is almost as old as the trade itself. Many such associations have been born only to give up their existence after a few months or years; but I believe that the time has now come when such organizations—State and National—can live and benefit all branches of the trade. Does any one believe that the confusion and disorder into which the trade has fallen in so many States could ever have occurred if properly managed book trade organizations had existed? Take, for instance, the condition of affairs in California last year. Recall the complaints published in your columns. Such disorganization could not have existed had the trade been harmoniously associated. Again, take the recent legislation in Missouri. I do not for a moment believe that the book trade of that State would ever have had such a law hanging over it as that passed this spring, if it had been organized, if it had fought the measure in a body, and had explained the results of the bill to the Legislature.

One of the most serious obstacles in the way of our efforts to organize in the different States has been indifference on the part of the trade. It seems to be the general belief that there is no use trying to improve matters, although it is acknowledged that they could not be worse—this in spite of the fact that the two States which have really tried organization have succeeded in obtaining better terms and in gaining many points that are bound to result in good to all concerned. It has even been intimated that I must be well paid for my efforts towards organizing such associations, though no one seems to know who would gain enough by the plan we advocate to justify them in employing me for the work. The plan suggested by me is the organization of State associations to deal with the text-book question. This could only benefit booksellers in their own States. After such associations had been formed in sufficient numbers to consider miscellaneous matters, I hope to see a National or at least an Inter-State association formed, in which each State shall be equally represented. If bookdealers would pause long enough in their rush for business to think this matter over, they would see for themselves that such a plan would benefit all alike—retailers, jobbers and publishers.

Let me name a few of the many ways in which such an association would be of advantage. First, the matter of money or profit: Suppose a book now costing the trade fifty cents net, but listed at $1.50, is published at seventy-five cents, which is all we actually get for it. Would not this stop the outrageous system of discounts to every one? Would not the lower list-price induce many to buy who now only read the publisher's advertisements and dismiss the volume from their minds as "too dear"? Would not this apparent lower price stop many dry-goods houses from handling books, as they could no longer use the remarkable difference between "Publisher's Price" and "Our Price"—the bait which is at present their strongest point? Second, would not such a plan put the trade on its proper footing as a profession, and cause a larger number and a better class of young men to enter the business, instead of seeking the crowded professions of law and medicine, thus giving us intelligent clerks, knowing more of the books on our shelves than titles and prices only? I could fill more of your space than you could give me, discussing these points, but I hope that these few lines will give to those who have not yet considered the matter some little idea of what such organizations could accomplish.

Now for a moment's glance at the matter from the publisher's standpoint: How many publishers are making money out of their business to-day? Very few, I venture to say. Why? They make more books and print larger editions, thus reducing the cost, but still they say their business does not pay. Again, why? Is it not because the sales are confined to such a short period that by the time the first cost of a book is cleared the dealer stops pushing it to take up a new book, without regard to its merits—in fact, seldom knowing the real worth of his stock—and thus the first publication is left on the hands of the publisher in large enough quantities to eat up what little profit he has made on the copies sold?

This letter is sent as an appeal to bookdealers all over the Union, in the hope that booksellers in every State may be sufficiently interested to meet and talk the matter over among themselves. Though only a few may respond, let these few organize. Others will come as soon as the first step forward is taken. For, while one may know much, no one knows all, and every one may be benefited by comparing notes with others from his own section, and still more by meeting members of the trade from different States.

In organizing be judicious; take only a few of the larger dealers, who can be relied on; get your association in working trim; then you will be in a position to decide whom to admit besides. Of course in the end you want all the dealers, but take them in gradually and carefully and under such restrictions as experience may suggest. Our officers are glad to assist as far as they can all associations in the work of organization.

I hope this winter to see many articles in the columns of the WEEKLY bearing on this subject and tending to the accomplishment of my desires—the organization of national associations, first of dealers, then of dealers and publishers.

H. M. STARKE.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE first number of a new trade organ has appeared in Melbourne entitled The Bookseller and Stationer. It is to be published monthly, and proposes to devote attention to the interests of the Australian trade.

AUTHORIZED articles on the portraits of the late Lord Tennyson from the pen of his friend, Theodore Watts, will be commenced in an early number of the Magazine of Art. The selection from the large number of existing portraits of the poet has been approved by Lord Tennyson's family and includes all that are authentic representations of him. Lady Tennyson and the Hon. Hallam Tennyson have taken special interest in the publication.

OBITUARY NOTES.

A LONDON despatch announces the sudden though not wholly unexpected death on the 20th inst. of Thomas Nelson, the senior member of the firm of Thomas Nelson's Sons. He was the younger son of Thomas Nelson, the founder of the house, and was about sixty-five years of age. He was admitted to the firm shortly after his elder brother, William, became a partner, about 1843, and undertook the energetic superintendence of the manufacturing department which, with the assistance of his brother, he raised from a very modest beginning to the rank of one of the most important book-making plants in England. To Mr. Thomas Nelson is due the credit of having originated and developed the extensive series of school-books issued by his firm, and he also was chiefly instrumental in perfecting the various processes which give to the books published with imprint of Thomas Nelson's Sons the distinctive artistic appearance for which they long ago became famous. We postpone to a later issue a fuller obituary notice.

PROF. WILLIAM SWINTON, the well-known author of the series of school-books that bears his name, died suddenly at the Neufville Flats, at 252 West Eighty-fourth Street, New York, on the 25th inst. Prof. Swinton was born at Salton, near Edinburgh, Scotland, April 23, 1833, and came to this country when very young. During the war he was in the field as correspondent of the New York Times. Later he took a chair in the California State University. This professorship he held at his death. Through his numerous and popular school-books he became as well known as his brother, John Swinton. He was also the author of a number of military books, the best known of which are the "History of the Army of the Potomac" and "The Twelve Decisive Battles of the War."

LEVI WILLARD, who for many years conducted a book and stationery store in Troy, N. Y., died at his home in that city, the 14th inst., after a long illness. He was born at Schenectady, June 26, 1819, and entered the employ of ex-Mayor Foster, selling newspapers. For years afterward he was a wholesale dealer, controlling the circulation of the local daily papers. He sold his interest in the newspaper trade and devoted the remainder of his business career to the book business, retiring five years ago.

CAMILLE FÉLIX MICHEL ROUSSET, the French historian, died on the 21st inst., aged 71 years. His historical works are numerous, probably the best known being the "History of the War in the Crimea" and the "Conquest of Algeria."

ALBERT MILLAUD, French dramatist and wit, died in Paris on the 22d, aged 56.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

WILLIAM WESTALL's next novel will be issued simultaneously in the (London) Weekly Budget, and in P. F. Collier's (New York) Once a Week. Mr. Collier has secured the rights for America and Canada.

MR. W. L. ALDEN, formerly the "fifth-column" man of the New York Times, a writer of boy's stories and late American Consul-General at Rome, has just written a novelette with the title "A Lost Soul."

"THE COUNT ZUBOFF" is suspected of being the author of the Boston society novel, "Mrs. Harry St. John," just published by Morrill, Higgins & Co. Town Topics thinks "it looks very much as if he were the man."

CAPTAIN A. F. MAHAN, U. S. N., has prepared a Second Part of his important work, "The Influence of Sea Power upon History." This will be published in two volumes, by Little, Brown & Co., under the title of "The Influence of Sea Power upon the French Revolution."

FREDERICK EVANS, described as an author, was charged on remand last week in London, with unlawfully obtaining by false pretences a check-book from the Anglo-Austrian Bank, 31 Lombard Street. Among his effects was an American passport in the name of Manon Humboldt.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Lyman V. Brazer, bookseller, has removed his stock to the building 1905 Second Avenue, next door to the People's Savings Bank.

BLUE HILL, NEB.—Cary E. Norris, bookseller, has sold out.

CARTHAGE, MO.—Mrs. Hattie Marx has purchased an interest in Gard's bookstore.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.—Sydney Cosine, of Graham, Ia., has purchased a bookstore at this place.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Polyglot Book Co. has been incorporated.

COLUMBIA, TENN.—O. P. Rutledge has purchased the bookstore of Vesey & Edsall, and will continue the business at the same place. Mr. Vesey will have charge of the store, but Mr. Rutledge will take general control.

FORT MADISON, IA.—The old-established book establishment of R. W. Albright & Sons has passed into the hands of J. Will Campbell & Co.

FORT WAYNE, IND.—On October 11 A. C. Katt & Co., booksellers, were succeeded by Eugenia H. Lehman & Co. Miss Lehman, for the past thirteen years saleslady for Geo. De Wald & Co., has associated with her two other well-known Fort Wayne ladies as silent partners in the business, and under the firm-name of Eugenia H. Lehman & Co. the business will be conducted hereafter. Mr. Katt retires to give his attention exclusively to other branches of business.

HASTINGS, NEB.—A new stationery and bookstore will be opened here.

HOLLAND, MICH.—Swift & Martin, stationers and booksellers, have been succeeded by Huizenga & Martin.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN.—Morgan's bookstore, formerly on Delaware Street, has been removed to Fifth Street, in the Thomas Block.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—F. F. Hansell & Bro.'s large book and stationery store, Nos. 94 and 96 Canal Street, New Orleans, La., was badly damaged by fire at an early hour on the morning of October 10. Hansell & Bro.'s stock was valued at $70,000 and was damaged about $50,000, fully covered by insurance.

THREE RIVERS, MICH.—Jesse Muncey, for many years employed in Bellamy's bookstore, at Kankakee, Ill., has purchased a bookstore here.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE publication of Mr. R. L. Stevenson's "Beach of Falesá," which it was intended to issue this autumn, has been postponed till next year.

THE third annual dinner of the London Booksellers' Society was held on the 20th at the Holborn restaurant, Walter Besant presiding. A report of the dinner will be given in a later issue.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. have in press "Greeley on Lincoln," edited by Joel Benton. This address will be supplemented by many letters from Mr. Greeley to Mr. Dana and to a lady friend.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., will publish November 5 a timely book entitled "The Law of Public Health and Safety," by Levy Parker, formerly President of the State Board of Health of Michigan, and R. H. Worthington, of the New York bar, who have been engaged upon its preparation over three years.

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' CLUB, of New York, instead of the usual "smoker" in November, will give a Thanksgiving banquet at the club-rooms, 15 West Thirty-first Street. All travellers are invited to communicate with the club for particulars, or to President Knott, care of the Ph. Hake Manufacturing Company, who will be happy to give all information.

THE good news reaches us that a new edition of the Whittaker's "Reference Catalogue of Current Literature" will be issued during the coming year. The great increase in the bulk of the volume, and the proportionate increase in the extent of its index, has very considerably added to the cost of production. The publishers have therefore found it necessary to advance the price to the trade.

THE question of imposing a royalty on the Book of Common Prayer has been definitely settled at the Episcopal General Convention at Baltimore on the 25th inst., the House of Deputies refusing to appoint another conference committee. The bishops heretofore had agreed to a royalty, but every attempt to have the House concur has failed. At a previous meeting both houses voted not to copyright the prayer-book.

THE CALIFORNIA BOOK COMPANY, San Francisco, Cal., have in preparation "The Book of the Fair: an historical, descriptive and picturesque presentation of the world's science, art and industry as viewed through the Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893," by Hubert Howe Bancroft. The work will be a broad imperial (12x16 inches) of about a thousand pages, and will be printed in the best manner possible.

IBSEN RECITALS.—Fräulein Eugenie Wohlmuth, the well-known lecturer and author of Vienna, will deliver another Ibsen recital on Monday afternoon, November 1, in the Music Hall, at Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, New York. Fräulein Wohlmuth has distinguished herself on several occasions in Vienna and elsewhere as an Ibsen reader of power and discernment. Her first recital here was Ibsen's dramatic poem "Brand." The second one, on Monday, will be from "Rosmersholm."

WM. HEINEMANN, London, has just published "The Recollections of a Spy," a book by Major

Henri Le Caron, who has spent twenty-five years in the British service, and whose connection with the Parnell trial is not yet forgotten. Mr. Heinemann has nearly ready the long-promised study of Tennyson by Arthur Waugh. The volume will include much material which has not hitherto been brought together, and will be illustrated with a number of photographs specially taken for the work. The exact title of the volume will be "Alfred, Lord Tennyson: a study of his life and work."

THE REV. E. E. HALE says (in Lend a Hand) of the late Daniel Lothrop that he was one of the few publishers who could plan a book in advance. "He could think who would write it well; he would go personally to that man and persuade him to write it. Mr. Lothrop's characteristics as a publisher have been summed up in two phrases of his own:

"1. Never to publish a book purely sensational, no matter what the chances of money it has in it.

"2. To publish books which will make for true, steadfast growth in right living."

THE trustees of the Lenox Library have in preparation a volume containing in bold plain type the four original Latin editions of the Columbus letters announcing the discovery of the new world, together with a revised translation in English, and an introduction giving a brief account of the various letters known to be in existence. The volume comprises sixty-one pages, the introduction, which is by the assistant librarian, Wilberforce Eames, being followed by the fac-similes of the pictorial edition in ten leaves, showing the curious wood-cuts which have been attributed to Columbus himself. The volume, limited to 250 copies, will be printed by the De Vinne presses. The book is peculiarly appropriate at this quadricentennial season of festivities, and will doubtless be warmly welcomed. The trustees of the library have purchased from Bernard Quaritch, of London, the recently discovered original Spanish letter printed at Barcelona.

HARPER & BROTHERS have nearly ready "The Armies of To-Day," a comprehensive exposition of the armies of the United States and Europe—their organization, discipline, comparative efficiency and cost. Each army is described by one of its own officers, and the illustrations are from drawings made by T. de Thulstrup, after close personal observation. Other books announced for early publication are: James Ford Rhodes' two volumes, "History of the United States," covering the period from 1850-1860; "In Praise of Paris," a series of brilliant descriptive papers, by Theodore Child; "Along New England Roads," by William C. Prime; "A Tour Around New York," and "My Summer Acre," two amusing sketches by John Flavel Mines; and a most complete and well-arranged manual of information as to "Chicago and the World's Fair," by Julian Ralph. A new novel will be "An Earthly Paragon," a clever story of life in the mountain region of Kentucky, by Eva Wilder McGlasson. For young readers Charles Carleton Coffin has written a biography of "Abraham Lincoln," which will be issued in uniform style with "The Boys of '76;" and "The Moon Prince," an extravaganza by R. K. Munkittrick is promised for early publication in Harper's Young People (New) Series.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Some Recent Issues.

Woman—Through a Man's Eyeglass.

By MALCOLM C. SALAMAN. With illustrations by Dudley Hardy. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

"Written with brightness and elegance, and with touches here and there of both caustic and kindly humor. The book is daintily got up, and is embellished with illustrations by Dudley Hardy in his happiest sketchy vein."—London Telegraph.

The Truth About Beauty.

By ANNIE WOLF, author of "Pictures and Portraits of Foreign Travel," "Pen Pictures of London Society," etc. Elegantly illustrated by W. P. Hooper. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

An indispensable volume, and one that should be found in every woman's boudoir. It contains practicable and valuable hints and suggestions for preserving the freshness of youth, and banishing the evidences of care and carelessness. The work is beautifully illustrated and attractively bound, making a very acceptable gift-book.

The Woman Who Stood Between.

By MINNIE GILMORE, author of "A Son of Esau," "Pipes from Prairie Land," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

A powerful novel, dealing in a masterful way with the problem of the classes and the masses. Those who were delighted with the poetical beauties of "A Son of Esau" will be amazed at the vigorous terseness of this work.

Scarabæus :

The Story of an African Beetle. By the Marquis CLARA LANZA and JAMES CLARENCE HARVEY. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25.

This book is sure to meet with popular favor, because it has the element of being continually interesting. New complications and new situations continually arise to arouse and keep alive the sympathies of the reader and the very close of the volume.

Better Dead, and My Lady Nicotine.

By J. M. BARRIE, author of "The Little Minister," "When a Man's Single," etc. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Better Dead" is a strong character sketch, and from those who read the story it will call forth another vote of praise for the author of "The Little Minister."

"My Lady Nicotine" is a veritable "study in smoke," and will therefore appeal the more strongly to those who are lovers of the weed. Yet in no sense are these delightful essays for one class only, for no one can fail to appreciate their delicate humor and fine character sketching, as well as their unmistakable literary value.

Mea Culpa :

A Woman's Last Word. By HENRY HARLAND (Sydney Luska), author of "As It Was Written," etc., etc. 12mo, paper, 50 cents. Also in cloth, ornamental, $1.25.

"This novel contains some fine and subtle analyses of the heart, while the author's character painting is masterly. Altogether, this work is considerably above the rank of the commonplace novel both in workmanship and in its moral lesson."—Public Opinion.

Gossip in a Library.

By EDMUND GOSSE. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25. (New edition.)

"A delightful volume of interesting short talks on the history and contents of certain famous or curious books. The chapters are colloquial in tone, informal and chatty, the reader feeling himself at home before these treasured book cases, and following with interest the easy flow of Mr. Gosse's talk."—Book Chat.

The Adventures of John Pas-Plus.

By the MARQUIS OF LORNE. Square 12mo, paper, 25 cents.

The adventures herein described are neither wonderful nor extravagant in point of valor or probability. It is a page from the book of nature, of rare beauty, and affording a realistic picture of the workings of an untutored mind.

The Great Streets of the World.

Fully illustrated. Large 8vo, $4.00.

BROADWAY, by Richard Harding Davis—PICCADILLY, by Andrew Lang—THE BOULEVARDS, by Francisque Sarcey—UNTER DEN LINDEN, by Paul Lindau—THE CORSO OF ROME, by W. W. Story—THE GRAND CANAL, by Henry James—THE NÉVSKY PROSPÉKT, by Isabel F. Hapgood.

This volume is a thoroughly international one. The streets are chosen because each is full of that peculiar life, color and action which constitute the distinguishing charm of the cities themselves. The illustrations are numerous and handsome, and represent the best work of eminent artists and engravers.

The Children of the Poor.

By JACOB A. RIIS. Illustrated. Square 12mo, $2.50.

A companion and supplement to Mr. Riis' well known "How the Other Half Lives," and, like that work, the result of close personal observation of the social condition of the poor. It is illustrated from photographs by the author.

Plays by Henley and Stevenson.

Three Plays by W. E. HENLEY and R. L. STEVENSON. Printed on special hand-made paper, rough edges. 12mo, $2.00, net.

The three plays in this volume, "Deacon Brodie," "Beau Austen" and "Admiral Guinea," have the distinction of being literature as well as drama, and as such will interest all admirers of these two well-known authors.

The Battles of Frederick the Great.

Abstracted from Thomas Carlyle's Biography of Frederick the Great. Edited by CYRIL RANSOME. With maps and illustrations. 12mo, $1.50.

Alcuin,

And the Rise of the Christian Schools. By ANDREW F. WEST, Ph.D., Professor of Latin and Pedagogics in Princeton University. 12mo, $1.00, net.

This new volume in The Great Educators Series reviews the life, teachings and influence of the great Yorkshire scholar who was the first to lay the foundation for a system of popular education.

MRS. OLIPHANT'S LATEST NOVEL.

The Cuckoo in the Nest.

By Mrs. OLIPHANT, author of "Diana," "The Perpetual Curate," etc. 12mo, cloth, ornamental, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"Seldom has Mrs. Oliphant portrayed a more charming character than Patty, the typical maid of the inn. The author's insight into the by-ways of manners and modes of thought of a certain class, Patty's toughness and determination, absolute want of reticence, ambition to resemble persons whom it is bitter to her to acknowledge inwardly superior, are all admirable."—The Athenaeum.

The Story of Ancient Sicily.

Phœnician, Greek and Roman. By E. A. FREEMAN. (No. 34 in the Story of the Nations Series.) Large 12mo, fully illustrated, cloth, $1.50.

This volume possesses an unique interest, in that the sheets had been passed for the press by Mr. Freeman just before his last journey—a journey to Spain. The narrative is brought down to the Roman dominion, and the last part of the book, which deals with Sicily as a Roman province, covers a period which is not considered in Mr. Freeman's monumental History of Sicily.

WAR STORIES,

1803-1814.

RECOLLECTIONS OF AN OLD SOLDIER OF THE GRAND ARMY.

CAPTAIN PARQUIN.

Illustrations by FÉLICIEN DE MYRBACH, HENRI DUPRAY, WALKER, LUCIEN
SERGENT, MARIUS ROY. Introduction by FREDERIC MASSON. FRENCH TEXT ONLY.

"THE INVASION," published last year, initiated the reader into all the miseries of the most fatal war which France ever sustained. The book which we publish this year recites the joys of triumph and the pride of victory. If the "Terrible Year" must not be forgotten, it is well to recall the days when the French entered as conquerors into Berlin, Vienna and Madrid and held in check during twenty-three years the European coalition, for there was, in fact, only one war—from 1792 to 1815, because Europe has only a single enemy—the Revolution, of which Napoleon is the soldier.

Enlisted at the age of sixteen, Parquin took part in all the campaigns from that of Prussia to that of France. A soldier by vocation, satisfied and glorious at having risen after six years of service, three campaigns and two wounds to the grade of officer, he relates naively, without emphasis or rhetoric, the great events in which he acted his small part. The facts he recounts, after being carefully verified in the service reports, were found rigorously exact, and yet Parquin had not before him the manuscript and printed documents which we possess, for often he distorts names, and hardly ever does he spell them as they appeared in the regimental rolls. It is, therefore, only his memory which guides him; an imperturbable memory which, for all Parquin saw, merits the most absolute confidence. Besides, he does not boast of having invented strategic movements, given advice to generals or being misunderstood; he is not a malcontent; he loves his chiefs, his subordinates, and, above all, his Country, his Flag and his Emperor. He sees events as a sub-officer, a lieutenant and an intelligent captain only can see them. But what he relates he has seen; and, no doubt, this book, known only yesterday to the few, will to-morrow become the breviary of soldiers; it will show them what were able to do for the honor of the French name those men whose history could only be written by themselves, so unheard of was it in audacity, good fortune and glory.

Moreover, to give this book the same aspect as its predecessor, and to merit from the public the same success which was obtained by "The Invasion," the publishers have not hesitated, notwithstanding the increased number of pages, to follow exactly the same profuse illustration. "The Invasion" had one hundred and sixty-five illustrations; "The Recollections of Captain Parquin" have nearly two hundred. The same number of illustrations in colors and full-page engravings, due to artists of the first rank and reproduced by the special processes controlled by us, the whole forming the most admirable and graphic History of the Empire.

THE RECOLLECTIONS OF CAPTAIN PARQUIN.

Forming a Magnificent Quarto Volume of more than Three Hundred Pages. Each page of text ornamented by a drawing in black. The illustrations include in addition: Twenty plates in colors, of which four are double-page; Twenty-two plates in black, of which eight are double-page. A total of One Hundred and Ninety Illustrations.

NEW YORK, November 5, 1892.

WHOLE No. 1084.

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF

An Attic Philosopher in Paris.

OR, A PREP AT THE WORLD FROM A GARRET. Being the Journal of a Happy Man. By EMILE SOUVESTRE. 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

The great popularity of "An Attic Philosopher in Paris," by Emile Souvestre, has led the publishers to prepare this fine illustrated edition, uniform with the illustrated edition of "Colette." For this volume a large number of full-page and vignette illustrations have been made by the French artist Jean Claude, the illustrator of "Colette." A rich binding has been specially designed, and this volume, considering the fine literary quality of the text and the daintiness of the book's appearance, will, it is believed, prove one of the most popular of the autumn books.

Abraham Lincoln: The True Story of a Great Life.

By WILLIAM H. HERNDON and JESSE W. WEIK. With numerous illustrations. New and revised edition, with an introduction by Horace White. In two volumes, 12mo, cloth, $3.00.

This is probably the most intimate life of Lincoln ever written. The book, by Lincoln's law-partner, William H. Herndon, and his friend Jesse W. Weik, shows us Lincoln the man. It is a true picture of his surroundings and influences and acts. It is not an attempt to construct a political history, with Lincoln often in the background, nor is it an effort to apotheosize the American who stands first in our history next to Washington. The writers knew Lincoln intimately, and their biography must take permanent rank as the best and most illuminating study of Lincoln's character and personality.

Warriors of the Crescent.

By the late W. H. DAVENPORT ADAMS, author of "Battle Stories from English History," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This story of Oriental magnificence, of glittering campaigns, fatalistic heroism, and the pillage of the marvelous riches of India by the Sultans of Ghazni and their followers, comes to the reader like new tales of the Arabian Nights. Mr. Adams' graphic, vivid style clothes history with the garb of romance.

Mona Maclean, Medical Student.

By GRAHAM TRAVERS. No. 104, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This is a story with a romantic plot and entertaining characters, and not simply a "novel with a purpose." It is believed to be the first novel to treat of the medical education of women from a woman's point of view.

Mrs. Bligh.

A Novel. By RHODA BROUGHTON, author of "Good-bye, Sweetheart," "Nancy," etc. No. 105, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

A new and charming story by an always popular novelist.

NEW ONE-VOLUME EDITION OF

An Englishman in Paris.

Notes and Recollections. Two volumes in one. 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

"GOOD BOOKS FOR YOUNG READERS SERIES."

Along the Florida Reef.

By CHARLES F. HOLDER, joint author of "Elements of Zoölogy." With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A story of camping and fishing adventures in company with a naturalist in Florida. The author combines entertainment and instruction, and his book is filled with illustrations which will be prized by every young reader who has ever visited the seashore, or cares for information regarding fishes, shells, and the various forms of marine life.

In the Boyhood of Lincoln.

A Story of the Black Hawk War and the Tunker School-master. By HAZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH, author of "The Zigzag Books," "The Log School-House on the Columbia," etc. With many illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Butterworth describes the boyhood of Abraham Lincoln, and the strange life of the early days in the middle West. No boy or girl who wishes to understand the earlier life of one of the greatest of Americans can ignore this book—a romance founded upon fact.

NOTES IN SEASON.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. have now in press and will shortly issue a translation by Mrs. Mary Bushnell Coleman of the "Youth of Frederick the Great," by M. Ernest Lavisse, of the Sorbonne, Paris, whose recent election to the Academy created so much interest.

JOHN MURPHY & Co., Baltimore, Md., will publish on December 1 the "Memories of the Professional and Social Life of John C. Owens," the comedian, already described by us. They have in press "Columbus the Catholic," by George Barton, of the Philadelphia North American.

THE CUPPLES COMPANY, Boston, announce for immediate publication: "Heinrich Heine's his wit, wisdom, poetry," preceded by the famous essay on Heine of Matthew Arnold, edited by Newell Dunbar; "The Real and Ideal in Literature," a volume of essays by Frank Preston Stearns, with a portrait of the late Frederick Wadsworth Loring; and "Txlama: a tale of ancient Mexico," a romance of the time of Cortez, by J. A. Knowlton.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just issued their holiday editions of George William Curtis' "Prue and I," illustrated by Albert Sterner; and Henry James' "Daisy Miller" and "An International Episode," with illustrations by Harry McVickar, of which books they have also made limited editions de luxe; "The Praise of Paris," by Theodore Child, profusely illustrated; "A Tour Around New York," being the recreations of Felix Oldboy, a series of sketches written for the daily papers, by John Flavel Mines, and fully illustrated; "Along New England Roads," by W. C. Prime; "An Earthly Paragon," by Eva Wilde McGlasson, and "Macloed of Dare," in the New and Revised edition of Black's novels.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready Hawthorne's "Wonder-Book," beautifully illustrated in colors by Walter Crane, and handsomely bound; Dr. Holmes' "Dorothy Q.," together with "A Ballad of the Boston Tea-Party" and "Grandmother's Story of Bunker Hill Battle," illustrated by Howard Pyle and issued in companion form to "The One-Horse Shay," which was their leading holiday book last year; a handsome two-volume edition of Charles Dudley Warner's "In the Levant," fully illustrated with photographs; "Winterborough," a novel of New England life, by Eliza Orne White; "Cæsar," the third volume in Col. T. A. Dodge's Series of Great Captains; a new revised edition of Professor Norton's translation of "Dante's New Life (Vita Nuova)," and a limited large-paper edition of Professor Norton's scholarly translation of Dante's "Divine Comedy and New Life," issued in four volumes and beautifully printed.

WM. DOXEY, San Francisco, Cal., will publish immediately a volume of literary essays by the late Judge T. H. Rearden, entitled "Petrarch, and other essays." The book will contain a portrait and a sketch of the life of the author, and will be well printed from type, and handsomely bound. A special edition of 150 copies on Van Gelder paper will also be issued. It is proposed during the next year to publish "Lesbian Lyrics: the fragments of Alcæus and Sappho," upon the editing and annotating of which Judge Rearden spent his most serious literary efforts during the best years of his life. Mr. Doxey will also publish at once, in a tasteful holiday form, a poem entitled "The Sleeping Princess California," by Alice Edwards Pratt. The book will contain sixteen half-tone illustrations of California scenery and flowers; a new edition of W. E. Brown's "Jack and Jill," which will contain six additional full-page illustrations and an introductory essay by Joaquin Miller; the fifth thousand of "Borrowings," a dainty little volume of selections from great writers, compiled by the ladies of the First Unitarian Church, Oakland, in a new and tasteful binding; and "At the Gates of Light," and other poems, by Mrs. E. Amie S. Page: which will be ready in time for the holidays.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); (O. 4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl. nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Alert stories (The). N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, [1892.] 8 v., il. S. cl., $2.

Contents: Careless Maggie, and other stories, 4-49 p.; Child days and child ways, 4-55 p.; Daisy's pastime, and other stories, 4-52 p.; Kitty-cats, and other stories, 4-51 p.; Some dogs I know, and other stories, 4-54 p.; Sunny hours for little folks, 4-54 p.; Three pairs of eyes, and other stories, 4-47 p.; Town sparrows, and other stories, 4-52 p.

Appleton, Rob. (pseud.) Mrs. Harry St. John: a realistic novel of Boston fashionable life. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., [1892.] c. 3-405 p. il. O. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

The name of "Robert Appleton" is said to hide the identity of a false Count who was exposed and expelled from Boston society. In revenge he has written a far from flattering or charitable description of the manners, customs, virtues and vices of the Back Bay society. The central figure represents an unfaithful wife, whose various lovers are graphically portrayed, and whose false and silly views of life and love are given considerable space.

Babyland [1892]; ed. by the editors of Wide Awake. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 4-108 p. il. O. cl., $1; bds., 75 c. Large type; plenty of pictures.

Bangs, J: Kendrick. The Tiddledywick's poetry-book; il. by C: Howard Johnson. N. Y., R. H. Russell & Son, [The De Witt Pub. House,] 1892. c. unp. obl. D. bds., $1.

Funny stories in verse for young people, with equally funny pictures. There are thirty full-page illustrations, and colored borders to text.

Banks, Mrs. G. Linnaeus. Miss Pringle's pearls; il. by Frank Dadd. N. Y., T: Whitaker, [1892.] 4+280 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A story of English country home life. Miss Phillis Penelope Pringle is a quaint, noble little old maid, with an eccentric pride in her alliterative name, which she regards as symbolizing the "precious pearls" of "prudence, patience and piety." She plays an important part in the lives of her young relatives, and her despised "pearls" prove of value to their possessors. The dénouement is unexpected and reveals little Miss Pringle in an entirely new light.

Barbour, L. G., D.D. The end of time: a poem of the future. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 8+191 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The main story of the poem centres around a city in which is gathered the remnant of the Christians. The remainder of the believers in Christ have been killed in a religious war which has been waged by the opponents of Christianity, and now the remnant is besieged and the enemy seems likely to conquer. At this extremity, however, angelic help appears, the city is saved, time ends, eternity begins.

Barnes, Mary Sheldon. Studies in American history: teacher's manual. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1892. c. 3+155 p. D. (Heath's historical ser.) cl., 60 c.

Barrie, J. M. Better dead. [Also] My Lady Nicotine. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] 3-206 p. D. (Belmore ser., no. 10.) pap., 50 c.

See notices, "Weekly Record," P.W., March 28, 1891, [1000.] and Dec. 19, 1891, [1038.]

Bates, Charlotte Fiske, comp. The Cambridge book of poetry and song; selected from English and American authors: il. by Fredericks, Church, Dielman and others; with indexes of authors, titles and first lines. New illustrated ed. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 60+883 p. por. O. cl., $2.50.

*Battersby, C. Maud. Seven times in the fire: a story of France in Revolutionary times. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 159 p. 12", cl., 75 c.

Bjursten, Herman. The play of fate; from the Swedish by W. H. Myers. Chic., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., 1892. c. 739 p. il. D. (The optimus ser., no. 21.) pap., 50 c.

The misfortunes of Jacob Kron, the base-born son of a peasant and a Swedish noble, and incidents in the life of the eldest scion of the aristocratic Count Sterjnekraantz, with the action of other men of distinctively different types of manhood and social caste, serve the purpose of showing that men are but the playthings of fate. The scene is Sweden.

Black, W: Macleod of Dare. New [uniform] rev. ed. N. Y., Harper, 1892. 4+431 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Booth, Mrs. Otto, ["Rita," pseud.] Asenath of the ford: a romance of red-earth country. N. Y., J: A. Taylor & Co., [1892.] c. 4-358 p. D. (Broadway ser., no. 15.) pap., 50 c.

The red-earth country is Devonshire, the scene of the story. Asenath was called by her husband Asenath of the Ford because she was conveyed across a ford and left in the grounds of Westaway Hall. The mystery surrounding this incident, with some surprising revelations, are dramatically told by the heroine.

Bower, J: A. How to make common things for boys. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1892. 4-240 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Intended for young people who want to "make something," and have neither instructors nor elaborate tools. The author gives clear and simple directions for the construction of many useful things. Some of the chapter headings are: How to make a hat-rail; How to make a box and fit it; How to make a set of shelves; Outdoor buildings and structures; Indoor work; How to bind books and music; How to make models; Working in metals; How to make simple apparatus for chemical experiments; How to copy a medal or a cast; How to make some useful electrical appliances; A glossary of technical terms and an index to illustrations are appended.

*Boyce, Rubert. Text-book of morbid histology for students and practitioners. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. 477 p. il. 8", cl., $7.50.

Boyesen, Hjalmar Hjorth. Boyhood in Norway: stories of boy-life in the land of the midnight sun. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+243 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Ten short stories of Norwegian boy-life, its school feuds, secret societies, hunting expeditions, scrapes and merry-makings. Three of the tales: The wooden child, Bonnyboy, and The child of luck, were first printed in Harper's Young People. The others are: The battle of the rafts; Biceps Grimlund's Christmas vacation; The nixy's strain; The sons of the vikings; Paul Jespersen's masquerade; Lady Clare; The bear that had a bank account.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

Browning, Rob. Selections from the poetical works of Robert Browning. Lotus ed. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., 1892. c. '91. 282 p. il. D. hf. cl., $1.25; silk, $1.75.

The Lotus ed. is a series of twenty-four volumes, combining the best works of some of the most noted authors of poetry and prose, with photogravure frontispieces and title-pages printed by A. W. Elson & Co. from designs by Copeland, Garrett, Merrill and other artists.

Bulwer-Lytton, E. Rob., [Lord Lytton, pseud., "Owen Meredith."] Lucile. Olive ed. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] 4-860 p. D. embossed leather, $8.

Bunyan, J. The pilgrim's progress from this world to that which is to come; delivered under the similitude of a dream. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] 2-871 p. D. (White and gold ser. of religious classics.) cl., $1.25.

Burnand, Francis C. Black-eyed Susan; il. by G. W. Brenneman. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] c. unp. O. (Favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

This favorite ballad is beautifully illustrated with many page-pictures and is prettily bound. The music is also given. See also in same series Emmett and Schneckenburger.

Burns, Rob. Complete works; ed. from the best printed and manuscript authorities; with glossarial index and a biographical memoir by Alex. Smith. Mosaic ed. of red line poets. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] 62+686 p. 1 il. D. leather, $1.75.

Calmettes, Fernand. A fisher-girl of France; from the French; il. by the author. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. 4+286 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Elise Hélin, a native of a little French fishing hamlet on the English Channel, is the fisher-girl. She is nineteen when the story opens, and with her twelve-year-old brother ships on board the sloop Bon-Pêcheur for the herring fishery. Strong as a boy, an expert sailor, tender-hearted and forgiving, she has many rough experiences. She is parted from her brother, the cruise is unsuccessful, and the rude villagers think Elise the cause. Her dog Barbet is her only friend, until at last the clouds lighten and Elise gains the happiness she has so bravely earned.

Catlin, W. W., comp. Echoes of the Sunset Club; comprising a number of the papers read and addresses delivered before the Sunset Club, of Chicago, during the past two years. Chic., Howard, Bartels & Co., 28 Sherman st., [1892.] 2+235 p. O. cl.,

A few of the titles are: The duties and privileges of the public press, by C. C. Bonney; Newspapers, their rights and duties, by Elison Thompson; What shall we do with our criminals? by Judge J. P. Altgeld; Party allegiance, by Franklin MacVeagh; Land taxation as proposed by Henry George, by E. O. Brown; Nationalism as proposed by Edward Bellamy, by D. B. Jones; Our public school system, by G. Howland; The Sunday question, by Rob. Lindblom; Drones and parasites, by Arthur J. Eddy; Foreign trade and reciprocity, by Franklin MacVeagh.

Champney, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Witch Winnie's studio; or, the King's Daughter's art life; il. by J. Wells Champney. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. 3+289 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The heroine of "Witch Winnie; or, the story of a King's Daughter," and "Witch Winnie's mystery" appears in this story, not as a school-girl as in the two preceding stories, but as one of three art students. This time her companions are her former school-mates, Milly and Tib, who share with Winnie a studio in the vicinity of Washington square. The chief incidents are the forging of an old picture and Winnie's love-affair.

Cherbuliez, Victor. Prosper. [New issue.] N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co.,

1892.] c. '74. 2+289 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2021.) pap., 25 c.

Originally published in Holt's Leisure hour series, 1874.

Child, Theodore. The praise of Paris. N. Y., Harper, 1893 [1892.] c. 2+299 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

The introduction sums up the delights of literary, artistic and social Paris. This is followed by chapters on The banks of the Seine; Society in Paris; Life of Paris; The Parisienne; Le grand couturier (Worth, Mmes. Rodrigues, etc.); The boulevard; The duellists; Proletarian Paris; The Comédie-Française, and The Institute of France. Written from the standpoint of an observant resident more than that of a transient visitor. Bound in blue and silver.

Clarétie, Jules. Hypnotism. Chic., F. T. Neely, [1892.] 2-248 p. D. (Neely's lib. of choice literature, v. 1, no. 6.) pap., 50 c.

M. Clarétie states that this story of hypnotic suggestion is the result of experiments and observations made by him within and without the prison of the Salpêtrière, Paris. It deals with his belief that crime may be committed by one who is the unconscious instrument of another's will, and shows how, by a counter-hypnotic influence, the subject may be forced to reveal the details of the primitive suggestion. Published in 1885 in French under the title of "Jean Mornas."

Cleemann, T. M. The railroad engineer's practice: a short but complete description of the duties of the young engineer in preliminary and location surveys and in construction. 4th ed., rev and enl. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 8+190 p. il. pl. D. cl., $2.

Cracker, Francis B., and Wheeler, Schuyler S. The practical management of dynamos and motors. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 6+82 p. il. D. cl., $1.

The contents of this volume appeared as a series of articles in the Electrical Engineer between Sept., 1891, and May, 1892. Its object is to give simple directions for the practical use and management of dynamos and motors. The authors have taken special care to arrange the material so that the different subjects are treated separately and in the proper order, and the headings are printed in heavy type to facilitate ready reference to any subdivision.

Curtis, G. W. Prue and I; il. by Albert E. Sterner. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 14+272 p. O. silk, $3.50. Édition de luxe, [limited to 250 copies.] vellum, $15.

The illustrations of this new edition of one of Curtis' most popular productions are one hundred in number, including a photogravure frontispiece in tint. Mr. Sterner has caught the spirit of this prose idyl very happily and has interwoven his designs with the text in graceful and often original style. The introduction is a fac-simile reproduction of the author's manuscript.

Daily steps upward: selected readings for every day in the year. [New ed.] N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] c. '81, '92. unp. S. cl., $1.

A Scripture text and a poem for every day in the year.

Dale, Darley. The little doctor; or, the magic of nature; il. by Alex. Monro. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1892.] 3+209 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The scene is Sweden; Hans Dahl, the young son of a noted physician of Ostköpings, is so thoroughly imbued with a desire to learn magic that he fraternizes with Singar, a Gypsy lad, who undertakes to teach him with the proviso that Hans signs a contract binding himself for a year's service to the Gypsy; the issues of this compact are both good and evil, and they convey a moral.

Dante Alighieri. The new life of Dante Alighieri; tr. by C. Eliot Norton. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. '67-92. 3-167 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Mr. Norton has carefully revised his translation of Dante's Vita Nuova (which is devoted to Dante's love for Beatrice), that it may be in all respects uniform with his translation of the Divina Commedia recently completed.

Daudet, Alphonse. Robert Helmont: diary of a recluse, 1870-1871; tr. by Laura Ensor; il. by Picard and Montégut. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1892. 8+198 p. D. pap., $1; hf. leath., $1.50.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Sept. 8, 1888, [1887.]

Davis, R: Harding, Lang, Andrew, and others. The great streets of the world; il. by A. B. Frost, W. Douglas Almond, G. Jeannot and others. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 8+253 p. O. cl., $4.

The publishers have made a very handsome book, bound in cloth, with original cover design, of these articles, which were so highly spoken of during their appearance in Scribner's Magazine. The great streets are Broadway, by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by A. B. Frost; Piccadilly, by Andrew Lang, illustrated by W. Douglas Almond; Boulevards of Paris, by Francisque Sarcey, illustrated by G. Jeannot; The Corso of Rome, by W. W. Story, illustrated by Ettore Tito; The Grand Canal, by Henry James, illustrated by Alexander Tezzer; Unter den Linden, by Paul Lindau, illustrated by T. Stahl, and the Névsy Prospekt, by Isabel Hapgood, illustrated by Ilya Edmiovitch Répin.

Dent, C. T. Mountaineering; with contributions by W. M. Conway, D. W. Freshfield, C. E. Mathews and others; and an introd. by Justice Wills; il. by H. G. Willink and others. 2d ed. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1892. 20+499 p. il. D. (Badminton lib.) cl., $3.50.

Contents. The early history of mountaineering, by Sir F. Pollock; the contributions by C. T. Dent are, Equipment and outfit, Mountaineering and health, The principles of mountaineering, Reconnoitring, Snowcraft, Rock-climbing and Camping; Maps and guide-books, by W. M. Conway; Mountaineering beyond the Alps, by Douglas W. Freshfield; Climbing without guides, by Pilkington; Hill-climbing in the British Isles, by C. Pilkington; The recollections of a mountaineer, by C. E. Mathews; Sketching for climbers, H. G. Willink. Glossary and Index.

*Dexter, Franklin, M.D. The anatomy of the peritonæum. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. il. 12", cl., $1.50.

Divorce; or, the trials and temptations of a lovely woman. N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1892.] c. '86. 184 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2023.) pap., 25 c.
Octave Feuillet's comedy of Divorçons in story form.

Dodd, Mrs. Anna Bowman. In and out of three Normandy inns: with an accompaniment of illustrations by C: S. Reinhart and others. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 6+394 p. O. vellum, $5.

In this holiday edition of a work first published and noticed June 5, 1892, in the "Weekly Record," the text is printed in blue-black ink on extra heavy super-finished paper, while the twenty-four full-page illustrations are printed separately on Imperial Japanese paper in tints of sepia, ultramarine, purple, dark green, terra-cotta and olive. The binding is of white vellum, illuminated in gold and color, and is preserved by a red slip cover in the Roman style.

Dodge, Theodore Ayrault. Cæsar: a history of the art of war among the Romans down to the end of the Roman empire, with a detailed account of the campaigns of Caius Julius Cæsar; with 258 charts, maps, plans of battles and tactical manœuvres, cuts of armor, weapons and engines. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 16+789+3 p. por. il. O. (Great captains ser., no. 3.) cl., $5.

The basis of this book is, "Cæsar's Commentaries," the special flavor of which Colonel Dodge has retained by adhering closely to its narrative, and by frequent extracts. Maps of the theatre of Cæsar's campaigns and charts of his battlefields enable the reader to understand his movements and battles as readily as those of our Civil War. Colonel Dodge has visited all of Cæsar's battlefields, and made topographical sketches; he has followed the course of the Roman legions through Spain, France, Italy, Egypt, Northern Africa, Syria, and Greece. His criticisms are based on intimate acquaintance with the scenes, and on study of the ancient authorities and modern historians.

Doudney, Sarah. A child of the precinct: il. by Percy Tarrant. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] 4+292 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The scene is an old London precinct in the Strand. Essie Britton is suddenly separated from her childhood companions, forced to leave her home and live at Hinstone farm. After a lapse of years death causes another reverse, and she returns to her former London home. The story tells how the changes of people and surroundings affected Essie, of the return of her father, and how this latter incident led Osbert Bevell to express sentiments which resulted in a broken engagement and the renewal of an early romance.

Douglas, Amanda M. Sherburne House. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. 5+393 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The old, old story of the petted heir of an aristocratic Virginia family making a foolish match with an English dancing-girl, and the daughter by that marriage drifting back to the old homestead, where she proves a firebrand to all the peace and decorum of an ancient race. All ends well, and the book is full of lessons for those "standing with reluctant feet" between childhood and womanhood.

Drosines, G: Stories from fairyland. [Also] The cup of tears and other tales, by Aristotle Kourtidis; from the Greek by Miss Edmonds. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 9+158 p. il. S. (The children's lib.) bds., 75 c.

Eighteen fanciful stories, with apparent applications, are entitled: A grandfather's story; The maiden's three gifts; The musician and the dancer; The cousin of the rose; The death of the poppy; The wings of the soul; The cuckoo clock; The rook's bath; The mother's blessing; The foolish cricket; The two snails; The enchanted fountain; The parrot's language; The prince and his sister; The cup of tears; Two little boots; Our orphan; A hero's statue.

Eaton, Rev. Arthur Wentworth. College requirements in English entrance examinations. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 4-74 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Gives the books and the studies adopted by the commission of colleges in New England on admission examinations in English literature.

Eckenstein, Lina. The little princess and the great plot; il. by Dudley Heath. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 2+160 p. il. S. (The children's lib.) bds., 75 c.

Four stories: The little princess and the great plot; The prince and the toads; How the spirit fought the cat; The banished princess.

Emmett, Dan. I wish I was in Dixie's land; il. by G. W. Brenneman. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., 1892. c. unp. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c.; leatherette, $1.

Exquisite fool (An): a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 2+237 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 727.) pap., 50 c.

The title probably designates the hero, who has rather wasted his life in literary dreams and unprofitable retrospections. In London he meets a woman whom he knew as a girl fifteen years before. The story tells what happened in Baden-Baden at that time, and how the mother of his old acquaintance influenced his and her own life for good and ill. Helen Bonley, the mother, is a fine study in feminine character.

Fall, Delos. An introduction to qualitative chemical analysis by the inductive method: a laboratory manual for colleges and high schools. Bost., Leach, Shewell & Sanborn, [1892.] c. '91-'92. 6+85 p. O. cl., 60 c.

This manual is designed to impart but little chemical truth directly. It aims rather to lead the student to gain that truth himself as nearly as possible at first.

hand and as a product of his own thinking. This he is enabled to do without waste of time, guided as he is by the suggestions of the book and the constant provision of the live teacher."—Preface.

Fenn, G. Manville. Gil the gunner; or, the youngest officer in the East; il. by W. H. Overend. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1892.] 542 p. D. cl., $2.

Influence having secured for Gil Vincent, a commission in the East India service, he is ordered to join his regiment in India. Besides the daring exploit with which Gil began his voyage, much incidental matter is introduced with a description of the English barracks and a revolt of a native regiment. In this latter Gil distinguishes himself by concocting a plan to recapture the lost guns of the English regiment. On his mode of carrying out his scheme the interest of a story of adventure depends.

Fenn, G. Manville. The Rajah of Dah; il. by W. S. Stacey. N. Y., T. Whittaker, [1892.] 5-280 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Sixteen-year-old Ned Murray and his uncle, an ardent naturalist, start from the little trading-port of Dindong, near Singapore, on a collecting expedition up the Salan River into the interior of the Malay Peninsula. They enter the territory of the Rajah of Dah and find themselves virtually prisoners. Half a dozen other English people attached to the Rajah's staff are in a similar position. Their efforts to escape from this dangerous predicament make an interesting story, varied with accounts of crocodile fishing, tiger-hunts, etc.

Fezandie, Margaret. The soap-bubble drill: an entertainment for girls. Bost., Walter H. Baker & Co., 1892. c. '89. 10 p. D. (Baker's edition of plays.) pap., 15 c.

Foster, L. C., and Williams, Sherman, comps. Selections for memorizing for primary, intermediate and high-school grades. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. c. 8+195 p. 8. cl., 60 c.

It is now commonly believed that selections should be memorized in the various grades in schools, and that the selections should be made with reference to the teaching of patriotism and good morals, as well as the committing of selections from English literature that are well worth knowing and remembering. This book aims to meet that want. It contains all the selections that the Regents of the University of the State of New York mention in their syllabus as being required of pupils.

Freeman, E. A. The story of Sicily, Phœnician, Greek and Roman. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 11+378 p. il. D. (Story of the nations ser., no. 34.) cl., $1.50.

Sicily has never been a nation with a language and a history of its own. It has belonged in succession to many nations, and has been the battlefield of almost all the nations around the Mediterranean Sea—hence its history is one of the longest and most unbroken histories in Europe. This volume is one of the last works Mr. Freeman was engaged upon before his death, and it was his first intention to write two volumes, the first ending where this does, with the end of the Roman dominion, the second to begin with the coming of the Saracens, and to end with the merging of Sicily into the new Italian Kingdom. But he did not live to carry out his plans.

French, H. W. Through Arctics and Tropics around the world by a new path for a new purpose. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 318 p. il. O. cl., $1.50; bds., $1.

Accident reveals to two sturdy New England sailors, seventeen years of age, a plot by which a young girl, a school-mate of theirs, and the daughter of a Russian refugee, is to be cheated out of an immense property, by a Captain Downing, with whom they had often sailed. They follow the captain from port to port to thwart his plot, until finally they make a tour through both Arctics and Tropics around the world.

G., A. K. Night etchings. Phil. J. B. Lipincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 2-115 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A collection of short poems.

Gordy, W. F., and Twitchell, W. I. A pathfinder in American history. Pt. 1. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1893 [1892.] c. 11+102 p. D. cl., net, 60 c.

A guide and help for the scholar, teacher and general reader in the history of our country. It offers suggestions for history reading, and gives topical lists of literature, telling where the books can be found and what each costs. The reference lists are divided for first, second and third years; for a course in supplementary reading; for important anniversaries, etc. There is also a short list of the first books to buy.

Greener, W. W. The breech-loader, and how to use it. N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., 1892. 6+288 p. il. D. bds., $1.

The book is not written for experts, nor for those who have special opportunities for the acquisition of the art of shooting. Has chapters on the following: The shot-gun; On the choice and fit of a gun; Of the shape and dimensions of gun-stocks; Handling the gun; The essentials of a gun; Of shooting generally; Of trap-shooting. It aims to induce all who can to participate in a manly sport by proving that it is an inexpensive recreation.

Guthrie, Ellen E. The beacon light: a tale of the covenanters. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 128 p. il. 12°, cl., 50 c.

Hertefeld, A. The game of skat in theory and practice; tr. and ed. by Professor Hoffman, [pseud. for Angelo J. Lewis.] N. Y.,

G: Routledge & Sons, 1893 [1892.] 6+152 p. il. O. cl., $1.75.

The present volume, with the exception of the introductory chapter, is a direct translation of a German work, the editor assuming no higher responsibility than that of making the text fully intelligible to English readers. To that end brief notes have been added, and an obscure phrase here and there modified. The author of course speaks with authority on his subject, as "Skat" is a game which is still a novelty in this country.

*Hertter, Christian A., M.D. The diagnosis of diseases of the nervous system: a manual for students and practitioners. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. 8+628 p. 8°, cl., $3.

Holmes, Oliver Wendell. Dorothy Q.; together with A ballad of the Boston tea-party, and Grandmother's story of Bunker Hill battle; il. by Howard Pyle. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 74-92. 181 p. D. cl., $1.50. Edition de luxe, il. 8°, vellum, net, $5.

A companion volume to "The one-hoss shay," published last year. The poems are arranged in a chronological order, and are adorned and illustrated by a hundred designs of sketches of Colonial and Revolutionary life and exquisite decorative borders, and head and tail pieces. Bound from designs by Mrs. Henry Whitman.

*Horner, Jacob. Did a hen or an egg exist first? or, my talk with a septic; ed. by Ja. Crompton. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 96 p. 12°, cl., 75 c.

Hueffer, Ford H. Madox. The feather. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 2+212 p. 1 il. S. (The children's lib.) bds., 75 c.

Princess Ernalle was the daughter of the king of Noland, an undiscovered country. She had never been beyond her father's kingdom until she was stolen and transported to a high mountain by an eagle. From this time the child's life is an adventurous one. She suddenly gets possession of an eagle's feather, which renders her invisible to mankind, and which is the indirect cause of the strange incidents and romantic conclusion of a fanciful story.

Hugo, Victor. Les misérables; from the French by Isabel F. Hapgood. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. '87. 2 v., 5+227; 4+284 p. il. O. hf. cl., $3.

The editor of Folk Lore offers in this volume a representative collection of the fairy tales of India, which young readers will find as amusing as "Celtic fairy tales," previously issued.

James, Bushrod W., M.D. Alaskana; or, Alaska in descriptive and legendary poems. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1892. c. 368 p. il. D. cl., $2.

Alaskan legends, ethnology, customs and scenery are described in forty-four poems, written in the rhythmical blank verse of "Hiawatha." The author has spent much time in Alaska, and has evidently been strongly impressed by the wonderful natural beauty of that little-known region, and by the weird and fascinating legends of its people; contains a number of illustrations taken direct from photographs; richly bound, gilt edges.

James, H., jr. Daisy Miller; [also] An international episode; il. by H: W. McVickar. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. '78-'92. 5+296 p. O. cl., $3.50. Edition de luxe, limited to 250 copies, vellum, $15.

Two of Henry James' most popular stories are copiously and appropriately illustrated from drawings by McVickar and printed in one volume on highly finished paper, and bound with broad margins and uncut edges in characteristic style. There is a frontispiece in colors.

Contents: 1, Wee nieces; 2, Little speeches; 3, Little dialogues; 4, Rhymes and jingles; 5, Little gems; 6, Home songs; 7, Children's speaker; 8, Children's dialogues; 9, Little folks' verses. Little pieces and verses for children from four to eight to learn by heart.

Kaplan, A. O. The magic laugh; il. by Frank M. Gregory. [Cin., O., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1892.] unpag. obl. O. pap., 75 c.

The story of a dream told in verse, wherein the relator visits the sun and is entertained by its controlling spirit, who, after discoursing on his mighty powers, bids his guest inquire for some great secret of nature not known upon earth. But before the visitor has formulated a request his reverie is disturbed "by a cheery, rippling, silvery laugh," which so charms him that he asks for the secret of its reproduction by chemical process. His request is granted, and when the laugh is reproduced it is wafted to earth, and the dream ends with a pleasing dénouement. Only printed on one side of the paper. Numerous full-page pictures.

Kennedy, Alex. B. W. Compressed air: experiments upon the transmission of power, by compressed air in Paris, (Popp's system.) [Also] The transmission and distribution of power from central stations by compressed air by W. Cawthorne Unwin; ed. by F. E. Idell. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. 4-120 p. il. S. (Van Nostrand's sci. ser., no. 106.) bds., 50 c.

Lang, Andrew, ed. The green fairy-book; il. by H. J. Ford. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. 7+366 p. D. cl., $2.

This is the third and probably the last of the fairy-books of many colors, so Mr. Lang says. Like its predecessors, the stories are borrowed from many countries; some are French, some German, some Russian, some Italian, some Scottish and some English. The binding is green and gold, and H. J. Ford has furnished a number of beautiful illustrations.

Lanza, Clara (Marquise), and Harvey, James Clarence. Scarabæus: the story of an African beetle. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 2-288 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A story full of mystery and adventure. The scarabæus is a ring, of which there is a duplicate, the two combined showing a geographical chart in cipher indicating the whereabouts of concealed treasure. The scene is Africa, and the leading characters are an American missionary of great intellectual grasp, his private secretary and the physician of the party. The possibilities of photography are skillfully worked into the complicated and strangely exciting plot.

Laurie, André. Axel Ebersen: the graduate of Upsala. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1898 [1892.] 5+286 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

Essias Bistrom, master of the Sjöskola (manual training school) of Sonneborg, in Dalecarlia, tells to his scholars the story of Axel Ebersen, his much-loved pupil. Axel is ten years old when the story opens, an impulsive, warm-hearted boy, the only child of rich parents, who demurs to his entering a "peasants' school." He becomes Bistrom's pupil, however, works ardently at bench and tools, and develops much artistic skill. A warm friendship springs up between teacher and pupil, and Bistrom tells in detail the events of Axel's life, of his school-days at Upsala, his sudden loss of fortune, of the part manual training played in his long struggle with poverty, and how by it he gave health to his father and saved his family from want. The story is told with simple earnestness, and the scenes from Swedish life are most interesting.

Ledoux, M. Ice-making machines: the theory of the action of the various forms of cold-producing or so-called ice machines; from the French; rev. and transformed to English units by J. E. Denton, D. S. Jacobus and A. Riessenberger; originally reprinted from Van Nostrand's Magazine. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 68+190 p. S. (Van Nostrand's sci. ser., no. 46.) bds., 50 c.

*Leslie, Emma. Glaucia; or, the Greek slave. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 259 p. il. 12°, cl., $1.25.

Lewis, Eleanor. Famous pets of famous people. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 6-255 p. il. O. cl., $3.

Incidents descriptive of horses, dogs, cats, birds and numerous other famous pets that belonged to famous people. Among the eleven chapter headings are: "Some Scotch celebrities," "Pets in literary life," "Military pets," "Animals at school," "Pets in artist life," "Pussy in private life" and "A notable canine trio." "Animals at school" shows how cats, dogs and birds may be trained to do a variety of things. The book is profusely illustrated with text and page pictures.

Lorne, Marquis of, [J. G. E. H. D. S. Campbell.] The adventures of John Pas-Plus. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. '91. 3-191 p. S. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 46.) pap., 25 c.

A narrative of life among the North American Indians during the early struggles in America. John Pas-Plus, who relates his own adventures, is the child of white parents, carried off in an Indian raid while an infant, and brought up a young savage among savages. He becomes interested in a young white girl captured by his tribe, serves under Montcalm in the French and Indian war, and becomes a powerful chief in his nation. Through Marie's influence he is converted to Christianity.

*Lovett, R. Welsh pictures drawn with pen and pencil. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 192 p. il. 12°, (Pen and pencil ser.) cl., $3.20.

Lubbock, Sir S. The beauties of nature and the wonders of the world we live in. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 10+429 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A companion volume to "The pleasures of life," which points out the happiness the majority of the world overlooks, and which it may easily discover in a contemplation and study of the beauties and wonders of nature. There are chapters on the wonders of animal life, plant life, on the woods and fields, mountains, waters, rivers and lakes, on the sea, the starry heavens, etc.

*Lyster, Annette C. Ivy the plague of his life. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 192 p. 12°, cl., $1.

Mable, Hamilton W., and Bright, Marshal H. The memorial story of America; comprising the important events, episodes and incidents which make up the record of four hundred years, from 1492 to 1892, with special chapters written for this book by J. Sherman, J. K. Upton, H. L. Dawes and others. Phil., J. C. Winston & Co., 1892. c. 6+851 p. il. Q. cl., $4; hf. seal, $5.50.

"Chapters are devoted to a picturesque account of the modes of life in the New England and Virginia of colonial times, the exploits of the buccanniers and pirates, the gradual growth of democracy, the War for Independence, the struggles of the pioneers, the gradual accessions of territory, the formation of States, the policy of the Nation respecting the Indian and the negro, and foreign relations. The church, the school, industry and invention in varied phases, literature and politics, the growth of the great cities, and the thousand and one topics that belong to American civilization, are all treated with more or less detail. In addition to the work of Mr. Mable and Mr. Bright, papers have been contributed by Senator Sherman, Senator Dawes, Bishop Vincent, Miss Willard, Representative Breckinridge and others. The volume is copiously illustrated."—New York Tribune.

McGlasson, Eva Wilder. An earthly paragon: a novel; il. by Frank V. Du Mond. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 3+207 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Upon the death of her father Sylvia Bylands accompanies her elder brother, a warm-hearted, rough Kentuckian, to his home in the wild west. She is "the earthly paragon" beloved at first sight by all that see her. How she uses this great gift and what she makes of her life and of the lives of others furnishes the plot of a story full of good character studies and descriptions of rural life and its amusements.

Majendie, Lady Margaret. Giannetto. N. Y.,

G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1898.] 180 p. D. (Seaside lib., no. 2080.) pap., 25 c.

Marshment, A. W. The old mill mystery. N. Y., J: A. Taylor & Co., [1898.] c. 8-246 p. S. (Mayflower lib., no. 7.) pap., 30 c.

In the prologue a sweet-voiced, pleasant-faced woman, possessed of incurable murderous mania, is released from an English insane asylum by a technical flaw in her commitment papers. Later she appears in a Lancashire village, the tool of an unscrupulous man, who uses her to aid his scheme of ruining his rival. The "old mill mystery" is a murder surrounded with sensational details. Most of the characters are silk-weavers.

Meriwether, Lee. Afloat and ashore on the Mediterranean. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 11+263 p. map, il. D. cl., $1.50.

The trip described had a purpose although a somewhat different one from that of "A tramp trip, or, Europe on fifty cents a day," which first attracted attention to Mr. Meriwether as a writer. The systems of prison labor in Europe where opportunity offered were examined and the condition also noted of workings and the cost of producing such Mediterranean fruits as are exported to the United States in competition with the fruits grown here. These questions are only touched upon here and there, quite a variety of amusing travelling experience being thrown in for the general reader.

Meyer, W. E. Wrecked on the Bermudas; the thrilling adventures of three boys: a true story of the present age. N. Y., C. T. Dillingham & Co., 1892. 12+293 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A story of the adventures and perils of three boys wrecked on one of the small uninhabited islands of the Bermuda group, said to be founded on fact. Much detailed information about the islands, their productions, inhabitants, etc., is given. The author is a Bermuda sea-captain.

Miller, G. A. Determinants: an introduction to the study of, with examples and applications. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand & Co., 1892. c. 8+110 p. S. (Van Nostrand's sci. ser., no. 105.) bds., 50 c.

Milton, J. Poetical works; with introd. by D: Masson; biographical sketch by Nathan Haskell Dole. [Imperial ed.] N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 14+618 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The Imperial ed. consists of twenty volumes of standard poetical works printed on fine paper and illustrated with eight full-page pictures.

Mines, J: Flavel. ["Felix Oldboy," pseud.] A tour around New York. [Also] My summer acre: being the recreations of Mr. Felix Oldboy. N. Y., Harper, 1898 [1892.] c. 15+518 p. il. O. cl., $3.

The "tour" first appeared in the N. Y. Evening Post and the "Summer acre" in the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser. The sketches were written between 1886 and 1890. They are now given in permanent form at the request of many admirers. The illustrations were specially made to illustrate the author's text and show almost all the notable things that appeared to the inhabitants of New York half a century ago.

*Minnesota. Supreme ct. A digest of the decisions from the organization of the court to Apr., 1892, as reported in the Minn. reports, v. 1 to 47, and the Northwestern reporter; with a full table of the cases digested, showing also where they have been overruled, affirmed, cited, etc., and a table of statutes cited and construed; prepared by members of the editorial staff of the national reporter system. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1892. c. 2 v., 36+1360 p.; 1361-3720 columns, O. shp., net, $12.

Molesworth, Mrs. Mary L. ["Emma Gramham," pseud.] Robin Redbreast: a story for girls; il. by Rob. Barnes. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1892.] 3-291 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Robin Redbreast, an old house in a Thetford lane, was so called because of a jutting red front and ivied wings. Although formerly an inn which swung that bird for a sign, it was at the time of the story the residence of Lady Myrtle Goodacre. A trivial circumstance and the sight of Jacinth Midway revives old associations for Lady Myrtle, and lead to some pleasant incidents and a bequest which makes Jacinth the heroine of the Midway family.

Molloy, J. Fitzgerald. The life and adventures of Peg Woffington, with pictures of the period in which she lived. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 2 v., 12+265; 7+249 p. pora, il. D. cl., $3.50.

The story of the brilliant actress who was a striking figure of the London stage and of the social life of the end of the last century. She is presented surrounded by a brilliant group of players, wits, critics, men of fashion and of letters who were her friends or her contemporaries. The remaining space on the canvas has been filled in with views of town life as it was in her day. David Garrick is one of the notable figures. Profusely illustrated.

Moore, T: Lalla Rookh: an Oriental romance. Handy volume ed. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 84+'92. 2-336 p. il. S. cl., $1; silk, $1.50.

Morris, E. J. Prayer-meeting theology: a dialogue. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 2+263 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A little Congregational church in a sequestered Welsh settlement in Pennsylvania had kept up a weekly prayer-meeting for half a century. Members seemed to come more seldom and the meetings lacked spirit. Three of the most faithful meet and discuss the reasons for the dearth of piety and plan ways and means to revive a spirit of prayer in their little church. Their thoughts are put in dialogue form.

Nadallac, Marquis de. Manners and monuments of prehistoric peoples; tr. by Nancy Bell (N. D'Anvers.) N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. c. 10+412 p. il. O. cl., $3.

Contents: The stone age, its duration and its place in time; Food, cannibalism, mammals, fish, hunting and fishing, navigation, weapons, tools, pottery; Origin of the use of fire, clothing, ornaments, early artistic efforts; Caves, kitchen-middings, lake stations, "Terremares," "Crownages," "Burghs," "Nurhaga," "Talsyot" and "Trudhi"; Megalithic monuments; Industry, commerce, social organization; Fights, wounds and trepanation, camps, fortifications, vitrified forts, the towns upon the Hill of Bismarck; Tombs.

Newberry painting books. (The). N. Y., R. H. Russell & Son, [The De Witt Pub. House, 1892.] 8 v., ea., unip. il. D. pap., 15 c. Contents: No. 1, Scenes of home and child life; No. 2, Natural history pictures; No. 3, Funny pictures.

O'Donnell, Jessie F., comp. Love poems of three centuries, 1590-1890. 2d ed. [Special Holiday ed.] N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons [1892.] c. 2 v., 80+348; 16+364 p. il. T. (White and gold nuggets ser.) cl., $2.50.

Originally published in the Knickerbocker nuggets. Now put up in a flat box and bound in white and gold, with gilt edges, as a Special Holiday edition.

O'Grady, Standish. Finn and his companions; il. by J. B. Yeats. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892. 12+182 p. S. (The children's lib.) bds., 75 c.

It is believed that Finn and his companions lived in the second and third centuries: Celta, the son of Roman, and Ossian, the son of Finn, are supposed to be the only survivors of Finn's heroes at the time of the story. The former of these is brought into relation with St. Patrick while building a church on the plains of Meath. By this means a number of stories of ancient Irish folk-lore are introduced.

Ohnet, G: Nimrod & Co.; tr. by Mary J. Serano. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 2+331 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 131.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.

French country life, its hunting parties, fêtes champêtres, etc., is described. All of the characters are ardent followers of Nimrod, and complications arising between poachers and land-owners are important in the story. The heroine is a Jewess, only child of a vulgar millionaire stock speculator, who loves a young marquis ruined by her father's financial operations. Under his influence she becomes a Christian. Though their love-story has many painful episodes, the dénouement is satisfactory.

Orme, B., comp. Treasure-book of consolation for all in sorrow or suffering; comp. and ed. by B. Orme. 2d ed. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 7+432 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Selections from the writings of many famous authors, arranged under the following headings: 1, Of sorrow and grief generally; 2, On fortune and the loss of fortune; 3, Loss of friends; 4, On the loss of children; 5, In sickness and pain; 6, In old age; 7, In sorrow for sin; 8, The Bible as a source of consolation; 9, Prayer as a source of consolation; 10, Common duty as a source of comfort; 11, The nature of death; 12, Delights of Heaven.

Our little men and women; illustrated poems and stories for youngest readers. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 2-295 p. il. O. cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Possesses the usual characteristics of large type and plenty of pictures.

Pain, Barry. Playthings and parodies. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] c. 5+$10 p. D. cl., $1.

Four series of short sketches, burlesques and verses, showing a caustic wit and original fancy. "The sincerest form of flattery" is the title of the first series—five clever parodies of Kipling, Ruskin, Blackmore, Pater and Tolstol. The others, each of which include from seven to eighteen sketches, etc., are The secular confessional; Sketches in London; Home pets. The verses burlesque Swinburne, Spencer, Scott and other writers.

Pansy (The); ed. by Isabella M. Alden, ["Pansy," pseud.] and G. R. Alden. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. 7+416 p. il. O. cl., $1.75; bds., $1.25.

Short stories, poems, helpful reading; many pictures.

Paton, Rev. Ja. The story of John G. Paton told for young folks; or, thirty years among South Sea cannibals; il. by Ja. Finnmore. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1892. 6-397 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The autobiography of John G. Paton has been recast and illustrated; a few fresh incidents have been introduced; and the whole contents have been rearranged to suit a new class of readers by Dr. James G. Paton in the hope that it will interest boys and girls in missionary work.

Paul, Mrs. G. A., [Minnie E. Kenney.]

Prince Dimple's further doings told for the little ones; il. by the author. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892:] c. '91. 4-141 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

Paul, Mrs. G. A., [Minnie E. Kenney.] Prince Dimple on his travels. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] c. 4-149 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

"Prince Dimple," though but a very small boy, has already been the hero of two books, "Prince Dimple and his every-day doings" and "Prince Dimple's further doings." This volume continues his little life in a way to interest very small children.

Payne, Harold. The gilded fly: a political satire. St. Paul, Minn., The Price-McGill Co., [1892.] c. 3-331 p. D. (Idle moments ser., no. 18.) pap., 50 c.

"The gilded fly" is the name of a club of politicians and police officials whose enormous revenue is derived from "contributions" from dive-keepers, liquor-dealers, etc. The author satirizes New York life in a sensational story of political, social and moral corruption.

Phelps, Elizabeth Stuart, [now Mrs. Herbert D. Ward.] A lost winter; il. by Mary Cecilia Spaulding. [New popular ed.] Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] unnp. obl. O. cl., $2.

Pierson, Rev. Arthur T. The divine art of preaching: lectures delivered at the Pastor's College connected with the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, England, from January to June, 1892. N. Y., The Baker & Taylor Co., [1892.] c. 18+156 p. S. cl., 75 c.

On the sermon as an intellectual product; the preacher among his books, with his themes and training his memory; the twin laws of the sermon; types of sermon-structure; the preacher among the mysteries, among the critics, with his Bible, in his pulpit, among sinners, among his people and communing with the spirit. Dr. Pierson filled Spurgeon's pulpit during his last illness and after his death, preaching the above sermons.

Pleasewell painting books (The). N. Y., R. H. Russell & Son, [The De Witt Pub. House, 1892.] 8 v., ea., unnp. il. D. pap., 10 c.

Contents: No. 1, Pictures of home and child life; No. 2, Natural history pictures; No. 3, Funny pictures.

Poe, Edgar Allan. Poems; with biographical sketch by N. H. Dole. Handy-volume ed. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 2-198 p. il. S. cl., $1; silk, $1.50.

Porter, Rose, comp. Men's thoughts for men, chosen and arr. by Rose Porter. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] c. 180 p. T. cl., 60 c.; 75 c.

"Thoughts" for the days of a year. Those for January are selected from the works of Marcus Aurelius; February from Froide; March, Thomas Hughes; April, Julius and Augustus Hare; May, Benjamin Whichcote; June, Charles Kingsley; July, John Ruskin; August, Frederick D. Maurice; September, Frederick W. Robertson; October, Thomas Carlyle; November, Robert Browning; December, George Herbert.

Prime, W. C. Along New England roads. N. Y., Harper, 1892. c. 5+200 p. D. cl., $1.

The author of "I go a-fishing" humorously states that he has prepared this edition of the pages first published in the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, because others had threatened to do so and he wished them properly corrected before they appeared in book form. The scenes and incidents described date back some forty years. Dr. Prime is a keen observer and full of humor and knowledge of human nature.

*Principles (The) of American law. The New York correspondence school of law. N. Y., [W. Raimond Baird, 1892.] c. 20 p. O. [The memory library, law ser., 3.] pap., $2.

Rafter, G. W. The microscopical examination of potable water. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 160 p. S. (Van Nostrand's sci. ser., no. 108.) bds., 50 c.

Ransome, Cyril, ed. The battles of Frederick the Great: abstracted from Thomas Carlyle's biography of "Frederick the Great;" ed. by Cyril Ransome. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 5+245 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The editor is a graduate of Merton College, Oxford. He has selected fourteen of the most spirited and picturesque battles described in Carlyle's ten-volume "History of Frederick the Great," and has written a short introduction to and outline of the operations which led to each fight, the descriptions of the battles being in Carlyle's own words. The illustrations are from the famous drawings of Adolf Menzel in the German Imperial State Edition of the works of Frederick the Great in the Royal Museum at Berlin.

Ray, Anna Chapin. In Blue Creek Cañon. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 3-310 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Miss Anna Chapin Ray has had the advantage of spending a summer in a mining camp in the Rocky Mountains. Her story, introducing a number of the simple-hearted, healthy boys and girls whom she excels in depicting, is full of local color and of such incidents as are true to the life. It opens in the breeziest and most alluring manner, and the spirit which animates the young skaters on the pond in the cañon in the first chapter never fails.

Raymond, Mrs. Evelyn. Monica, the Mesa maiden. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 357 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Monica is a Spanish girl of Southern California who lives in a quaint old house of adobe, surrounded with vines and flowers, and is the main support of a family descended from the proud Hidalgos of Spain. Into their quiet life comes a current from the outer world, and Monica goes in search of her missing brother, and meets with strange adventures, which result in the unravelling of a complicated chain of destiny.

Reid, C. S. Joe Simpson's double: a sketch in one act, for male characters only. Bost., Walter H. Baker & Co., 1892. c. 9 p. D. (Baker's edition of plays.) pap., 15 c.

Ris, Jacob A. The children of the poor. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 9+300 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

The author of "How the other half lives" has supplemented that important book with a new volume of facts concerning the problem of children of the poor, the Italian slum children, the great East side bread mill, the little toilers, the trunks of our streets, what it is that makes boys bad, the story of the fresh air fund, the kindergarten and nurseries, the potters field etc. The application of these facts is suited to the conditions of New York City chiefly, but a lesson is taught for all the world by this book in which nothing is set down "in malice."

Roe, E. T., ed. Poetic jewels. Chic., Laird & Lee, [1892.] 9-896 p. il. D. cl., $1.

About one hundred of the finest poems in the English language, with full-page pictures.

Roland. Extraits de la Chanson de Roland; avec une introd. littéraire des observations grammaticales, des notes et un glossaire complet. by Gaston Paris. 8d ed., rev. and corr. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1892. 27+160 p. D. (International modern language ser.) cl., 70 c.

To be used as an introduction to the study of old French. Eight hundred and fifteen lines are given in eight chapters, with a summary at the head of each chapter, and excellent notes at the foot of the page. The first thirty-six pages contain the author's preface, the introduction to the Chanson, and an admirable introduction to the grammar of old French, that is to say, primarily the French of the Chanson. At the end is a full glossary. Gaston Paris is conceded to be the highest authority on the Chanson de Roland. The preface, introduction, and, in short, the whole book is in French, as of course it is designed for advanced students.

Saint-Amand, Imbert de. The Duchess of Berry and the court of Charles X. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+305 p. por. D. (Famous women of the French court.) cl., $1.25.

Opens with the accession of the brother of Louis XVIII. to the French throne; he is known in history as Charles X. Again the Duchess of Berry is the central figure of a court and surrounded by friends and admirers, with little fear of what the future holds for herself or her son. The chief incidents of the volume are the entry of Charles X. into Paris; the funeral of Louis XVIII., the coronation of Charles X., and re-entrance into Paris, the jubilee of 1826, the Mary-Stuart ball, etc., etc. Accounts are given of the Orleans family, of the household of the Dauphin and Dauphiness, of that of the Duchess of Berry, of the Theatre of Madame, etc.

Saint-Pierre, J. H. Bernardin de. Paul and Virginia. Edition Jouaust; il. with etchings by Laguillermie. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] 5+191 p. por. il. S. (The exquisite ser.) parchment and silk, $2. Edition de luxe, limited to 500 copies, $8.

Uniform with the "Vicar of Wakefield" by the same house. A dainty volume, with miniature etchings and artistic binding.

Saint-Pierre, J. H. Bernardin de. Paul and Virginia.; il. by Maurice Leloir. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 2+197 p. S. (Handy volume classics.) cl., $1; silk, $1.50; hf. cf., $2; hf. mor., $2.50.

Belonging to a new line of standard books in prose and poetry; handy in size, carefully printed on good paper and bound tastefully. Each volume is illustrated with a frontispiece and title-page in photograph, and others like the present one have numerous additional illustrations.

Schallenberger, V. Green tea: a love-story. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1892.] 2+186 p. nar. D. (The unknown lib., no. 17) cl., 50 c.

A story of California ranch life some fifteen years ago. The little heroine, introduced at ten years of age with a longing to get away from her humdrum surroundings, meets her fate at sixteen when she gives her heart to the brother of her most intimate friend. Many of the occupations and pastimes of the wild life of the remote Western rural districts are described with almost photographic detail.

Schneckenburger, Max. The watch on the Rhine; il. by G. W. Brennenman. Bost., C. E. Brown & Co., [1892.] unnp. O. (The favorite folk ballads.) venetian rep, 75 c; leatherette, $1.

Scott, Sir Walter. Waverley novels, [New Dryburgh ed.] In 25 v. V. 1, Waverley; or, 'tis sixty years since. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 33+498 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

In the preparation of this new edition of Scott's novels, the publishers have adhered strictly to Scott's last revision (collated with his original "copy") and have thus been able to make a number of important alterations and to correct several typographical errors. They have also retained the notes contributed to a previous edition by the late David Lang, who was a personal friend of Scott's. There are also ample and carefully prepared glossaries. Each novel will contain about ten illustrations by leading artists of the day. They are printed from a new, clear and legible type.

Senn, N., M.D. Tuberculosis of bones and joints. Phil., F. A. Davis Co., 1892. c. 11+504 p. O. cl., net, $4; shp., $5.

"The object of the author in writing this book has been to collect from recent literature the modern ideas on tubercular disease of bones and joints and present them to the reader in a condensed form, mingled in appropriate places with the results of his own experience. Old authorities are occasionally quoted for the purpose of showing the contrast between the old and recent views regarding the etiology and nature of this form of bone and joint disease."—Preface.

Shakespeare, W. Shakespeare's twilight; comp. by S. F. Price; il. by W. P. Chaloner and H. P. Barnes. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. unnp. S. cl., $1.

A compilation of gems from Shakespeare, describing the beauties of nature, the charms of early morning and evening, which have been happily illustrated by two favorite landscape artists.

Shakespeare, W. The tempest; complete and unabridged; the text conforming to the latest scholarly editions. Ariel ed. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. 3+150 p. il. T. flex. leath., 75 c.

The distinctive features of the Ariel Shakespeare are as follows: Each play is in a separate volume; the size of the volume is 3 3/4 x 5 inches and about a half inch in thickness; the page is clearly printed from a new font of brevier type; the text is in every case complete and unabridged; as illustrations the designs by Frank Howard (first published in 1833), five hundred in all, have been effectively reproduced, making a series of delicate outline plates.

Sergeant, G. H., ed. The prize story-book series. N. Y., R. H. Russell & Son, [The De Witt Pub. House,] 1892. 6 v., ea., 64 p. il. S. pap., 15 c.

Contents: No. 1, The robins, by Mrs. Trimmer, il. by Harrison Weir; No. 2, The sand cave, by Wilhelmus L. Rooper; No. 3, So-fat and Mew-mew at home, by Stanley, Arthur Penrhyn, D.D. Historical memorials of Canterbury; the landing of Augustine, the murder of Becket, Edward the Black Prince, Becket's shrine. 2d Amer. from the 11th London ed. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1892.] 5-361 p. il. O. cl., $6.50.

A handsome new edition on larger paper, with seven full-page illustrations reproduced from etchings, thirteen full-page photographs and numerous cuts. Rich binding of white and violet, stamped with gold; slip covers of violet. See notice of first edition in "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 15, 1888, [881.]

Stevens, Mary Fletcher. By subtle fragrance held. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 2-206 p. D. cl., $1.

A love-story of American home-life, showing the development of a warm and loving nature in an apparently proud, capricious society girl who falls under the restful influence of a quiet country home.

Strickland, Agnes. Mary Queen of Scots, abridged from Agnes Strickland's "Queens of Scotland," by Rosalie Kaufman. [New ed.] Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1892. c. '86. 8-488 p. por. il. O. cl., $2.

Sturgis, Julian. After twenty years, and other stories. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1892. c. 5-824 p. D. cl., $1.

Eight short stories dealing chiefly with phases of every day English life. The first, "The philosopher's baby," was published in 1874 in Blackwood's Magazine; it tells amusingly of the commotion created by the advent of that important person. The others—excepting the initial story, now first printed—have appeared in various periodicals. They are: A disappointing boy; An unimportant person; John's hero; Romance of an old don; A mad parson; A child of science; After twenty years.

Taylor, M. M. The Shakespeare's wooing: a play of shreds and patches taken from the works of William Shakespeare. Bost., Walter H. Baker & Co., 1892. c. '89. 14 p. D. (Baker's edition of plays.) pap., 15 c.

Teal, Angelina. Muriel Howe. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. 2+280 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The story of a young girl who engages herself to one man and learns later that she loves another. All the characters are American. Fort Wayne, Detroit, Chicago, Sault Ste. Marie are among the scenes of action. Muriel Howe is for some time school-teacher at Blue Rock Prairie, a western settlement of Pennsylvania Dutch.

Tennyson, Alfred (Lord.) The holy grail; [New popular ed.,] il. by W. L. Taylor. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1892.] c. unnp. O. seal, $4.

Tennyson, Alfred (Lord.) Poetical works of Alfred Lord Tennyson (poet laureate.) Complete [new] ed. from the author's text; il. by Church, Dielman, Fredericks and others. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. '85. 2 v., 9+462; 3+462-933 p. por. il. D. cl., $3.

Thom, C., and Jones, Willis H. Telegraphic connections; embracing recent methods in quadruplex telegraphy. N. Y., D. Van Nostrand Co., 1892. c. 59 p. il. 20 pl. obl. S. cl., $1.50.

This work is of great value to telegraphists, the plates showing in the clearest possible manner the various connections used in modern telegraphy, the authors having adopted the method of showing the different lines in colors. This is the first book published on the subject in which colors are employed, an advantage which will be apparent and which will be appreciated by all those studying the subject.

Thomes, W. H. Life in the East Indies.

[New issue.] Chic., Laird & Lee, 1892. c. '72, '90, '92. 6-299 p. il. D. (Library of choice fiction.) cl., $1.

Trevert, E. How to make and use induction coils. Lynn, Mass., Bubier Pub. Co., 1892. c. 8-81 p. T. cl., 50 c.

"The induction coil is one of the most important adjuncts of an electrical experimenter's apparatus. It is almost the first piece of electrical mechanism that the amateur attempts to build. For the especial benefit of this class of electricians this little book has been prepared, containing directions how to construct the apparatus and perform some experiments."—Preface.

Trevert, E. Practical directions for electric gas-lighting and bell-fitting for amateurs. Lynn, Mass., Bubier Pub. Co., 1892. c. 8-50 p. il. S. pap., 25 c.

"This little book was issued on account of a call for a small low priced work upon this subject. It is not designed for the expert bell-fitter, but for the amateur, who wishes to put up his own bells and fix his own gas-lighting apparatus."—Preface.

*Tuke, D. Hack, M.D., ed. A dictionary of psychological medicine, giving the definition, etymology and synonyms of the terms used in medical psychology, with the symptoms, treatment and pathology of insanity, and the law of lunacy in Great Britain and Ireland. Phil., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., 1892. 2 v., O. cl., $13.

Volkhovsky, Felix. A china cup, and other stories for children; il. by Malischeff. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1892.] 176 p. il. S. (The children's lib.) bds., 75 c.

Eight short tales for very young children.

Walsh, W. S. Handy-book of literary curiosities. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 1104 p. O. hf. mor., $3.50; ¾ cl., $5.

A collection of the bric-a-brac of literature, literary forgeries, hoaxes, jests, enigmas, conundrums, paradoxes, etc., exploited; proverbs, sayings, slang phrases, and familiar lines correlated and traced to their source; plagiarisms, analogies, and coincidences detected; the whole forming a complete encyclopædia of all that is most amusing and entertaining in the annals of the past and present, and an indispensable reference-book of curious, quaint, and out-of-the-way information that has never before been collected in book form.

Ware, W. Zenobia, Queen of Palmyra: a tale of the Roman empire in the days of the Emperor Aurelian. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1892.] 8+432 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

A new edition of this standard work set from new and large type and fully illustrated with half-tone plates from photographs taken in Palmyra, showing the ruins of that splendid civilization, which was at its zenith nearly two thousand years ago.

Wedding bells: a marriage record book containing ruled space for each month in which to insert the names and dates of marriages of friends and acquaintances, and a marriage certificate. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1892.] unnp. il. sq. S. leatherette, $1.

West, Andrew Fleming. Alcuin and the rise of the Christian schools. N. Y., (: Scribner's Sons, 1892. c. 5+205 p. D. (The great education ser.) cl., net, $1.

Alcuin, a distinguished English prelate, was born 735 and died in 804. He was for many years the favorite and confidant of Charlemagne, and it is said that it was through his influence that this great king was induced to found free schools and work for the advancement of learning in his day. The history of the beginning of these schools is given chiefly in the words of Alcuin. The author is professor in Princeton College.

White, Rev. Lorenzo. The democracy of Christianity; or, equality in the dealings of God with men. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1892. c. 307 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author says "the right of this book to be read upon its bringing into clearer view two closely related truths hitherto but dimly seen—the absolute freedom of man upon probational issues to choose for himself and form his own character, and to all who are held to the responsibilities of probation perfect equality of opportunity for securing the favor of God and eternal life."

Wilcox, Mrs. Ella Wheeler. The beautiful Land of Nod. Chic., Morrill, Higgins & Co., 1892. c. 8-81 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Little stories in prose and verse for the smallest children.

White, Eliza Orne. Winterborough. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. c. 3+350 p. S. cl., $1.25.

By the author of "Miss Brooks." Winterborough is a New Hampshire town sadly given over to gossip. The hero is a school-master, the heroine a school-girl. Both of strong character and resolute will, who take opposite views on most questions. Other persons, typical of New England towns, figure in the story. The conversations are very bright, replete with the satire and cleverness that made the writer's first novel so popular.

Wolf, Annie. The truth about beauty. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1892.] c. 5+212 p. il. por. D. cl., $1.25.

The author treats beauty from a spiritual rather than from a physical standpoint, believing that "the highest beauty is beauty of soul." She discounts the use of cosmetics, and bases physical beauty on health, exercise, hygienic living and fresh air. If to these be added a happy temper, loving nature and an earnest desire to become attractive, any woman can she argues, make herself beautiful.

Wordsworth, W. Poems; chosen and ed. by Matthew Arnold; il. by Edmund H. Garrett. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1892.] c. 34+319 p. il. D. cl., $2.50; full leath., $3.50.

The selection made by the late Matthew Arnold, containing the cream of Wordsworth's verse; the illustrations in photogravure after designs by Garrett beautifully interpret the text.

Wynman, Margaret, (pseud.) My flirtations; il. by J. Bernard Partridge. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] 6-185 p. D. $1.25.

It is the charming daughter of a famous Royal Academician who relates the history of her flirtations. There are thirteen recorded, but the first, "the primal one, is lost in the mists of antiquity." They are all short-lived and never tragic, and form a series of amusing sketches of London society. One of the "flirtations" culminates in a wedding, but whether it is the pessimist, the lieutenant, the undergraduate, the economical admirer, the "society" youth, the country doctor, the poet, the diplomatist, the stockbroker, the American, the Frenchman, the actor or the solid business man who carries off the prize, the reader must discover.

Wyss, J. Rod., and Montolieu, J. I. P. de B., Baronne de. The Swiss family Robinson; a new tr. from the original German; ed. by W. H. G. Kingston. N. Y., G. Routledge & Sons, [1892.] 9+564 p. il. O. (Routledge's colored classics.) cl., $1.50.

Zander, W. Modern decorative painting: colored designs in different styles for decorating ceilings and walls of sitting-rooms, parlors, dining-rooms, halls, boudoirs, smoking-rooms, staircases, vestibules, churches, etc. N. Y., Hessling & Spielmeyer, [1892.] 30 pl. F. bds., $20.

A portfolio containing thirty beautiful designs in colors for the uses stated in title.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

U. HOEPLI, MILAN, has recently published Signor Fumagelli's new "Bibliographia Etiopica." It is an octavo and carefully enumerates all known works relating to the Massaua Colony (with Abyssinia and Somali Land, etc.) from the fifteenth century to the present time. The list includes the writings of Italian, French, English, German and other authors. The active interest shown by Italians in their new colony may be judged from the fact that of about 1300 works published in the peninsula, three-fourths of them have made their appearance in the five years ending with 1890. The catalogue is divided into Travel in Ethiopia, Travels generally in the District, Geographical and Statistical Accounts, Minor and Particular Expeditions, Mappography, Language, Literature, History and Archaeology, etc., etc. The completeness of this bibliographic catalogue, brought down to 1890, makes it a publication of world-wide importance, considering the general attention which is now being concentrated on the dark continent.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS: Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati, O., Theological and religious books. (Leaflet no. 2, 32 p., 16°.) A very good and well-arranged list.—Alfred Cooper, 8 Hyde Street, London, Contents of a bookman's paradise, chiefly quaint and curious volumes. (No. 8, 1147 titles.)—C. S. Jefferies, Sanforth, England, Old and modern books on angling. (295 titles.)—E. Dufoist, 37 Rue Guénégaud, Paris, Americana. (9th ser., no. 2, 1041 titles.)—Saalfeld & Fitch, 12 Bible House, N. Y., Special list of all the new holiday and standard publications. (September, 1892, 64 p., 16°.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 5, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

AN ENGLISH BOOKSELLER'S VIEW OF THE DISCOUNT QUESTION.

THOMAS FARGIE, a well-known bookseller of Manchester, England, recently wrote to the London Publishers' Circular a letter on the vexed question of discounts, which may also prove interesting and useful reading for American booksellers. In reprinting his communication, it is to be understood that we do not necessarily endorse his statements or concur in his conclusions. Our object is to present as many opinions on this vital question as possible, in order that from them all some day one decisive one may be formed that will help the bookseller to solve this problem. Undoubtedly the first thing necessary is that each individual educate himself and strengthen his backbone. Then, and then only will general co-operation become feasible and helpful.

"I am convinced," writes Mr. Fargie, "there is no cure by combination; the cure lies in each man keeping the price up to what he considers a paying point. Surely no ordinary small bookseller says an allowance to the public of 3d. in the shilling is a paying point. It's all very fine to say it's impossible a man can make his place pay if he allows only 2d. in the shilling. It is not impossible. One veritable example is worth a thousand speculations. I have conducted my business for nearly nine years, allowing 2d. in the shilling, and my yearly turn-over during that time has only varied more or less by a matter of a hundred pounds or so. Let each individual bookseller be strong-backed enough to quote as the price of a book the net one, after he has deducted 2d. in the shilling, or 1d. in the shilling, or nothing in the shilling, if he cannot give discount; and when asked what it is published at, give the answer I usually return, 'The net price is so and so, I have taken off the discount,' and ten to one there is no more bother about the published price. If there is, let him stand up manfully and not be intimidated by seeing a customers march out of the shop because he thinks he can buy cheaper elsewhere. It is this 'because some one else will' that's at the bottom of all the mischief. What have I to do with what any one else does? I know if I expect an exorbitant profit I shall soon have to give up, but if I expect only a moderate profit of 1½d. in the shilling on new books, I am not to be driven from my position because a near neighbor undersells me, and is content (?) with ½d. in the shilling.

"It appears to my feeble intellect a ridiculous thing to talk about the impossibility of going back to 2d. in the shilling. Why, the successful efforts made in a small way by both Messrs. Macmillan and Messrs. Longmans of publishing at a net price some of their books proves this to be mere idle talk. A bookseller can go back to any discount he pleases, and will get his price if in reason. No one blames the public; it is quite right to get things as cheaply as it can. In a general way the men who are at fault are those who are frightened into giving their legitimate profit away because some one else elects to keep a few books and sell them at cost price, or under if it suits his purpose. I know of a case where the 3d. in the shilling was introduced into a large centre by a dealer who sold ready-made clothes, boots, trunks and drapery of all sorts, electing to keep a few books, and ticketed them with 3d. in the shilling discount. One of the principal booksellers in the place began to do so too, and was waited upon by a neighboring bookseller about it, and he was politely shown to the door, being as good as told to mind his own business.

"The net system is good, and I hope it may be extended as much as possible. It affords me great amusement to read reports of the dinner of the London Booksellers' Union. The members felicitate each other on the wonderful success of their movement in succeeding in drawing the discount line at 2d. in the 1s. Yea, verily! it is a wonderful result. There is no remedy but in each man doing what he deems right and just. My sole aim in writing is to give expression to what must be the thoughts of many in the trade besides myself, and to give them a word of heartening that there is at least one bookseller in a large centre who will not give in to the selling of books with a greater discount than 2d. in the 1s., because to give more leaves him, and every bookseller, with an inadequate profit. I may tell them, in addition, I am not making a large income, but if this is the case with allowing 2d. in the shilling discount, what would it be if I allowed 3d.? I am sometimes told: 'You have a special trade.'* I have dealings with the same publishers whom most booksellers trade with; therefore there is not much in that. I always understood parsons wished to buy in the cheapest market. I should like to know why they come to purchase at my shop at all? Simply because they have no desire but to be fair in their dealings, and they believe I will be just also. They are not all alike, some of them are perhaps unconsciously sweaters. To sum up, the small bookseller's day of extinction draws nearer and nearer. Nothing but huge concerns where the public will be badly served will exist. I have no son to succeed me; let me hope the small bookseller, who gives one branch of the trade his special attention, may be able to hold on till my little play is played out. I recall with a feeling of amusement the days when even

2d. in the shilling was unusual. My apprentice master, Robert Grant, of Princes Street, Edinburgh, on one occasion took a lady by the hand to the door of the shop, which stood not far from the Scott Monument. She had asked for 2d. in the shilling. In a courtly way (for he had a fine finish about him) he led her as I say to the door, then, pointing to a steep close with stairs which ran up from near the Waverley Station to the High Street by the side of Messrs. W. & R. Chambers, he said: 'If you climb up yonder, then cross the High Street, go down another steep close on the other side, then up another one till you come to College Street, there is a man there who will give you 3d. in the shilling. Good morning, ma'am!' This old gentleman, Robert Grant, died a few years ago without one single trade journal noticing his death, though in most respects he was far and away above the average of his class."

BOOKBUYERS.

EVERY bookseller, writes a correspondent to the Book Lover, must have noticed the different methods which customers employ who purchase books.

There is the customer who drops casually in in a disinterested sort of way and glances generally about the shelves and concludes by asking for a catalogue, which, by the careless way he thrusts it in his pocket, shows that he will probably never read it, or if he does, will not appreciate the desirability of the books offered. This kind of client generally buys showy sets and table books at the more prominent shops. He is the collector that sees.

Next is the customer who comes in and asks to "look around." He has learned a little something of book lore and hopes to catch a bargain. If the dealer tries to engage him in conversation, in order to discover his taste and to offer books of a kind to gratify it, he is likely to be politely rebuffed in a manner which shows that the collector is afraid to be sold something he doesn't want. This kind of collector must be adroitly dealt with, for he is generally inoculated with the idea that he knows it all. He is the collector that looks.

Look at the man who enters a bookstore in an assured manner and proceeds with confidence to inspect the shelves. Note how his eye scans the top shelves and runs down to the larger volumes below. He rapidly perceives the arrangement and classification of a stock and skips whole sections of books which he knows are "out of his line." He will slowly encompass the whole shop, and if then he does not find books to please him will approach the dealer and make intelligent inquiry. Then very likely there will ensue a chatty conversation which will prove of benefit to both. There will be an interchange of ideas and a kindling of enthusiasm if the dealer has books on which he can expatiate. There will almost surely be a barter and sale, and when after a half hour or so the customer departs he goes away pleased, the richer in books and the knowledge of them, and resolving to come again. The dealer is gratified, less at the pecuniary part of the transaction than by the pleasure of having made almost a friend by the magic freemasonry of book love. We have described the customer who observes.

The door opens quietly and there enters a man of secretive aspect. Upon being asked his requirements he replies: "Nothing, oh, nothing; just to look around." He takes a comprehensive glance over the shop, and, disdaining the sets of books and those of fine appearance, gravitates surely to the sections and corners where stand the musty-fusty volumes huddled together. Now observe him carefully and note how he takes up volume after volume, inspects it critically, and turns promptly to see the price upon the fly-leaf. If the price is too high in his estimation he puts it back with a sigh; if moderate his hesitation is evident, and he will probably put the volume on one side and for consideration a little later; if cheap, note how he brightens up and promptly claps the volume under his arm. If he gathers several cheap books he is apt to disregard all those he hesitated over, and with his selection he will go to the dealer and ask him what he will take for the lot. As the dealer glances over them he knows he has marked them too low, if anything, and yet he knows he must do better on the lot or lose a customer who always pays cash. So he makes a virtue out of a necessity, gives a slight deduction, surrenders the books and with a rueful countenance watches his customer depart, for he suspects he has been "bested." We have attempted to describe the book-hunter.

There are very few of his class in this country, for as a general thing Americans are too much occupied in carrying on their own lines of business to acquire any knowledge of books. Our leisure class, the favored few, are almost entirely "busy idlers." The truest book-hunter is the book-dealer himself when he makes a sortie into other dealers' shops. With what keen delight does he lay aside in an apparently unconcerned and business-like manner certain treasures which he knows will delight the souls of some of his customer friends. The dealer selling, while he knows his brother dealer is getting some advantage over him, cheerfully lets the nuggets go, with the reflection that he will return the compliment some day. Moreover, it is to the good of the trade, and "a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

ITALY IN THE COPYRIGHT UNION.

THE President on October 31 issued his proclamation declaring Italy a nation coming within the scope of the United States copyright law. Section 13 of the act of March 3, 1891, relating to copyright, provides that said act "shall only apply to a citizen or subject of a foreign state or nation when such foreign state or nation permits to citizens of the United States of America the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as its own citizens; or when such foreign state or nation is a party to an international agreement, which provides for reciprocity in the granting of copyright." Satisfactory official assurances having been given that in Italy the law permits to citizens of the United States the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to the citizens of Italy, the President proclaims Italy as within the copyright union.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT LAW.

A DEPUTATION of Canadian publishers met Sir John Thompson, Minister of Justice, at Ottawa last week to discuss copyright matters with a view to enabling the Dominion Government to reply to a despatch received from the British Government calling for certain information required before the Imperial Government can declare on the constitutionality of the Canadian copyright bill.

Information received from England on the subject, it is said, strengthens the belief that the Canadian bill, although long deferred, will be allowed by the British Government, which means the practical exclusion from Canada of American reprints of English copyrighted works.

Canada has been advised by Britain that she can withdraw from the Berne copyright treaty. The Dominion Government will take advantage of the suggestion.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

[Official.]

NORTHWESTERN BOOKSELLERS AND NEWS-DEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

Alex. McNie, Winona, Pres.
C. D. Raymer, Minneapolis, Sec.
G. W. Sayre, Minneapolis, Treas.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Oct. 28, 1892.

THE association will hold a special meeting in the rooms of the Jobbers' Association, 110 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24, for the purpose of receiving the resignation of Secretary Charles D. Raymer in favor of Edward Ackermann, of Chicago; also that of Assistant Secretary Thomas Alexander in favor of Charles D. Raymer. Other business will be a report of the secretary on the "cutting of prices of periodicals," the appointment of a committee for a benefit entertainment, and other matters of importance to the association. A cordial invitation is extended to the book and news trade of the Northwest as well as to that of the "Twin Cities." Trade papers are requested to copy this notice. CHARLES D. RAYMER, Secretary.

BOOKS FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

THE women managers of New York's Board of World's Fair Managers have appealed to all publishers for assistance in securing an exhibit of books written by women native or resident of the State. The managers say that they have a fine room in the Women's Building at Chicago which they propose to equip as a woman's library. The Wednesday Afternoon Club, of New York, whose rooms are in the Bible House, is to take charge of the collection of books.

CANADIAN PAPER SYNDICATE.

A CANADIAN paper trust is said to be in process of formation at Toronto. It is stated that the movement is backed by English capital, and that a syndicate of all the leading paper manufacturers of Canada will be organized early this month. If this is accomplished it will mean very likely the closing up of many of the smaller mills and a new stimulus to prices. It will also probably result in the imposition of a Canadian export duty on spruce lumber, intended as a retaliatory move against the McKinley tariff duty on wood pulp, which was formerly shipped in large quantities into Canada, and which destroyed the local pulp industry. There have already been several attempts to impose this export duty, and if it is accomplished the American wood-pulp manufacturers, who have been obtaining their supply of pulp wood from the spruce forests of Canada, will be entirely cut off.

OBITUARY NOTES.

LIEUT. FREDERICK SCHWATKA, of Alaskan Exploration fame, died in Portland, Ore., on the 2d inst., aged 43 years. He wrote "Along Alaska's Great River," "Nimrod in the North" and "The Children of the Cold," besides making many contributions to periodicals.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

FRANK T. MARZIALS is preparing a "Life of Gavarni," the French caricaturist, for Sampson Low, Marston & Co.

POULTNEY BIGELOW has in preparation a book on Eastern Europe, having the title "The Ragged Edges of the Czar's Empire."

W. J. HENDERSON, the well-known music critic, has in preparation a volume of poems to be entitled "Pipe and Tabor." Duprat and Co. will supply the trade.

CAPTAIN CHARLES KING, author of many military novels; R. H. Savage, who wrote "My Official Wife," and Professor Arthur S. Hardy, author of "But Yet a Woman" and other books, were cadets together at West Point in 1865.

COUNT TOLSTOI has recently deposited his memoirs, including a large diary in manuscript with the curator of a Russian museum, the condition being made that they shall not be published until ten years after the author's death. The Count is now busily engaged on the completion of his new work, which, it is stated, deals severely with the militarism of modern Europe.

A MASSIVE stone cross 10 feet high will shortly be erected over the tomb of Audubon, the naturalist, in Trinity Cemetery, New York City. It will face Audubon Avenue as that thoroughfare is proposed to be cut through to One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street, the new Audubon vault being situated at the main gateway on One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street. This memorial to America's distinguished naturalist is in a measure due to the energy and zeal of Dr. Egleston, of the School of Mines, Columbia College. There were contributions from various States, but most of the fund was raised in New York.

It is now said, and the statement has not been called into question, that the author of "An Englishman in Paris" is Mr. Albert D. Vandam, and not, as formerly conjectured, Sir Richard Wallace. Writing on this subject, a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette asks somewhat pertinently: "Is an author of a work of fiction justified in presenting his work to the public in the form of personal memoirs dealing solely with persons who are either living or have lived? I put the question in this way because, if we are to accept the statement that Mr. Vandam is the author of the book, it can only be described as a work of fiction. How, otherwise, could Mr. Vandam, who can scarcely be more than forty years old, have described what he saw in the Revolution of 1848? How else could he relate his election to the French Jockey Club in 1870, and why did he join the club under an assumed name? Again, has Mr. Vandam any justification for describing himself as an 'Englishman' in Paris or elsewhere? Finally, why should an 'Englishman,' who is still alive, require the services of the 'editor' who added so many footnotes to his work? Was this merely to give verisimilitude to his work of fiction, and, if so, is this sort of practice to serve as an example?"

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ACCORDING to the Librarian of Congress foreign authors, composers and designers have, since the passage of the International Copyright law, received 18,000 copyrights.

THE original Columbus letter, recently purchased from Quaritch for the Lenox Library, reached the New York Custom-House October 28. It was put under safe lock, for the precious document has an invoice value of £1500.

HOWARD C. BEAUCHAMP, Fayetteville, N. Y., will publish shortly a new work on the "Local Indian Names of New York," with names from other States, by the Rev. W. M. Beauchamp, author of "Iroquois Trail."

A CITIZEN of Buxton, Me., is preparing to publish a book on the early life and career of Jacob Cochrane, the leader of a deluded religious sect which flourished in several towns of Maine some seventy years ago, known as the "Cochranites."

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SONS will publish shortly in their Booklover's Library Wm. Blades' curious and interesting monograph on "Books in Chains." It will have as an introduction a general notice of Mr. Blades' lifework, by Henry B. Wheatley.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have nearly ready a carefully revised edition of F. Horace Teall's book on "English Compound Words." Its main feature will be a list of nearly 40,000 terms, originally made for guidance in the preparation of the "Standard Dictionary," now rapidly progressing.

It is feared that Hon. J. A. Chain, president of the Chain & Hardy Company, of Denver, and his wife, were lost with the ill-fated Bokhara which went down during a typhoon on October 10, while en route from Shanghai to Hong Kong. We trust the fears may be unfounded and that word may yet be had of their safety.

THE UNIVERSALIST PUBLISHING HOUSE desires the trade to note an error that occurs in their list in the "Publishers' Trade List Annual" for 1892. On the first page of their list "Ancient History of Universalism" is put down net 60c. It should be $1.00. On the second page, under the authors, the price is given correctly.

THE Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association of the United States has appointed a committee to make preparations for an author's reading, to take place in Chickering Hall during January next. The committee consists of Charles A. Burkhardt, of E. P. Dutton & Co., chairman; J. W. Holden and W. J. Kelly. Several authors have already promised to read from their own works.

FREDERICK KEPPEL & Co. have just sold a portrait of Burgomaster Jan Six, etched by Rembrandt in 1629, a very rare print in first state from the Seymour Haden collection ( $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$ ), for \$3200. This is, we think, the highest priced print ever sold in this country; there is one other, a Rembrandt owned by a New York collector, valued at \$4000, but that was purchased in London.

D. LOTHROP Company publish this week "Down in Dixie," by Stanton P. Allen; "Famous Pets," by Eleanor Lewis; "Shakespeare's Twilights," and the new edition of Tennyson's "Holy Grail," with illustrations by Taylor. They have recently issued two capital books for young people—"Jack Brereton's Three Months' Service," by Maria McIntosh Cox, and "Gulf and Glacier," by Willis Boyd Allen.

CLARK W. BRYAN & COMPANY, Springfield, Mass., have in preparation "A Directory of Water Marks, Trade Marks and Special Brands in Use in the Paper Trade." It will be a neat, handy volume whose contents will be of value to paper-makers and dealers, publishers, printers, bookbinders, blank-book makers, envelope and papeterie manufacturers, engravers, lithographers, booksellers, stationers, newsdealers and every kindred branch of trade.

MRS. A. V. S. ANTHONY is preparing a memorial volume of the late James R. Osgood from his papers and correspondence. Mr. Osgood came in contact with many interesting people who have been and are the leaders in shaping the intellectual life of the time, and it is therefore probable that such a volume as proposed by Mrs. Anthony, who is Mr. Osgood's literary executor, will have a value to readers beyond the circle of his many acquaintances and friends.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have in press for immediate publication a new volume in a series of Old Testament Heroes, "Moses, the Servant of God," by the Rev. F. B. Meyer, who has recently accepted the pastorate of Christ's Church, London, so long under the administration of the Rev. Dr. Newman Hall. They also announce "The Future Tenses of the Blessed Life" by the same author, being a valuable edition to The Christian Life Series.

MACMILLAN & Co. announce the issue of a collection of papers by the late Sir Daniel Wilson, LL.D., entitled "The Lost Atlantis, and other ethnographic studies." It contains essays on trade and commerce in the Stone Age, the æsthetic faculty in aboriginal races, hybridity and heredity, etc. Mrs. Wm. Kingdon Clifford, author of "Aunt Anne," etc., is about to issue through this firm a book of short stories under the title "The Last Touches, and other stories."

CASELL PUBLISHING Co. have just ready a new book by Barry Pain, called "Playthings and Parodies," made up of burlesque and short stories; and George "Onnet's" Nimrod & Co., a tale of Paris, whose heroine is a Spanish Jewess, published in the Sunshine Series. They have in preparation a new volume of letters written by Heinrich Heine to his mother and sister during the course of his university and married life, translated by Charles de Kay; "My Septuagint," a collection of bits of thought in prose and verse, by Rev. Dr. Charles Deems, pastor of the Church of the Strangers of New York; and a volume of short essays from the pens of working-girls brought together under the title of "Thoughts of Busy Girls," and edited by Miss Grace H. Dodge.

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY have just issued several important works in their special field of applied science. They are: "The Practical Management of Dynamos and Motors," by Francis B. Crocker and Schuyler S. Wheeler; "Telegraph Connections, Embracing Recent Methods in Quadruplex Telegraphy," by Charles Thom and Willis H. Jones, a thoroughly practical treatise, illustrated with twenty colored plates; a new, revised and enlarged edition of Cleeman's "Railroad Engineer's Practice," and five new volumes in their Science Series, viz.: "The Microscopical Examination of Potable Water," by Geo. W. Rafter; "Ice-Making Machines," translated from the French of M. Ledoux, and revised by well-known scientific authorities; "Van Nostrand's Table-book for Civil and Technical Engineers," "Compressed Air," by A. W. Kennedy, W. C. Unwin and F. E. Idell; and "Determinants," by Prof. G. A. Miller.

FOREIGN NOTES.

WM. HEINEMANN has nearly ready Henry Irving's volume of "Addresses." It will have for a frontispiece a portrait by Mr. Whistler.

CARL DUNCKER, Berlin, has published the first volume of Max Nordau's new work, entitled "Entartung," which depicts the degeneration in society at the latter end of this present century. The second volume will follow shortly.

W. ENGELMANN, Leipzig, has just issued a study of early Christian art, by Prof. Georg Ebers, entitled "Sinnbildliches, die koptische Kunst ein neues Gebiet der altchristlichen Sculptur und ihre Symbole." It is illustrated by 14 zincotypes.

BESIDES the volume just published, Lord Tennyson left a quantity of manuscript poems. It was left to Hallam Tennyson's discretion whether these poems should be published. It is likely that Mr. Tennyson will write his father's biography according to his often-expressed wish.

GEORGE BELL & SONS, London, announce a thoroughly revised edition in three volumes of Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," based on that of 1651-1652. The editor has translated the classical quotations and verified the references for the first time. Indexes and an introductory memoir add value to this much-needed edition of a famous book.

EDWARD ARNOLD, London, will publish shortly the Dean of Rochester's "Memories of Archers, Artists, Authors, Cricketers, Ecclesiastics, Gamblers, Gardeners, Hunters and Shooters, Oxonians, Preachers, and Working-Men." The book is full of anecdotes and good stories, and contains several illustrations from original drawings by Leech and Thackeray.

THE DUKE OF ARGYLL's new volume on "The Unseen Foundations of Society," which Murray, of London, promises, will, according to the London Athenaeum, be an elaborate work, discussing, in sixteen chapters, "The Fallacies and Failures of Economic Science," and the elements to the neglect of which he considers the failure due. Besides giving a retrospective account of the feudal system and the substitution of rent for personal services, the Duke criticises the Ricardian theory of rent and that of the Wages Fund, and discourses upon the working of economic laws in our day, explaining what in his opinion they are, and what they are not.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Bulletin des Libraires is the title of a new French book-trade journal which makes the condition that the advertisements of new books printed in its columns must have only the retail and not the net prices affixed to them.

THE old Peterson's Magazine is to be transformed into an illustrated periodical to be called The New Peterson Magazine and to be devoted to literature and art. Mr. Frank Lee Benedict, the author of some successful novels, will be the editor, and he is to be assisted in his labors by Octave Thanet, M. G. McClelland and Howard Seely.

BUSINESS NOTES.

SULLIVAN, ILL. — The City Book Store here has been completely renovated. It is now more attractive in appearance and the stock more conveniently arranged.

TELLER, COL. — Stapleton & Smith, booksellers, have sold out.

PICK-UPS.

NO WONDER. — "Do novels of mystery have much sale now?" "No," answered the book-dealer, sadly, "New Jersey's murders have ruined the market for them." — Philadelphia Press.

THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL. — "I understand your new paper is not to come out again?" said Miss Cynicus. Young Renfield bowed his head in assent. He had come to her for sympathy, and his grief was too deep for words. When his paper suspended the day before, he felt that he had had the chance of his life and failed. Only an author filled with youthful ambition could realize how he had burned the midnight oil when at last the chance came for him to make a strike for honest fame. But it was of no avail, and after a few weeks his little sheet went the way of many a better paper. After the first great pangs of his sorrow were over he had come to her he loved the best in the world, feeling sure that she could ease his pain. "It isn't for myself alone I feel so bad," he went on. "The publisher was very good to me. He sank a great deal of money in the venture, and while I did my best I can't help feeling that I was the cause of his misfortune. What I lost, in comparison, was nothing." "Of course it wasn't," she replied. "I understand just how it was you lost nothing. You put in the brains." — N. Y. Evening Sun.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

DECEMBER 1-3.—Illustrated works, history, geography, literature and natural science, comprising part of the libraries of the late R. J. A. Kallenberg Van den Bosch, Giltay, and J. Van Kaathoven. (1125 lots.)—E. J. Brill, Leyden.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith. Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

We desire to remind the trade that the "Christmas Number" of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, covering the two weeks November 19 to 26, will not contain these departments. Those desiring to avail themselves of these columns will therefore send all their wants for the issue of November 12, as that will be the last regular issue until the first week of December.

BRANTWOOD RUSKIN.

With Introductions by Prof. CHARLES ELIOT NORTON. Now ready in 21 vols.

"Messrs. Charles E. Merrill & Co. publish the only authorized edition of the writings of Mr. John Ruskin, and among the different American editions which have appeared from time to time the only one which is worthy of a permanent place in a well-stocked library."—RICHARD H. STODDARD, in Mail and Express.

"The pirated editions through which Americans have made the acquaintance of this author have added to the outrage of robbery the insult of cheapness and ugliness in the matter of paper and binding, and the reproduction of illustrations. All these injuries receive an atonement, somewhat tardy, it is true, but gratifying to all parties, in the neat binding and beautiful type and paper of the 'Brantwood' edition."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The price of the illustrated volumes is $1.50 each, and the volumes with the full-page illustrations, $2.75 each.

WILL PUBLISH SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 19:

The Complete Poetical Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Edited, with an Introductory Memoir, by GEORGE E. WOODBERRY. With a new portrait of Shelley. Centenary Edition.

Large-Paper Edition. In eight beautiful volumes, octavo, printed with the greatest care on the finest English paper. $24.00 net.

Historical and Political Essays.

By HENRY CABOT LODGE, author of "Studies in History," and of "George Washington," "Alexander Hamilton," and "Daniel Webster," in the American Statesmen Series. 1 vol., crown 8vo.

Those who appreciate the ability and vigor which Mr. Lodge brings to whatever subject he discusses will read with peculiar interest this book, which has essays on William H. Seward, James Madison, Gouverneur Morris, Why Patronage is un-American, Distribution of Ability in the United States, Parliamentary Obstruction in the United States, Parliamentary Minorities, Party Allegiance.

The Chosen Valley.

A Novel. By MARY HALLOCK FOOTE, author of "John Bodewin's Testimony," "Led-Horse Claim," etc. 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

A novel of Western life which ought to enlist the attention of a host of readers, by virtue of the unlikeness of its scenes, incidents and characters to those which make the ordinary novel; and yet more by the tone which it derives from the fact that the author is a lady and an artist. It is emphatically American, yet has the true literary quality which lifts it into the cosmopolitanism of universal human nature and experience.

Prose Idyls.

By JOHN ALBEE. 1 vol., 16mo.

A tasteful little volume, full of engaging fancies which might have been clothed in verse, but are presented in delicate prose. The variety and range of the subjects treated are indicated by the titles, some of which are as follows: White Thoughts, The Grammarian in Love, The Cracked Bell, The Bird Sang, Reminiscence of Virgil, The Madonna, The Statue of My Friend, The Faith Curer, The Queen's Handkerchief, Love Letters, The Soul of Things, The House Door, The Voice, The Superfluous Man, Brethren of the Common Lot, The Family Mirror, The Pool, Pigmies, The Devil's Bargain. These are treated in a fresh, attractive style, and are sensible, thoughtful, humorous, pathetic, and quaint prose idyls, making a delightful book.

The Army of Northern Virginia in 1862.

By WILLIAM ALLAN, Colonel in the Confederate Army. 1 vol., 8vo, $3.50.

The late Colonel Allan was an officer in the Confederate service, but has not reserved his praise for Confederate officers and exploits, nor his censure for those of the Union army; but has written in an excellent spirit, as well as with full knowledge of facts and a military experience which enabled him to speak with authority on many important points. His work is a valuable contribution to the military history of the Secession war, and will find interested readers among those who wore the blue, hardly less than among those who wore the gray.

Life and Letters of Washington Allston.

By JARED B. FLAGG, N.A., S.T.D. With 18 reproductions of Allston's paintings. Large 8vo, $5.00.

A poet and novelist as well as a great painter, and the friend of the most eminent men of his time, Allston was, in character, temperament and genius, one of the most interesting figures of his day; and this, the first full and authentic story of his life, is both important as a biography and fascinating as a narrative.

Bernard of Clairvaux.

The Times, the Man and His Work. A historical study. By RICHARD S. STORRS, D.D., LL.D., L.H.D. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

The central interest of Dr. Storrs' volume lies in the vivid portrait of Bernard and in the equally important picture of his times. It will have a special value for general readers as shedding new light upon an important but unfamiliar period of European history.

French Art.

An Essay on Classic and Contemporary Painting and Sculpture. By W. C. BROWN-ELL. 12mo, $1.25.

The allied subjects of painting and sculpture in France from the earliest practice to the present time are considered in this volume, the point of view being critical rather than descriptive. The book, it is confidently predicted, will attain to equal popularity with the author's "French Traits."

Under the Evening Lamp.

By RICHARD HENRY STODDARD. 12mo, $1.25.

Mr. Stoddard gives entertaining biographical and anecdotal sketches of Blake, Peacock, Fitzgerald, Hartley Coleridge, Lord Houghton, George Darley, Beddoes, Bloomfield, Clare and others.

Letters to a Young Housekeeper.

By MRS. BAYARD TAYLOR. 12mo, $1.25.

A practical and helpful book, going to the root of its subject in the discussion of food values and similar questions, and supplying hints, suggestions and information about household matters.

Outlines of Egyptian History.

Based on the work of Auguste Mariette. Translated and edited, with notes, by MARY BRODRICK. New and revised edition. Crown 8vo, $1.00.

"It meets a special need that no primer or resumé of the history of Ancient Egypt has as yet met. For it affords not only a summary of the great epochs and a clear account of the successive dynasties, but a definite conception of the turning-points of Egypt's advancement or decline, and a vivid idea of the value of her most important records by the chisel and pen."—WILLIAM COMPTON WINSLOW in Prefatory Note.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE U. S. BOOK CO. have just ready in their Strathmore Series a new novel by W. E. Norris, entitled "His Grace." Two new issues in their American Authors Series are "A Little Worldling," by L. C. Ellsworth, and "Tales of Soldiers and Civilians," by Ambrose Bierce.

THE HOVENDON COMPANY announce a new and uniform edition of the "Works of Thomas Hardy" which they have published, and a new novel by the inexhaustible and ever brilliant "Ouida," entitled "The Tower of Taddeo," which will be ready next week.

LOVELL, GESTEFELD & Co. have just ready "The Princes of Peele," by William Westall, a novel dealing with English domestic life, the dénouement of which takes place on the battlefield of Gettysburg; and "Amore," a story in which Elizabeth Boynton Harbert shows the power of self-sacrificing love. Among their recent books are "The Right Knack," by Helen Van Anderson, and "It Is Possible," by the same popular writer.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just issued "The Life and Letters of Washington Allston," by Jared B. Flagg; "French Art," an essay on classic and contemporary painting and sculpture, by W. C. Brownell; "Bernard of Clairvaux," an historical study, by Dr. Richard S. Storrs, which sheds much light on a comparatively unfamiliar period of European history; "Under the Evening Lamp," which contains the sketches of literary men contributed by Richard Henry Stoddard to the Christian Union; "Letters to a Young Housekeeper," by Mrs. Bayard Taylor, and a new edition of "Outlines of Egyptian History," based on the work of Auguste Marietti, translated and edited with notes by Mary Brodrick.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. have just ready "I Married a Soldier, or, old days in the old army," by Lydia Spencer Lane, the wife of an army officer, who gives interesting accounts of dangerous and amusing experiences during her life in and with the army; "Broken Chords," a novel by Mrs. George McClellan; and a second edition of "Lord Tennyson," Henry J. Jennings' biographical sketch, which has been revised and enlarged. "Mother and Child," by John M. Keating is also ready, the work of two famous specialists, Doctors E. P. Davis and John M. Keating, and is a valuable compendium of scientific knowledge. Conan Doyle's "A Study in Scarlet" is to be made into an illustrated book to meet increasing demand.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 19th a new novel by Mrs. Mary Halleck Foote entitled "The Chosen Valley." This, like her recent stories, is a novel of Western life in which she is strong and successful. At the same time will appear a volume of "Historical and Political Essays," by Henry Cabot Lodge, in which he writes of Seward, Madison, Morris, and some quite important questions which have arisen in recent American politics; a volume of brief essays by John Albee, thoughtful and so highly poetical as to lack nothing of poetry except the form, who gives his little book the apt title "Prose Idyls." Col. William Allan, of the Confederate Army, wrote a book on "The Army of Northern Virginia in 1862." Since writing it he has died, but the book will now be published by Mrs. Allan, with an introduction written by Mr. John C. Ropes, of Boston, one of the first military writers of the country. Perhaps the most important publication of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. on that day will be a large-paper edition of the complete poetical works of Shelley in eight volumes, edited by Mr. Geo. E. Woodberry, who is particularly fitted for the task. The volumes are printed in the best style of the Riverside Press; the paper on which they are printed is in itself a delight, it is so white and every way satisfactory, and the volumes are perhaps the best of all the large-paper editions which Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have ever published.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (8mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., etc., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Adams, W. H. Davenport. Warriors of the Crescent. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. [Authorized ed.] 2+817 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The history of glittering campaigns, fatalistic heroism and the pillage of the marvellous riches of India by the Sultans of Ghazni covers the years between A.D. 1000 and 1700. It is a little-known chapter of history, and its oriental magnificence and despotism savor of the "Arabian Nights." Here we read of the exploits of Mahmud, Timur the Tartar, and the Great Moguls, of the records of Shah Jahan, the true star of the faith, and Auranyzit, the conqueror of the universe.

Aldison, Jos. Selections from the Spectator; with an introd. and notes by K. Deighton. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 19+220 p. 12°, cl., 40 c.

Allison, Joy. Billow Prairie. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1892.] c. 4+369 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of pioneer life. The family in which the interest centres is poor and shiftless, and typical of a certain class of frontier people. The death, first of the mother, then of the father, leaves the children to shift for themselves. The story tells of the various expedients by which they earn a living, of the growth of Billow Prairie into a respectable settlement, the forming of a Christian Endeavor Society, etc.

Allon, H., DD. The indwelling Christ, and other sermons. N. Y., T: Whittaker, 1892. 848 p. 8°, cl., $1.75.

Alphabet of games. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., [1892.] unsp. col. il. Q. pap., 20 c.

Children's games described in alphabetical order, accompanied with the initial letters that spell the name of each game.

American and English corporation cases: a coll. of corporation cases, both private and municipal (excepting railway cases), decided in the courts of last resort in the U. S., Eng. and Canada; ed. by W: M. McKinney. V. 37. Northport, N. Y., E: Thompson Co., [1892.] c. 9+780 p. O. shp., $4.50.

American state reports, cont. the cases of general value and authority subsequent to those contained in the "Am. decisions" and the "Am. reports," decided in the courts of last resort of the several states; sel., rep. and annot. by A. C. Freeman. V. 26. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1892. c. '92. 6-1054 p. O. shp., $4.

Amicis, Edmondo de. Camilla; with explanatory notes in English by T. E. Comba. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, 1892. c. 2-120 p. sq. S. (Novelle Italiane, no. 4.) pap., 35 c.

A novelette by one of the foremost of Italian novelists.

Armstrong, W: An American nobleman: a story of the Canaan wilderness. Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., [1892.] c. 3-277 p. il. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

Abel Long, the American nobleman, is a rough mountaineer of Kentucky who spends his life in doing kind acts, especially to overburdened women. The story tells of the finding of gold among the mountains, the devastations of the bears among the sheep, the ironies of the revenue collectors among the whiskey stills, and the sorrows, dangers and simple pleasures of the inhabitants. The nobleman's life is sacrificed to his ideals of virtue and unselfishness.

Bailey, M. A. American mental arithmetic. N. Y., American Book Co., [1892.] c. 160 p. sq. S. cl., 85 c.

Intended as a drill-book, in which all the principles of written arithmetic, excepting those which apply to addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of large numbers, are clearly and concisely stated and illustrated. The plan is to place principles and illustrations in parallel columns, with each subject as a heading. In addition, the combination method is made prominent and percentage is taught without rules or formulae, etc.

Baldwin, Ja. Six centuries of English poetry. Tennyson to Chaucer: typical selections from the great poets. Bost., Silver, Burdett & Co., 1892. 12°, (Select English classics ser.) cl., 84 c.

Ballantyne, R. M. Choice works, 13 v. [New issues.] N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. il. D. cl., $13.

ell, Malcolm. Edward Burne-Jones: a record and review. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 11+130 p. il. 8°, cl., $20.

ttany, G. T. Mohammedanism and other religions of Mediterranean countries: being a popular account of Mahomet, the Koran, modern Islam; with descriptions of the Egyptian, Assyrian, Phœnician, and also the Greek, Roman, Teutonic and Celtic religions. N. Y., Ward, Lock, Bowden & Co., 1892. 5+322 p. D. (The World's religions ser.) hf. cl., $1.

ierce, Ambrose, and Danziger, Gustav Adolph. The monk and the hangman's daughter; il. by Theo. Hampe. N. Y. and Chic., F. J. Schulte & Co., 1892. c. '91. 4-166 p. D. (Ariel lib., no. 23.) pap., 50 c.

The story rests upon a narrative contained in an old manuscript originally belonging to the Franciscan monastery at Berchtesgaden, in Bavaria, on the borders of Ritzlerland. This is an adaptation from a German version of the manuscript made by Herr Richard Voss, Heidelberg. The tale is told by a young priest, who died in 1680. The hangman's beautiful daughter was lured by him to save her from peril his jealousy made him fear for her. There are several weird scenes described, which take place in the lonely mountains in a dead of night.

lake, M. M. The siege of Norwich Castle: a story of the last struggle against the Conqueror; il. by the author. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1893 [1892.] 4-349 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The events woven into this story took place in the year 1073. Ralph de Guader left his castle in the hands of his countess and his knights while he went to fight elsewhere. The countess held the castle for three months against the forces of the Norman conqueror, it was compelled by hunger to surrender. The details of which this heroic tale is founded are given in Freeman's fourth volume of "The Norman conquest."

ornier, H. de. La Lizardière. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, 1892. 4-247 p. D. (Romans choisis, no. 20.) pap., 60 c.

In 1868 a gay cavalcade riding through the almost unknown country round Touraine see the ancient château of La Lizardière, and the little novel chiefly tells the history of this old castle during the first half of the century. The literary and artistic portions contain some bright writing. A few American scenes among Niagara Falls are also picturesque and interesting.

brann, H.; D.D. Most Reverend John Hughes, first archbishop of New York. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. c. 5-182 p. por. D. (Makers of America ser.) cl., $1.

This great Roman Catholic American patriot was born in the north of Ireland in 1797. His family migrated to America in consequence of the troubles between the Catholics and Protestants in their section of Ireland. He became a priest in Philadelphia, was attached to the cathedral in New York in 1838 and soon became a great power among the citizens of New York City. He laid the corner-stone of the cathedral at Fifth street in 1862 and devoted all his energies to raising funds for that great building enterprise. He was very popular, and his funeral on January 7, 1864, is one of the remembered events in the history of New York City.

Broughton, Rhoda. Mrs. Bligh: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 801 p. S. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 105.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Mrs. Bligh is introduced as a young widow of twenty-nine, living a very retired life with three favorite dogs. The largest piece of furniture in her miniature London house is an invalid chair, kept in memory of eight years of married life with a paralytic husband, whose vile temper led him to throw things at his young wife. Mrs. Bligh makes a visit to Wales, spends many days with an old school friend and renews intimate acquaintance with a handsome sculptor, whose peculiarities form the sum and substance of the story.

Burrell, D. Ja., D.D., and Burrell, Rev. Jos. Dunn. Hints and helps on the Sunday-school lessons for 1893. N. Y., American Tract Soc., 1892. c. 888 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Butterworth, Ezekiah. In the boyhood of Lincoln: a tale of the Tunker school-master and the times of Black Hawk. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 7+266p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Abraham Lincoln has become the typical character of American institutions, and it is the purpose of this book, which is a true picture in a framework of fiction, to show how that character was formed. As in the "Log school-house on the Columbia," by the same author, the adventures of a pioneer school-master are made to represent the early history of a newly settled country. It gives many of the Indian romances and cabin tales of the early settlers of Illinois, and pictures vividly Lincoln's own early hardships and manly struggles.

*Byrne, Austin T. Treatise on highway construction. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1892. 723 p. 8°, cl., $5.

Cameron, Mrs. H. Lovett. A sister's sin: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1893 [1892.] c. 309 p. S. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels, no. 140.) pap., 50 c.

Sir Lionel Denison on his deathbed makes his son Eric promise that he will never do anything contrary to his step-mother's wishes. Eric makes his steward's daughter love him and deserts her. His after life is strongly influenced by this episode of his youth. The sister of his ill-fated love plays a noble part throughout the story.

Carducci, Giosuè. Poems; tr. with two introductory essays: 1, Giosuè Carducci and the Hellenic recreation in Italy; 2, Carducci and the classic realism, by Frank Sewall. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 6+135 p. D. hf. cl., $1.50.

Without a formal coronation Carducci occupies the position of poet-laureate of Italy. He is a great favorite with the Queen and the court, and is considered by the Italians as their greatest poet. Mr. Frank Sewall introduces him to English readers through two appreciative essays—one of which appeared in Harper's Magazine—and translations of his best known poems.

*Champlin, J. D., jr., ed., and Perkins, C. C. Cyclopaedia of painters and paintings. New popular ed. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1892. 4 v., il. 4°, cl., net, $20.

Chester, Eliza. The unmarried woman. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 5+253 p. D. (Portia ser.) cl., $1.25.

The clever author of "Chats with girls," etc., views the "unmarried woman" from all points, illustrating her remarks with many references to current literature and fiction, one chapter being specially devoted to the "literary portraiture of the unmarried woman." The subjects of other chapters are: "choice," which aims to answer the question why "some" women don't marry; the reality; dependence; freedom; problems and opportunities; success; intellectual women; business women; the home instinct; the love of children; friends; youth and age; co-operation; character.

*Cheyne, T. K., D.D. Aids to the devout study of criticism. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1892. 397 p. 8°, cl., $2.50.

Church, Rev. Alfred J., ed. Stories from the Greek comedians, Aristophanes, Philemon, Diphilus, Menander, Apollodorus; with 16 illustrations after the antique. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 6+344 p. D. cl., $1.

The Greeks had three schools of comedy—the old, the middle, the new. The old was the comedy of politics, and took the form of extravaganzas or farce. There are nine specimens of it here given, all taken from Aristophanes. The new comedy was the comedy of manners, as seen in the translations of Plautus and Terence. Mr. Church is specially happy in making old classics speak to modern youth. Illustrated with terra-cotta figures on a black background.

Churohill, W. A princess of Fiji. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. c. 4-351 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author writes from personal knowledge of the Fiji of fifty years ago, "a Fiji so barbarous that the very name was long a synonym for all that is debased and cruel." He tells the story of a young sailor, who touches at Fiji on a trading cruise in 1840, escapes the massacre of his companions and endeavors to civilize the islanders. He loves and marries the "princess of Fiji" and for a time is happy. But all his hopes are wrecked, his plans of advancement are crushed under superstition and savagery, and the massacre of his wife and child is the closing scene of his tragic experience.

Coppée, François. Extraits choisis des œuvres de François Coppée; with English notes and biographical sketch by G. Castegnier. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, [1892.] 3-177 p. D. cl., 40 c.

Crawford, F. Marion. Don Orsino. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 3+448 p. D. (Macmillan's dollar novel ser.) cl., $1.

"Don Orsino" is a sequel to "Saracinesca" and "Sant' Ilario" and represents in its chief character, from whom the novel takes its name, the young Roman of the transition period, who wants work and a career, being in strong contrast to the two former generations of his noble family. Rome of the very present, with its recent financial crisis, is vividly described. All the incidents illustrate the unusual character of Don Orsino, who is a most attractive young man with an interesting and unhappy love affair.

*Cuning, Constance. Iltid's friend. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 160 p. il. 12°, cl., 75 c.

Dale, Darley. Reuben Foreman, the village blacksmith: a novel; il. by Warren B. Davis. N. Y., Rob. Bonner's Sons, [1892.] c. 2+444 p. D. (The Ledger lib., no. 72.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Reuben Foreman is the leader of the Baptist chapel in the little English village of Woodford. His daughter marries the son of an Episcopalian clergyman, who, under his wife's rule, has become very "high church." The clergyman's daughter loves a Roman Catholic, and the nearer her father approaches the outward forms of the Roman Church in his own service, the more bitterly he opposes his daughter's marriage with a Romanist. How differences about unimportant points of religion can stir up a community is cleverly worked out in this story.

*Dante Alighieri. Dante's Divine comedy and New life; tr. by C. Eliot Norton. Large paper ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1892. 4 v., 8°, bds., net, $10.

Davis, N. S., jr., M.D. Diseases of the lungs, heart and kidneys. Phil., F. A. Davis Co., 1892. c. 5+353 p. D. (The physicians' and students' ready reference ser., no. 14.) cl., net, $1.25.

Comprises a part of the topics lectured upon by Dr. Davis for several years in the Chicago Medical College. They have been elaborated from his lecture notes. He says in his preface: "I have tried to make the subject of treatment especially full, and have endeavored to give explicit directions as to the time when individual drugs should be used, the exact indications for them and their mode of action in each disease."

*Degerdon, Walter E. The grammar of wood-work: a graduated system of manual training for elementary, secondary and technical schools, designed for the pupils of the Whitechapel Craft School; with a preface by H. Llewellyn Smith. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 3+43 p. 4°, cl., 60 c.

*Denison, Maurice F. Christmas days and other sermons. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 16+410 p. 12°, cl., $1.25.

Dickey, J. M., comp. Christopher Columbus and his monument Columbia. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1892. c. 3-397 p. il. maps, D. (Rialto ser., no. 48.) pap., 50 c.

The compiler states that upwards of six hundred writers have written of Columbus. This mass of material he has searched and made a concordance of choice tributes to the great Genoese, his grand discovery and his greatness of mind and purpose. It is illustrated with sculptures, scenes and portraits of the old world and the new.

*Doddridge, Philip, D.D. The rise and progress of religion in the soul; with a devout meditation or prayer added to each chapter. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1892. 224 p. 12°, cl., 60 c.

Ivans, Elizabeth E. The story of Kaspar Hauser; from authentic records. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. 12+188 p. 12°, cl., $1.75.

vans, Llewellyn J., and Smith, H: Preserved. Biblical scholarship and inspiration: two papers. 3d ed., with preface on how it came about, and an appendix containing two articles from the New York Evangelist on Ordination vows, also the Charges and specifications presented in the presbytery of Cin., Oct. 17, 1892. Cin., Rob. Clarke & Co., 1892. c. 7+189 p. O. pap., 50 c.

These papers have commanded widespread attention, and charges of heresy having been presented in the Presbytery against one of the authors, the publishers have brought out a new edition, the third. The charges before the Presbytery are based not only on the paper of Prof. Smith, but also on articles contributed by him to the New York Evangelist, which articles are printed in this edition. In this form the pamphlet contains all that bears upon the trial up to the date of publication.

alkenhorst, C. With Cortez in Mexico: an historical romance; adapted by Elise L. Lathrop. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 278 p. por. il. D. (Columbus lib.) cl., $1.25.

A romance of the sixteenth century, in which Hernando Cortez is a prominent figure; his expedition against Mexico and the wonderful scenes and discoveries that accompanied it are part of the story.

alkenhorst, C. With Pizarro in Peru; adapted by Elise L. Lathrop. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1892. c. 300 p. por. il. D. (Columbus lib.) cl., $1.25.

Fontaine, C., comp. Les prosateurs Français du XIXe Siècle; with biographical notices of the writers and explanatory grammatical and historical notes. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, 1892. 878 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A collection of prose writings selected from the works of the French authors, beginning with Xavier de Maistre, who was born in 1764, and ending with Jean Rameau, born in 1858, arranged by authors chronologically. Prof. Fontaine, who is also the author of "Les Poètes Français du XIXe Siècle," has been careful to make such selections as should be representative in character and still be free from anything of questionable morality.

Ford, Ja. L. Dr. Dodd's school; il. by G. B. Luks. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. c. 2-208 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A story of American school-life, full of the amusing and exciting doings of a household of boys overflowing with animal spirits and with a limitless capacity for mischief as well as a fair share of courage, honesty and frankness. The "star wigwag," its efforts to put down the obnoxious "Jackos," the secret suppers, hoaxes and escapades are entertainingly described. The school itself is said to have been in actual existence a few years ago in the Berkshire hills.

Frederic, Harold. The new Exodus: a study of Israel in Russia. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1892. 4+301 p. por. O. cl., $2.50.

This excellent series of papers on the persecution of the Jews in Russia was first published in the New York Times, where they attracted considerable attention. The volume is dedicated "to the memory of George Jones, the founder of a great newspaper and the life-long champion of good causes." The material for a paper was gathered by Harold Frederic himself in a long, painstaking journey through Russia, both within and outside the Pale. The titles of the chapters are: "Fara Domol!" The Farish community; The barbarian and his story; Beginnings of the Russo-Jewish question; "Under the second Haman;" "The golden age;" Ignatieff and the May laws; The Czar and his counsellors; The Holy Synod at work; The appointment of Serge; Holy Moscow's tragic Passover; Marina Rostschka and the "Circulars;" The flight from Moscow; St. Petersburg, Odessa and Kieff; Israel in exile; Appendices.

French, H: W. Our boys in Ireland. N. Y., Worthington Co., [1892.] c. '91. 8+331 p. il. O. bds., $2.50.

An exceedingly entertaining account of travels in Ireland made by a party of bright American boys, whose sole object was to get acquainted with the people and view and enjoy the natural beauties of the country. The greater part of their journey was done in jaunting-cars, and there they met all sorts and conditions of men and experienced many adventures, some of them of a very amusing nature.

- "The second volume of the Epochs of American history aims to follow out the principles laid down for the 'Colonies,' the study of causes rather than of events, the development of the American nation out of scattered and inharmolous colonies, the throwing off of English control, the growth out of narrow political conditions, the struggle against foreign domination, and the extension of popular government are all parts of the uninterrupted process of the 'Formation of the Union.'—Preface. So mighty a development can be treated only in its elements in this small volume. Much matter is thrown into graphic form in the maps; the suggestions for readers and teachers and the bibliographies at the heads of the chapters are meant to lead to more detailed accounts, both of events and of social and economic conditions.

- Dot-and-go-one was a little crippled boy, so called because of his halting step. Attracted by the beautiful music he wandered into a London church, and thus gained the friendship of the organist's son. From this time the lad's humble fortunes look up and his story gains in interest and points a moral.

- This is probably the most intimate life of Lincoln ever written. The book, by Lincoln's law-partner, William H. Herndon, and his friend, Jesse W. Weik, shows us Lincoln the man. It is a true picture of his surroundings and influences and acts. It is not an attempt to construct a political history, with Lincoln often in the background, nor is it an effort to apotheosize the American who stands first in our history next to Washington. The writers knew Lincoln intimately, and their biography must take permanent rank as the best and most illuminating study of Lincoln's character and personality. First published in 1889 by Belford, Clarke & Co.

Herbert Ashley, midshipman of H. M. S. Spitfire, cruising in the East Indies, is deputed to be one of a crew of the ship's steam pinnace, which is on the alert for slave-traders. After a fairly successful expedition and the capture of a large Arabian dhow, Herbert conceives the novel plan of manning her and going in search of further prey. The voyage of the Indian Chief is a perilous one that ends in her wreck on a small island called Monkey Island, because immediately after sighting this place of land Ashley shot a chimpanzee. Ashley's part in this new scene causes him to be called Rajah of the Island.

Pemberton, Jeannette. Buffeting. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] c. 3+239 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The story of a poor and proud Southern girl who earns her living first as companion to a young girl afflicted with suicidal mania and then as governess to eleven riotous Irish children. She sacrifices her own happiness for love of her first charge and for a time things look very dark; but all comes out right in the end. Scene and characters are American, and the story of Mildred's buffeting with fortune is both interesting and amusing.

Pennington, I: Selections from Isaac Pennington, [by Mary W. Tileston.] Bost., Roberts Bros., 1892. c. 20+113 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Isaac Pennington, born about 1617, was the oldest son of a former mayor and alderman of London. He joined the Society of Friends about 1652. These letters were written in the interim between that year and the time of his death, in 1679. With the selections are included passages from his other writings. He was persecuted for his faith and imprisoned, and it was while in prison that he wrote many of the letters, which are notable for their forgiving, Christian spirit.

- A series of supplementary lessons, every one of which presents an obvious fact in descriptive botany. These facts are given in short, easy sentences for the purpose of stimulating thought and investigation, and they are accompanied with pictures of common specimens in plant life. The plan is to use specimens represented in pictures, or something of the same nature, in conjunction with the studies in order to arouse the perceptive faculties of the pupils.
- Staal, Marguerite Jeanne Cordier De Launay, (Barronne) de. Memoirs; from the French by Cora Hamilton Bell; il. with etchings by Adolph Lalauze. [édition Jouaust.]

N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 2 v., 311; 3+207 p. D. pap., net, $10.

The writer of these memoirs is often called in history and literature Madame de Staël-Delaunay, to distinguish her more completely from Madame de Staël-Holstein. She was born in Paris in 1764 and died in 1817. Her memoirs appeared about five years after her death, and have often since been reprinted. They relate with much frankness and humor her own discomforts at Sceaux in the household of the Duchesse du Maine, where she filled various positions from femme de chambre to companion to the Duchesse. The humors of the "court of Sceaux" are also vividly depicted. These two pretty books were printed for Dodd, M. & Co. by the celebrated Imprimerie, Jouaust of Paris, and contain all the beautiful etchings of the French edition, which are set in the text, which is finely printed on Holland paper, with uncut edges.

A small part of the material in this volume has been already published in Harper's Bazar. It consists of a series of chapters entitled: hindrances to the pursuit of beauty; plain words to plain people; true standards of beauty; fair endowments; muscular symmetry and fine condition; immediate helps; grace of design; art principles applied to costume; beauty of material; beauty of color, from youth to age; models, help for the future, etc. The authors say, "We have chosen to win, if possible, pilgrims into the right way by offering ideals the successful imitation of which necessarily includes health." They are both artists, and entirely practical in their suggestions of artistic costumes.

Summer (A) in England: a handbook for the use of American women. [2d ed.] Bost., published by the Women's Rest Tour Assoc., 264 Boylston st., [1892.] 82 p. obl., T. pap., 50 c.

In the spring of 1891 several women, who had made a summer trip across the Atlantic, and discovered that foreign travel was far easier and cheaper than they had imagined, resolved to offer other self-dependent women, who might be deterred from such a journey either by the expense involved or by lack of escort, the results of their own experience. They therefore formed themselves into a society called the Women's Rest Tour Association, which published a handbook of hints and directions called "A summer in England." The second and present edition of this handbook contains, among its new features, an article on University Extension and the advantages for summer study in the universities of England, and a Continental supplement and bibliography.

Summer, W. Graham. Robert Morris. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1892. 5-172 p. D. (Makers of America ser.) cl., $1.

The professor of political and social science in Yale University has reduced into a current narrative the most essential information about the life of Robert Morris which is contained in his two-volume work on "The financier and the finances of the American Revolution," published last December. Robert Morris was born in Liverpool, January, 1734, died May 8, 1806. He was the financier of the United States during the dark days of the Revolution. He is buried in Philadelphia.

Symonds, J. Addington. The life of Michelangelo Buonarroti, based on studies in the archives of the Buonarroti family at Florence; with etched portrait and fifty reproductions of the works of the master. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1893 [1892.] 2 v., 32+469; 8+441 p. O. cl., $12.50.

This life of the great sculptor will probably, on account of the new information it contains, supersede all others. Mr. Symonds, through special permission given him by the Italian government, examined and copied the manuscripts in the Casa Buonarroti at Florence, which had never previously been used by any biographer, and which set at rest many disputed points in Michelangelo's life, especially as to his personal relations with the Marchioness of Pescara and Tommaso Cavalieri. The reproductions of portraits, plans, models, etc., especially of the designs of the frescoes in the Sistine Chapel and the cupola of St. Peter's and the Medicean Tomb, are full of interest. Mr. Symonds' exhaustive studies of the Italian Renaissance make him the highest authority on this subject.

Tennyson, Alfred (Lord.) The death of Ænone, Akbar's dream and other poems. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1892. c. 4+113 p. D. cl., $1.25.

"In a slender book of one hundred and twelve pages we have the final offering of the master of English song of this century. It is not so great as most of its predecessors, yet the quality of the poems is sufficiently fine to make it worthy of the genius which produced it—the mark of whose individuality is clearly stamped upon it. 'The death of Ænone' is in blank verse and recalls the poet's earlier compositions that deal with similar themes, though it lacks much of their warmth and passion. 'Akbar's dream,' also in blank verse, is the longest poem in the volume and is fully annotated by the poet. It contains many fine lines."—The Critic.

Thomas, Miss Margaret. A scamper through Spain and Tangier; il. by the author. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1892.] 12+302 p. O. cl., $3.

Miss Margaret Thomas, who wrote and illustrated this work, is an English artist born in Australia who studied art in London, Paris and Rome; her most noted work is in the line of sculpture. With another lady also an artist she made this journey through Spain to study the works of the great Spanish painters. The cities and places visited were: St. Jean, De Luz, Burgos Cathedral; Madrid, El Escorial, Toledo, Cordoba and its mosque; Seville, Granada and the Alhambra; Malaga; Gibraltar and galleries and Tangier. The art criticisms are as unconventional as the journey, which is clearly and brightly described.

Travers, Graham. Mona Maclean, medical student. N. Y., Appleton, 1892. c. 426 p. S. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 104.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Mona Maclean, although gifted far beyond her fellow-students in originality of mind and capacity for hard work, fails unaccountably at the medical examination. She decides to wait before trying another term, and goes to live with relations of her mother's who keep a little shop in one of the outskirts of Edinburgh, Scotland. The book is largely devoted to discussions on theories of life and the position of women. Mona loves and marries, and the story closes with a scene showing her position in her husband's home and heart.

Thomas Birch's Sons, of Philadelphia, will sell early in December a striking collection of Washington and Madison papers belonging to the estate of the late J. G. Mc-Guire, of Washington. An illustrated catalogue of it, just issued, contains over 500 titles and has several portraits and fac-similes. One of the items is a letter from Washington to Madison, giving an outline draft of his farewell address.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 12, 1892.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

THE LIBRARY OF THE UNITED STATES.

UNDER the above caption Mr. A. R. Spofford prints in the November issue of The Forum an interesting account of the national institution popularly known as the Congressional Library, and for which Thomas Jefferson suggested the title that Mr. Spofford has adopted for his essay. In the space of a dozen pages Mr. Spofford gives an unusually clear epitome of the dimensions of the library and the character of its contents, as well as his view of its prospective expansion.

With the help of the data furnished by Mr. Spofford the history of this library may be outlined in a paragraph. Beginning in 1800 with the removal of Congress and the several departments of the Government to Washington by the small appropriation of $3000 for the purchase of books required for the use and reference of Congress the entire collection was destroyed with the burning of the Capitol by the British in 1814.

The purchase of ex-President Jefferson's library of 7000 volumes furnished the nucleus of a new collection, which had grown by slow accretion to 55,000 volumes in 1851, when a fire in the library rooms consumed more than three-fifths of the books. Congress at once voted $75,000 to replenish the collection and $72,500 for rebuilding its apartments in solid iron. The next notable epoch in the history of the library was the acquisition of the historical library of Peter Force and the removal to the Capitol of the scientific and miscellaneous library of the Smithsonian Institution. By these additions the collection was expanded to 165,000 volumes. Next, in the year 1870, came the enactment by which all deposits of copies of books and other publications in evidence of copyright were to be made in Washington—a measure which assured to the Congressional Library the whole prospective output of the American press so far as it should be protected by copyright. At present the whole number of volumes in the library is 650,000, and the number of pamphlets is 250,000; we may add that there are more than 10,000 maps. Of the books some 100,000 appertain to law and legislation, but the library is also strong in history, political economy, finance, statistical science, and sociology. If the collection seems relatively weak in the literature of foreign tongues, the fact is due to the meagreness of the fund available for the purchase of foreign books. The appropriation of about $11,000 a year for this purpose (nearly $3000 of which is used to subscribe for serial publications) seems, as Mr. Spofford says, ridiculously small when compared with the $60,000 annually devoted to the increase of the British Museum Library.

Heretofore those legislators who have sought to stunt the growth of the Congressional Library have met the demand for increased appropriation by the statement that there was no room in the library for more books. That objection will soon cease to have any validity. The new library building provided for by the act of 1886 has been planned with a view to the ultimate accommodation of nearly five million volumes, or more than double the number of volumes contained in the largest library now existing in the world—that of the French Government in Paris. The ultimate cost of this building is limited to six millions of dollars, nevertheless the library building will cover about three acres, or very nearly the same space as does the Capitol; it is constructed of granite, so far as the outer walls are concerned, and iron, brick and marble are used in the interior.

There have been critics of the Congressional Library who have contended that it is no proper function of a democratic government to provide a great collection of books for the use of the citizens and visitors at the Federal capital. But, as Mr. Spofford points out, the fact is that the library has been primarily gathered and is to this day principally employed for the use of the national legislature and the judicial and executive branches of the Government. At the same time, it would be a perversion of the objects for which national libraries exist not to open so rich and extensive a collection to the public. Accordingly, the Congressional Library has from the beginning been open to adult readers without formality or introduction, by an unwritten law which makes the people partakers in its benefits.

Mr. Spofford's résumé of the operations of the copyright department will probably prove of greatest interest to the book trade, and we therefore quote it in full:

"The whole number of entries of copyright in the United States since we became a nation," says Mr. Spofford, "considerably exceeds three-quarters of a million. It may be of interest to re-

hibit the progress of American enterprise as shown in the aggregate number of publications registered for copyright in each year since the removal of the entire records to Washington in July, 1870.

1870.... 5,600	1878.... 15,798	1886.... 31,241
1871.... 12,688	1879.... 18,125	1887.... 35,083
1872.... 14,164	1880.... 20,686	1888.... 38,225
1873.... 15,352	1881.... 21,075	1889.... 40,777
1874.... 16,283	1882.... 22,918	1890.... 42,758
1875.... 14,364	1883.... 25,273	1891.... 48,908
1876.... 14,382	1884.... 26,893
1877.... 15,758	1885.... 28,410	Total.... 525,261

The reduced number of entries from 1875 to 1878 was owing to a removal, by act of 1874, of the registration of all prints and labels (previously copyrighted) to the Patent Office. The records of copyright had been encumbered with a great mass of so-called publications having no relation whatever to literature, but belonging to the mechanic arts, as illustrating articles of manufacture. The number of these was about 5000 annually, and notwithstanding their withdrawal, the increase in the aggregate of other publications has been so extensive as to exhibit a marked advance in the publishing activities of the country.

Of course this large exhibit of copyrights (now annually more than double the average registry of patents) is far from representing books alone. Many thousands of entries are periodicals, claiming copyright protection and required by law to register every separate issue just as the volumes of books are entered. These embrace a great variety of weekly journals, literary, scientific, religious, pictorial, technical, commercial, educational, agricultural, sporting, humorous, musical, dramatic, etc. including a number in foreign languages. The registry of serials also includes nearly all the largely circulated monthly and quarterly magazines and reviews, with many devoted to specialties, e.g., sociology, law, finance, education, art, fashion, mechanics, theology, metaphysics, trade, manufactures, stock-raising, and the arts and sciences generally. The next largest class of copyrights, embracing some 8000 a year, consists of musical compositions, many of which are held as valuable property. There are also accumulated, under the law of copyright, a great number and variety of works of graphic art—engravings, lithographs, photographs, photogravures, etchings, chromos, prints and drawings. Many of these are of great beauty and value, and representing, as they do, many years of the progress of the arts of design, they will form in the new library building, where a gallery of ample proportions is to be devoted to their arrangement, an art exhibition both interesting and instructive.

Through the enactment in 1891 of the law of International Copyright, the receipts of new publications of all kinds at the Congressional Library will be largely increased. The foreign accessions have hitherto been most extensive in musical compositions and fine-art publications; but with the growth in literary production which an extension of the area of copyright may in time induce, many books will flow in to the collection from Great Britain and from some of the continental nations. This experimental act is yet to be fully tried, and the conflicting opinions upon its merits await the results of actual experience. In any event, a literature which has exhibited such evidences of growth and vigor as that of America is in no danger of arrested development. And as the various libraries of the departments and bureaus of the Government are steadily enriching the most extensive collection which the country possesses by such of their accumulations as are not needed for their special uses, it will grow continually more worthy of the title first bestowed upon it by Mr. Jefferson, 'The Library of the United States.'

THE LONDON BOOKSELLERS' DINNER.

THE third annual dinner of the London Booksellers' Society took place at the Holborn restaurant October 26. Mr. Walter Besant acted as chairman and there was a large company present.

Mr. T. Burleigh, the secretary of the society, read the annual report, which congratulated the members upon the complete success which had attended most of the efforts of the council to improve the position of the trade. But few cases had been reported during the past year of selling at a greater discount than at 25 per cent. off the published price, and in those cases, when the society had appealed to the publishers, they had expressed their strong disapproval and their determination to discontinue supplying such traders unless they would undertake to abide by the usual 3d. in the 1s. practice. As to the supply of books to free libraries, the council regretted they could not add that any diminution in the excessive discount allowed to them and to other large buyers had been effected. The net system of publishing books, which had been attempted by one or two publishers, had engaged the serious attention of the council. While fully appreciating that well-meant effort on the part of the publishers, the council was compelled to recognize the difficulty which some booksellers, whose business had been established on the discount system, would find if they attempted any departure from their well-known practice. A suggestion having been made that the council should endeavor to institute examinations of assistants, a small committee, after inquiry, reported that it was very desirable that an effort should be made to encourage assistants to become proficient. It was accordingly resolved to hold two examinations, one for those under twenty-one years of age and another for those over that age; certificates of proficiency and money prizes being awarded to the most successful candidates. The examinations were duly held on September 14 and 21, when twenty-one assistants presented themselves, eight for preliminary and fourteen for the advanced, the examiners being Mr. Stott, Mr. Shaylor, Mr. Ellis and Mr. Friend. In the preliminary examination the examiners found that the number of marks gained was so few that they considered that the money prizes should be withheld, but that two certificates of merit should be given. In the advanced examination the examiners awarded four certificates of merit and two money prizes of £1 each.

The chairman, Mr. Besant, the first speaker, remarked that when he heard the report of the society read by Mr. Burleigh, there were three notes in it which he always looked to see in a report. First, there was the note of satisfaction; secondly, the note of hope; and thirdly, the note of resolution. The society had done good work in the past, they had great hope that it would do good work in the future, and they were resolved to continue. The report also contained three points which, he thought, ought to be very widely known, and which were certainly new to him. First, he had always been under the impression that the establishment everywhere of free libra-

QUARITCH'S "ENGLISH BOOK-COLLECTORS."

THE second part of Mr. Bernard Quaritch's "Dictionary of English Book-Collectors" consists mainly of contributions by Mr. Michael Kearney. The first library he describes is that of Mary Queen of Scots, two of whose books can be traced with certainty. The cover of one of these, now in the possession of Lord Rosebery, is here reproduced in one of Mr. Griggs' most skilful fac-similes, simulating the very texture of the original. Next we have an account of the Earl of Sunderland, who formed the famous collection called after his name, which remained at Blenheim Palace until a few years ago. It seems that he was comparatively indifferent to bindings, and never put his own arms on them. A list is given of the more valuable of his books, arranged in a classified order. Then follow notes upon the library at Syston Park, Lincolnshire, formed at the end of last century by Sir John Thorold, and dispersed in 1884; upon the collection formed about the same time by Colonel Stanley, of Cross Hall, Lancashire, which was sold in his lifetime; upon the more famous collection of Henry Perkins, sold at Hanworth Park, near Feltham, in 1873; upon the library of John Rennie, the engineer; and upon the private collections of two brothers named Edwards, sons of a bookseller at Halifax in the last century. The part concludes with an article of some length upon the greatest collector of our own time, Mr. Henry Huth, together with a portrait. It is written by Mr. F. S. Ellis (now of Torquay), one of the compilers of the Huth catalogue, with an appendix by Mr. Alfred H. Huth. From the latter we learn that the collection now contains all the mss. of the historian, Henry Thomas Buckle, and also the most interesting volumes from his library.

THOMAS NELSON.

THOMAS NELSON, whose death, as already noticed, took place at his residence, St. Leonard's, Edinburgh, on the 20th ult., was born at Edinburgh on Dec. 25, 1822. His father, the founder of the well-known firm, then carried on business as a bookseller in a quaint old shop at the head of the Westbow, which was demolished only a few years ago. The house the family occupied was in Trotter's-close, on the opposite side of the Bow. Free St. John's now occupies part of the ground; and Thomas Nelson used to say that, as far as he could make out, the spot on which he was born must have been very near the site of Dr. Guthrie's pulpit. This house and the Gordon Mansion on the Castle Hill, removed in 1887, were the scenes of his boyhood. He was educated chiefly at the High School of Edinburgh. His father's precarious health, which led his brother William to abandon a college and professional career in 1835, in order to carry on the business, seems also to have shortened Thomas' education; and when he was a lad of seventeen he was put to work at the business in the Castle Hill. Having a natural bent for mechanics, he was attracted by and gave most of his attention to the mechanical department, which at that period consisted only of a book-binding shop. In the meantime the business was steadily increasing, owing chiefly to the energy and tact of William Nelson, who systematically travelled the country extending its connections.

The first important piece of work with which young Thomas Nelson was connected was the establishment of the London branch of the business in 1844, of which he took charge for more than a year. In 1846 the business was removed to premises specially built for the purpose at Hope Park. The firm of Thomas Nelson & Sons was constituted soon afterwards, and started at once on the career of prosperity which gave it a place in the front rank of the publishing houses of Great Britain. William Nelson was then thirty years of age, and Thomas was twenty-four. Thomas Nelson, especially, found fresh scope for his inventiveness and energy, and he entered into the project with characteristic zest and determination. Bit by bit new departments were added to the business, and in course of time the establishment at Hope Park became a great bookmaking factory, in which everything in the way of book production was done on the premises, excepting the making of paper and types. In all these changes and extensions Thomas Nelson took a leading part. The character of the business changed from what it had been in the Castle Hill days. It was no longer confined to the reprinting of old divines, and the reproduction of standard authors like Shakespeare, Paley and Josephus, but included the production of original works, chiefly story-books and books of travel and adventure, by popular authors. The books were tastefully bound and illustrated, and were specially intended for youthful readers. It was, indeed, in this department of juvenile literature that the firm made for itself a distinctive reputation.

Thomas Nelson, however, made his mark most clearly when he started the series of school-books, maps and atlases which came to form one of the chief features of the business. Most of the early school-books he edited himself. While disclaiming pretensions to literary style, he possessed a happy knack of writing for young people, of which he made great use. For many years he himself edited The Children's Paper, a small and cheap monthly, which has had an enormous circulation. His favorite subject was geography, and in his treatment of it for educational purposes he adopted many novel and ingenious devices. He wrote an elementary "Geography and Atlas," in which these ideas were systematically worked out, and which had a very large sale. Another of his successes was "Anderson's Geography," many of the most striking features of which were acknowledged by the author to be due to Mr. Nelson's suggestion.

About the year 1849 or 1850 Thomas Nelson invented a rotary printing press, with curved stereotype plates fixed on cylinders, and with a continuous web of paper, on the same principle as was afterwards more fully developed in "The Walter Press." His model was exhibited at the International Exhibition of London in 1851. He could never be induced to lay claim to the invention formally, and it was with some difficulty that he was prevailed upon to allow the same model to be exhibited in operation at the Edinburgh Exhibition in 1886.

On the passing of the English Education Act in 1870, to be followed shortly by a similar act for Scotland, his business instinct suggested to him the new demand that would be created for improved school-books. He resolved at once to occupy the field. With the assistance of Mr. Scott Dalglish as editor, he produced the "Royal Readers," which not only proved an immediate and very great success, but also formed the models which were imitated by all the principal houses in London and elsewhere in Great Britain. These works were followed quickly by others in history, geography, and English language and literature, all adapted to the new order of things; and, in fact, the school-book department became from this time forth the backbone of the business.

It was while the firm was in the midst of those preparations for extending the business that the disastrous fire of 1878 occurred, involving the total destruction of the Hope Park premises. The disaster revealed the wonderful energy of which Mr. Nelson was possessed. While the fire was still raging, he sat down calmly in an adjoining office in Hope-park-crescent and sent off telegrams for new machines to different parts of England, and also to Paris and New York. Learning that the stereotype plates had been saved, he at once arranged with different printers in Edinburgh for the production of new stock. He interviewed builders and contractors, and made arrangements for the immediate erection of temporary stock-rooms at the east end of the Meadows, and for the building of a series of brick sheds on his own property at St. Leonard's as machine-rooms. These latter formed the nucleus of the new establishment at Parkside. That the firm was able to carry on its extensive business with scarcely a perceptible break was due in great measure to his energy and resource. Within a twelvemonth of the fire, or little more, all the principal departments of the great bookmaking factory were in full operation at Parkside Works on a larger scale than ever. About four years ago he became a partner in the firm of John Bartholomew & Co., the Edinburgh Geographical Institute, for which new premises were built adjoining the Parkside Works.

Thomas Nelson made his business the great concern of his life. It was his recreation as well as his work. He had no capacity for taking things easily. A holiday, indeed, was rather a burden to him. He did not spare himself when the interests of the business were concerned. He was indefatigable, persistent, strong-willed. Unfortunately for himself, he had no power of delegation. He kept everything, even to the minutest details, in his own hands. This often put a severe strain on him, and overtaxed his powers, especially after the death of his brother William, five years ago. There is little doubt that if he had possessed some power of delegation, his life would have been easier, and might have been longer. He believed in doing everything himself, and the amount of work of all kinds that he went through was indeed marvellous.

THE SMELL OF CHEAP BOOKS.

THE odor often noticed about very cheaply bound books is caused by the carbolic acid which is put in the paste to preserve it, and keep it free from cockroaches, that will scent pure paste a block away and come to it in shoals. Under ordinary circumstances cloves will do as well as carbolic acid, but in bookbinderies, where there is always a good supply of paste, and where the other attractions for cockroaches are numerous, carbolic acid is really the only effective preventive. In the case of better bound books very little paste is used, and the leather has generally sufficient perfume about it to counteract a little unpleasant odor.

OBITUARY.

HOWARD LOCKWOOD.

HOWARD LOCKWOOD, senior member of the firm of Howard Lockwood & Co., printers and publishers, and founder of the Paper Trade Journal, died suddenly at his residence, No. 145 West Fifty-eighth Street, New York, on the 4th inst. The cause of his death was heart disease.

Mr. Lockwood was born at White Plains, N. Y., on March 9, 1846. His father, Gen. Munson I. Lockwood, was well known in the social and political circles of his time. He was a lineal descendant of Robert Lockwood, who came from England and settled at Watertown Mass., in 1630. On his mother's side, Mr. Lockwood was descended from Nicholas Delaplaine, a well-known Huguenot, who settled on Manhattan Island, where he died in 1790.

After completing his education, Howard Lockwood removed to New York City, and in 1865 he was employed in a paper warehouse in Duane Street, where by paying strict attention to business he soon acquired a thorough knowledge of the paper trade proper and of the scope, extent and processes of paper manufacture. Believing that the paper business required a newspaper to represent its continuously developing energies he established in 1872 The Paper Trade Journal, from which has grown the large business known as the Lockwood Press and which has served as the foundation of several other newspapers, such as the American Stationer, the American Mail and Export Journal, the American Bookmaker and "Lockwood's Directory of the Paper and Stationery Trades," which has long been a standard annual. In the summer of 1886 he formed a co-partnership with William P. Hamilton, under the style of Howard Lockwood & Co.

On October 25, 1882, Mr. Lockwood was married to Carrie Baker Done, a grand-daughter of the late Bowles Colgate. He was an active member of the Typothetæ of New York, and represented it at the meeting in Chicago in 1887, which resulted in the organization of the United Typothetæ. The first constitution of the national society was drafted by Mr. Lockwood. He was also first chairman of the executive committee of that association, was twice re-elected, and has done much for the success of the United Typothetæ of America.

Mr. Lockwood at the time of his death was a member of the Union League, the Lotos, the Manhattan, the Groller, the Aldine and many other prominent New York clubs. He was also one of the Sons of the Revolution and a member of the Chamber of Commerce of New York, and of the New England and Huguenot societies in New York.

At a meeting of the employees of the Lockwood Press, held on Friday evening, November 4, 1892, at the publication house, Nos. 126 and 128 Duane Street, in New York City, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the publication, editorial, composition, press-room and binding departments:

WHEREAS, The totally unexpected and saddening intelligence has reached us that Howard Lockwood, the founder and head of this house, has died to-day; and whereas it is eminently fitting that a public expression of our grief and sympathy should be made, therefore

Resolved, That the sudden death of our beloved employer has plunged us into deep and heartfelt sorrow.

Resolved, That in the late Howard Lockwood we always recognized a friend, kindly, genial, upright, appreciative and just.

Resolved, That we shall all attend his funeral on the day and at the hour set apart for that ceremony.

Resolved, That an engrossed copy of this unanimous tribute of respect be forwarded to the widow of our late employer.

A DESPATCH dated November 7 to the London Times from Teheran, Persia, says it is reported that Theodore Child has died of cholera at Ispahan. Osgood, McIlvane & Co. received a letter from Mr. Child on the 3d inst. In this letter Mr. Child said that he had had cholera at Ispahan, and that he had been nursed by American women—presumably missionaries. He added that he had entirely recovered from the effects of the attack. The firm attribute the report of his death in the Times to this incident. They entirely discredit the report, and say that if he was dead they would have heard of it in other ways than by newspaper reports. Mr. Child, who was a native of Manchester and about forty-five years old, was well known as a writer of magazine articles, and many of his productions have been published in book form, notably "The Spanish-American Republics," "Art and Criticism," "Summer Holidays," "The Praise of Paris" and "The Desire of Beauty," the two latter just issued. He was graduated from Oxford with high honors. He had lived in Paris nearly twenty years and was thoroughly conversant with every phase of life—especially so with the literary and artistic portion—of that city. He had been for about seven years the Paris agent of Harper & Brothers. He undertook the trip to India, under a commission from Harper's Weekly, for a series of articles, to be called "Living India." He was accompanied by George Lord Weeks, the artist.

As we go to press the death of Mr. Child is confirmed by a despatch to Messrs. Harper & Brothers dated November 10.

COMMUNICATIONS.

DOUBT AS TO "THE ONLY AUTHENTIC PORTRAIT" OF COLUMBUS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 1892.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: I read in your issue of October 22 that "the fine steel portrait of Columbus which appears in the first volume of the 'Memorial History of the City of New York' is copied from the only authentic portrait of the discoverer known to have been painted during his lifetime." Will you permit me to say that the declaration that the picture owned by the Duke de Veragua is "the only authentic portrait painted from life," or that it is at all authentic, is hardly admissible, and is one which cannot command a shred of testimony in its support. This alleged portrait stands not a whit better than others. Mr. Henry Harris, the distinguished American author, and beyond doubt the best authority and foremost writer on Columbus, who was recently decorated by the French Government with the Cross of the Legion of Honor because of his scholarly work in that direction, puts entirely aside the claim that the Madrid picture is authentic. He also wholly annihilates the pretence that the so-called "Lotto Columbus" has any claim to authenticity, notwithstanding the fact that the World's Columbian Exposition has selected that effigy for decorating the souvenir half dollar, and that the United States Government has undertaken to give its stamp of approval to the transparent fraud. Mr. Gunther, of Chicago, who owns the "Moro Columbus," claims that his is the only authentic portrait, and presents an array of reasons for his belief. I have made some investigations in that direction myself, and two years ago, while in Paris, I engaged the services of two leading French, and one Spanish, artists, who undertook to examine into the character of all the reputed portraits of the great discoverer, and to select that one which was most nearly of authentic origin. After six months of investigation they reported that no picture in existence could lay claim to authenticity, but that circumstantial evidence, known facts and tradition, pointed to the Suarzo portrait at Como as that most entitled to recognition. About the same time the leading French art journal, L'Art dans les Deux Mondes, from sources independent of mine, published a lengthy article making a similar declaration.

From all I have been able to learn, it seems to me that the picture you allude to can hardly claim the great distinction your paragraph awards it.

Respectfully,

W. H. LOWDERMILK.

[When General Wilson, the editor of the "Memorial History of the City of New York," was in Spain a few years ago, he gave some attention to the subject of the portrait of Columbus. The result of his investigations there, which were continued during the same winter in Italy, was that the most authentic portrait is the one known as the Yanez picture in Madrid. The claim is made for this portrait by the Royal Society of Spain, which reproduced it on steel, and by the Duke of Veragua, that it is the best and "only authentic portrait" of the discoverer. It certainly bears a strong family resemblance to the present representative of Columbus, and meets the requirements of the most trustworthy descriptions of his personal appearance as given by his contemporaries and immediate successors. The history of the painting is known for nearly four centuries, which certainly cannot be said of some of the other so-called authentic portraits. It was these various facts that led to the selection by General Wilson of the Yanez picture of Columbus as the best to reproduce in the "Memorial History of the City of New York." Possibly our statement was unnecessarily positive in view of the fact that it is difficult, if not impossible, to produce satisfactory evidence that the portrait in question, or any other for that matter, was painted of Columbus during his lifetime, and we are therefore willing to modify our original remarks in that sense.—ED. P. W.]

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FUNK & WAGNALLS Co. promise an important work on "Criminology," by Dr. Arthur Macdonald, with an introduction by Prof. Cesare Lombroso and a very extensive bibliography.

GINN & Co. will publish in December a "Greek-English Word-List," containing about 977 of the most common Greek words, by Robert Baird, Professor of Greek, Northwestern University.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, N. Y., announces "Leaders into Unknown Lands," giving a popular account of the six most famous journeys of recent times, by Arthur Montefiore. It will have a large number of illustrations. The same publisher has just published "My Lady Bountiful," by Emma Marshall.

"THY NEIGHBOR'S WIFE" will be the title of the next novel of Mr. Albert Ross, in the series issued by G. W. Dillingham. It is the story of a Spanish dancing girl and a young American traveller, and was conceived by Mr. Ross during his last winter's visit to Spain. Mr. Ross contemplates a trip through the Southern States in search of his next plot.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, have just published Shelley's "Prometheus Unbound," edited by Vida D. Scudder, Professor of English in Wellesley College. The editor's introduction, which includes about ninety pages of the volume, is devoted to a discussion of "The Drama and the Time," "A Study of the Myth" and "The Drama as a Work of Art."

BRENTANO's have in press a pamphlet recounting the mission of Whitelaw Reid, formerly American Minister to France. It will contain full reports of the speeches made at the farewell banquet given in Paris to Mr. Reid. Letters complimentary to Mr. Reid from MM. Simon, Spuller, Tirard, Rouvier, Ricard and Roche, the president of the Senate, the president of the Chamber of Deputies, the Marquis de Rochambeau, James Gordon Bennett and other notable persons will be published in the pamphlet.

HARPER & BROTHERS will issue this fall a volume of out-door sketches, by Isa Carrington Cabell, entitled "Seen from the Saddle." Mrs. Cabell is a young writer whose essays and short stories in Harper's Bazar and other periodicals have won for her a deserved recognition. The subjects which are brought to notice in this her first book embrace a wide variety of topics, from the story of a scamper over Connecticut hills and talks about horsemanship and country roads, to discussions of some of the latest matters of interest in literature and society.

SPON & CHAMBERLAIN, 12 Cortlandt Street, New York, have in preparation "The Non Plus Ultra" Soda Fountain Requisites of Modern Times," a valuable reference-book for those interested in the manufacture and sale of juices, flavorings, essences, syrups, etc., used for summer and winter drinks, by G. H. Dubelle, and new editions of "Science and Art of the Manufacture of Portland Cement," by Henry Reid; "A Handbook of Electrical Testing," by H. C. Kempe; and "Metal Plate Work, its Patterns and Their Geometry," by C. T. Millis.

CHARLES H. SERGEL & Co. are putting excellent material into their Latin-American Republic Series, of which the next two volumes will be a work on "Mexico," by Gen. Lew Wallace, and one on "Chile," by Anson Uriel Hancock. To commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of Voltaire's birth this house will publish a complete edition of his works in English, in forty volumes, the first complete edition to be found in the English language. The new books in the Medallion Series will be "Dreams," by Olive Schreiner; "An Attic Philosopher," by Emil Souvestre; and De Musset's "The Confession of a Child of the Century," "The Beauty Spot, and Other Stories," and "Barberine, and Other Comedies."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at once a limited edition of 250 copies of a new book by Eugene Field, entitled "A Second Book of Western Verse," containing about seventy-five verses of every kind, the whole making, the author thinks, a far better book than the one published two years ago and which has been so successful. This edition will have an etched frontispiece portrait of the poet. After this first edition is exhausted a popular reprint will be made. A second book by Mr. Field, also to be issued by Charles Scribner's Sons, will have for its title "With Trumpet and Sword," and is a collection of his many verses for and about children. This is a happy thought, since Mr. Field has doubtless written some verses about children which will compare favorably with any work of similar character in the English tongue.

JOHN F. PURDY, at one time a publisher in Chicago, was recently arrested in New York on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Early in September, together with Henry J. Train, Purdy, so it is alleged in the complaint, began to work his game. They had a letter purporting to be signed by R. H. Johnson, general passenger agent of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, and announcing that they were authorized to solicit advertisements and receive money for a publication which the railroad company was getting up for the benefit of visitors to the World's Fair. They charged anywhere from $10 to $50 a page for advertisements, and representing that 200,000 books were to be printed, they secured many customers in Chicago and along the route of the railroad. Purdy had a sample of the book prepared. It is said they made over $1500. Train is now in jail in Chicago under indictment.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just ready "At Sundown," a handsome book containing the last poems of John Greenleaf Whittier, with a portrait and eight photogravures from designs by the popular artist E. H. Garrett; "The Story of a Child," by Margaret Deland, which appeals to mature readers and presents the silent, unexpressed side of an imaginative child's character in a way at once effective, sympathetic and delightful; "A Book of Famous Verse," a delightful volume containing a great variety of the very best British and American poems, selected and arranged by Agnes Repplier; "Japan in History, Folk-Lore and Art," by Wm. Elliot Griffiths, D.D., who by years of residence in Japan is exceptionally qualified to write of that country and its people, and who has here given in compact form the history of Japan, so far as this can be readily understood by Westerners, and an account of the change from old Japan to new; "Two Satires of Juvenal," with notes by Prof. Francis Philip Nash, of Hobart College, which, though it is available for post-graduate courses, specially addresses itself to advanced classical scholars who are interested in a careful study of the satirist; "The New Movement in Humanity—from Liberty to Unity," by Prof. W. Jewett Tucker, of Andover Theological Seminary, a thoughtful scholarly address (delivered before the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity of Harvard, June 30, 1892) which both indicates and promotes a forward movement in the civilization and development of humanity; "Somebody's Neighbors," by Rose Terry Cooke, in the Riverside Paper Series, and in the Riverside Literature Series (No. 54) "The Merchant of Venice," pruned, not abridged, for school use, and edited by Samuel Thurber, Master of the Girl's High School, Boston.

RUDYARD KIPLING's new Mulvaney story has been purchased by Macmillan & Co., and will appear in Macmillan's Magazine.

THE title of Mrs. Molesworth's new book for young people is "The Girls and I: a veracious history." It will be illustrated by L. Leslie Brook.

HODDER & STOUGHTON, London, are getting ready a directory of publishers, booksellers, authors, etc., for the use of subscribers to The Bookman.

ARTHUR WAUGH, the author of the new book on Lord Tennyson published by Mr. Heinemann, is the successor of the late Wolcott Balestier as London representative of John W. Lovell & Co.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish shortly a small volume of verse by F. T. Palgrave, containing "Amenophis," a tale founded upon the Egyptian version of the Exodus, a revised and much-enlarged edition of his Hymns, and a few miscellaneous pieces.

A RARE little book of Charles Lever's has found its way into the possession of W. Jesse Jaggard, Liverpool, who is offering it for sale. It came out originally in Blackwood, and was republished in a 12mo volume in 1849. The title is "The Maxims of Sir Morgan O'Doherty." A London bookseller prices it at £10 10s.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish shortly some curious reminiscences of the attempted French invasion of England in a volume to be called "The Fishguard Invasion by the French in 1797." They are in the form of a diary by the Rev. Daniel Rowlands, sometime Vicar of Llanfangelpenybont. The book will be illustrated from old prints.

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co., London, will publish shortly a reprint of the exceedingly scarce book, Esquemeling's "Buccaneer's of America." This work, the full title of which runs, "The History of Buccaneers, made English from the Dutch, written by John Esquemeling," was published in four parts in 1684, quarto. Of these, the fourth part is particularly rare. The book is sometimes found bound up in one volume. It has steadily risen in value since the Roxburghe sale, when the complete work fetched one guinea.

M. MARMIER, the late academician, used to spend many hours in searching for treasure among the second-hand book-stalls in Paris. One day when turning over a lot of shabby books he came upon one of his own works, containing on the first page a dedication in his handwriting to one of the leading critics of the day. Nothing daunted, the author bought the book and had it exquisitely bound and stamped with the initials of his friend. He then sent it to its former owner with this simple remark: "You will perhaps keep it this time because of the binding."

PERCIVAL & Co., London, will publish immediately, as the first volume of a new series to be called Periods of European History, an historical summary of the period from 1789 to 1815, by Mr. H. Morse Stephens, the historian of the French Revolution, who is now reader in Indian history at Cambridge. They also announce a "History of the Theories of Production and Distribution in English Political Economy, from 1776 to 1848," by Mr. Edwin Cannan. One of his results is to show that the Ricardian system was of a much more practical character than is generally supposed.

"A HANDBOOK TO ENGLISH BOOK-PLATES," by Mr. Egerton Castle, will be published shortly by Messrs. Bell. This work will contain over 120 examples of rare and typical specimens, printed in many cases from the original plates, in others reproduced in accurate fac-simile. The subject is approached not merely from the point of view of a collector, but considered with regard to its general interest to book-lovers and its artistic past and future. Several plates hitherto unpublished will be included. A selection of the best modern plates will be a special feature of the book. A companion volume to the above will be "French Book-Plates," by Mr. Walter Hamilton. The specimens, about a hundred, are chosen almost entirely from dated examples.

THE first general meeting of the Bibliographical Society was held October 24, at 20 Hanover Square, London, when the report of the committee, appointed in July, was read and adopted. W. A. Copinger was elected president; Lord Charles Bruce, W. A. Christie and Dr. Garret, vice-presidents, and Alfred H. Huth, treasurer. The programme for the opening session comprises a series of papers on various aspects of bibliographical work by the president, Messrs. F. Madan of the Bodleian Library, Aldrich of the British Museum, William Morris and others. The recommendations of the committee included the appointment of standing committees on early printed books, general literature, current literature, special bibliographies, and book printing and publishing. It was also decided to form a library of bibliographical works, and to hold occasional exhibitions of book rarities. Mr. Talbot Reed, of 4 Fann Street, E. C., is the secretary.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, enclosing of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Books for Exchange," the charge is 10 cents per line. No deduction for standing matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

The Medical Bulletin Visiting List or Physician's Call Record.

Arranged upon an Original and Convenient Monthly and Weekly Plan for the Daily Recording of Professional Visits. The Most Convenient Time- and Labor-Saving List Issued.

WHAT IS SAID OF IT.

"This new candidate for the favor of physicians possesses some unique and useful points. The necessity of rewriting names every week is obviated by a simple contrivance in the make-up of its pages, thus saving much valuable time, besides reducing the bulk of the book."—Buffalo Med. and Sur. Journal.

"Everything about it is easily and quickly understood."—Canadian Practitioner.

"This is the most satisfactory List that I have found in twenty years' experience."—DAN STRAW, M.D., Web Fairbault Co., Minn., Dec. 1, 1890.

"F. A. DAVIS. Dear Sir:—Please send me, C. O. D., No. 3 'Medical Bulletin Visiting List.' I used it last year and think it excels them all. Yours truly, W. H. LIZARD, M.D., Camden, New Jersey, Jan. 4, 1890."

It is handsomely bound in fine, strong leather, with flap, including a pocket for loose memoranda, etc., and is furnished with a Dixon lead-pencil of excellent quality and finish. It is compact and convenient for carrying in the pocket. Size, 4 x 6½ inches.
